The question has arisen again through the Moscow Art Theatre Company's insistence that people not in their seats before the curtain rises shall not be admitted to the auditorium until the first interval. The company opened a month's season at the Garrick Theatre, London, on April 7, when 14 people arrived after the curtain had gone up for the first act. They had to miss the first act. This rule is enforced in the Russian theatres.

"It is not a rule of this theatre, but if people walk about in the auditorium, the Russian players have threatened to walk off the stage," an official at the threatre told a newspaper representative.

Several well-known managers expressed doubts as to the effect of the rule. Sir Gerald du Maurier, who is associated in the management with Gilbert Miller in the St. James' Theatre, and is at present appearing in "S.O.S.", said:

"You cannot do it. However good the intentions of the audience it is impossible to ensure punctuality. There are such things as traffic delays, and no one is absolutely certain about arriving in time. Personally, I think such a plan is rough on the public and I would never adopt it."

Lewis T. Casson, well-known through his associations with the productions of his wife, Miss Sybil Thorndike, said: "There is no doubt that performances would be the better for such a rule, but it is doubtful whether the English public would put up with it. Several attempts have been made by English managements but they have failed."

17-STORY BUILDING FOR MANCHESTER

City Council Decides to Allow Erection of Sky-Scraper Warehouse.

LONDON, May 3 (by the Canadian Press).—After hearing many arguments in opposition, Manchester city council agreed recently by a substantial majority to allow a 17-storey skyscraper to be built, with a maximum height of 217 feet. Against building higher than 150 feet Alderman Jackson, chairman of the Health Committee, emphasized the danger of fire and the intensifying of an already serious problem of traffic congestion. His remedy was to extend the present square mile of the city's business area by taking in the slum area immediately surrounding, and in that way to adopt decentralization.

The new building which provoked this debate is a warehouse. It was urged that high ground rents made the skyscraper necessary.

The Royal Exchange, which was started before the war as the city's largest building, is 86 ft. high; an office building on the next site, just completed, is 90 ft., and the recently completed new offices for the Manchester Ship Canal are 135 ft. That is the city's tallest building at present.

GLORIOUS HUSSARS ARMORED CAR FORCE

Ancient Cavalry Force Yields To Modern Mechanizing of Army.

LONDON, May 3 (by the Canadian Press)—"Farewell the plumed troops—farewell the fighting steed." After two centuries and more of glorious service the 11th Hussars—popularly known as The Cherrypickers—have mounted for the last time. The regiment is to be converted into an armored-car force—another instance of how the King's army is becoming mechanized. The last parade took place at Aldershot, under Col. F. H. Sutton, the commandant, and was without special incident. The parade consisted of two sabre squadrons, with band, all mounted, and made a total strength of 250.

It was in 1715 that, under the name of Honeywood's Light Dragoons, this unit was first raised in Essex to meet the menace of the Jacobite Rising. It saw service and earned distinction in Egypt, in the Peninsula, and at Waterloo, then later at Balaclava, and later again at Mons, the Marne, the Aisne, Ypres, the Somme, Cambrai, and Amiens. It is a record of which any regiment might well be proud, and the sympathies of all units will go out to Prince Albert's Own once red-trousered "Cherubim" on having bid a last farewell to all their ancient greatness.

A military writer here, while acknowledging that the last mounted parade of the 11th Hussars has an element of sadness, dwells on the regiment having taken the decision not merely in a loyal spirit, but with a clear intention to reaffirm their value as armored cavalry—on wheels. Herein is manifested both spirit and understanding. For the cavalry have repeatedly in history been the master instrument of the great captains.

Endowed with armor and the petrol motor, cavalry in the true and historical sense can have a resurrection. And it is unlikely that, in this age of mechanically-minded youths, the quality of the entry will suffer. The experience of the Royal Tank Corps and the Royal Air Force, and the ease with which they attract the highest class of recruits, is sufficient to refute such misgivings.

Lost $18,000 Pearls Hour After Purchase

NEW YORK, May 3. — Mrs. Frederic N. Watriss, of number 610 Park Avenue, whose husband is vice-president and director of the Piping Rock Realty Company, yesterday asked the police to search for a pearl necklace valued at $18,000, which she reported she lost Tuesday afternoon, within an hour after she bought the necklace at Cartier, Inc., jewelers on Fifth Avenue. Mrs. Watriss said she bought the necklace of 82 graduated pearls with a diamond clasp at 2 o'clock and put the jewel around her neck. Then she decided to go for a walk, and dismissing her chauffeur, visited several other shops in the vicinity of Cartier, Inc.

Mrs. Watriss believes she did not securely fasten the clasp and lost the necklace before she had gone less than a block from the jewelry establishment. Mrs. Watriss, member of New York society, was formerly Frances-Brenda H. Taylor. She is a daughter of Sir Frederick and Lady Williams-Taylor, of Montreal, and married Frederic Newell Watriss, lawyer and really corporation director, in Montreal in March, 1919.

The outer industry is one of the oldest handicrafts, and no machine has yet been invented for making outer or winter leathers.

At the Symphony in your Home!

So true and lifelike is the music of the new Orthophonic Victrola,—you almost see the famous conductor—the magnificent orchestra!

. . . The plaintive note of a trumpet—swelling . . . receding. Then the 'cellos. You move towards the edge of your chair. Again that wistful trumpet and again the 'cellos, followed by the violins and the brasses, as the melody weaves its pattern of beauty. You relax and enjoy a world-loved overture. You are at the Symphony Concert, in your own home! And you arrange the program!

You almost see the sensitive hands of the great conductor—the rhythmic rise and fall of the violin bows, the tilt of gleaming trumpets and trombones! You may listen to several orchestras the same evening, with encores end on end. You may listen to anything in any kind of music.

The principle that applies "Smooth Flow of Sound" to the new Orthophonic Victrola—and brings it to your home, is "Matched Impedance",—Victor-controlled.

To do justice to this realistic music, you may have beautiful cabinets in artistic designs and fine woods. Electrically driven, if you wish, at slight additional cost. All instruments are self stopping. Prices from $140 down to as low as $115—on convenient payments from all His Master's Voice dealers. Act now and begin to enjoy at once.

CONSTRUCTION OF CRUISERS FOR AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT RECALLS HISTORY OF FLEET

One Replaces Old Flagship "Melbourne" According to Program.

FINISHED IN JULY.

Australian Fleet Will Consist of Eight Ships, Two Submarines and Seaplane Carrier.

LONDON, May 3 (by the Canadian Press).—Australian naval history is given at some length by a special correspondent of the London Morning Post, who comments on the flagship of the Australian fleet, the Melbourne, arriving at Portsmouth recently to be put out of commission by the ship-breakers and succeeded by the new 10,000-ton cruiser Australia, as the flagship of Rear-Admiral Hyde, the first Australian admiral of the Australian fleet. The Australia and her sister ship, the Canberra, are expected to be completed and sail from Plymouth some time in July. The Australia and the Canberra, as they sail in company, the correspondent says, will cruise via Halifax, Boston, New York, Chesapeake Bay (for Washington), Jamaica and the Panama Canal.

With the arrival of the Australia and the Canberra on their home station, the establishment of the Australian Fleet will have been renewed under a new policy. For the passing of the Melbourne represents practically the passing of the old fleet, relic of the old Fleet Unit.

Two "River" class destroyers and two "E" class submarines, built in Britain, arrived in Australia about the middle of 1913. The light cruiser Melbourne followed in August of that year. The battle-cruiser Australia (of the "Indefatigable" class) and the light cruiser Sydney arrived in October, 1913, under Rear-Admiral Sir George Patey, the first Admiral of the Australian Fleet. Another destroyer was assembled in the Australian yard at Cockatoo Island from parts built in England. When war broke out the Australian Service was able to offer to the Admiralty the disposal of a battle cruiser, two light cruisers, three destroyers, and two submarines, all modern ships. A third cruiser, the Brisbane, was assembled from parts at Cockatoo and commissioned in 1916. She was in time to see the finish of the war in "the Straits" and the Black Sea.

A fourth, the Adelaide, also built locally, did not take her place in the fleet till 1922. Three other destroyers were completed during the war. So the entire fleet unit, as planned, came into being. It is now, of course, obsolete, and most of it has disappeared from the flag command. The Brisbane and the Adelaide remain; but of these the Brisbane is sure to be scrapped within the next five years, and the Adelaide is past her prime. By the end of this year the Australian fleet will consist of these two, the two new 10,000 ton cruisers, the flotilla leader Anzac, and five "S" destroyers (these were gift ships from the Admiralty after the Armistice,) and two modern "O" class submarines. A seaplane carrier of about 10,000 tons is being constructed at Cockatoo Island, and should be completed by the end of the year.

The Australian Federal Government in 1924 decided, following Admiralty policy, that the best course in the interest of economical provision for all defence arms was the adoption of 5-year programmes. In addition to the annual votes since then it appropriated in 1924 from surplus revenue 2,500,000 pounds—2,000,000 pounds for new naval construction and 500,000 pounds as a general defence reserve.

The 5-year naval program accepted by Parliament in the same year included the construction of two 10,000-ton cruisers to replace the Melbourne and Sydney, two new submarines, an aircraft carrier, and the erection of five fleet oil-storage reservoirs of 8,000 tons capacity each. The period of this program will expire on June 30, 1929, and will see this work completed.

MORE WHEAT WILL BE SHOWN

SEEDING NOW GENERAL.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 3. — (Special). — On account of late seeding last spring, more than the usual acreage was summer-fallowed in each of the Prairie provinces and there is every likelihood that the acreage sown to wheat will be larger this year than last and a greater percentage of it seeded on summer fallow, is the statement contained in the first weekly weather and crop report of the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway issued here today. The report adds that the total acreage of the Prairie provinces in fall plowing, summer-fallow and new land broken is estimated at 16,295,570 acres as against 15,374,862 acres in the previous year.

The agricultural situation generally in the west at the present time justifies the spirit of optimism prevalent among the farmers, the report continues. Winter started early November and December being unusually cold. With the advent of the New Year, however, better conditions were experienced and no lengthy periods of extreme temperature were recorded. March was exceptionally mild and gave promise of early spring opening. Although this did not materalize, fall rains and average snowfall during the winter have provided plenty of moisture everywhere and most sections have had in addition either rain or snow since April 1, so that once the seed is in the ground, warm weather should develop rapid germination and growth. Seeding is now general on higher and lighter soil and by the middle of this week with favorable weather conditions should be in full swing everywhere. There is plenty of seed of good quality, but no surplus of oats. Live stock wintered well with sufficient supplies of rough feed, but in a number of districts, particularly in Manitoba, there is shortage of grain feed. Reports of fall wheat and rye indicate that both crops came through the winter satisfactorily and are showing signs of good growth.

THE MARKETS

districts. The market here underwent, nevertheless, no radical overthrow until the final half-hour of business when news was received that moisture relief had broadened out in Kansas and in Nebraska as well as with more expected last night for both states and elsewhere over the winter crop belt.

Before the day ended, May delivery of wheat in Chicago had dropped to $1.80¾ a bushel as compared with $1.81¼ to $1.81⅝ at the opening. Other months showed an extreme fall of 8⅝c. Aside from the fact that weather developments were construed as decidedly bearish, the course of the market was affected a good deal by spreading operation being Chicago and Winnipeg, extensive sales here being made against purchases in Winnipeg. Another circumstance was that the declining quotation automatically forced into action here many standing orders to sell out at various fixed limits and thus put a stop to losses.

Corn and oats went lower with wheat. Weather over the corn belt was warmer, and was otherwise more favorable for corn planting. Besides country offerings of corn to arrive were fairly liberal.

Provisions were bearishly influenced by the action of grain and cotton and also of hog values.

League of Nations May Meet At Ottawa

LONDON, May 3.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The possibility of a meeting of the Council of the League of Nations being held in Ottawa was mentioned in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon when P. A. Hurd, Conservative, Devizes, asked Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, if his attention had been drawn to the suggestion made by Sir Herbert Ames, former financial director of the League secretariat, that a meeting of the League Council should be held in Ottawa where the bilingual machinery provided for the Canadian parliament would, with a little enforcement, be effective for such a meeting. Mr. Hurd also asked whether, especially in view of the affinity between Canada and the United States, His Majesty's government would regard such a suggestion favorably. Sir Austen replied that he was unable to usefully comment on the proposal since any decision to hold a meeting of the League Council away from Geneva must be taken by the Council itself.

To-morrow — A Day of Bargains

C.D.S. Prices

Prices at the C.D.S. ought to be lower, and are lower, for several reasons. First, under the new ownership our unequalled buying facilities enable us to purchase at rock bottom prices. Second, our cash dealing avoids the extra work and losses attending the credit system. Third, our arrangements in regard to delivery and other low operating expenses permit marking our merchandise at close margins.

Seeing is believing. You are cordially invited to look over our stock and inspect our prices. No one will be importuned to buy.

No Night Shopping

On Saturday the Store closes at six o'clock. So Saturday afternoon is a busy time. Why not plan your week-end shopping for Friday?

FRIDAY IS BARGAIN DAY

Under the New Ownership

FRIDAY morning at 9 o'clock begins a disposal of our stock. In the process of consolidation with the other Peterborough Store controlled by the new owners of the C.D.S., there has arisen the problem of large stocks and duplications of numerous lines. It is, of course, necessary to effect an immediate clearance of this surplus merchandise.

Thus Bargain Day will offer special reductions and extraordinary values to all who take advantage of the present unusual condition and visit the Store tomorrow. All goods are marked in plain figures and all are genuine reductions. Many other groups not here mentioned will be offered at Bargain markings from time to time.

In Taking Over

the C.D.S. the new owners naturally find themselves confronted with the problems of re-arranging and re-pricing merchandise, and the numerous details of re-organization, so that the transition will necessarily be gradual. But there will be a steady daily procession of values, which will warrant you in visiting the Store early and often—for as a result of each day's work in revising the stock, there will be special offerings of discontinued or duplicate lines at prices which will afford extra big savings.

As fast as these groups are created they will be placed on bargain counters, often before they can be advertised, so at any hour of the day from now on you may find surprising values awaiting you when you visit the Store.

TOMATOES RICH IN VITAMINES

Contain All the Essentials of Health—Juice Given Sick Children.

It has been said that the canner is the food preserver of the nation; that he imprisons nature's fruitfulness and plenty at their best and gives us the key to their release—a can opener.

The verdict of medical science is that there are three essential vitamines, without which no daily diet is nutritious enough for good health vitality and vigor. The problem of proper menu selections thus becomes one of choosing foods of maximum vitamine content. Specialists at the Hospital of Sick Children, Toronto, recommend the juice of canned tomatoes for little patients.

Tomatoes are heralded by investigators as the most healthful of vegetables for young and old, because tomatoes contain all three vitamines, more of them than any other fruit or vegetable, and in the form which Nature likes best and uses most. A properly balanced diet would seem, then, to require tomatoes at all seasons.

This is both possible and inexpensive. Modern canning methods provide at all seasons of the year tomatoes that are actually richer in flavor and vitamines than the tomatoes ordinarily sold in so-called "fresh" state. Unpacked tomatoes quickly lose their "freshness", whereas canned tomatoes bring this freshness right to the user's table. That is why medical science pronounces canned tomatoes more beneficial than those eaten uncanned.

RHEUMATIC PAINS DUE TO THIN BLOOD

of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The most a rheumatic sufferer can hope for in rubbing something on the swollen, aching joints is a little relief, and all the while the trouble is becoming more firmly rooted. It is now known that rheumatism is rooted in the blood, and that as the trouble goes on the blood becomes still further thin and watery. To get rid of rheumatism, therefore, you must go to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved so beneficial when taken for this trouble. They make new, rich blood which expels the poisonous acid and the rheumatism disappears.

There are thousands of former rheumatic sufferers in Canada, now well and strong, who thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that they are now free from the aches and pains of this dreaded trouble. One of these Mrs. W. F. Tait, McKellar, Ont., who says:—"I am one of the willing ones to tell you of the great benefits I received from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After lying in bed for seven weeks suffering untold agony with inflammatory rheumatism, relief finally came through the use of this medicine. I could not move in bed only as they lifted me, and I could only sleep when opiates were given me. The medical treatment I was taking seemed of no avail. Then I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and soon I began to get relief. After taking six or eight boxes the rheumatism was banished and I had never felt better in my life. It is several years since this happened and I have had no return to the trouble since. I may add that I recommended the pills to two of my friends who were suffering with rheumatism and the pills were equally effective in both cases."

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, indigestion or nervousness. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SAFETY CONVENTION BEGINS ON TUESDAY

Accident Prevention Associations Will Meet Next Week in Toronto.

The safety convention and annual general meeting of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations of Ontario will be held in the Royal Connaught Hotel, Hamilton, May 8 and 9. There will be a safety exhibit, there will be practical to-the-point addresses by Sir Henry Thornton, president, Canadian National Railways; V. A. Sinclair, K.C., Chairman, Workmen's Compensation Board; S. Horace Disston, Vice-President, Henry Disston & Sons, Philadelphia; A. C. Tagge, president, Canada Cement Co.; Dr. A. Leeming Carr, M.P.P., Hamilton, and other executives who have studied the problem of accident prevention. 1,000 delegates from 100 towns and cities are expected to be present.

There was a day when accident prevention was looked upon merely as a friendly gesture from employer to employee, and a safety convention as an unnecessary nuisance. Times have changed. Accident prevention is now an important factor in product costs—not a friendly gesture. And safety conventions are regarded as necessary benefits—not unnecessary nuisances.

Manufacturers realize today that accident prevention is an economic duty as well as a social duty. They realize the inestimable benefit of a safety convention where ideas may be exchanged which will save tragedies, hardship and waste. In no other field of endeavor is a convention more valuable. The very good of the movement hinges upon the dissemination of knowledge, and knowledge can best be disseminated when men are in conference.

The Ontario manufacturer, who is not represented at Hamilton May 8 and 9 will be wilfully lacking in his duty to himself and his employees.

The convention will be under the direction of R. B. Morley, general manager of the I.A.P.A.—one fact alone which assures success. But although Mr. Morley will do all in his power to launch new ideas and bring about an exchange of opinions he cannot help those who are absent. There should be 1,000 delegates from 100 towns and cities present.

WARSAW BUSINESS CHANGES HANDS

Payne and Darling Purchases Stock of Robert Matthews.

WARSAW, May 3.—The passing of Robert Matthew's stock into other hands, when he sold to Payne and Darling, removes another old business from Warsaw. Mr. Matthews learned the trade of boot and shoe making with Ben James, then went to Apsley for a few months. On his return he set up a boot and shoe shop on the corner where Sam Bell now lives, forty-three years ago. He remained there four years, and moved to part of the old store which stood where T. Clements now stands. After twelve years he built the store where he has done business for the past twenty-seven years. The front part being the store and a room at the back used as a repair shop. Six years ago he added groceries, stationery and other things generlly needed articles to his stock.

When a young man of twenty-three, Mr. Matthews injured his knee badly with an axe, and about thirteen years ago he slipped on the ice again injuring it, and since then it has always inconvenienced him so that for weeks at a time he could not walk at all. Recently it has caused him much trouble and he has been ill for eight weeks.

BRITISH FLEET ORDERED HOME AS EGYPTIAN CRISIS CLEARS

Action On Bill Objected To Has Been Postponed By Governments.

BRITAIN SATISFIED.

LONDON, May 3 (A.F.).—The Anglo-Egyptian crisis is ended and orders to the British fleet to proceed to Alexandria have been countermanded. The question at issue between the two governments was the Public Assemblies Bill already passed by the Egyptian Chamber and before the Senate. This measure would permit assemblies in public places without police interference unless actual disorders occurred.

Great Britain demanded the withdrawal of this bill, setting a time limit of three days—expiring last night—for compliance.

The Egyptian government postponed action of the bill until next November, and explained the difficulties of interfering with the legislature in such matters, but expressing the conviction that an amicable settlement would be reached.

London Satisfied

Official papers issued last night show that the British note, dispatched yesterday in reply to the Egyptian explanation, expresses satisfaction over Egypt's response to the British suggestions and assumes that Egypt will be careful to avoid any revival of the controversy which led to the crisis. The British note, however, warns that if the Assemblies Bill is revived, or new measures introduced with the same dangerous features the British government will be obliged to intervene again to prevent their enactment.

Despite the fumings of extremists in Cairo it is believed that little more will be heard of the Assemblies Bill there.

Egypt's reply to the British note was a long document, the gist of which was an argument that the constitutional government had no power to violate constitutional principles by withdrawing a bill approved by parliament, but that in its ardent desire to reach an understanding the Senate had consented to postpone action on the measure.

REPLY MADE PUBLIC.

LONDON, May 3 (Canadian Press Cable). — "I think the interests of Great Britain in Egypt make it impossible to contemplate the occupation of Egypt by any other Power than ourselves," Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, asserted in the House of Commons yesterday after making public Britian's reply to the Egyptian Government's note announcing its intention not to proceed this session with the Assemblies Bill to which Britain had objected.

The Egyptian note dispelled for the time being at least the crisis brought about by the Egyptian Government's intention to enact the measure and resulted in the countermanding of instructions which it had previously been thought necessary to give to certain British warships.

"It will always be necessary," Sir Austen declared, "for this and other Governments in the future to maintain the principles of the declaration of 1922 and as we forbid other Powers to interfere we must also take measures necessary to secure the safety of citizens of those Powers as well as our own nationals."

The Foreign Secretary's statement came in answer to a question of Will Thorne, Labor, Plaistow, who inquired whether Sir Austen thought the declaration of 1922 would stand for ever.

Lt., Com. K. M. Kenworthy, Labor, Central Hull, asked was not the Egyptian note couched in friendly terms, and did Sir Austen consider the tone of the British reply equally friendly? When Chamberlain replied that the British note was perfectly courteous and conciliatory and as was necessary in the circumstances it was explicit as it was courteous, there were Labor cries of "No" and "Bullying."

Replying to S. Sakiatvala, Communist, Battersea North, Sir Austen gave it as his opinion that withdrawal of the British forces from Egypt would lead to immediate confusion and not long-delayed war.

E. Thurtle, Labor, Shoreditch, declared that a strong body of opinion in England regarded the despatch of warships to Egypt as "precipitate and provocative." There were ministerial cries of dissent.

Sir Austen replied that as far as he could judge indications of public opinion the moderation and patience of His Majesty's Government had been recognized, and it was felt that they acted none too soon and none too strongly.

The British Note.

The text of the British note as read by the Foreign Secretary in the House yesterday follows. Sir Austen will make public the Egyptian note to-day;

"Your Excellency: I have duly conveyed to my Government by telegraph the contents of Your Excellency's note of May 1. I am now instructed to state in reply that His Majesty's Government have learned with satisfaction that, in compliance with the request of His Majesty's Government and in pursuance of advice tendered by Your Excellency and the Egyptian Government, the Senate has decided not to proceed with the Assemblies Bill during the present session. His Majesty's Government take note of your assurances that this decision has been taken in conformity with the ardent desire of the Egyptian Government to reach an understanding and their conciliatory sentiments. They are, therefore, entitled to assume that the Egyptian Government would be careful to avoid any revival of the controversy which led to the present crisis.

"His Majesty's Government observe, however, that the intentions of the Egyptian Government respecting the future of this Bill are not explicitly stated in Your Excellency's note. In these circumstances they think it well to make clear in terms which do not admit of misinterpretation that they regard a certain Bill as calculated to seriously weaken the hands of the administrative authorities responsible for the maintenance of order and for the protection of foreign lives and property. If, therefore, the measure in question were to be revived or if other measures were introduced which in their view presented similarly dangerous features, His Majesty's Government would again be obliged to intervene as in the present instance to prevent their enactment.

"His Majesty's Government can enter no discussion respecting the declaration of February, 1922. One of the consequences of that instrument was to entail upon His Majesty's Government the responsibility for the protection of foreign interests in Egypt. It will be clear from the preceding paragraph that His Majesty's Government are resolved at all times to insist upon the precise discharge of its terms. This declaration embodies conditions subject to which independence was accorded to Egypt and His Majesty's Government will not permit it to be either modified or disregarded."

SEGUIRE ORDERED TO PAY BACK $3,250

Palmateer Wins Suit For Money Lost in Deal With Defendant.

COBOURG, May 3.—With the famous Currie case disposed of and the second case on the docket for the assizes settled out of court, the Honorable Justice Rose heard the civil action of Palmateer vs. Seguire yesterday. The suit arises out of a deal between the plaintiff and defendant, which was of a mysterious nature, and which resulted in the loss of $3,250.00 for Palmateer. He and Seguire went to Montreal for the purpose of investing in a proposition which was to pay them practically one hundred per cent. on their money within a very few days. The results were not as expected, and, after having been brought before other courts, the case was finally brought to the Supreme Court of Ontario yesterday. His Lordship ordered Seguire to return the $3,250 with interest at the rate of five per cent. This is the amount of money which Palmateer lost in the transaction and for which loss he has held Seguire responsible. W. F. Kerr, K.C., appeared for the plaintiff and J. B. MacColl, K.C., for the defence. Several witnesses were heard, including Mrs. Seguire, a banker from Belleville, one from Campbellford, and several business men from the latter town. In passing judgment, His Lordship remarked that he did not believe Seguire's evidence worthy of much consideration.

WAS VERY WEAK NERVOUS AND MELANCHOLY

Mrs. Geo. McKenzie, Campbellford, Ont., writes:—"A short time ago I was troubled very badly with my heart and nerves, the cause of it, I think, was my going through the change of life.

"I was very weak and melancholy, and so nervous I could hardly bear to hear a clock ticking, and I did not sleep well.

"I was advised to try MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS so I sent at once for a box; took them and got another, and before they were all gone I felt good, my nerves are fine, I do not mind any noise, and I can sleep well. I cannot recommend them too highly to those suffering as I did."

Eczema Formed Painful Blisters Cuticura Healed

"Eczema started with a fine rash on my arms. Later it formed blisters about the size of a bean which were full of water and very painful. It burned and was so sore I could not bear to touch it. The weight of a cup in my hand would fairly make me cry out with pain. I had my hands and arms tied up from the ends of my fingers to my shoulders. Sometimes it kept me awake for hours.

"A friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and in about three weeks I was healed." (Signed) Miss Emily B. Davis, R. R. 3, Northwood, Ont.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate)
FOR FRIDAY, MAY 4, 1928.

Sinister stars dominate today, according to astrologers who counsel conservative action in all business affairs.

There is a threatening aspect for all who desire to gain high positions and the configuration indicates disappointment for those who have apparently the best political chances.

Women are warned that they will be peculiarly susceptible to evil reports of every sort while this rule prevails.

Neptune rising at this time is supposed to encourage corruption and duplicity. Many factions will develop in political parties.

The seers again prognosticate the rise of a new party or at least growth of power on the part of non-partisan women.

Severe storms and much wind may be expected all through this month and the early summer.

Earthquakes may be expected in parts of the country not usually affected by seismic disasters, astrologers predict.

Convulsions of nature must be read as but precursors of great changes and uprisings among inhabitants of the Earth, it is announced by those who read the planetary signs.

Criminals will continue to flourish during the summer which will be a period of daring outrages in many cities.

Again a popular demand for law enforcement is prognosticated and this will lead to a radical movement on the part of citizens in many parts of the country.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful about safeguarding their incomes, earned and unearned.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly clever in the use of the hands, but they may be also unusually liable to accidents.

LACK OF UNITY GIVEN BLAME FOR DECISION

Hon. Mary Ellen Smith Says Men Always Ask Are Women Behind Request.

SPEAKS ABOUT SENATE.

Tells of Government's Intention to Have Disability Claim Removed.

TORONTO, Ont., May 3.—"The dear old ladies in the Senate,...oh, I beg your pardon, I will not insult my sex in that way," said Hon. Mary Ellen Smith, M.P., president of the National Federation of Liberal Women, at the annual banquet of the Ontario Liberal Women's Association. "The iron dropped into the souls of women in Canada today when we heard that it took a man to decree that his mother was not a person."

Mrs. Smith's remarks related to the decision of the Supreme Court respecting the eligibility of women for the Senate of Canada. She was speaking generally about women in politics, and intimated that she knew not whether it was for "love or fear" that the women were given the franchise. "They did not want us to become militant, and they could not choroform us. They wondered if we wanted the franchise so we could go to the ballot-box with the men; but bless their souls we marry them on occasions, we go to the theatre with them.

"Women are using their ballot sanely, wisely and intelligently in Canada; what we want is greater activity. The fact that we are not united may have been a deterring factor in the Supreme Court decision. We have not been aggressive enough.

"What does man know of maternity? His is the paternal side. Women's organizations have for years incorporated the maternity benefits in their platform, and that with other planks of women's organizations, including minimum wages, mothers' pensions and equal guardianship act, have been the direct result of women's efforts. I get what I want from the men of the Government, because, one of them told me, I always ask for something for someone else."

"The first question the men ask when we want anything, is 'Are the women behind you?' All governments ask that and if we can say 'yes' we will be able to exert our influence."

Despatches from Ottawa indicate that it is the Government's intention to remove the 'disability claim', in as much as one of the seats in the House of Commons is occupied by a woman, and so equal rights in the Senate should be given. But the process of securing an amendment to the British North America Act is a lengthy one. The concurrence of the provinces has to be secured and legislation obtained from the Imperial Parliament. It would be impossible for negotations to be carried to a successful conclusion this year.

The Toronto Mail and Empire comments editorially:—

"In 61 years what great strides have been made in the political status of Canadian women. In 1867 they were not electors to the House of Commons, much less were eligible to seats there. Had there at that time been any strongly backed contention to the contrary, the Courts would doubtless have decided against them. But Canadian women have the vote in Dominion elections, and Canadian women are eligible at the House of Commons.

The Globe says: "For one thing at least the women may be grateful. The Supreme Court made it plain that its duty was to interpret the British North America Act according to the intent of its framers in 1867, and not in the light of women's political progress in later years. The Fathers of Confederation, presumably, had no idea that women would be emancipated from the obligations of the home as they have been and would have ample time and inclination for affairs of State."

LYRICS OF LIFE

A PLACE TO PLAY

Each day we build a mill or two,
With walls against the sky,
And there will be enough to do
For youngsters bye-and-bye.
The forges and the fires await
The boy across the way;
Before the time has grown too late,
Give him the time to play.

Each day we show him wisdom's road
With loving thought and care,
Yet life will bring him many a load
The body has to bear.
He must be strong in mind and limb,
A man in many a way,
To do the work that waits for him—
Give him a chance to play.

Each day our boulevards we build,
Where past the motors whizz,
And parks with beauty places filled,
But not a place is his.
We build him mills for manhood's tasks,
And schools along the way,
But one thing more the youngster asks—
Give him a place to play!

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A novel buttonhole ornament worn by a well-dressed woman recently consisted of two tiny ostrich tips instead of the usual artificial flowers.

The man in the ostrich feather business is in about the same fix as the man who does business in hair pins. Just at present there is a relatively small demand for either, and I have been told that all the money the ostrich feather people have spent in trying to force a revival of interest in ostrich trimming has been just so much gold dropped into an apparently bottomless pit. For in nothing is the old saying that "when a woman will, she will, and when she won't she won't," more apparent than in this matter of fashion.

All in due time, and in a way that will probably be as much of a surprise to the ostrich feather producers as to the rest of us, the fashion for this form of trimming will come back. It is inconceivable that a form of trimming that has been used at intervals for centuries, as ostrich has, could pass into permanent oblivion. That could only happen if ostriches became extinct like the dodo and that other biped so dear to the heart of the crossword puzzle fan—the moa.

Until hats become larger and we lose our taste for simple head coverings there is no use looking there for a reappearance of ostrich feathers. Occasionally one does see a little ostrich on a hat—but such a very little that it can hardly be considered significant. A close-fitting black straw hat that took my eye the other day was trimmed with three very small ostrich tips of peacock blue at the left side. I could not help but feel that the hat would have been smarter without the trimming.

One well-dressed American woman recently returned from Europe has started the fad in a small way of wearing small ostrich tips in place of artificial flowers as an ornament for the lapel of her coat.

FEDERAL GRANT FOR TECHNICAL EDUCATION CUT

Will Be Discontinued at End of the Present Fiscal Year.

OBLIGATIONS HEAVY.

Premier Tells Deputation That It Is Matter For Provinces To Handle.

OTTAWA, May 3 (Canadian Press) —The grants of the Dominion Government to technical education will be discontinued at the end of the present fiscal year, Premier Mackenzie King told a large delegation which waited on the Government to-day to urge that Federal assistance be continued. The grants were begun in 1919, and the Act provided that they be continued for a period of ten years.

The Prime Minister said that as education was a matter solely within the jurisdiction of the Provincial Governments and the obligations of the Federal Government were so heavy, his Government had come to the conclusion that assistance to the provinces for technical education would not be continued when the present Act expires. The Government would consider the cases of the provinces which had been late in starting vocational training, and therefore had not received the full benefit of the grants the Act provided.

Manufacturers Urge Proper Classification of Native Wines.

OTHER GRIEVANCES.

Deputation Claims Better Wines Suffer By Being Classed With Inferior Grades.

TORONTO, May 3 (Canadian Press). — The Ontario Liquor Control Commission held its first meeting under the new chairman, Sir Henry Drayton to-day, and numerous matters were discussed. A deputation representing the manufacturers of native wines, introduced by T. Mahoney, member of the Legislature for Wentworth South, urged upon the Commission the introduction of the proper classification of the quality of the different grades of native wines, saying that the best quality suffered by being classed along with inferior grades. Other grievances were also presented.

on the dresser in his bedroom were found three empty shells. When Montgomery returned to his room after firing at Officer Stewart, he must have taken the three shells out of the magazine and replaced them with three new ones. The fourth appeared to have been lodged in the case and probably he could not take it out.

Constable Maker had received orders on Saturday that he was to be transferred after four years' faithful police service in this county, and was to go to Madoc. Provincial Constable Percy McCoy of Madoc being transferred here.

Mr. McCoy arrived in the city this morning to put in the day with Mr. Maker getting acquainted before he took over his duties here on the 15th. When he reported at the Police Station about 9.30, he was told his fellow police officer had just been shot.

Provincial Police district headquarters at Belleville were immediately communicated with this morning after the shooting, and Inspector Lougheed is expected in the city. Provincial Officer Storey of Cobourg arrived about 11.30. The two officers, Maker and Storey, did a lot of police work together, as before Constable Storey was transferred to Cobourg, he had been in Lindsay for a number of years and the officers' work often led into the same fields.

Saw Montgomery Shot.

Clarence Hustic, who witnessed the final act in this morning's tragedy, told of the shooting of Montgomery. Said he: "Another fellow named Burke and I were standing at the door of the garage here watching to catch sight of Montgomery if he came out on to Simcoe street. We were just standing here when Officer Matthews came along. He pushed us away and said, "Get out of the road, here he comes,' and then he opened the door and shot Montgomery. Montgomery was only a couple of feet from the door. That's about all I saw. We didn't wait."

Heard Shooting.

A Mr. Horace vividly recalled a first hand view of part of the shooting. He said that he had been standing near the foot of the stairs when he heard the shooting. He saw Officer Stewart come down the stairs and heard another shot or so, and then ducked for cover.

Left Home Suddenly.

"I won't be back for dinner. I'm going to Ennismore, but I'll telephone you before I leave."

These were the last words of Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker, when he left his home at 219 Princess street, this morning. A telephone message from License Inspector Joseph Stewart came at about twenty minutes to nine o'clock. Constable Maker jumped out of bed to answer it, then dressed quickly, and without taking time for breakfast or even a cup of tea, left the house, kissing his wife and two small daughters good-bye as was his custom always on leaving home.

"To think that in a week we would have been away from here," said his wife this morning, referring to the transfer to Madoc, which had recently been made by the provincial authorities. "He went through all the war without a wound, and he came to Canada to die."

Born in Devonshire.

Provincial Constable Maker was born at Bere Ferrs, Devon, England, thirty one years ago last June. He answered the first call to the colors before he was 18 years of age, and fought throughout the war, without a wound. After the war was over he spent a year at home then came to Canada, about eight years ago, and joined the city police force at Oshawa, spending a year there. Then he went west with the harvesters and returned later to become a member of the C. N. R. detective staff stationed at Belleville. There he married Miss Muriel Patterson, a trained nurse, and after joining the Provincial police force in Belleville, was removed to Peterborough, where he has spent the past four years.

In November, the late Constable Maker and his wife would celebrate the fifth anniversary of their wedding. They have two children, Norma, four years old next October, and Constance, just two months old.

Constable Maker's mother, now residing at Newton Ferrs, Devon, visited the Dominion last year, and spent some time here with her son, who had not seen her for eigth years. A sister, Mrs. Clark, also resides in England, and two brothers live in Belleville: Stanley, formerly of Peterborough, and Alfred.

The late Constable Maker was a Roman Catholic, and a member of the Knights of Columbus. At the time of the opening of the Peace Bridge by the Prince of Wales, he was chosen by General Williams as one of the two special Provincial constables detailed for the Prince's escort at the ceremony. Recently he had been transferred to Madoc and intended to move there next week with his family.

Started Last Night

According to an eye-witness, the trouble that resulted in the fatal shooting this morning of Provincial Constable N. F. Maker and David Montgomery started in the hotel last evening, when Montgomery took a friend in for supper. He told the man in charge at the hotel that the friend was a guest of his and hence there would be no fee charged. The man at the desk declared a fee would be charged, as David Montgomery's friend was no different from any other guest.

From that time on trouble was brewing and this morning, Officer Stewart was called. Montgomery knew that the police had been called and was standing in front of the hotel when they arrived.

He was talking to a bystander in front of the hotel, and with tears in his eyes he complained that he was not being allowed any freedom, and that the police had been sent for. If they came he would certainly clean them out.

When the officers arrived Maker asked Montgomery if he had a revolver, and he said "Yes. Do you want to see it?" Maker said "Yes," and with that Montgomery rushed to his room. The officers followed some time later and conducted a search. While they were on the stairs going down Montgomery fired the fatal shot.

Brother Shot Dead.

On Saturday, December 14, 1878, William Montgomery was shot and killed by R. N. Roddy, in Roddy's bar room, on Hunter street, situated just about where the Peterborough Lumber Company's office is now.

William Montgomery was a brother of the David Montgomery killed to-day.

Montgomery arrived in the bar-room and accused Roddy of taking from him a bottle of whiskey which he had missed from his pocket. After a few minutes Roddy drove all the spectators away from the bar, but Montgomery refused to leave and dared Roddy to remove him.

Montgomery, witnesses said became more riotous, and Roddy fired a shot from a small revolver which he got from behind the bar, the bullet striking the wall. Montgomery advanced on Roddy, endeavoring to jump over the bar, when Roddy again fired, striking Montgomery on the breast. Then paralleling today's case, Roddy ran through the back door of the bar into the yard. However, instead of putting up a fight with the authorities, he met Constable Johnston, and confessed to him what he had done. Montgomery made his way to a chair, where he sat holding wound. When the constable entered he recognized that the wound was fatal, and bemoaned the leaving of a wife and three children. His wife, mother and father were called and Montgomery died at 8 o'clock the next night.

Montgomery made a dying declaration in which he said :"Bob Roddy shot me—he shot me because I would not cheat the public. The declaration was witnessed by C. D.

A Turbulent Life.

Montgomery, who by way of being a boxer and, as it was called in those days, a bruiser, had led a life that was full of excitement. The Toronto Mail referred to the case as "A desperado's death," and said — "Montgomery, the desperado, who was shot and killed by a hotel keeper at Peterborough on Saturday, was known to the Toronto detectives as a most villainous character. Detective Reid in an interview, said that Montgomery has been the terror of the County of Victoria for years.

"In 1876 the police authorities of this city were asked to undertake his capture, as no one could be found in the county who cared to come into contact with him so much was his violence feared."

Under instruction of the Ontario Government at that time, Detectives Reid and Brown were despatched to Bobcaygeon, where Montgomery had apparently terorrized the community. Six feet tall and weighing two hundred and thirty pounds, Montgomery was a bully who had frightened everyone except these Toronto detectives. When the detectives advanced he surrendered without a blow being struck and was arraigned on a charge of assault committed upon a whiskey informer named Wallace. He was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment. A witness said Montgomery was arrested by two county constables and placed in a buggy to be conveyed to jail. On the road he threw the two constables out of the vehicle and drove off with it.

Edward Allan, who was a witness at the inquest, told of being on duty as bartender on the day of the shooting. He said that Montgomery acted quietly until some one took a bottle of whiskey out of his pocket, when he accused Roddy. The person who actually took the whiskey returned the bottle, saying he had only taken it as a joke. Montgomery then said he would not allow any man to do that to him and used bad language. Roddy protested again the use of this language and the altercation and shooting followed.

Apparently a hard fight preceded the shooting. The hotel was badly damaged when furniture and fittings were thrown around by several who joined in the battle.

Following the verdict of the coroner's jury that Montgomery was shot by Roddy in self defence, Roddy was committed on a charge of manslaughter and on the case going to trial on Monday, September 29, 1879, he was "honorably acquitted" when the prosecution was not sustained. The case did not even go to the grand jury.

enth century before Christ and hence they are not in the line of David, declared the speaker.

"King George V is in the direct line, for great historians have studied the chronology of the British house and I have it on their word that in the Royal House of England there is not a single link missing.

"God's promises on one hand and the royal history on the other show that the head of the Empire is of the Kingdom of Israel."

The speaker then told of the millions in the world, many of them under the British flag, who do not accept the Bible. It is God's command that these people be given the word. He also referred to the Greek Church in the east, which he declared failed to pay attention to the book and the great Roman Catholic church is not founded upon this book, for with it the voice of the church is the voice of God. Belgium, France and Italy have lost the book, so there are left Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Holland and Britain which accept the book. Germany had it for a while but lost it in 1914.

Further proof given by the speaker was that the common law of Britain came from the old Hebrew law and that the Roman law was absolutely wrong, hence Great Britain is the fountain head of law and justice and the other nations, whether they like it or not, have had to accept.

At the close of the lecture several questions were asked the speaker. One was "How did the Israelites get to England?" The speaker answered that they came to England from Egypt, where they had lived for many years and settled in Cornwall, then Ireland and other parts of England and Scotland, and investigations had shown that London was an older city than Rome. He claimed that St. Paul had once been in Britain and that Mary and Joseph had travelled there.

Wheat Prices Rally When Frost Is Reported

CHICAGO, May 3 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices rallied sharply to-day after downturns at the start. Frost predictions for wheat territory in the West tended to stimulate buying on price breaks that were associated with reports of beneficial rains. Opening at 1¾ cent off to ¼ cent advance, wheat underwent a general sag and then scored gains all around. Corn, oats, and provisions averaged lower, with corn starting unchanged to ⅞c off and subsequently showing a general setback.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 160¾, July 161¾. Corn, May 105¾, July 109¾. Oats, May 62½; July 56¾.

Mine Market Weaker; Most Losses Small

TORONTO, May 3 (Canadian Press).—The market on the Standard Mining Exchange sagged again to-day after some firmness, with Barry Hollinger again a conspicuously weak feature. The stock slumped again to 83 for a loss of six points. Hudson Bay softened 23 at 19.93, Sherritt was 13 lower at 6.17, and Mandy lost 8 at 2.80. The Kirkland Lakes were generally easier, with Teck Hughes down seven at 9.38, and Kirkland Hunton easing to 20, but Kirkland Lake Gold was an exception, recovering six at 1.85. A good proportion of the issues held steady with yesterday's close, while Noranda gained eight at 20.38. Sudbury Basin at 10.20 and Pioneer at 60 were other firm spots.

Uneasiness Subsides And Price Move Up

NEW YORK, May 3 (Canadian Press).—Speculative uneasiness over the credit situation subsided somewhat to-day and prices moved irregularly higher. The pools resumed activities in a wide assortment of stocks. Motor shares were heavily bought on reports of large current earnings, General Motors leading the advance with a gain of four points. Chrysler mounted to a new high level in anticipation of a record-breaking first quarter report after the close of the market. Higher earnings also provided a background for the advance in public utility issues. Montana Power soared nine points to 175 and was followed into new high ground by American Telephone, International Telephone, Philadelphia Company, and Columbus Gas, the gains running as high as four points. New York Tractions quickly climbed to new peak prices and then lost their gains on the traditional "selling on good news" which followed the announcement that the Federal Statutory Court had granted the Interborough Rapid Transit's application for a seven cent fare.

Price Changes Small On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, May 3 (Canadian Press).—Price movements were generally small in heavy trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. The largest gain by any stock in the firmer list was the four-point advance in Shawinigan at 102¾. It touched 107 at one time. Massey Harris sold up a point at 44¼ and Nickel advanced past 91, but reacted later for a net fractional loss around 90. British American Oil on a heavy turnover advanced a half at 39, but the other oils were unchanged. The curb market was exceptionally active, but the changes were mostly negligible.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 3 (Canadian Press). — Dr. Alfred Moody, a veterinary surgeon of this city, committed suicide by hanging himself in the Police Detention Rooms in the City Hall of Sault Ste. He had been arrested yesterday by an agent of the United States Government and Chief of Police Herbert White on a charge of being implicated in a narcotic smuggling ring which was recently uncovered with the arrest there of a Chinaman, Sam Lee, and Albert Beasley, a barber. It is reported that Dr. Moody was in possession of 150 morphine tablets, and that ten thousand dollars worth of narcotics had been found in Lee's quarters.

HIGHWAY SAFETY PLANS DISCUSSED

Minister States That Law Will Be Strictly Administered This Year.

TORONTO, May 3. — More than a hundred persons interested in highway accident prevention attended the meeting called by Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, at the Parliament Buildings yesterday. The delegates represented every part of the province. The question of safety was discussed from many angles, and a great deal of information elicited. At the conclusion of the meeting a resolution was passed upon motion of George King of Kingsville, seconded by F. H. Leslie of Niagara Falls, to the effect that the gathering, representative of Boards of Trade, Service Clubs, newspapers Ontario Safety League and affiliated motor clubs, provincial and civic authorities and police chiefs, pledged its hearty support and cooperation in the accident prevention campaign. Another motion gave Mr. Henry freedom in selecting his executive committee to work out the details of the coming campaign.

In opening the meeting Mr. Henry stated emphatically that this year the attitude of the department was that the law should be administered as on the statute books. In his opinion the law was not over-drastic. He stated that no sympathy would be shown the person who tried to drive a car while intoxicated. While infractions of this sort which came to his notice were fewer of late, he thought that possibly the magistrates were not reporting all cases. In the cases reported licenses were suspended. Mr. Henry was sure an educative campaign would help the cause of safety in creating in the minds of all drivers the idea of care and courtesy and "traffic consciousness."

General Draper Toronto's new police chief, pledged the co-operation of his force in co-operating with any move that might be made. R. D. Stapells, representing the Ontario Motor League, said $300 had been voted by the league for essays on accident prevention by the school children of the province.

George Martin of Hamilton, president of the Associated Boards of Trade in extending the co-operation of that organization, stated that two per cent. of the drivers caused all the trouble.

Statistics from the Ontario Safety League were recited by T. A. Stevenson of Toronto, in the absence of Sir John Gibson the president. Last year 422 motor car fatalities occurred in Ontario, and of these 57 had happened at railway crossings. This latter figure might be compared with 89 for 1926. The Safety League also had donated $30 for schoolchildren's essays, and were carrying on safety work in the schools of the province.

An interesting part of the discussion was contributed by a dozen or so newspaper men who were present. Several of them stated that the publication of names of those convicted of driving while intoxicated and a report of the court proceedings, was a remarkable deterrent. Some of those who contributed to this phase of the discussion were W. J. Taylor of Woodstock, W. R. Davies of Kingston and J. W. Curran of Sault Ste Marie.

George Wilson, former president of the Toronto Board of Trade, led a discussion on the feasibility of distributing cards among motorists, so that offenders might be reported. There was not complete unanimity on this phase and the matter was left to the executive to decide.

M. M. MacBride, former M.P.P. and now of the Highways Department staff, declared that the most successful accident prevention campaign would be the formation of local safety committees in every city, town and village.

In winding up the discussion Mr. Henry stated that every point raised would receive the attention of the executive committee. With the cooperation of the Minister of Education he expected to have brief safety talks delivered in every school in the province. He promised that the educational work would be begun forthwith and every form of publicity, including large newspaper advertisements, would be utilized. Mr. Henry was deeply gratified at the interest that had been taken in the campaign so far and added that no effort would be spared to free Ontario's highways from accident.

PROPERTY

Properties owned by, and under option to, the Chelmsford Mining Corporation consist of two groups of claims totalling 5,120 acres (more or less).

Group 1, as shown on the map above, is held by this Company under option. It consists of 1,760 acres (more or less) in Balfour Township directly adjoining the Treadwell-Yukon and for approximately 2½ miles parallelling the main workings of that company.

Group 2, as shown above, consists of 3,360 acres (more or less) in the Townships of Lumsden and Hammer, title to which held by this Company through deposit wi the Imperial Bank of Canada, under an escrow agreement, of 100 per cent. of the Capital Stock of the Sudbury Metals Limited, which Company holds title to these lands under Mining License.

LOCATION

As shown on the map above, group 1 (1,760 acres more or less) adjoins and is parallel to the Treadwell Yukon holdings, and for a distance of 2½ miles divides with that company the belt of Onwatin Slate in which the now famous lead-copper-zinc ore bodies have been located. It is regarded as significant that the shafts and principal workings of the Treadwell Yukon are parallel to, and in proximity to, the boundary line between the two properties.

Group 2 consists of 84 mining claims—3,360 acres (more or less)—and embraces the Onwatin Slate Belt for a distance of more than 3 miles. Five shallow pilot holes have been diamond-drilled with gratifying results. The structure and formation are found to be typical of the productive areas and give promise of important results from the diamond-drilling at depth to be undertaken forthwith.

GEOLOGY

Geologically, the Sudbury Basin may be described as a bowl, approximately fifty miles in length and thirty miles in breadth, composed of a number of concentric, and parallel, rock formations. The centre is sandstone, encircled by a broad belt of Onwatin Slate. Next to the Onwatin Slate lies a belt of Tuff, then the Conglomerate and Granite belts, and finally, on the outer rim, is the Norite Belt. This Norite Belt has long been famous for its nickel deposits.

In 1927 Treadwell Yukon announced the discovery of huge deposits of lead-copper-zinc ore in the Onwatin Slate Belt. This announcement was the result of over 60,000 feet of diamond-drilling. Subsequent drilling by other interests at divergent points has further demonstrated this Onwatin Slate Belt to contain important ore deposits.

Although exploration of its mineral resources is but in its infancy, the Onwatin Slate Belt is to-day accepted as rivalling, possibly exceeding, the Norite Belt in the importance of its ore deposits.

Holdings of the Chelmsford Mining Corporation Limited, comprise 5,120 acres (more or less), over 90% of which are on the Onwatin Slate Belt, with a total length in excess of six miles on this formation.

DEVELOPMENT

A minimum of 20,000 feet of diamond-drilling is planned for the forthcoming summer, contracts for this drilling being now in preparation.

FINANCIAL POSITION

At the conclusion of the present financing, the Company's financial position will be as follows:

Proceeds of 1,000,000 shares		$375,000
Deduct:
20,000 feet diamond-drilling	$70,000
Overhead and organization expense	20,000	90,000
Balance for property and other expenses		$285,000

NOTE: The Company's option on the 1,760 acres (more or less) comprising Group 1 is composed of twelve individual options, each covering approximately 150 acres. Should diamond-drilling disprove the value of any one group of claims, the Company is therefore in position to reject such group without prejudice to its interest in the remaining parcels.

In addition to the $285,000 noted above, 3,000,000 shares (60%) of the Company's capital stock will remain in the Company's treasury at the conclusion of the present financing.

Last Year's Officers Re-Elected On Senior Ball Club

BALL CLUB IS ORGANIZED FOR BIG CAMPAIGN

Old Officers Consent to Handle Petes' Affairs for Another Season.

WILL HOLD SHOW

"Now Fancy That" to be Given for Benefit of Central League.

Officers of the Peterborough Central Ontario League ball club who have guided the destinies of the local outfit successfully for a number of years, consented at last night's meeting to stay 'on the job" for another campaign, and so Gordon Matthews, Sheriff Hall, Vic Hamilton and other stalwarts were placed in office again unanimously.

Last night's meeting put through a lot of business in snappy style and with plenty of enthusiasm.

The draft schedule of the Central Ontario League was discussed and it was decided that a schedule of sixteen games, terminating in the middle of August, was sufficient.

Alex Kay and Edgar Lebarr were named as the local umpires for the season. The arrangement this year is that the visiting team shall bring the umpire-in-chief with them, while the base umpire will be supplied by the home club in each case.

The kind offer of the Dramatic Club of the Church of the Immaculate Conception to stage their most successful play, "Now Fawncy That," for the benefit of the Petes was gratefully accepted and the play will be given in the Grand Opera House, probably two weeks from to-morrow night. The proceeds of this performance will be devoted to buying new uniforms which are urgently needed.

President Matthews, Vice-President Hamilton, Secretary Hall and T. H. Holyman and F. D. Craig were appointed a committee to make the necessary arrangements.

The special committee appointed to secure a manager reported that Tommy Holyman had been their unanimous choice and that he had consented to accept the job of piloting the Petes. 'Shiner" Johnston consented to assist with the practices and a captain will be chosen by the players.

Manager Holyman announced that he had already signed a dozen players, and others were signed after the meeting. Harry Palmer, a Toronto boy, and Bert Hall, are among the new players who will try out with the Petes.

President Matthews and Secretary Hall were appointed to arrange with the Parks committee for the use of James Stevenson Park for the season, and Manager Holyman was given authority to order fifteen new uniforms for this year's squad.

A resolution of condolence to the relatives of Jack Knott, well known Oshawa sporting writer, and former secretary of the Central Ontario League will be forwarded by the secretary.

The team has been given the use of King Edward school grounds for practice purposes until their own park is available for use.

Officers were elected as follows:

Honorary President—George C. McDonald.

President—Gordon S. Matthews.

Vice-President—Vic Hamilton.

Secretary-Treasurer—Sheriff F. J. A. Hall.

Executive — Robt. Abbott, R. M. Glover, Jack Pilling, J. E. Sullivan, W. Ferguson, O. DeGraw, P. D. Craig, J. W. Anderson.

SHERIFF F. J. A. HALL,
Re-elected Secretary-Treasurer Peterborough Central Ontario League Club.

Party Of Ninety Represent Canada

MONTREAL, Que., May 3.—(Canadian Press).—About ninety young men and women from Canada will travel to Amsterdam in July to take part in the various branches of the Olympic games, Dr. A. S. Lamb, manager of the Canadian expedition said in an interview yesterday.

According to the latest official advices from Amsterdam, satisfactory arrangements were being made, said Dr. Lamb, for the housing of the Canadian contingent, and a liaison officer has also been agreed upon between the two countries in the person of Major W. H. P. Van Blyemburgh, who will be the intermediary in any matters the Dutch Olympic committee and the Canadian Olympic committee may desire to discuss.

NEED ONE MORE TEAM

The City Baseball League is short one team to make up their objective for a twelve team loop this season. A fourth entry is needed for the Juveniles. Who will be a sponsor?

It is expected that twelve teams will make up the city baseball league this year; the league has been entirely re-organized and a strong bid is being made by junior ball supporters to make it the most successful in many years. The junior group will be comprised of Jack Deannard's Kiwanis juniors (last year's champions), McFadden's Royals, who have proved their worth more than once in former years, and it is likely that Jack Burke will enter a team from the Lockworks. Who is the fourth? Alex Kay's aggregation, known at present as the 'dark-horse" team, is expected to make the fourth entry, and while the line-up is still a mystery they can be counted upon to give the others a stiff race for group honors.

* * * * * *

Riley & Hickey and Grafton's, clothing merchants will both have a team in the Bantam series, while the Canucks from the south end will make the third entry. The Kiwanis club will have a representation in this group as in the past. Rotary, Kiwanis and the Canucks will have entries in the juvenile, and while it is as yet unknown who will make the fourth team, some tight competition play through the season can be expected in this group.

Alf Shrubb, veteran middle and long distance runner, has returned to Canada to live. Some of Peterborough's older sportsmen will perhaps remember Shrubb, who ran many races years ago both here and in the United States against the famous Indian runner, Tom Longboat. Shrubb beat Longboat in a race held in the Brock Street Rink. Even now, the veteran English five and ten mile runner, is the holder of more amateur and professional world's records than any other living middle or long distance runner. When he quit running he settled on a farm near Bowmanville. He went to England, and after coaching the Oxford middle and long distance men he became a hotel-keeper in Oxford. He has now returned to Canada permanently. Other opponents of his who were in their prime in those days were: St. Yves, Livingstone, Holmer, Ted Wood, J. J. Hefferman and Tom Coley. Tom Longboat is now a resident of Toronto.

Doug. Brandon, the energetic secretary of the Monarch Athletic Club, has received a number of enquiries for entry forms for the big track meet on May 24th. Among these is one from Harold Webster, of Hamilton. Webster is Canada's second choice to attend the next Olympic meet. He will enter the 15-mile marathon.

Another good boy slated for the 15-mile race is Moss of Kendall, Ont. There will be many others.

Doug. Loomis, physical director of Peterborough Y.M.C.A., will be on hand and will handle the gun as starter. He has lots of experience and will be right on the job. Loomis is a popular official at any meet. Peterborough will also send along some thirty entries for the various events.—Lindsay Daily Post.

Athletic Commission Are Conducting Inquiry Into Sharkey-Delaney Fight

NEW YORK, May 3 (Canadian Press).—Despite the assertion of a member of the State Athletic Commission that the organization had canvassed the Sharkey-Delaney fight of Monday "from every angle" and were convinced "the bout was above reproach,' it became known yesterday that a rigid secret inquiry is under way.

Chairman John A. Farley refused to comment on the steps reported to have been taken, and there was equal reluctance on the part of other officials. Those close to the commission, however, declare if the findings were that there was something shady in the sensational one-round defeat of the once formidable Delaney, definite action would be taken. This would follow the procedure laid down in 1925, when Eddie Shea, bantamweight challenger from Chicago, was knocked out in four rounds by Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, the titleholder, in a match here. No decision was handed down by the Boxing Commission, but Shea never fought again in New York.

Rumors in circulation before the bout led to the questioning of Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey, and Tex Rickard, promoter, shortly before the match, Farley admitted Tuesday. Farley ordered Referee Magnolia to throw both fighters out of the ring at the first sign of "phony" action. Betting, based on rumors that Delaney was in poor physical condition and was not prepared to give his best efforts, caused betting to jump from 2 to 1 on Sharkey to 4 to 1 at ring time.

SOCCER PRESIDENT QUITS EXECUTIVE

Did Not Like Action of the Board in His Absence in Regard to Suspension.

After the usual routine of business at the regular meeting of the local Soccer Association, President Vincent Stewart intimated his resignation from the executive by letter, which speaks for itself:

May 1st, 1928.

To Secretary, P. and D. F. A.

It is after careful consideration of the finding of executive, concerning the action of last year's board. I might say, we—the executive—called three meetings at the end of the season and which was advertised in time for everybody concerned to be present; but we had no response, so the executive dealt with the suspension of players and acted accordingly, but in the eyes of the public it looks a joke on me and also, in my opinion, it appears a case of railroading the affairs through in my absence; because in the first place — the said player should have his case in writing to the secretary, previous to the meeting. I understand he came and stated his appeal verbally, but was instructed to go and write his appeal and present it, instead of referring it to the next meeting, so it appears to me as if this board will support rough play, instead of clean sport. So on these grounds I will ask you to accept my resignation.

Wishing you success in the present season, Yours for clean sport.

Vincent Stewart.

A lengthy discussion ensued to no purpose, which met an emphatic no in reconsideration when the president was requested.

The foregoing letter is the culmination of the result of three players being ordered off the field of play last season, in which last year's board suspended two players sine die.

For the benefit of the soccer fans, sine die (Latin) means "without a day being appointed" or "indefinately."

The word explains the action of last year's board exactly which allows any player or soccer board, at any time, to open up any appeal when they do conform to the rules and regulation. All players have the "right of appeal."

GIANTS TAKE THIRD STRAIGHT

HURLERS' DUEL

NEW YORK, May 3.—(Canadian Press).—The New York Giants established themselves more securely in first place by winning their third straight game from the Brooklyn Robins here yesterday to sweep the series. The score was 2-1.

The game, a pitching duel between Larry Benton and Jumbo Jim Elliott, was decided on home runs by Lindstrom and Jahn, the only two hits Elliott gave in the seven innings he worked. Boak allowed anothe Giant safety in the eighth, while Benton held the Robins to four hits.

Benton gave only one single to the eighth when Riconda doubled.

The New York right hander got into trouble in the ninth when singles by Tyson and Hargrave and passes to Bressler and Bissonette put one Brooklyn run across the plate and left the bases filled with two out. Benton fanned Riconda to get a win.

Joe Dawson, relief twirler for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was the hero of a 9-8 ten inning game won by the Buccaneers over the Cubs at Pittsburgh. Dawson relieved Miljus in the sixth innings and allowed only two hits thereafter and in the tenth drove out a triple, placing the winning run in position to win the game a moment later. It was the third straight victory for the Pirates over the Cubs.

Phillies Win 9-3.

Coming out of a batting slump the Phillies hammered out a 9-3 victory over Boston Braves at Philadelphia. The game was won in third inning when a double, a single and Cy Williams' home run netted the Phillies six runs. Wertz was knocked out of the box in that round and was succeeded by Goldsmith. He yielded three tallies in the next three innings and Edwards finished the game Benge was in good form and was unhittable except in the third, when Boston got their runs.

A disastrous fifth inning at St. Louis which the Cincinnati Reds combined a single and triple with two errors to score three runs) brought the Cardinals down to their fourth straight defeat six to four.

Two boots by Frisch followed by a single, saturated the bases. Then Walker stepped to the plate and nicked Reinhart for a triple, scoring three runs. Carl Mays kept the Cardinal hits scattered.

JONES HOLDS YANKEES 9-5

TIGERS WIN 7-1

NEW YORK, May 3.—(Canadian Press).—"Sad" Sam Jones enjoyed a victory yesterday over his former team-mates, the New York Yankees, winning 9-5 at Washington. Jones weakened in the final innings, however, and had to be relieved. At bat he got a triple and double, batting in one run. The victory ended a Washington losing streak that had reached eight games, the last three games having gone to the Yankees.

Owen Carroll held the White Sox to four hits and Detroit yesterday won at Chicago, 7 to 1, in the concluding game of their series.

Bill Cissell the White Sox rookie failed to hit safely for the time in 15 consecutive games. The Tigers won two of the series.

George Uhle lost his first game in five starts and Sam Gray won his fifth in a like number when the Indians were whitewashed by the St. Louis Browns at Cleveland, 7-0.

Gray allowed the Indians four hits and was never in trouble.

Philadelphia at Boston, rain.

Italian To Seek Tunney's Crown; Knows Music, But Not Shakespeare

NEW YORK, May 3.—Umberto Torrino, an Italian youth 6 feet 2 inches tall, whose chief ambition, he said through an interpreter, is to get a chance to fight Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship, arrived on the Cosulich liner Saturnia Like the champion he has a flair for the Arts. He was accompanied by George Calza, the wrestler, who will manage him in this country.

Calza said his protege did not know anything about Shakespeare and could not lecture on Verdi to the Yale Music School as he did not speak English, but that he was a first-class musician.

His sister Amalia is one of the best harp players in Italy," he said, "and this kid isn't so bad himself. He can play the guitar and the mandolin and he sings fine. He's got a baritone voice."

By way of finding out whether Torrino was really in the champion class, he was asked what he thought of grand opera. He said that he liked it.

"All Italians do," said Calza

Torrino, however, has a few other qualifications. He is 22 years old and weighs 235 pounds when he is trained down. He has fought ten bouts and won all of them. According to Calza the longest any of them lasted was four rounds.

BIG CEREMONY OPENS SEASON

TORONTO WINS 6-2

MAPLE LEAF STADIUM, May 3.—Everything broke right for the Toronto club this afternoon, the condition as to the weather being made to order for baseball and as a consequence one of the largest if not the largest crowd to attend a game at the new stadium was on hand.

The fact that the Leafs completed their first swing half way around the circuit with success unusual to a Toronto team probably had much to do with the general enthusiasm. Another factor for the liberal patronage was the presence of several new faces on the team, notably Warren Cota, the sprightly shortstop here from Toledo via New York; Joe Rabbitt, the Paddock of the diamond from Omaha in the Western League, where he led the loop in doing everything, and Clayton Sheedy, former starry first baseman from Baltimore, who has been converted into an outfielder, and other promising athletes.

Well Received.

Eddie Phillips, late of Detroit, who has been delegated the task of catching Jess Doyle's shoots yesterday afternoon, is another performer who is expected to add strength. Taking the team by far and large it is a much more colorful collection than any that has worn the local livery in several years, one that should worthily represent the Queen City in the veteran International League.

Toronto Leafs defeated Newark Bears, 6 to 2, in the opening game yesterday.

BUFFALO, May 3.—(Canadian Press).—The Baltimore Orioles put on a big parade in the seventh innings of their opening contest with the Buffalo Bisons here yesterday scoring eight runs all that were required to beat the Bisons who mustered only two in nine innings.

Fans numbering 12,251 welcomed the 1927 champions to town and got their only thrill when Al Moore hit a home run over the left field fence for the first score of the game.

Reading at Montreal, wet grounds.

TAKE OPENER 7-6.

ROCHESTER N.Y., May 3.—(Canadian Press).—Rochester won the opening game of its home season yesterday, 7-6 over Jersey City. The Black Cats scored 5 runs in the ninth to tie the county but Johnny Mokan doubled into the crowd in the last half of the frame to score Layne with the winning run. The gate check totalled 16,556 fans.

NEW LONDON CRIES ENLIVEN STREETS

Street Hawkers Just as Plentiful as Ever in Metropolis.

LONDON, May 3 (By the Canadian Press).—In London now there are nearly as many folks crying their wares in the gutter and plying their trades in the street, as there were in the days of good Queen Bess; you can hardly walk abroad without seeing such quaint, gay, colorful sights and busy craftsmanship as might belong to the oldtime when half the town's business was done in the streets," says a writer in the Daily News and Westminster Gazette.

"Here is a man with magic flowers unfolding in a glass of water, here a vendor of joss-sticks with a sample smouldering on his tray; there is a nimble fellow with toys that run and jump as nimbly as himself, and there is a man with a pair of tame jackdaws which will perch on your hand for a penny. There is an old man who peddles rock-salt in a child's pram, and a young one who sells country flowers in suburban side-streets from an old Ford. If your fancy is for a live lobster, a tortoise or a puppy-dog, bitter oranges or branches of eucalyptus, silver-topped walking sticks or sham rolls that squeak, you will find them all in the curbstone market.

For entertainment you have as much as any citizen of Elizabethan London; the ballad singers, the clowns and the tumblers, still contrive to please the crowd as their forefathers did—though now it is ranged two by two outside the theatre. The street poet still flourishes, chalking his verses on the paving stones of the Embankment, and the basket maker sets out his gaudy wares in Kingsway, making his strip of pavement look like the corner of an Indian bazaar; there is a one-armed girl, who sits on a camp stool, painting little pictures, and a sailor who squats cross-legged on the pavement working big ones, very fast, on canvass, with bright colored wools, and knife-grinders and many another besides.

"Despite all the wide streets and brand new concrete of our modern London, her citizens still take their way among workers and chaffers, just as they did when the sweep shouted his trade from the house tops, and 'Cherry-ripe' was cried in the streets."

Archbishop Performed Heroic Act When Curate Years Ago.

LONDON, May 3.—During an outbreak of smallpox, when the Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Dr. Randall Thomas Davidson, was a young curate, alone he entered a house where a servant girl lay stricken with the disease, and wrapping her in a blanket, carried her down to an ambulance waiting to take her to a hospital. This story of the heroic action of the curate who was later to be the head of the Church of England in Great Britain, was told in connection with the ceremony in the Guildhall recently when the freedom of Canterbury was conferred upon the Archbishop in celebration of his 80th birthday.

APRIL BUILDING IS NEAR RECORD

Amount of Contracts Let Exceeded By Only One Month.

According to MacLean Building Reports, Ltd., the construction contracts awarded total of $56,345,800 for all Canada during the month of April was the largest total for any month ever recorded except for the month of May, 1926, when $57,139,700 worth of New work was contracted for. During the past month $116,962,300 was the total of contemplated work for the Dominion. This total is the largest ever recorded for any month without exception.

The apportionment by classifications of the estimated value of work contracted for or actually started during the month of April is as follows:—Residential work $17,194,300 or 30.5%; Business Buildings $28,050,000 or 49.8%; Industrial Work $3,577,500 or 6.4%; Engineering $7,524,000, or 13.3%. By Provinces, the record shows British Columbia $11,594,300 or 9.2%; Prairie Provinces $12,385,400, or 9.9%; Ontario $50,282,200 or 40%; Quebec $48,199,500 or 38.4%; Maritime Provinces $3,185,700 or 2.5%.

The accumulative contracts awarded total for the first four months of the year is surprisingly large compared with previous years. It now stands at $125,647,100. This total divided into classifications shows as follows:—Residential $37,204,800 or 29.6%; Business Buildings $52,002.000 or 41.4%; Industrial work $10,109,700 or 8%; Engineering $26,330,600 or 21%. The division by Provinces is British Columbia $2,954,600 or 5.2%; Prairie Provinces $7,136,100 or 12.7%; Ontario $23,712,600 or 42.1%; Quebec $19,985,000 or 35.5%; Martime Provinces $2,557,500 or 4.5%.

DENTISTS' ROOMS ARE MADE BRIGHTER

LONDON, May 3 (by the Canadian Press).—"Brighter Dentists' Waiting Rooms" is to be the great cry henceforth. The dentists have now been assured by the Board of Inland Revenue that in making out their income for taxing purposes they are entitled to include the cost of illustrated magazines, which they place in their waiting rooms for the beguilement of patients, as "professional expenses," and that such cost will be allowed as a rebate. Curiously enough, only a week before this concession had been made clear, Punch had a drawing of a cheerful patient rising from the chair after an extraction and telling the dentist that he would now return to the waiting room to finish the magazine story in which he had got interested.

Many dentists, it seems, were not aware that they were entitled to this rebate, which extends also to the providing of flowers in waiting rooms. It is believed that those dentists who practise particularly among children will be entitled to deduct the cost of providing teddybears and other diversionsfor the infants whose molars are to be overhauled.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS" REACHES EXTREMES OF MIRTH

Opens at the Capitol To-night

If life was made for laughter, whoever attends the Capitol Theatre while "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," the Universal-William Beaudine production, is the feature, will live a complete life during the run of the picture.

"The Cohens and Kellys in Paris" is life jammed with wholesome human touches of pathos and comedy. It is a beautiful painting from the delicate brush of the great artist, William Beaudine, director of "Little Annie Rooney", "Sparrows" and "Hold that Lion."

Each member of the all-star cast is admirably chosen.

It is not a farce comedy, but it is drama of the relations between the Irishman and the Jew told with an eye always on the comic possibilities of the tale.

George Sidney, who was featured in the role of Cohen in the first "Cohens and Kellys", headlines in the screamingly funny adventures of the Irish and Jewish families in Paris. J. Farrel MacDonald is co-featured as Kelly and gives an inimitable portrayal. Vera Gordon and Kate Price are back again in their original roles of Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Kelly, louder and funnier than ever.

Gertrude Astor furnishes 50% of the goods looks and many of the laughs in this hysterical production. Sue Carol represent the remaining 50% of beauty and charm, while Charles Delaney is appealing as young Mr. Kelly who marries the pretty Cohen girl and thereby engages the two families in a mad rush to Paris to break up the racial mistake, so that the Cohen grandchildren will not be little Kellys.

Everything that can happen in Paris happens to the Cohens and Kellys, including an apache dance and a duel. The whole thing ends with one of the most exciting and hysterical sequences ever screened.

AT THE REGENT.

"NOT FOR PUBLICATION."

When Rex Lease plied a typewriter a few years ago as a police reporter on the city news staff of a Columbus, Ohio, newspaper, he had little reason to believe that he was soon to play principal roles in motion pictures, and less to think that one such role should take him back to his newspaper days.

However, as the star reporter in FBO's production of "Not For Publicatoin," the current attraction at the Regent Theater, Lease practically relives this earlier period of his life. Though Ralph Ince, who directed the picture, is also star, Lease has one of the important roles and his knowledge of newspaper reporting enabled him to make the most of his opportunity in the role.

All the keen news sense of an experienced police reporter, his ingenuity and split-second decision, are capably brought to the screen in Lease's characterization. The role is that of a star reporter who is assigned by his militant editor to investigate the awarding of a big dam building contract in the West. Ince, as the political boss who wins the contract, becomes the principal object of Lease's investigation. Deep mystery, political intrigue, murder and love merge into the debacle which Lease encounters.

Jola Mendes plays the feminine leading role in the picture as the orphaned sister of the political boss. Roy Laidlaw, Eugene Strong, Thomas Brower and Tom McGuire have important roles in the production. The screen story by Ewart Adamson is based on Robert Wells Ritchie's "The Temple of the Giants."

PRINCE OF WALES TO OPEN NEW DOCK

Eastern Arm Extension at Bristol Has Cost About $5,000,000.

LONDON, May 3 (by the Canadian Press)—The Prince of Wales will visit Bristol on May 23 to open the eastern arm extension of the Royal Edward Dock. He will have a civic welcome when he reaches the city at 11 o'clock, and will go to Avonmouth by road. At the Junction Cut, which connects Avonmouth and the Royal Edward Dock, he will join a steamer for the dock extension, and the vessel will cut the ribbon stretched across the entrance. Going on to the far end of the new arm the Prince will land at the wharf where an address of welcome will be presented.

The new dock, which has taken nearly two years to construct, has cost about $5,000,000. The corporation received help for the scheme in Government grants for work for the unemployed. With a water area of 21 acres the new dock space is 1,700 feet long and 400 feet wide. There are six extra deep water berths. It is equipped with the most modern appliances for the rapid handling of cargoes. An additional granary has 70,000 tons capacity.

The first sod of the Royal Edward Dock was cut on March 3, 1902, by King Edward, who paid a second visit to open the dock on July 9, 1903, when the Lord Mayor, Edward B. James, was knighted.

WINNIPEG, May 3 (Canadian Press).—Stung a large bread knife, Mrs. Allen [illegible] late last night stabbed and mortally killed Fred Newman during a quarrel, according to a report issued by police headquarters.

"It isn't what you do to-day that causes the blowout!"

—it is usually something you have done weeks ago.

These things can be avoided. To avoid them means dollars off the cost of running your car.

Check up tire pressures every week—we will do it for you. Keep to the exact figures for the size of load of each tire. Ease down when driving over deep ruts and sharp ridges.

NEW STATIONS ARE CONVENIENT

Beauty Also Sought By Oil Companies in Service Buildings.

ROOM FOR FOUR CARS.

Workmen are now busy cleaning up the property on the north corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets and the foundation is well under way for a splendid new gasoline service station of the Imperial Oil company, likely to be completed about June 15.

The contractors are C. H. Huffman and Sons, particulars of the station. The construction work will necessitate removal of the blind man's stand erected there in 1926 by the Kiwanis Club after the oil company had offered the site gratis until such time as it might require the land. This act of Manager Art Blade was thoroughly appreciated by his fellow club members.

The main building of the new service station is to be 22x25, one story in height, with walls of buff pressed brick and asphalt roofing. It will be heated by means of a hot water system and will be attractively finished inside and out.

The equipment of the station will be modern in every respect there being three double pumps supplied from two 1,000 gallon tanks, one 500 gallon tank and auxiliary tanks; airlines and other features of service. Instead of the pumps being located under the customary canopy, they will be separated on two islands, so advahtageously placed as to serve the four driveways, two of which will lead off Charlotte street and two off Aylmer street. The station will be particularly well lighted.

Building for Beauty

That gasoline service stations may be beautiful as well as useful is the theory being worked out by McColl Brothers Oil Company, in the erection of their new station on the northwest corner of Charlotte and Stewart streets. A glance over the blueprints and an inspection of the work now well under way is sufproduct about June 1, will finally prove it.

C. H. Huffman and Sons, contractors, have already erected the concrete foundation, which is 22x30 and the walls, of Milton rug brick, to the window sills. Beyond the sills, white Stuco will be used to complete the exterior while the interior will be of lath and plaster finish. The building is to be one story high and the roofing of creodipt shingles.

In addition to the office, there will be lavatories and other conveniences. The building will boast a hot air heating system.

The entire property will be utilized and the station will have many fine features. Driveways off Stewart and Charlotte streets will lead either to double grease pits equipped with oil and air sprayers or beneath a large canopy on the north side which will, in reality, be part of the building proper, for in the winter, specially constructed doors will wall it in. To the south side of the station will be an "island" fitted with gasoline pumps, air lines etc. In fact so advantageously placed are these, that four cars at a time may be handled from the two double driveways.

OLD FAMILY CHINA USED

From ancestral halls comes the quaint china which graced the tea table when Mrs. J. A. Harvey, Toronto entertained the relatives of their families for Mrs. Lindbergh, her cousin, during Lindy's mother's visit to Toronto to be guest of Ontario teachers. The youngest relative at the family gathering was Harvey Ross Christie, number 1, and the hostess, Mrs. J. A. Harvey is shown in picture number 2. Harcroft, the lovely residence of Mrs. Harvey, is number 3, and J. A. Harvey is shown in number 4, with one of the birds from the sanctury at Harcroft, which is well known to nature lovers Number 5, shows the plate which came from the home of Mrs. Ephraim Land, the great grandmother of Mrs. Harvey and Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, Mrs. Land was Mary Christins Chisholm of Oakville, after whom Mrs. Harvey was named. When the little bride came from Oakville to live in the cabin in Hamilton, she brought in her trousseau, the china shown in the pictures above and the pedestaled tea cup and saucer in number 6, were used in the historic cabin of Ephraim Land. Mrs. Lindbergh used this cup, and Mrs. Harvey presented her cousin with the plate.

THINK GIPSY BAND HAS MISSING BOY

Lad Resembling the Brockville Child Seen in Camp Near Belleville.

BROCKVILLE, May 3.— The fact that a boy answering to the description of Donald Montpetit ,aged 3, who disappeared from the neighborhood of his home at Iroquois on Friday last, was seen with a band of gipsies which encamped at Maitland, near here, at the week-end is causing hopes to be entertained that the child may eventually be found with the gipsies instead of in the River St. Lawrence, which residents of Iroquois are continuing to drag. The gipsies are apparently travelling westward by motor.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

To uproot error and to do good should be the first and highest aspiration of intelligent beings. Those who have religious fibre deadened in them will say: "These old doctrines of the church are not of sufficient consequence for me to disturb the minds of men concerning them and "what is the use of even alluding to them."

Those who undertake to expose error and reveal truth, will find it is, like waving a red flag before a sullen bull, a wasp to sting and enrage the codden, an enemy of the existing order, an assault on the schemes, by which the fat draw tribute from the lean and ignorant.

Many to-day are like our forefathers, who found it impossible to inquire, or to look into church creeds and theories as to their reliability, but there are a few in our day, who are brave enough to dare face the eternal verity of things.

M. T. BUTCHER.

IN MEMORIAM.

BULLIED.—In sad and loving memory of our darling Lena Mabee Bullied, who was taken from us May 3, 1925.
"Asleep in Jesus."
—Inserted by her Dear Loved Ones.

IN MEMORIAM.

PEARSON. — In ever loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Druscilla Pendergrass beloved wife of Harry Pearson, who passed away May 3, 1927:

Just one year ago to-day,
God called the sweetest of mothers away;
She bade no one a last farewell,
She said good-bye to none.
The heavenly gates were open wide,
A loving voice said "Come."
Her loving voice is silent,
Her true heart ceased to beat.
We miss her well known footsteps,
And the face we used to greet
We often think of the days gone by,
When we were altogether,
A shadow o'er our lives is cast,
A loved one gone forever.
So May brings back sad memories
Of you that's gone to rest
But you shall always be remembered
By those who loved you best.
But peaceful be your home, dear mother,
It is sweet to breathe your name,
We loved you very dear in life,
In death we do the same;
As we loved you so we miss you,
In our memory you are near,
Loved remembered, longed for always,
Brings many a silent tear
May God, who taketh count of all
Whose eyes doth never sleep,
Beneath His own almighty wing,
Our loved one safely keep.
Sadly missed by husband and family.

WARSHIP HITS GREEK VESSEL; BOTH SINKING

IS SINKING HERSELF.

Ships Sent By Navy To Take Off Crews of Two Vessels.

LONDON, May 4 (Canadian Press) —Lloyd's despatches from Saint Catherines Point, Isle of Wight, state that the Greek steamer Ioannis Pafalios was sunk by the British warship Bacchus at noon to-day. The ship, which was of 1,998 tons register, had a crew of twenty-two, which was reported to have been picked up by the Bacchus. Earlier wireless despatches from the Bacchus said the men were in the water. The sinking occurred a hundred miles south and west of the Isle of Wight. All the ships in the vicinity have been asked to keep a good look-out for survivors.

Warship Sinking

PLYMOUTH, England, May 4 (Canadian Press).—The British warship Bacchus, which sank the Greek steamer Ioannis Pafalios off the Isle of Wight, is herself reported to be sinking in the English Channel. The Bacchus has been abandoned by her crew and the survivors she picked up from the Greek ship.

Help Sent Bacchus

LONDON, May 4 (Canadian Press) —The Admiralty announces that two salvage tugs had gone from Portland to the assistance of the Bacchus and that H.M.S. Tiger was in the vicinity and should soon reach the distressed warship.

A Lloyds' wireless despatch from the Niton (Isle of Wight) radio station says, "Following received from steamer Baron Maclay, 'H.M.S. Bacchus wants assistance. Am near him. Can see him sinking by the head slowly'."

DROP BOMBS ON VESSELS

Two Women Injured In Warfare Between Forces Near Shanghai City.

NATIONALISTS GAINING.

SHANGHAI, May 4 ((Associated Press). — The city turned yesterday from conflicting reports of the warfare between the Nationalists and Peking forces to the north to a bit of "strafing" on its own doorstep.

The Northern planes, believed to have come from the Northern cruiser Haichi, lying off Woosung, dropped four bombs in an attempt to cripple the Nationalist war vessels near the Kaingnan Arsenal.

They apparently failed of their object, but two women and two cows were injured by the explosion of one bomb near the Shanghai South Railway station.

The planes flew off unscathed as suddenly as they had appeared. Their brief passage over the international settlement caused a sensation.

Won Much Territory.

The Nationalist armies, apparently having won much territory in three provinces without meeting any considerable resistance, were reported as massing under General Chiang Kai-Shek for a new thrust.

This would be directed at Tehchow, which would tend to disconcert the Northern attempts to draw up a new line of defence running from Paoting-fu through Tehchow to the Yellow River. The Nationalist forces available for this assault were said to number 20,000.

Meanwhile Japanese troops in Shantung Province were reported to be having a strenuous time in keeping their nationals from being looted or otherwise abused in the confusion which followed the break-up of the Northern defence. The Japanese, however, were reported to have reached an agreement with the Nationalists which makes it possible for them to keep the railway open.

Troops Clash.

TOKYO, May 4.—(A.P.)— Serious clashes between Japanese and Chinese troops at Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, were reported in dispatches to the Japanese News Agency and the war department today.

The news agency report placed the Japanese casualties at four officers and thirty men wounded. General Chiang Kai-Shek, the Nationalist commander-in-chief, who entered the city yesterday, was said to be powerless to prevent looting by his troops, which appeared to be going on indiscriminately in the property of both Chinese and Japanese.

These disorders were the more surprising because an agreement was understood to have been reached with the Nationalist leaders to permit the railway movement of Japanese troops within the province.

Earlier dispatches had blamed disorders in other points in Shantung on the disordered Northern troops which had been routed during the past few days by the advancing Southerners.

Controllers Admit Increase Justified

TORONTO, May 4 (Canadian Press). — Flooded with facts and figures by P. Ellis, chairman of the Toronto Hydro-Electric System, and E. Ashworth, general manager, the Board of Control had no objection to-day to offer to the increase of about twenty per cent. made in the domestic power rates in Toronto on May 1. The Board had met the Power Commission representatives after the agitaiton following the increase.

SHOW DECREASE IN IMMIGRANTS

New Medical Examination System Accountable For Decrease in Immigration.

OVER 40 PER CENT.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 4.— (Canadian Press.)—"Canada is receiving a decreased number of British immigrants owing to the new medical inspection system." This assertion was made at yesterday afternoon's session of the House immigrations enquiry by Col. J. S. Denne, chief commissioner of colonization Canadian Pacific Railway.

The records of his company showed a decrease of 40 per cent. in British newcomers for the four months of this year as compared with a similar period in 1927 Col. Dennis stated.

A system of inspection of immigrants on the other side by roster doctors, under the supervision of a small body of Canadian doctors, would be very profitable to the new systems of inspection by Canadian doctors only at British ports, he continued.

"Have you any objection to the inspection of immigrants at ports of embarkation under the new system instead of in this country?" questioned J. H. Glenn, (Lib.-Prog., Marquette).

'None," replied Col. Dennis.

A system of inspection by roster doctors located throughout the British Isles avoided publicity and loss of time through travelling to central examination bureaus, Col. Dennis declared. In view of present conditions, he believed in the continuation of the policy of limiting immigration largely to agriculture and agriculture labor.

Col. J. Stibbard, British army reservist, explained a system of training soldiers in agriculture for a period of six months prior to their discharge from the British army. About 35,000 soldiers were discharged annually in England. A number of them were available afterwards for agricultural employment in Canada or Australia. These men, married and single, desired a guarantee of one years' employment on arrival. Col. Dennis was here to examine Canadan conditions which he would place before these agricultural training camps in England. The committee meets again to-day.

THOMAS PLANS TO TRY AGAIN

Aviator Set One New Record, Though Falling Short of Goal.

DUMP VALVE OPENED.

MITCHELL FIELD, N.Y., May 4 (Canadian Press).—Undismayed by his first single-handed attempt to set a new endurance flight record, Lieut. Royal Thomas plans to try again "very soon." Forced down when the dump valve of his gas tank opened, allowing the escape of his fuel, he said he would take off on a new attempt as soon as he had a little sleep and his monoplane could be put into condition again. On his flight, which ended last night, he fell almost twenty hours short of the world's endurance record, but set a new mark for sustained solo flight, bettering by almost two hours the mark set by Col. Lindbergh in his flight to Paris last May.

C.P.R. EXPRESS LEAVES TRACK

Broken Rail Causes Accident at Blairton Early This Morning.

NO PERSON HURT.

HAVELOCK, May 4.—A broken rail was the cause of the derailment of four cars of the C.P.R. Ottawa-Toronto express at Blairton about 4.00 o'clock this morning. Some damage was done to the roadbed, but no passengers were injured in the wreck. The cars, which were of all steel construction, remained upright and no damage was done to them.

Considerable delay was caused by the wreck, especially to the mail. The passengers were carried to their destinations in a special train made up at Havelock, while auxiliaries from that point succeeded in opening the track for traffic shortly after noon.

HELP CANADIANS TO STAY ON FARMS

Professor Advises Parliamentary Committee to Make Farming Attractive.

OTTAWA, May 4 (Canadian Press).—Assistance to the Canadian boy in order to establish him on the farm was urged by Professor Barton, of the Department of Agriculture of McGill University, at a meeting of the special Parliamentary committee on immigration and agriculture today. Dr. Barton advocated that the farm boy be given access to financial resources that would encourage him to stay on the land. He felt that with the raising of the standard of living in the agricultural industry, farming would develop such an attraction that much of the problem of immigration would be solved. A "land development board," whose function would be to select land and advise on its utilization, was suggested.

Navigation Is Formally Opened Between Upper And Lower Lakes

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., May 4 (Canadian Press).—Navigation was formally opened between Upper and Lower Lakes yesterday with the arrival of the steamers King and Queen from Duluth bound for Buffalo. The King arrived first and reported that though the ice fields were extensive the ice was soft from the heavy rain of Wednesday night and shaken by southwest winds.

When reports yesterday morning advised of the two freighters reaching Parisien Island their, sisters ships The Ace and Jack left the Soo followed soon after by upbound steamers who had been laying here. At five o'clock last night nearly all had passed Whitefish Point. Departures were: Dixon, Atterbury, North Star, Ace, Thordoc, Ontadoc.

The King locked down 2.30 p.m.; Queen, 3.30.

The wind, which had been southwest, veered to the northwest again, which will tend to drive the ice fields back again, but owing to their soft condition very little trouble is anticipated now.

Accuse Japanese Of Killing Official

SHANGHAI, May 4 (Canadian Press). — Thai Hung Hisin, who only yesterday was appointed Nationalist Commissioner of Foreign Affairs at Tsinan, and his staff, have been killed by Japanese soldiers, says a message to Kung Wenszu, Nationalist Foreign Affairs Commissioner at Shanghai.

The message came in the form of a telegram from Hwangfu May, Nationalist Minister of Foreign Affairs, who is at Tsinanfu. The message declared that the Japanese broke into the house to reach the Chinese Commissioner. This incident has not been reported from other sources.

Kung Wenszu stated that he had telegraphed a protest direct to Baron Tanaka, the Japanese Premier, at Tokio, as Hwangfu had instructed.

This offer the Japanese declined with the explanation that they intended to suppress the outrages without help from the other parties.

KIWANIANS HEAR OF SCOTCH JOKE

Rev. William Allan Entertains Them With Story of Manufacture.

Having in mind a community in Scotland to which he applied the fictitious name "The Shaws," the Rev. William Allan, of St. Paul's Presbyterian church to-day told Peterborough Kiwanians with many humorous illustrations, of the "manufacture" for "export trade" of Scotch jokes. His subject was "Queer Folk in the Shaws," and it provided more than a little entertainment and profit to the Kiwanians present.

Another most enjoyable and unique phase of the meeting was the mouth organ selections played by C. S. Thompson of Farm and Dairy. Accompanied by G. F. Liddle, Mr. Thompson played in masterly fashion such favorites as Annie Laurie, Home Sweet Home (on a tiny instrument), Humoresque and others and was accorded hearty applause.

Herb. McCannon, Walter Kidd, Karl Brown and President Joe John made announcements during the meeting to the effect that on Monday evening volunteers would be needed to move the Blind Man's News Stand from the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer to the property immediately west of Loblaw's Groceteria on Charlotte street; that the Peterborough Baseball Club, assisted by Jack Primeau, would be staging a play a week from this coming Tuesday, the proceeds to be used in the purchase of new uniforms for the team; that May 21-26 had been set aside as the week for inter-club meetings and that the Picton club would be visited by the local organization; that the Y.W.C.A. pageant would be staged in the Grand Opera House to-night.

The vote of thanks to speaker and entertainer was moved by I. P. McNabb. Among the guests present were Thomas H. Holyman, Albert James of Montreal, J. S. Keenan, of Toronto; C. S. Thompson, the Rev. William Allan and R. S. Robertson, of Peterborough.

CURRIE'S DUTY TO GO FORWARD SAYS GUARDIAN

Manchester Paper Expresses Satisfaction at Jury's Verdict in Suit.

NO USELESS SLAUGHTER.

Small Sum Given Shows That Libel Would Weigh Little With Reflective Persons.

MANCHESTER, Eng., May 4 (Canadian Press).—"It was his plain duty to go on till the armistice bugles blew," says the Manchester Guardian with reference to General Sir Arthur Currie, Canadian corps commander, at Mons on the morning of the armistice. The Guardian makes this remark in discussing the jury award of five hundred dollars to Sir Arthur at the Cobourg sessions in his action for fifty thousand dollars damages against F. W. Wilson and W. T. R. Preston.

"The jury therefore had little difficulty in deciding on their verdict," the Guardian continues, "and they only did their duty. In awarding Sir Arthur Currie only one-hundredth part of the amount of damages claimed, the jury emphasised the fact the libel was not one which would weigh at all with any reflective person.

"What is much more satisfactory than the personal vindication is the proof the trial brought forward that Canada's soldiers were not sent to useless slaughter. Whether the advance was necessary is another question. It is at least established that it was to all intents and purposes bloodless, and one fancies that this is all that Canada wanted to know."

GREAT MERGER MAY BE FORMED

Visit of Capt. Loewenstein To Toronto Causes Much Speculation.

HUGE INTERESTS INVOLVED.

TORONTO, May 4 (Canadian Press).—Discussing the rumored merger of power, steel and traction corporations suggested by the conference here last week between Capt. Alfred Loewestein, Belgian financier, and J. H. Gundy and others of the Holt, Gundy interests, a Toronto paper says to-day:

"Greater even than General Motors, almost as great as the United States Steel Corporation, probably would be the total wealth represented by the combination of the Holt Gundy and Loewenstein interests in some steel or power project as has been rumored. A compilation of the outstanding companies now said to be under Holt Gundy control shows total assets of more than two billion dollars.

"How much money power is behind the great Belgian financier is the principal mystery quantity in the description of such a speculative combination. With power, steel, and artificial silk interests scattered all the way from Belgium, France, Switzerland, Italy, England, and Spain, Capt. Loewenstein ventures even to South America, Central America, the United States, and Canada."

SPECIAL SPEAKER AT W.A. MEETING

Mrs. (Rev.) William Allan, of Peterborough, Addresses Gathering at Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, May 4.—Mrs. (Rev.) William Allen, president of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of Saint Paul's church, Peterborough, was the speaker at the special thankoffering meeting of the W. A. of Grace Presbyterian church, held in the church parlors on Wednesday afternoon, the audience including representatives from the Auxiliaries of the other two churches in the community who, by invitation, were also present.

Mrs. Allen delivered an inspiring address, compelling thought and an enlarged outlook upon the spiritual necessity of a missionary attitude in the individual heart, leading to interest and activity in the local church and the home and foreign fields.

After expressing her pleasure in meeting the women of the missionary organizations of Millbrook for the first time, and stressing the individual responsibilities since, if one is failing down the work of two must be done by someone else, Mrs. Allen added the thought that a thankoffering meeting is like beginning over again, "and we are stirred up as we go forward to the tasks of the year."

Basing her remarks upon two verses from Joshua: "There remaineth yet very much land to be possessed" (13:1); and "Let us go in to possess the land" (1:11), the speaker developed her theme along three lines (a) there is much land to be possessed in each individual here; (b) there is much land to be possessed in our church; (c) the lands are to be possessed by all on our mission fields.

Answering the objection often heard in connection with sending money for missionary purposes across the seas, Mrs. Allen pointed out that one enlisted under the banner of the King

Nearing End Of Endurance Flight

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N.Y., May 4 (Canadian Press).—More than half-way to achievement of a new endurance flight record, Royal V. Thomas circled apparently unwearied over the flying fields late yesterday.

Just before 3.50 o'clock, Eastern daylight time, yesterday afternoon, Thomas passed the half-way mark in his single-handed attempt to beat the present record of 54 hours 36 minutes 41 seconds. He took off at 12.30.01 p.m. on Wednesday, and will set a new record if he stays in the air until 7.06.42 p.m. to-day, it being necessary to surpass an existing record of one hour to gain official recognition of a new mark.

During the day Thomas dropped a note in a milk bottle saying that he had spent a good night in the skies, and was confident of success.

COLD WEATHER DELAYS WORK

Bailieboro Farmers Await Finer Weather To Start Work On Farms.

BAILIEBORO, May 4—The farmers of the district were once again disappointed on Monday morning, when they awoke to find rain falling upon the earth. If the weather had been fine on Monday the majority of the farmers would have commenced spring activities on the land. The soil was drying nicely and just getting in fine condition for cultivation. The delay however, is not a serious one, and if the weather is favorable the work will soon be in full progress. There has not been any seeding done as yet in the neighborhood, although several farmers have plowed considerable. The soil is apparently in good condition and has not become sour with the heavy rains. The delay in the growth of pasture is not as serious as it has been in the past years, in almost every case the farmer had a good quantity of feed on hand, therefore the farm stock is not suffering for want of feed. The farm stock in general will be turned out to pasture in excellent condition providing spring with its rapid growth is not too far distant.

Sports Anticipated

The summer sports are beginning to be talked of in the village. Baseball, hard and soft are the principal issues of the conversations. The local Tuxis hard ball team are trying to arrange to get into the East Durham Tuxis League. It is expected that the line-up for the home team will be similar to that of last year, with the exception of the snappy second baseman, "Rosy Johnston," who is this year in Oshawa. Several recruits have been taken on and the vacancy will no doubt be filled efficiently by one of them. Archie Deyell will most likely be counted on as the always to be depended upon man on the mound, while the veteran Herb Dean will no doubt do his stuff behind the bat. Some promising seconds should this year make a good showing as relief pitchers and catchers.

The league and games will soon be set up now and it is rumored that the East Durham Tuxis League will be made up of teams entered by Millbrook, Bailieboro, Garden Hill, Welcome and Plainville. The continuation school boys are also now practicing both soft ball and hard and are looking forward to a great deal of fun this season, opposing the neighboring ball teams.

A dozen of the members of the Victor Tuxis Square are training for the field day athletics by getting in their daily run, and practicing high jumping and etc.

The union tuxis square and the United Church young people are preparing for a big sports-day on June 4, both organizations taking part in the field day events and the entertainment in the church in the evening. The young people of the community have held their field day on June 3, during the past number of years.

Washington Passes Farm Relief Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 4 (Canadian Press). — The House last night passed the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief Bill incorporating the disputed equalization fee provisions.

The vote on final passage of the McNary Haugen Bill was 204 to 121.

Final passage came after Republican leaders and some Democrats had failed in strenuous efforts to strip from the Bill the equalization fee, to which President Coolidge has objected. A last minute effort to that end failed when the House defeated, 185 to 146, an effort to substitute a Bill by Representative Aswell, Democrat, Louisiana, for the McNary-Haugen measure. Aswell's Bill was like the other except for the equalization fee.

Freighter Crew Face Liquor Charge Following Failure To Pay Wages

NEWARK, N.J., May 4 (Canadian Press).—All would have been well with the captain and crew of the schooner Dustin G Cressy, seized in New York yesterday, if the skipper had not delayed paying off his men.

The schooner, with papers attesting to a cargo of lumber from Hanover, British Columbia, tied up at the Sears-Roebuck dock at Port Newark Tuesday. Her captain was not aboard at the time, and later in the day a tug pulled the vessel out into the bay and out of sight. The schooner returned Wednesday morning, but where she had been remained a mystery.

Sergeant McGuire of Third Precinct Police Station found a half drunken crew waiting grimly for their captain on Wednesday, and waited with them. It seemed the skipper went ashore on a tug from New York Harbor and left his crew payless, bringing the ship to Port Newark.

The captain made his appearance at noon. His men surrounded him, demanding their wages, and threatened to throw him overboard With McGuire by his side, the skipper hastened to a telephone, which resulted in the arrival of a man from New York with wages for the crew.

The noise and confusion, however, brought revenue and customs inspectors aboard, but the men denied there was liquor aboard, saying they got their drinks "up town."

A cargo of lumber was unloaded from the craft, but its alleged liquor cargo has not been located.

INCREASE TARIFF ON MAPLE SYRUP

United States' Commission Completes Report on Maple Sugar Industry.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (Canadian Press).—An increase in the United States tariff on maple sugar probably will be recommended to President Coolidge within the next few days by the Tariff Commission.

The commission reveals its findings to nobody but the President. It is understood, however, that the report on the maple sugar industry is complete and that a recommendation will go to the White House very soon. It is also fairly certain that the commission will recommend that the tariff on maple sugar be raised. The President then has discretion under the flexible tariff law to increase the tariff as he sees fit by not more than fifty per cent. of the existing duty.

Demand Protection.

At hearings held by the Tariff Commission at various points in the Eastern States over a period of several months, strong demands were made by the maple sugar producers of New England for increased protection against competition from Canadian maple sugar producers.

Some plaintiffs asked for an increase on maple syrup also, but most concentrated on maple sugar, claiming that Canadians could make it much more cheaply than Americans. One of the most important items in the cost of production was represented to be the fuel for boiling down the syrup. On the American side the fuel has to be purchased by the producer, while in the Canadian woods, there is still plenty of available wood.

It is not likely that the increased tariff will go into effect for some time, because even if the President acts immediately, the proclamation cannot go into effect for thirty days, and with the number of tariff recommendations before him for some time, President Coolidge has shown that he is inclined to go slowly on tariff changes. The opinion is expressed here that the effect of the increased tariff will be to shift the locale of the American market for Canadian sugar from the Atlantic states to the Middle and Western states.

"Hitherto Canadians have been inclined to dump their production in New England and New York," stated one Congressman who is on the tariff committee. "These states are responsible for the demand for an increased tariff against the Canadian product." Canadian sugar would sell at almost any price in cities further West, he thought, and a new market will not be hard to find.

MAKING PLANS TO SAVE BEAUTY

Hertfordshire Sets Example to Counties in Preservation of Beauty Spots.

REGIONAL PLANNING.

LONDON, May 4.—(By Canadian Press).—"Hands off our valleys and woodlands!" is a placard likely to be put up—in effect—at every entrance to Hertfordshire, says Sir W. Beach Thomas, correspondent of the Daily Mail. The country or shire is about to take action, as well as issue warnings; and the example will probably be followed by every country in Britain, threatened by the jerry builder, the motorist, the exploiter of plausible building sites. Even in the few days that have elapsed since a special committee framed recommendations of a remarkable nature, signs of a practical issue have appeared. Landowners as well as local councils are taking a hand.

The county is determined that its loveliest parks, woods and valleys shall keep their country charm "in perpetuity." To ensure this the County Council will presently adopt a "regional planning" scheme, in which playgrounds and fields, wide open spaces and woods, perhaps sanctuaries for birds and flowers, and areas of special charm shall be "scheduled" and so forbidden to builders and other desecraters.

Special emphasis is laid on "the permanent preservation of a belt of open country including river valleys and woodlands, for the benefit of the inhabitants not only of the county of Hertford but also of the surrounding areas and, at the same time, establishing a definite limit to continuous urban growth.

PRINCE ACQUIRED LOVE FOR HORSES

As Recently as 1920 He Disliked Animals—Now Has Fine Stud.

LONDON, May 4.—(Canadian Press).—It is difficult to believe that the Prince of Wales, who now finds his favorite sport in the saddle, almost disliked the look of a horse in 1920, says a writer in a London paper. Early in the hunting season of 1921-22, however, his Royal Highness underwent a course of strenuous and strict training under that famous rough-rider, Captain George Drummond, and the Royal pupil then made his debut in the Leicestershire hunting field at a meet of the Cottesmore Hounds at Stapleford Park. From that day the Prince's love of horses and keenness and enthusiasm for fox hunting has increased by leaps and bounds, and to-day the Royal stables at Craven Lodge, Melton Mowbray, are occupied by one of the finest studs in the Shire.

The horses which are most beautifully balanced, being all of the same build and temperament, include Lady Doon, Degomme, Miss Muffett, Miss Gris, Soon or Late, all of whom have carried their owner in various point-to-point events this season. Just-an-Idea, the Prince's special favorite, who has never yet unseated her owner, Hard-to-Find, How's That, Marchmaid, Tarzan, Son and Heir, and Pikeman are others.

Their annual summer holidays are at hand, and from now until the "cubbing" commences in September, they will spend the time in exercising around the green lanes and resting in their spotlessly clean stables, which have recently been "spring-cleaned", and their inner walls painted a bright red.

has no right to question orders from headquarters; Christ gave us the commission and our duty is to carry it out.

Dealing with the excuse rather commonly heard that one is too tired to carry on work in the Auxiliary, the query was made; "What has really tired us? The work we did for God, or something else we did before we came here? Bringing tired bodies to His work makes all the difference. There isn't anything we could not accomplish if we allowed Christ to come in and possess the land. Are you willing? Let us take an inward look and see how much we are giving to God, and how much we are keeping for ourselves."

Frequently complaint is heard of the lack of leaders. "Why are there not leaders? We are making the mistake of still looking for the person who thinks she is a born leader, and in reality we are hiding behind a bad excuse and not letting God possess the land. If one claims a birthday of leadership there is apt to be a sense of personal competency and work is done without full dependence upon God. Realizing incompetency, and depending wholly upon God for leading, and use, means that the work is done in His way, and results are assured."

"We cannot stir anyone up in missionary interest unless we are first stirred up ourselves. Having accepted Christ, and been given the witness of the Spirit that He has paved the way to heaven, we are working to show others the Saviour Who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life. "We can tell them the fare has been paid, and how it has been paid, and that will be letting Him come in and possess the land."

In the concluding part of her address Mrs. Allen emphasized the need of money and of workers for the foreign field, and urged her hearers to consider seriously whether the young people who might go and tell the story were hindered by someone at home who was acting as a stumbling block in their way. "If you cannot go, be on the lookout for someone to send. Remember He is trusting you and me to carry on His work, and He believes in us that we will not fail."

Musical selections were provided by Mrs. L. C. Russell and Miss Aileen Hunter, both of whose solos were much enjoyed; Misses Phyllis Kidd and Myrtle Russell were the accompanists.

Mrs. R. J. Doak, president of the Grace Church Auxiliary, was in the chair, and the formal vote of thanks to Mrs. Allen was moved by Mrs. J. R. Eakins, and seconded by Mrs. (Rev.) John Riddell.

Grace church Auxiliary will hold its regular meeting the latter part of this month.

Warden C. H. Davidson, of Campbellford, was a business visitor in town on Wednesday, and the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Henderson.

Mrs. J. McKnight is visiting her sister, Mrs. H. Lang, and other friends in Toronto this week.

Miss Margaret Leitch and her mother, Mrs. Maxwell Henry, of Toronto, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ball.

Mrs. Hamilton Kennedy's many friends will regret to learn that she is still seriously ill at Dr. H. A. Turner's private hospital.

COMPENSATION FIGURES DROP.

In April there were 5,521 accidents reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board, of which 27 were fatal. This shows a decrease from March when there were 5,711 accidents reported, including 26 fatalities. The total benefits awarded during April were $548,096.68, of which $89,128.60 was for medical aid. This is quite a drop from the March totals, as $764,263.57 was awarded, including $108,025.06 for medical aid.

Speaking on these figures, R. B. Morley, general manager, Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, calls attention to the records established in the last few years by plants, both large and small, in Ontario. The safety convention of the associations to be held in the Royal Connaught Hotel, Hamilton, on May 8 and 9 will feature stories of good accident prevention work. Mr. Morley says the committee expect to have one thousand delegates in attendance to hear addresses by nationally known speakers at that time.

THE WEEKLY HALF-HOLIDAY.

Judging from the number of signatures attached to a petition calling for the change, Peterborough, in the matter of her weekly half-holiday during the summer months, is likely to fall in line with other municipalities in Eastern Ontario and close her business places on Wednesday afternoon, instead of Thursday.

Such a change has been mooted for some years, but the movement did not assume definite form, and was eventually abandoned.

Some 109 merchants have, however, signified their willingness this year to close on Wednesday, the day chosen by most centres for the weekly half-holiday.

All lines of business are represented among the petitioners, who feel that Wednesday is a more suitable day for most firms, and that Peterborough should have the same day for closing as other cities.

The change would undoubtedly be very welcome to commercial travellers, whose week is considerably cut into when this city selects Thursday for a half-holiday and other centres close their stores on Wednesday.

THE DEADLY REVOLVER.

Yesterday's shooting tragedy, which resulted in the killing of a splendid young police officer, puts tragic emphasis upon recent articles in The Examiner urging greater restriction upon the sale of revolvers.

Here was a case in which the fact that a deadly weapon was available was the direct cause of a murder.

The man who shot Constable Maker yesterday had no occasion to possess a revolver; he did not need it, because neither his life nor his property were likely to be in danger.

He chose, however, to keep about him a weapon capable of causing instant death, and the possession of that deadly firearm was directly responsible for two deaths, his own and that of the constable who was slain while carrying out his duty.

There is no more justification for the average citizen owning a revolver than there would be for him setting up a field gun on his lawn or equipping his house with a machine gun.

Our regulations in regard to firearms need to be tightened and enforced to the letter.

The revolver as a protection is not necessary in most cases, and tragedy after tragedy can be traced to the fact that such weapons were too easily available.

THE SAFETY CAMPAIGN.

Hon. George S. Henry's safety conference has resulted in a pledge from many organizations throughout the Province to co-operate in this campaign to reduce the number of motor accidents on Ontario's highways.

The Minister has planned a campaign of publicity by which it is hoped to educate the people of this Province, whether they drive cars or not, to be careful at all times.

In such an effort he can be assured of the consistent support of the newspapers of Ontario, who will continue to devote their columns, as they have in the past, to the task of endeavoring to arouse the public to the seriousness of this problem.

Accompanying this educational drive, however, The Examiner feels that there should be a thorough effort by provincial and municipal police to see that the regulations in regard to motor traffic are enforced in a manner to convince law-breakers that it is both wise and profitable to be careful.

In this regard the Minister is quoted as saying: "The attitude of the department and my suggestion to municipal police as well is that the law on the statute books should be administered."

If that is done the educational campaign will have a much greater chance to bring about the desired results.

A GREAT CANADIAN.

Greatness in a man is a relative term, and there are so many standards by which it may be measured and defined that it is not easy to determine what men in past or contemporary history are entitled to be called great. About Dr. Charles Saunders, however, who yesterday severed a long residence in this city to take abode in Toronto, there can be little challenge to the claim that he stands to-day and must always stand in the forefront of great Canadians. For if to make the mightiest human answer of his age to the daily prayer of millions, "give us this day our daily bread," and in doing so to also help open up a new empire of productivity and to place added millions into the pockets and greater comforts into the homes of his countrymen, be not among the characteristics of greatness, then nothing else can be.

And that, precisely, is the story of Dr. Saunders. There is little in the tale of man's struggle with nature that has more of romance than the story of the development of wheat. It is told in a small pamphlet that has just been issued by the Agriculture Department, and we wish that a copy of it could be placed into the possession of every Canadian schoolboy. There was the perfection of the old Red Fife, a marvellous story in itself; then the development, after long and patient testings, of the famous Marquis wheat, which unfolded the productive map of the West right up to the Arctic regions; and lastly, and growing out of what was achieved by Marquis, the production of Garnet wheat. It is all a fine chronicle of able, patient and brilliant minds working quietly and without national notice and fitting remuneration for their country and the good of humanity; and no one played such a fine part in it, or as great a one, as Dr. Saunders. If Western Canada today is what it is, to him as much as to any man, living or dead, thanks are due.

In the circumstances, it is good to know that Canada is at last doing something to compensate for its long neglect of Dr. Saunders' work; and those of us here in Ottawa who knew his fine, modest and brave character will wish him a long twilight of happiness and contented contemplation in his new environment. —Ottawa Journal.

THE OPIUM QUESTION.

The seizing of $10,000 worth of opium at a Chinese laundry at Sault Ste. Marie draws increased attention to the "dope" question. It will be remembered that opium is a matter which is being dealt with by the League of Nations, but we saw the statement last week that in spite of this the production and sale of it is increasing rapidly. There would seem to be little doubt about that; but the important part of the news about this seizure of opium is that it lends support to what has been so frequently claimed by United States authorities that Canada is used as a base for the collection and distribution of opium, cocaine, and other dope. Not so very long ago there were large seizures of these dopes at Montreal, and we believe that others have taken place at other places in this country. Great efforts have been made by the Dominion Government to stop this abominable traffic, but it is one of the most difficult things to do, as the dope of all kinds is capable of being put into small compass, and therefore is all the more easily smuggled. A small packet may represent a large amount of money. It is just this ease of carriage, and the huge profits to be made, which prove the causes of the traffic.

There is another bad aspect of the matter which people should take heed of; that in order to increase the sales of dope attention is paid by the villainous vendors to induce young people to try the dope. It is an easily acquired habit, but it leads to the demand for more and more, till the victim frequently cannot break the habit, and becomes a wreck bodily and mentally. The public can at least help by watching out for and reporting any signs that the sale of dope is taking place. —Kingston Whig-Standard.

BUYING BRITISH GOODS.

A local merchandising house—Andersons Limited—made a commendable suggestion in their advertisement in this paper yesterday; one which is not new, for it has been advocated in this column before, but one which cannot be too often emphasized, and one deriving added value from the fact that it is not a pious expression of editorial opinion, but the considered message of a business executive.

Andersons' suggestion was that, instead of an "Empire Shopping Week," why not make this an "Empire Shopping Year?"

And, of course, the logical objective is to buy Empire goods at all times.

"Empire Shopping Week," as the Andersons' editorial pointed out, gave a tremendous impetus to the selling of goods produced in Canada, in the British Isles and all other parts of the Empire. Multiply that by one year, or do the same thing year by year, and it would mean that uncountable millions of dollars' worth of goods would be bought which would stimulate British production, employ British labor in greater number than ever before, and keep our money "in the family," instead of paying out vast sums to others.

In the aggregate a general policy of buying Empire goods would have a powerful effect on employment throughout the Empire and on the payment of individual, business and national debts.

It is unfortunate that this country, more than any other part of the Empire, is flooded with U. S. magazines and with newspapers and magazines carrying advertisements of United States products, naturally creating a demand for such goods, and crowding out the market for Canadian-made goods of similar character.

There is only one remedy. That is to educate public opinion by advertising, backed up by quality, that Canadian and other British merchandise is equally good, and that it should have the preference.

When an American-produced article is bought in Canada, the bulk of the money goes abroad, paying the wages of a U. S. worker and putting profit into the pocket of a U. S. manufacturer. At the same time it operates in proportionate relation to keep a Canadian worker out of a job and to decrease the prosperity of the country.

Some may say that buying our own goods looks like living by taking in each other's washing, and that if we buy our own, other countries can do the same and reduce their imports from British countries.

There is always, however, a certain inevitable percentage of import and export trade, and if we try to reduce our imports, that is our business—and sound business at that.

For is it not a fact that foreign countries, and the United States in particular, do their utmost to keep down imports by putting up tariff walls against our goods?

Better and easier to benefit ourselves economically by buying home-produced articles than by juggling with traffic.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 4 (Canadian Press). — The foreign demand for Canadian grain here yesterday was moderate, and a fair trade was done in wheat, oats and barley. The trade in cash grain in the domestic market was quiet, but prices were unchanged.

On account of the weakness in the Winnipeg cash wheat market an easier feeling developed in the local market for spring wheat grades of flour, and prices were reduced ten cents per barrel. There was no change in prices for winter wheat flour, and the volume of business was small.

The demand from United States buyers for bran yesterday was quieter and only sales of odd cars were made for shipment to Boston at $45 per ton delivered. The local and country trade was fair, and values were firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was dull, but values were steady.

The trade in eggs in a wholesale way was quiet owing to the very limited quantities that are being offered from the West and the high prices asked. There was no change in the condition of the jobbing market, prices being steady under a fair demand. The receipts were 2,580 cases.

There was no improvement in the condition of the market for potatoes owing to the fact that supplies continue to come forward in larger quantities for which there is only a limited demand. Prices showed no further change, but the undertone was easier.

The market for imported beans was without any special feature to note, prices being still maintained with a small trade passing in choice white hand-picked at $4.40 per bushel, ex-store, and car lots to arrive were quoted at $4.20 per bushel, ex-track.

Owing to the steady increase in the production of fodder made butter, the largere receipts here and the accumulation of supplies owing to the continued indifferent demand the market was again weak and prices scored another decline of ¾c per pound, which makes a net reduction of 1¼c to 1½c per pound in two days. The volume of business was small, in fact, holders in some cases found it impossible to make sales even at the lower level and the market was dull. The receipts were 1,401 packages.

The cheese trade continued dull on account of the continued indifferent attitude of English buyers, and the indications are that prices will have to reach a lower level before they commence to show much interest. The demand from local and outside buyers was again very limited, and no sales of importance were reported. The receipts were 622 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 4 (Canadian Press). — Drenching rains west and south-west reported as extending into the drought region led to a wide-open new break in wheat prices yesterday. Some Kansas points announced a rainfall of more than two inches.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 3⅝c to 4⅝c net lower, with corn ⅝c to 1¼c net off, oats unchanged to ⅝c higher, and provisions unchanged to 57 cents down.

Selling rushes in the wheat market displayed their greatest force just previous to the close. As a result, the finish was at almost the day's bottom level, with advices streaming in that rains which would be of great benefit to growing wheat were still in progress. July delivery, representing the new drop, plunged downward in price to an extreme of 6 cents as compared with the day's top figures. May delivery, which means wheat already on hand, tumbled nearly as much as 5¾ cents.

Violent fluctuations characterized the wheat market right from the start. Frost predictions for parts of the wheat belt did much at times to offset the effect of rain reports. Many traders, too, were inclined to reinstate holdings because of opinions that the market influence of better moisture supplies has been discounted in advance by 11 cents a bushel setback during the last few days.

The relative firmness of wheat quotations at Liverpool yesterday was also an incentive to purchase. All these factors, however, appeared to be forgotten after receipt of late advices of continued rains which have promise that drought relief had been much more than at first had been believed.

Corn showed surprising power at times to rally in the face of wheat weakness. Good export business in oats gave firmness to the oats market.

Provisions were weaker.

GOD'S MINUTE

The Lord is my light and my Salvation.....Ps. 27:1.

Our Heavenly Father, Thine we are, and Thee we desire to serve. We thank Thee that Thou hast made us thine in Christ. We thank Thee that Thou hast hast made it our privilege to serve Thee. Help us, we pray, to serve Thee this day, each in the sphere and under the conditions in which Thy providence has placed us. May each of us let our light shine for Thee just where we are. May the same mind be in each of us that was in Christ Jesus, our Lord, who though He was Lord of all, yet pleased not Himself.

Make us strong to do the right and to resist the wrong. Give us filial love for and confidence in Thee. Give us a spirit of brotherly interest and kindness towards our fellowmen. Incline us, as we have opportunity, to do good to all men, especially to them that are of the household of faith.

Forgive our sins, and grant that we may more and more die unto sin and live unto righteousness. Bless to us the discipline of life. May we be more concerned to profit by that discipline than to escape its pain. For Jesus's Sake. Amen.

Blair is now in St. Michael's hospital with a punctured left lung. His condition is critical and little hope is held for his recovery.

Mrs. Donohue was arrested on a charge of permitting drunkenness in her home and John Lynch, aged 42, Sackville street; Helen Archer, aged 45, living at the Donohue house and Thomas Williams, aged 35, Sackville street, were taken into custody on charges of being intoxicated. All are held without bail. They will appear in the police court to-day to testify against Brennan.

PACKAGE EXPRESS BY PLANE STARTED

Canadian Pacific Express Has Planes Meet Incoming Vessels.

MONTREAL, May 4. — Canada's first regular package-express air service was established yesterday, when the Canadian Pacific Express Company entered into contract with the Canadian Trans-Continental Airways Limited and the Canadian Airways Limited respecting the carrying of package express matter between Rimouski and Montreal and Ottawa and Toronto. The two air transport companies had already entered into an egreement with the Canadian Government to carry first-class mail between these points and the same Fairchild, all-purpose, cabin monoplanes will be used for both services.

The new express service will be inaugurated on Friday upon the arrival off Rimouski of the "Empress of Scotland," and by the departure from Leaside, Toronto, and Rockcliffe, Ottawa, on Saturday, of planes which will transfer freight at Montreal for flight to Rimouski where it will be picked up by an outgoing steamer, thence forward the service will be bi-weekly in each direction, with accommodation for whatever domestic traffic may offer between the cities concerned.

While the express service will be comparatively regular, its operation will be governed for the time being by arrivals and departures of steamships at Rimouski. By it the gulf station will be brought within little more than three hours of Montreal, four and a half of Ottawa, and six and a half or seven of Toronto.

The great saving of time thus effected may be readily appreciated when it is understood that ordinarily a vessel takes ten hours to cover the distance between Rimouski and Quebec. In the case of a vessel arriving in the gulf in the early morning, and taking into consideration the necessary short delays in handling, express matter may reasonably be expected to be taken off and delivered in Toronto before the ship could reach the terminal. At present the flights will be confined to daylight, but this, it is understood may be but a temporary consideration.

Special tariffs covering the air service of the Canadian Pacific Express Company will be filed within a few days. While the company has a tentative schedule it is considered inadvisable to publish this while the service is still in the embryonic and experimental stage. Agents of the Canadian Pacific Express Company will be advised as to arrvals and departures and be in a position to notify their patrons day by day.

TORONTO, May 4 (Canadian Press).—"Speed and the ability to receive and deliver packages during business hours the same day between Toronto and Rimouski, Que., and the intervening points of Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec, and vice versa, will be the chief advantages of our new and exclusive Canadian Pacific air express service," stated T. C. McDonnell, vice president and general manager of the Canadian Pacific Express Company in an interview here today.

"The advantages of this service," continued Mr. McDonnell, "are indeed outstanding, for they permit parcels taken off the boat at Rimouski late Friday or early Saturday to connect with No. 3 at Toronto and be in Winnipeg on Monday morning and Vancouver the following Wednesday evening. Incoming steamers generally approach our Atlantic ports towards the end of the week and this will usually allow of the air express package service gaining a two days' clear lead over the ordinary express service. The service, too, from Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal to connect with the outgoing steamers will be equally expeditious."

In his concluding remarks Mr. McDonnell stressed the point that air transportation must be seriously taken into account when considering transportation problems. "In establishing this service," concluded he, "we feel that the Canadian Pacific Express Company is keeping abreast of the time and we are very sanguine that it will prove a boon to the business and financial men of the Dominion.

Rains In Wheat Belt Cause Drop in Price

CHICAGO, May 4. Canadian Press.—Influenced by rains in the west and southwest, wheat prices turned sharply downward to-day after having averaged higher early. In some quarters it was asserted that much damage by drought was irreparable.

Opening ½c off to ⅛c up wheat scored material gains and then suddenly dropped about 4c a bushel.

Corn, oats and provisions were relatively firm with corn starting 3-8c lower to ⅛c up and subsequently showing an all around upturn.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 157 1-8; July 137⅝; corn May 105 1-4 July 106 7-8; oats May 63; July 56 7-8.

Price Changes Small As Mine Trade Eases

Toronto, May 4. Canadian Press.—Price movements were generally small on the Standard mining exchange this morning, with the market easy in lighter trading. Barry Hollinger, still an active leader, was comparatively steady around 83, two points lower.

Minor recessions occurred in Amulet at 330, Granada at 25, Kirkland Lake at 1.80 Towagmac at 2.78, and Tough Oakes at 37. On the firmer side Sudbury Basin improved 15 at 10.30 and Hudson Bay a like amount at 19.80. Teck Hughes at 9.47, Noranda at 20.55, and Bidgood at 1.03, were slightly firmer.

Toronto Market Active With Gains General

TORONTO, May 4. — Canadian Press. — The strength of International nickel and Hiram Walkers was the bright feature of an exceptionally active session of the Toronto stock exchange this morning. Nickel sold up 1½ at 91½ and Walkers' climbed more than 2 at 64 7-8. There were other strong spots notably Asbestos at 38 Canada dry at 71 and Super-Petroleum at 21; Massey Harris firmed at 44½ and International Utilities B, the active leader, firmed fractionally at 15¼. Brazilian new was another stock heavily dealt in, and it eased a fraction at 63½. British American Oil at 39 1-8 and Canadian Industrial Alcohol at 49 1-8 were improved.

BRITAIN WINS DOUBLES.

TORQUAY, Eng., May 4 (Canadian Press).—Great Britain defeated the Argentine in the Davis Cup doubles match, when George Crolerese and Cyril Eames won from Roland Boyd and W. Robson, 6-4, 6-1, 9-11, 1-6, 7-5.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE QUEER MARKS

"Hurray for Uncle Wiggily! Hurray for Uncle Wiggily!" shouted the animal boys and girls who had come to Sister Sallie's party.

"Come in, Unkie Wig, an' tell us 'tory!" lisped Baby Bunty, pretending she was so little she couldn't talk plainly. But she was a mischievous little tyke and while the rabbit gentleman was hopping into the hollow tree house, Bunty reached up with an empty lollypop stick and tickled his pink nose. The lollypop stick was empty because Baby Bunty had eaten off all the candy.

"Hurry! Hurry!" shouted the animal boys and girls again, laughing at the funny way the rabbit gentleman sneezed. All this time Sister Sallie was looking hard at the puzzle picture Uncle Wiggily had given her to guess the names of different nuts. And at last the little chipmunk girl chattered:

"Oh, I know! One is a pecan nut, for there is the can, the other is a chestnut, and there is a beech nut and a walnut!"

"That's right!" agreed Uncle Wiggily and he gave Sallie some pecans, some beechnuts, some chestnuts and some walnuts. And Sallie gave some of her presents to such of her guests as could eat nuts, especially Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels, and Jennie Chipmunk. So every one had a fine time at Sallie's party.

I think most of you guessed the names of the nuts, for they were not hard. The letter P and the picture of the can of tomatoes stood for PECAN of course, though we all know that a sandy beach and a beech nut are not spelled exactly alike, though they sound the same.

After a while when many games had been played, such as "Ring Around the Piano" and "Brooklyn Bridge is Falling up," it was time for the children to go home.

"Good-bye, Sister Sallie!" they called. "We had a lovely time at your party!"

"I'm glad you did!" chattered the little chipmunk girl, "and I'm glad Uncle Wiggily came."

"So am I!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily as he was hopping home toward his hollow stump bungalow with Baby Bunty and with Stumble, Tumble, Buster, Buster, Jingle, Jangle and Tangle—a few of his forty-leven little bunny boys and girls, all of whom had been at Sister Sallie's party.

On the way through the woods Uncle Wiggily carried a flash light made of a lot of lightning bugs in a milk bottle to make bright the path. And as this light flickered on the ground, all of a sudden Baby Bunty saw some queer marks.

"Oh, look, Unki Wig!" whispered the little rabbit girl. "Maybe the Fox has been walking along here! We'd better run—I meant run!"

"Oh, no!" answered Mr. Longears, flashing his light on the marks. "That is only the track made by wagon wheels in the soft ground. Don't be afraid." So Bunty and the others weren't afraid. But pretty soon Tingle saw some queer marks and she whispered:

"Oh, maybe those are the track of the Wolf!"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I see I must give you children a lesson in wood lore. You must learn to know the different queer tracks. These were made by my friend, Mr. Whitewash, the Polar Bear. But I'll give you some lessons in how to read other queer marks in soft ground."

The next day Mr. Longears drew four pictures of queer marks such as you may often see as you go along a country road. He told the little bunnies he would give a lollypop to each one who could rightly name what had made the different marks. And here you have that puzzle.

Dinner: Broiled steak, baked ground beets, cooked lettuce, salad of cold cooked asparagus, minced prunes in gelatin, whipped cream.

*OLIVE AND CHEESE SALAD: To a half pound of cream cheese, the kind sold in small blocks wrapped in tinfoil, add a small amount of thick sweet cream, just enough to make it a little softer. Mix in thoroughly a half cup or more of finely minced ripe olives, and form into small balls with butter spatulas; roll in chopped parsley and arrange in a nest of shredded raw spinach or on lettuce leaves, placing two or three whole olives on each plate. As this salad is to form the protein part of the meal, one-quarter of a pound of cheese should be allowed for each person.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Ailing writes: "I am in poor health. I love fruits of all kinds but cannot eat them. I always have a headache from strawberries, rheumatism from oranges, bowel and stomach trouble, nervousness and headache from apples. Why is this?"

Answer: The cause of your trouble is hyperacidity of the stomach. If you will take a fruit fast for a few days you will get over all the symptoms which now trouble you. On this fast use only one fruit during any one day, and keep on with your fruit diet until you are feeling well, and have no unpleasant symptoms of any kind.

Question: Mrs. O. J. writes: "Have been reading your articles for a long time and have received much benefit, also have your book. Would like to ask if the sweetening of buttermilk kills certain germs which I am told are beneficial to one's system?"

Answer: The addition of sugar to buttermilk increases the growth of the lactic acid bacteria, and is often prescribed by physicians who recommend the Bulgarian Milk Diet. I suggest that you use figs or dates along with your buttermilk, and use this combination as a meal and not in addition to your regular food.

Question: Mrs. B. K. asks: "Please tell me how high my blood pressure should be. I am forty-four years old, and it is now 185. Several weeks ago it was 225. What is the cause of it?"

Answer: High blood pressure is caused either by hardening of the arteries or from high tension caused by nervousness. Your blood pressure should be about 130, and you are always in danger if it is over 145.

LADY HILTON YOUNG NOTED AS SCULPTOR

Widow of Captain Scott Elected To Royal Society of Sculptors.

LONDON, May 4.—(By Canadian Press).—Lady Hilton Young, widow of Captain Robert Falcon Scott, the explorer, and wife of Rt. Hon. Sir E. Hilton Young, Conservative member of the House of Commons for Norwich, is a well-known sculptress. She once said that she was scribbling her sculpture because people thought that, having married two famous men, she could never do anything more than a "dabbler in art", according to a writer in a London paper. Her recent election as an Associate of the Royal Society of British Sculptors is the final disproof of that popular prejudice, if it ever existed.

A daughter of the late Canon Lloyd Stewart Bruce, she married Captain Scott, the explorer, in 1908, and after his death in 1913 was granted the same rank as if he had lived to be knighted. Ten years later she was married to Commander (now Sir Edward) Hilton Young, and took an active part in political work, accepting the presidency of the Norwich Women's Liberal Association in 1922. She is a sculptress of great insight and technical skill, her statue of Captain Scott in Waterloo Place, and that of the Hon. Charles Rolls at Denver being prominent examples of her work. "An artist in friendship as well as in marble, she has made her home a magnet to fame, and her heads of living celebrities form an almost complete "who's who" of our time.

Obituary

MARY BOYD.

MARMORA, May 4.—In Belleville hospital on Monday afternoon, the death occurred of Mary, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Almond Boyd of Belmont Township. The young lady, who was scarcely thirteen, had until quite recently spent all her days in Marmora and it may truly be said that no sunnier life ever took farewell of earth in this community. Striken on Thursday last with what later proved to be appendicitis, the young sufferer was rushed to Belleville on Monday where it was found that she was past all human aid. The whole community was shocked on hearing the sad news for Mary was a favorite at day school and wherever met with. She possessed much musical ability for one so young, being a promising pianist and a sweet soloist. At the time of her death, she was a pupil of Marmora Continuation School and a member of the United Church Sunday School. On the occasion of the Christmas entertainment of the latter school in 1926, she attracted much attention by her acting and vocal powers. Besides her sorrowing parents, three brothers and a sister survive her, Fred, Lloyd, Gerald and Margaret. Two brothers Evan and James, predeceased her. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon, service at Marmora United Church being followed by interment in Marmora Protestant Cemetery with Rev. C. J. Beckley officiating.

MRS. RICHARD J. CRAWFORD

LAKEFIELD, May 4.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Richard J. Crawford took place on Sunday afternoon at 3.30 from St. John's Church and was attended by a large number of friends who united in a tribute of respect to one who was one of the old residents of Lakefield.

Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., officiated and spoke words of hope and comfort to the bereaved family, giving the hope of everlasting life with the shadows of pain and death banished in the blessed hope of the resurrection.

The pall bearers were: Messrs. Robert Duff, F. J. Moore, A. Northey, Bruce Garbutt, J. Lemay and Thompson Braden.

Interment was made in the family plot in Hillside Cemetery. Mrs. Crawford, who before her marriage was Jane Agnes Hill, was a life-long resident of the village and although poor health had prevented her joining in the activities of the church and village for some time, she was well known and held in high esteem; her qualities as a devoted wife and mother and as a good neighbor and friend won her the respect of the community.

ROBERT MENZIES GRAHAM

LAKEFIELD, May 4.—On Tuesday afternoon the funeral of the late Robert Menzies Graham was held from the family residence on Colborne street, with Rev. T. M. Wesley, minister of Knox United Church in charge. Rev. W. J. Creighton, rector of St. John's Church, read the 23rd Psalm, which is one of the first things a Scotch child is taught, and also a portion of the 4th chapter of St. Paul's epistle to the Thessalonians.

Mr. Wesley spoke of the deceased as one who had been faithful in his life to his church, his minister and to his task. He gave to his church regular and reverent attendance and to his minister always he gave loyalty and affection, and to his task he gave devoted service, always maintaining the best tradition of his family. His devotion to duty and his quiet faith in God and the Lord Jesus Christ are an assurance that he will receive the Master's commendation: "Well done, enter thou into the joy of thy reward."

Rev. S. A. Kemp, pastor of Regent Street United Church, led in prayer.

The pall bearers were Messrs. A. B. Burrows, W. H. Casement, Theodore Crawford, Percy Spence, J. W. Ridpath, and C. S. Tanner.

Leaving the house the cortege proceeded to Lakefield Cemetery, where burial took place in the family plot, where many friends were gathered to pay their last tribute of respect. Many beautiful floral offerings were placed on and about the grave.

PETERBOROUGH

GRAFTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH AWARDED TO UNITED CHURCH

Mr. Justice Rose Finds Property Went Over Into Union With Majority.

LENGTHY ARGUMENTS.

Representatives of Presbyterian Minority Claim Trust Deeds Make Property Theirs.

COBOURG, May 4.—His Lordship the Honorable Mr. Justice Rose, in the Supreme Court of Ontario Spring Assizes here yesterday afternoon, ruled that the former Presbyterian church, now United church in Grafton, remain the property of the United church of Canada. The action was brought by former members of the Presbyterian congregation, with John W. Aird, Grafton, as the plaintiff, seeking to recover the church and manse properties which had been left in trust to the Presbyterian congregation provided it adhered to the Presbyterian confession of faith. J. H. Fraser, Toronto, conducted the case for the plaintiff.

The defendants named to act on behalf of the United church were William A. Johnston, J. C. Hutchison and John Underwood. Their case was handled by G. W. Mason, K.C., counsel for the United Church of Canada.

At the counsel table were also A. T. Whitehead, solicitor for the United Church and the Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, present minister of the church at Grafton.

The action has created a certain amount of Dominion wide interest as a sort of test case of the basis of the United Church.

An Old Congregation.

The history of the congregation in question dates back to 1835. The church was built in 1840. During the same year its minister was drowned while crossing the Bay of Quinte on a missionary journey. For three years till 1843, the congregation of pioneers worked and saved sufficient funds to call another minister. The late Rev. J. W. Smith, the man who came in '43, enjoyed one of the longest pastorates known to the history of the Canadian Church.

After hearing the few witnesses called to give evidence in the case, and listening to unusually long legal arguments by counsel for both sides, His Lordship expressed the opinion that the action had to do with the titles to three parcels of land. The first of these was granted by John Grove to the trustees of the Presbyterian Church on September 12, 1844. The second parcel, namely the manse, had been granted to the same trustees by John Strange Boulton on August 22, 1850. The third parcel was contiguous to the Grove parcel, and had been granted to the church by William Russell Johnston on April 18, 1903.

The Grove parcel had been left in trust to the Presbyterian congregation in Grafton. The second parcel, Boulton, was left in trust to and for the residence of the said Presbyterian clergyman. The third was simply left in trust to the Presbyterian Church in Grafton. His Lordship believed that all three parcels were now in trust with the United Church of Canada for the congregation.

But certain members of the congregation who had voted against union and were now worshipping as a Presbyterian congregation, claimed title to the property and this title is the basis of action for the plaintiff.

His Lordship stated that the legislation of 1925 did not apply to the property since the trust established by Grove was applicable to the original parcel of land and also the parcel added in 1903. He did not think the trust was intended to prevent the majority to commit what, without legislation, would have been a breach of trust. It was further alleged that the plaintiffs, said His Lordship, are the only ones answering the description as set down in the trust. He was much impressed with Mr. Mason's contention that the plaintiffs had not established the point that they do follow the Westminster Confession of Faith, but that the congregation had followed thoroughly the Confession of Faith as set forth in the Basis of Union of 1875. It was possible that the original construction of the deed did not require the complete following of the Westminster Confession of Faith, but merely required strict adherence to Chapter 21, relative to public worship and divine service.

Following Section 21.

The evidence given in court had shown that the present congregation were following Section 21, but to dispose of the case this would be a very narrow way and would probably lead to further litigation. The statutory title was in favor of the United Church of Canada. As Mr. Mason had pointed out, the statute of 1925 recited the agreement of the Presbyterian Church in Canada to unite with other churches to form the United Church of Canada. It had been formally admitted that prior to June, 1925, the plaintiffs held parcels of land in trust from Grover and Boulton for the Grafton congregation of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, continued His Lordship. Then by Sec. 4 of the United Church Act, the property shall go into the United Church of Canada. This is for the same reason as given by me in the Main vs. United Church of Canada which was tried in Hamilton," said Justice Rose. "Section 4 applies to the properties of Grover and Johnston. I had at first some little doubt as to the property by Boulton, but am now convinced it does, so apply by Section 17 of the Act. The congregation having voted for union, this property is now held by trustees established by the Act rather than the trustees set forth in the Grover deed. For that reason, I think the action fails as well as for the first mentioned, and I deem it unnecessary to discuss the point raised by Mr. Mason as to Section F of the Act. For the same reason I find it unnecessary to discuss Section 12A of the 1925 legislation. I therefore must dismiss the action with costs if asked for."

When His Lordship had finished speaking, Mr. Mason rose to ask that the costs be granted.

Evidence Heard.

With the opening of the case, Wm A. Johnston, one of the defendants was the first witness called. He gave evidence regarding the deeds and the interpretation of them by the trustees and officers of the church.

Mrs. Susan Cunningham, when sworn as a witness, stated that her family had been trustees and officers of the church in question since the time of her great grandfather. She had withdrawn her name from the roll of the church in 1925, but knew that John Aird had remained in church after the union. She also told of assistance given by other ministers and of an ordained minister coming as a supply in an attempt to reorganize the Presbyterian congregation of Grafton. The said John Aird, the plaintiff, had agreed to act in that role but was receiving financial backing from other members of the congregation.

Questioned by Mr. Mason, she admitted that several members from Grafton had joined the Cobourg Presbyterian Church. She did not know anything about the supposed free seat for Aird.

Alfred Larry, the third witness called, said he was a building contractor and set a value of $6,000 on the manse, $5,000 on the church, $1,000 on the shed and $2,000 on the school building.

In reply to Mr. Mason's question, Larry said he had built the shed in 1913 for $1,200. He had valued the building on the basis of his experience and the cost of replacing them. He did not know the state of repair in which the shed was.

John W. Aird, called by his counsel, said he had been a life-long member of the church but had taken his name off the roll at the time of union. His mother and brother had done likewise. He told of two attempts made to reorganize the Presbyterian congregation since the union.

Questioned by Mr. Mason, Aird admitted having taken his certificate from the Grafton Church but he had not joined the Cobourg Church. The first meeting after Union in Grafton had been as a Presbyterian association. In February, 1927, they met for the first time as a congregation. Shown one set of minutes of this meeting, Aird identified them, but knew of no other minutes, although he said other meetings had been held. They had never called a minister since the Union, but had been assisted by the Rev. Mr. Goodwill of Cobourg. The first communion roll was prepared March 8, 1927. An unordained supply minister had also preached in Grafton. Mr. Aird did not know whether the terms of deed had been carried out right up till the time of Union. The congregation had requested the use of the church building, he claimed, but had been refused. A recommendation was made to them that they use the old Methodist church; but it was now sold and used for other purposes.

Asked how he had come to be plaintiff in the case, Mr. Aird said he had been secretary of the board of managers and they had asked him to act for them. He said he had mailed the reports of the congregational annual meeting, but apparently they had not arrived. There was nothing in them relating to the present action, he believed.

Memorial to John Grover

He could recall the memorial tablet to John Grover (1771-1847. Mr. Grover had a large number of descendants. During the twenty years which Mr. Aird could recall there had been no change in the seating arrangement of the church. He could not recall pew number 9. He did know one of the pews as the "Grover pew." It was near the memorial tablet and had been occupied by a family named Russell for approxi-

THUNA REMEDIES OPEN STORE HERE

Policy of Expansion Pursued by Makers of Famous Balsam.

Dr. M. H. Thuna, founder and president of Dr. Thuna Balsam Remedies, Ltd., with head offices in Toronto, has recently returned from a visit to Peterborough where he arranged for the opening of a new retail store, making the eighteenth operated by Canada's largest herbalists. Of these stores ten are in Toronto and one each in the following cities: Hamilton, London, Kitchener Stratford, Welland, Oshawa, Peterboro. It is understood that new stores are to be opened in other cities of Ontario and that the company has now fairly entered upon a consistent policy of steady expansion. They are already doing a tremendous mail order business throughout the Canadian West.

Dr. M. H. Thuna, the active head of the concern, has had thirty-five years' experience in Montreal and Toronto, and under his direction constant advances are being made. He is now busily engaged in the creation of a new spring tonic to be known as "Pick-Me-Up", and which is a compound of no less than 27 herbs, all of which contribute medicinal properties.

"Back to Nature," said Dr. Thuna to an interviewer. "It can be truthfully said of all healing herbs that "Whatever grows, we have it", and the thousands of testimonials which come to us unsolicited are evidence of the efficacy and power of our remedies".

All the Thuna stores are carefully kept, well located so as to give the maximum service, and staffed by capable trained people.

70,000,000 BUSHELS OF GRAIN SHIPPED

More to Go Before Season's Work Closes at Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 4.—If not another bushel beyond that already en route is shipped from the Port of Vancouver this season, the total will exceed 70,000,000 bushels, according to figures prepared by transportation interests. Information is in hand that there are at least 15,000,000 bushels still unthreshed in Alberta. Permits issued by railways up to the middle of this week totalled 79,589,450 bushels for the season, it is stated. All of the permits, of course, may not be used.

Total export from the port up to a few days ago was in excess of 63,000,000 bushels. In addition there are 7,440,000 bushels en route. The previous record was set in the 1923-24 crop year, when 54,735,000 bushels were shipped.

Prince Rupert shipments to date are approaching 7,000,000 bushels and it is expected will exceed that considerably when figures are in for up to the end of April.

United Kingdom and the Continental grain markets have been largely responsible for the great grain movement through Vancouver this season, according to the regular report of the Vancouver Merchants Exchange. Movement to the Orient has been light and there has been no shipment to the Antipodes. Exports to Central and South America, which take only a small proportion, showed an increase over the record at the end of March.

United Kingdom and Continental markets had taken all but some 9,000,000 bushels of the grain moved to the end of March, the reports show.

Fifty-seven vessels loaded wheat at Vancouver during March, some of the largest cargoes of the season being taken out during the month. These included the record cargo of 398,347 bushels on S.S. Aldebaran; 336,000 bushels on M. S. Pajala; 340,883 bushels on S.S. Paris City, and 310,000 bushels on S.S. Nollington Court.

INSURANCE MEN DON'T BAR FLYING

Not long ago the life insurance companies looked with great concern upon any man interested in flying and likely to go aloft. Naturally enough, they were obliged to look after the interests of policyholders who remained on earth, and did not want to pay claims on people who took unnecessary risks. It is said that men who first owned automobiles and drove their own cars were looked upon as more or less hazardous risks from an insurance standpoint.

But times have changed, and now even if you want to go as a passenger in an airplane, it will not cancel your life insurance. It is not, however, wise to become a Pilot without interviewing your life insurance company and paying for a permit. Perhaps your policy being two years in force, permits your going into any occupation without voiding your insurance, and you do not have to pay for a "permit."

The hazards of life are very well judged by the life insurance companies of to-day, and the risks we take are pretty well sized up for us. The wise man takes no chance, however, that he can avoid, and keeps his life insurance in force just for safety's sake.

GILMOUR CIRCLE HEARS FINE PAPERS

Mission Work In Northern Ontario Described By Members of Society

Mrs. S. L. Hammond and Mrs. Allan B. Mann were in charge of the regular meeting of the Ladies' Mission Circle of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church, held in the basement of the Church last Tuesday. Splendid papers were given on the mission work in Northern Ontario, by Mrs. S. L. Hammond, Mrs. Allan B. Mann, Leila Sanderson, Lilian McGregor, Marion Blewett, Margaret Mann and Mrs. Harold Archer. Mrs. Metcalfe sang a solo, after which the meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. Edgar.

GRAFTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH AWARDED TO THE UNITED CHURCH

mately the past fifteen years. He could not recall any "pew rents" ever being charged. He had never been asked not to enter the United church, and understood that he was at liberty to worship there. He could not say whether or not the congregation adhered to the Westminster Confession of Faith. There had never been any refused to permit interment in the cemetery of the church.

Mr. Fraser asked Mr. Aird a few more definite questions regarding the seating arrangement and the pew rent.

Thomas Wilson, a former member, and still a Presbyterian, said he had attended the meeting in Belleville when the request for the use of the church as a place of worship had been made. The time asked for was in the afternoon and they had been told that the building was required for other purposes. It was recommended that the church be rented for a term of three years at $100 per year, the United Church to furnish everything.

Mr Wilson when questioned by Mr. Mason, said Mr. Mason had been the one who refused the request, but later said it might have been another member of the council.

Mrs Cunningham recalled, said that the Ladies Aid of the former Presbyterian congregation had acquired the Johnston property in order to improve the appearance of the church property. The buildings had been removed and all the work had been done at the Ladies' Aid expense.

In closing the case for the plaintiff Mr. Fraser submitted a great quantity of documentary evidence, which required almost two hours to detail.

Mr. Mason followed Mr. Fraser's example by opening the defense case with more documents. He explained church government and said there were eight Presbyterian churches at the present time. He followed this by reading from the report on the basis of church union to which the Grafton congregation had unanimously agreed in the past. He continued to show how various Presbyterian churches had united in 1875 to form the "Presbyterian Church in Canada."

William Johnston called as a witness, stated that he was one of the defendants in the action, and that he had been a lifelong member of the church. He could not recall any other seating arrangements, but said his father had told him that seats were in circular formation. He could not identify the "Grover pew" or "pew number 9." None of the Grovers had attended church during his life time of 57 years. The memorial tablet had been removed from the north wall to the south side of the west wall when the church had undergone some repairs several years ago.

It had been replaced when a member of the Grover family had visited the building and noticed its absence. The congregation always sent the minister and representative elder to the Presbytery meetings.

To Mr. Fraser's questions, Mr. Johnston replied that he had never heard of the Grover pew till he read church deeds at the time of the voting on Union.

The Rev. Mr. Moyer had been the minister at that time in the Presbyterian church; Mr. Trumper in the Methodist church. Both ministers had left following the Union, and the Rev. Mr. McLauchlin had been sent to Grafton United Church by the settlement committee. He was technically a Methodist minister, although he had received part of his education at Knox. There had been a joint meeting held when Mr. McLauchlin arrived; both ministers had been there till that time.

The Rev. Mr. Moyer, formerly a Presbyterian, but now a United Church minister, said he had been succeeded by Mr. McLauchlin, and the Union had taken place after his departure. He was ordained in January, 1909, and had made no change in his teological principles of the Union.

Presbyterian Form of Rule

"Presbyterian" meant a form of church government, he said. There were three types of government—Episcopal, Congregational and Presbyterian. The Methodist church had followed the last form since 1884, he stated. The Westminster Confession of Faith was accepted by Presbyterian minister as a substantial basis for religious teaching. He did not think it was to be too literally translated in modern times. Many ministers were ordained who are allowed the "freedom of their conscience," he claimed.

Examined by Mr. Fraser, witness said the Westminster Confession of Faith was continued in the Presbyterian church until the time of Union. He would not say "freedom of conscience" was the same as "mental reservation." He knew nothing of the Presbyterian church since Union, but thought the basis of the United church required every minister to adhere to the Westminster Confession of Faith."

After reading the obligations which a United Church minister must take, witness agreed that "any Christian could subscribe to them." He further showed where the Westminster Confession of Faith could be found in the United Church Manual. Asked why he left after the Union, he replied that he thought any minister had the right to seek a new pastorate.

He knew Mr. McLauchlin was coming one month previous to his departure. The creed of the United Church was to be found in the doctrinal statement of that church, he said.

The Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, present minister of the church in Grafton, said he had been there since July 4, 1926. Before that, he was a minister in the Bay of Quinte Conference and secretary of the conference. He was educated in Arts at Toronto University with a post-graduate course at Knox College. He had preached on the Westminster Confession of Faith in Grafton and said the church had conformed to its teaching. He was able to identify certain documents which defense counsel showed him.

"I know nothing of any sections," said Mr. McLauchlin, when asked by Mr. Fraser if there were not a Presbyterian and a Methodist section in the congregation. He further stated that he had subscribed to the doctrine of the United Church in his own mind. There were 78 each of Methodists and Presbyterians on the roll of the congregation as presented to the annual meeting and accepted there.

"That's all, my Lord," said Mr. Mason, at 3.30.

Mr. Fraser began his address to His Lordship by pointing out that the property being in three parcels, the action was in three divisions. It had been left to the Grafton Presbyterians who continued to follow the Westminster creed. The United Church Act did not apply to the Grover parcel, since there was a personal reservation made, he claimed. Nor was the manse covered by the Act, since it was in trust for the use of the Presbyterian minister in charge of Grafton congregation. The third piece of property was acquired by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church for an increase in property, the former buildings had been removed, and the property was not either that of the church or the congregation, since it was awarded to the land in trust. Thus it too became "in trust" by common law to those who had adhered to the Presbyterian Church. There was no present minister of the Presbyterian Church, so the manse property could not come under the Act.

In addressing himself to the bench, Mr. Mason spoke for some time on the United Church Act, and read many parts from it. He showed that it was part of the congregation's duty to provide a residence for the minister. He also showed that the Presbyterian congregation had, by Act of Parliament, become a United Church congregation. "Therefore the manse could be used by them.

After referring to copies of the United Church Act, Mr. Mason declared that the defendants were acting "in the teeth of the legislation." There was both Provincial and Federal legislation, to say that any change in denomination could not be deemed "breach of trust" if done by the ruling of the majority. Much church property was held for the propagation of religious teachings. Therefore if a church goes into Union, the property also goes. There was similar language in each statute, he claimed. The case, he said, fell entirely within section 4 of the United Church Act of 1925, and contrary to Mr. Fraser's contention, the congregation and properties became a United Church. Union took place one year after the vote. In the terms of "Grover deed," the congregation had not adopted the Westminster Confession of Faith, according to the plaintiff's evidence. Prior to June 10, 1926, the Presbyterian Church followed the Westminster Confession of Faith, not in the original but as amended with regard to the marriage of a deceased wife's sister section.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The new "lace" sweaters are made of fine wool in openwork pattern. This of beige is bound at the neck with a narrow silk band to match.

Women don't do fancy work nowadays just for the sake of keeping their fingers busy. From the thoroughly up-to-dtte point of view it is better to sit with hands idle than to do second-rate, amateurish sort of knitting or embroidery or hand painting, for which machine-made substitutes might be bought for somewhat less than the price of the materials needed to do the work by hand. Meantime there has been a decided renewal of interest in really worthwhile sorts of handicraft that require real skill and deftness of execution.

There is little demand for just any old sort of knitting and crocheting. If you cannot knit a sweater that is as good as those done by professionals then you better save you time and your money and buy one of themachine-made sort. The new lacy hand-knitted or crocheted sweaters demand a very high degree of skill, and that is why to the thoroughly modern young woman they are so much more interesting than any other sort. Personally, I don't believe I'd ever have the courage to attempt one. I'd rather save my pennies and buy one ready made. But some sort of "lace" sweater, I think, is a desirable addition to any woman's summer wardrobe.

For the woman who can afford but one new sweater I strongly recommend one of pure white. This may be conveniently combined with navy blue skirt and hat to give the new yachting color scheme or with a white skirt and accessories to give the all-white ensemble that has already gained a definite place in the season's smart fashions.

HAS YOUR HUSBAND GOT INDIGESTION?

Nothing creates domestic discord quicker than an attack of indigestion, and nothing gets rid of indigestion quicker than Bisurated Magnesia. No man can be sweet tempered, good natured or even fair minded when his stomach is constantly sick, sour, gassy, and upset with after-eating distress. If your husband has stomach trouble neither scold nor pity him, but help him by seeing that he has a supply of Bisurated Magnesia (either powder or tablets) constantly at hand. A teaspoonful of powder or two tablets taken in a little water after meals will instantly neutralize the acids in his stomach that are causing his trouble and he can enjoy his meals with no more fear of indigestion. Bisurated Magnesia is the special form of Magnesia used by thousands to neutralize stomach acidity and quickly overcome Indigestion—do not confuse with Milk, Carbonate, Block or Citrate of Magnesia. Insist on Bisurated. Its action is safe, prompt and sure and it can be obtained at small cost from any reliable drug store.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE HATE OURSELVES

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

Self hate is not only possible; it is the worst kind of hate.

We hate in general when we fear the loss of some cherished possession. The degree of hate that we feel depends on how strongly we have attached ourselves to the thing that is taken from us or the degree of difference it makes in our life. The hate is directed toward the person or object that is responsible for our loss.

The function of hate is to kill and destroy or otherwise get rid of the cause for our misfortune and anguish of soul. Human beings react in this manner to objects as well as to persons: witness the common practice of kicking the door that one runs into in the dark.

In self hate we blame ourselves for robbing ourselves. The true self within, the one we really care for, rises up and condemns the lower nature or that part of us which is keeping the real self from realizing his aims.

We hate ourselves when we have no one else to blame for our folly. Actual self hate is of course very extreme and means the complete breakdown of morale and self respect. The result is suicide or at least some form of the inferiority complex.

Ordinarily we save ourselves from this fate by shifting the blame of our failure to hard luck or unfavorable circumstances on to some other person, anything or anyone but ourselves.

An ancient fable describes a man who was hard put to it for something to eat ,so he sold his clothes to buy food until he had disposed of everything except the undergarments and his overcoat. He chanced to see a bird of spring singing gaily and concluded that spring had come so he went and sold his overcoat. The next day it turned bitter cold. The unfortunate man went to see the bird of spring and found him on the ground dead and frozen stiff. He began to scold the poor bird, saying "You are the cause of all my misfortune."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate)

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 5, 1928.

Astrologers read this as an uncertain day, but benefic aspects appear to dominate.

The early morning is a most auspicious time for seeking positions of any sort. All in search of employment should be active today.

There is a sign especially promising for bankers and financiers who certainly will gain immense power in the world through business relations of a new order.

All who seek public favor should advertise or seek publicity while this rule prevails.

This should be a lucky day for political aspirants and even women who may not be lucky this year should benefit.

There is a sign of great promise for building and engineers should profit, for their services will be in great demand.

The summer is to be marked by new discoveries of the earth's resources and unusual activity in certain mining districts.

All who keep books or who have to do with the handling of money should be fortunate while this configuration prevails.

There is a sign read as presaging many weddings and this spring there will be a decidedly mercenary tinge to many romances.

Lovers who have little money will find the stars less kindly to romance than usual, it is prophesied.

Women at this time will be more ruled by logic than by love, if the stars are rightly read.

Warning is given that girls should be wary of temptation to enjoy luxuries at a cost they will regret.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have an unexpected journey or a decided change in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will be alert, successful and prosperous. The subjects of this sign usually have a fine intellect.

LYRICS OF LIFE

LET'S ALL STAY HOME

I tell you, Dad, what all let's do!—
Let's all stay home a night or two!
I know you're busy as can be,
But tell that man you have to see
To come tomorrow. Maybe, Dad,
He may not get the least bit mad
Because you cannot talk—he might Want to stay home himself tonight.

I tell you, Sister, what let's do,
Let's both stay home, both us and you.
When he calls up, you tell that sheik
To come around some night next week.
We'll get the games Ma put away
And play the games we used to play,
And Dad his favorite pipe will light.
And, say, but we'll have fun tonight!

I tell you, Mother, what we'll do,
We'll all stay home tonight with you!—
Brother and Sister, me and Dad,
And, say, I bet that you'll be glad!
For, after all, what do we care
About these strangers everywhere?
Won't things look good, won't home look bright,
With our own gang all home tonight?

Toronto Maple Leafs Win In Ninth Inning Rally

LEAFS TAKE SECOND GAME

Alexander's Triple Starts Ball Rolling For Exciting Ninth.

PRUDHOMME WEAKENS.

Maple Leaf Stadium, May 4. — Toronto made it two straight over Newark by winning yesterday's game in the ninth innings when Alexander tripled to the fence and scored on a hit by Burke. Bedore and Phillips followed wit hsingles and after Burke had been caught at the plate by Fitzgerald, who made a great throw to Skiff, Bedore came home on Sexton's sacrifice fly to Lee. It was a great flash.

Manager O'Hara used masterly strategy, working his changes in regular John McGraw style. Prudhomme ,the original starting pitcher, went big for five innings, when he faltered, and after the Bears had tied the score he was relieved by Martin, who held the visitors in the last two sessions and got credit for the victory. Mamaux went the route but he was no mystery.

Superlative pitching by Jim Wiltsie who rang up his third consecutive victory for the season, enabled the Buffalo Bisons to blank the Baltimore Orioles 5 to 0 in the second game of the series here yesterday. Wiltsie has allowed only seven hits in 18 innings in the last two games.

Bobby Barrett was Wiltsie's chief aid in achieving victory as he drove home three runs with a single and a double. Brower cracked two of thre three hits allowed by Wiltse.

The Jersey City Black Cats behind the excellent hurling of the veteran Jim Bagby, evened the series with the Rochester Club here yesterday, winning 6 to 3.

Rochester was dangerous in only the eigth inning while Jersey scored three runs, one on a hit in the second and a couple in the seventh due to four singles.

COMPSTON WILL PLAY WITH SMITH

Terms Definitely Agreed Upon For 72 Hole Match in New York.

SANDWICH, England, May 4 (A.P.) —Archie Compston, after going around the Prince's course yesterday in 70, one under par, announced that terms had been definitely agreed upon for a 72-hole match with Macdonald Smith in New York.

Thirty-six holes will be at the Lakeville Golf and Country Club, Smith's home course, at Great Neck, Long Island.

It was understood that the stake will be $5,000 a side.

Compston's tone of voice in speaking of the $5,000 purse was such that an inference might be drawn that he was willing to play for an even larger sum.

The dates for the play in the United States have not been agreed upon, but they will be between the close of the British Open, May 21, and the start of the United States Open at Chicago, June 21.

Compston had indicated that he would not reach a decision in the challenge from Mac. Smith until the returns were in from the British Open, but his play in price yesterday for that event has been almost as good as it was in the sensational 55 holes against Walter Hagen when he defeated the American golfer 18 and 17 to play, with three medal rounds under 70.

Compston's 70 was the low score for the day among the professionals busy at practice for the Open. Hagen and Jim Barnes had par 71's, and Tommy Armour and Gene Sarazen were around in 72 each.

BELANGER IS TO MEET SCHWARTZ

Toronto Flyweight Gets Real Break—Chance to Regain World's Title.

Merry Modiste! Will you listen to this one

"Frenchy" Belanger of Toronto, jig time holder of the world's flyweight championship, is to get another chance at a "world's" flyweight crown—and that within six months of the time he won and lost the N.B.A. world's flyweight title.

That is certainly going some, as the wildcat remarked when he got tangled with the sewing machine.

Last night Dave Garrity, manager of Belanger, and Playfair Brown, matchmake for the Shamrock A.C. held a conference over the long distance wire with Lew Raymond of New York, and accepted the latter's offer of 12½ per cent. of the gross receipts for Belanger to box Corporal Izzy Schwartz of New York, world's flyweight champion, according to the New York State Athletic Commission, at Coney Island, June 1.

The only fly in the ointment is that Garrity demanded a substantial guarantee to back up the percentage. That will undoubtedly be arranged.

For Belanger to get a chance right back so soon at even one of the world's flyweight titles is proof positive that Belanger's class is acknowledged in New York.

Why shouldn't they admit Belanger to be a real threat in the tomtit division Didn't he beat Newsboy Brown and Ernie Jarvis and win and lose to Frankie Genaro, the N.B.A. flyweight champion of the world.

Meanwhile Belanger will keep right on fighting. Garrity last night signed a blank contract for Belanger to "main bout" the Shamrock's next card here a week from to-morrow night. Just who Matchmaker Brown will import to meet the vastly improved Toronto kid is still a mystery, but he better be a good 'un, for Belanger is going like a house on fire right now, and Jackie Johnson, who is working with him daily, is bringing him along in great style. It was Johnston's workouts which made such an improvement in Belanger against Clovis Durand of Montreal last Friday night.

Just while Brown is talking about bouts for his next card, why does he not send Steve Rocco, the Little Hercules, in against Durand and let us see just how good he is before he is asked to meet Belanger. The fans are clamoring for a Rocco-Belanger bout right now. If Rocco can beat Durand he is certainly ready for Belanger.—Toronto Star.

BENEFIT SOCCER MATCH SATURDAY

Two Picked Teams Will Play On King Edward Park.

On Saturday afternoon two well-chosen soccer elevens will play a benefit game at King Edward Park on behalf of one of best players who ever played the universal code in this city. Alex McKinley will officiate as official referee and start the match at 3 o'clock prompt.

It is the desire of the selection committee that all players picked, be at the pavilion no later than 2.45 so that equipment can be given out. In the second half two gentlemen will call upon the soccer fans to aid along the financial issue and the gentlemen who were responsible for the encounter desire to thank all the soccer fans for the interest taken in this benefit game.

VIEWS ON SPORT

Step by step the City Junior Ball League is getting ready for one of its best seasons since its inception—East City entered last night, to make up the fourth team in the juvenile series.

Manager Tommy Holyman is to be assisted in piloting the local Seniors by "Shiner" Johnston The old officers of the club have consented to stay "on the job," and Petes will practise at the King Edward School grounds until the diamond at James Stevenson Park is in better condition. Holyman has already signed twelve players, including Harry Palmer, a Toronto boy, and Bert Hall, two new players who are trying out this year. The offer of the Immaculate Conception to stage a play for the benefit of the Association was accepted, and the play will be given in the Grand Opera House probably about May 16.

* * * * * *

Many soccer fans will be interested to know that the C.G.E. Athletic Association will construct and lay out a soccer field of their own, where all the home games of the C.G.E. team will be played. The playing pitch will be in proximity to the works, so as to allow the players ample time for practice.

BRAVES WIN FROM PIRATES

Boston Hit in Pinches to Win 5-4 Decision in 11 Innings.

REDS DEFEATED 7-5.

NEW YORK, May 4 (Canadian Press).—The Boston Praves opened their Western invasion at Pitsburgh yesterday by defeating the Pirates 5 to 4 in 11 innings. Ed. Brandt, a Rookie left-hander, pitched good ball for Boston and should have won in nine innings. Errors by Farrell in the second and the seventh gave the Pirates two unearned runs. Kremer also pitched well, but the Braves hit in the pinches.

The game was won in the eleventh on singles by Brown and Farrell, with Belle's sacrifice interjected. Pittsburgh lost an opportunity in its own half of the final when Lloyd Waner hit into a double play with two on and one out.

In spite of being hammered for nine hits, Rhem carried the Cardinals through to a 7 to 5 victory at St. Louis over the Cincinnati Reds to end a string of four straight defeats.

Two games scheduled.

Tex Rickard After Risko-Sharkey Bout

NEW YORK, May 4 (Canadian Press).—A return match between Johnny Risko, Cleveland baker boy, and Jack Sharkey, who bowled Jack Delaney over in a single round Monday night, loomed yesterday as Tex Rickard left New York for a few days in Boston.

He admitted that he hoped to sign the silent sailor for a bout with Risko at a local ball yard either on June 21 or 28. Risko whipped Sharkey in 15 rounds here during the Winter heavyweight elimination tournament.

SIX TEAMS ENTER SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Plans For Season Are Discussed at Meeting in Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, May 4.—Prospects are bright locally for a flourishing soft ball league here this season judging by the representative attendance, and the enthusiasm displayed, at the public gathering held in the town hall on Monday evening, when over fifty were present, and the initial organization was effected.

W. E. Ball was appointed chairman, and B.B. Dawson secretary. After discussion it was decided to have six teams in the league, each to be allowed to enroll fifteen members from which to choose its players for the scheduled games. These should include: Station, Downtown, I.O.F., School, C.S.E.T., and probably the C.G.I.T. Final arrangements will be completed at the next meeting to be held on Friday evening

The following officers were elected:

President—Dr. N. H. Young.
Vice President—W. E. Ball.
Secretary-Treasurer— B. B. Dawson

Teams enrolled in the league will have the privilege of using the athletic grounds at the agricultural park for their regular practice, and competitive games.

SOX TAKE FINAL GAME

PLAY TIGHT BALL.

BOSTON, May 4 (Canadian Press) —Philadelphia's winning streak of seven straight was shattered yesterday when big Ed. Morris, right hand recruit from Mobile, piloted the Red Sox to a 3 to 1 decision over the Athletics in the last game of the series. He held the Mackmen to four hits, the first of which was Ty Cobbs double in the seventh. Cobb subsequently scored the visitors' only run.

Sensational support was given Morris by Flagstead, who also contributed two runs to the Boston total in the first, his base on balls off Orwell was worked into a marker, and in the sixth his triple to right started a two run Red Sox rally.

Only one game scheduled.

Win Annual Game From West Point

LENGTHENS LEAD OVER OPPONENT

English "Iron Man" Gavuzzi Leads Youthful Payne By 5.19.36.

PONTIAC, Ills., May 4.—(A.P.) — The English "iron man," Peter Gavuzzi, picked up a day's growth of beard and a wider lead over his nearest opponent, Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla., in the 41st lap of the trans-continental bunion derby to-day.

While Harry Rea, Los Angeles, finished first in the day's 34.7 mile lap from Normal, Ill., to Pontiac in 4:05:21, Gavuzzi came in for a triple tie for second place, boosting his lead in the 2,300 miles travelled so far to 5:19:36 over the youthful Payne who finished the lap in a tie for tenth place. Payne ran the 34.7 miles in 4:39:55 and was tied with Roy McMurtry, Minneapolis. Gavuzzi, John Salo, Passaic, N.J., and Olli Wantinnen, New York, made the lap in 4:32:03.

Gavuzzi's total time for the distance from Los Angeles, the starting point of the derby, is 376:21:32; Payne's is 381:41:28. By his performance to-day, the Southampton, Eng., runner, proved he was not cracking. Yesterday he finished in a tie for sixteenth place for the 60th lap after shaving his beard for the first time since he left the west coast.

To-day's lap is from Pontiac to Joliet.

The eight runners-up to Gavuzzi and Payne and their total elapsed time:

EVERTON CHAMPS IN FIRST DIVISION

Huddersfield Town Fail in Final Games of the Season.

LONDON, Eng., May 4.— Everton have won the championship of the first division of the English football league. Huddersfield Town, who were in the running until Wednesday, lost their chance for the blue ribbon when they were defeated by Aston Villa.

Everton deserved their success. They started the season with a rush, slipped about two months ago, and then pulled themselves together to finish strongly.

Huddersfield had the chance to win both the English cup and the championship, but failed badly in both competitions at the end. One more set of games remain to be played and the chief interest in them will rest in what teams must be relegated. Teams who are in danger of going from the first to the second division are: Tottenham Hotspurs, Sheffield United, Middlesbrough, Sunderland, Manchester United and the Wednesday.

In the second division Manchester City and Leeds United will be promoted, though Saturday's games will decide which of these two teams is champion of this section. South Shields is sure of demotion, but the team to accompany them into the third division is not settled. Southampton, Clapton Orient, Fullham and Blackpool are in danger.

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE"

Anne Nichols record-breaking comedy success, "Abie's Irish Rose", which comes to the Grand Theatre on Tuesday, May 8th has been hailed by the press and public as one of the biggest laughing hits in years. Aside from its comedy and funny situations, the play has a well-defined story replete with tenderness and human interest, so that the auditor finds himself roaring with laughter one second and an instant later wiping a stray tear from his or her eye.

Anne Nichols has been responsible for some of Broadway's biggest hits, among which may be mentioned "Just Married," "Linger Longer, Letty", the vehicle in which Charlotte Greenwod scored the biggest hit of her career; "Just A Little Bit Old Fashioned" and many others.

"Abie's Irish Rose", briefly, tells the story of the love and marriage of a Jewish boy and an Irish lass, and the attempts of their respective fathers to break up the match after the nationalities are discovered. Of course there is a happy ending, but how this is finally brought about must be seen to be appreciated.

The play is interpreted by an all-star cast and a complete scenic production of artistic design.

AT THE REGENT.

"Not for Publication," the current attraction at the Regent Theatre, registered a distinct success at its opening yesterday. Seldom has a screen story of the vital nature of this been as naturally developed, yet retaining a remarkable edge of thrilling surprise action, as this picture starring Ralph Ince under his own direction.

A virile action picture centreing about the building of a great dam in the west, "Not for Publication," brings a healthy wallop of well balanced drama to the screen. The appealing love theme about which the action revolves is of an unusually wholesome nature emphasizing from the beginning to the end the devotion of the star to his orphaned sister and his great sacrifice that her honor and future welfare may be perpetuated.

The importance of newspapers as a factor in the protection of the public against political graft is capably told in "Not for Publication." The story moves through a field of conflict in which Ince as "Big Dick" Wellman, political boss and contractor is the central figure. When he is awarded the contract for the building of a big dam, opposing factors led by a militant newspaper, accepts the challenge and seeks to expose the instability of the political regime. A mystery murder adds complications to the plot and when the ambitious investigating reporter played by Rex Lease, hits upon a plausible solution of the mystery, only to find himself in love with the heroine who is the sister of the suspected murderer, the story develops high points of interest which are irresistible.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS."

The racial differences that made for so much merriment in "Abie's Irish Rose" have their innings in the "Cohen and Kelly" pictures, and the main fun-making element in the moving pictures, as in the stage play, is the characterization of antagonistic racial types. J. Farrel MacDonald, who was such a wonderful ranting Irishman in "Colleen," that inimitable picture of Irish temperament, is the Patrick Kelly of this production, and George Sidney, the original Cohen of the first picture of this series, is the Nathan Cohen of this offering.

Cohen and Kelly, although business partners, are constantly sparring at each other, and spend a great deal of office time in writing insulting notes to one another. Their wives although privately good friends take sides with their spouses when the men are present and look daggers at each other when opportunity offers This is the situation when word arrives from Paris that Sadye Cohen and Patrick Kelly, Junior, both art students there, have decided to be married The two young people have really been married for three months, and Sadye has had ample time to become very jealous of her husband's model Paulette. The Cohens and Kelly embark on the same ship for Paris, in a desire to stop the wedding of the opposing factions. Their adventures on board ship are typical of the farce-like comedy which abounds in this type of picture.

In Paris, where the episodes, by the way, have a truly Parisian flavor and are aimed to represent French life in the Quartier as it is lived, the Cohens and Kellys have some wonderful adventures. They visit the Cafe Dibble, where the exotic Paulette, is the premier danseuse, and there encounter Mephisto and his imps in a subteranean cavern of pleasure. They mistake Paulette's Apache dance for an attack on the lady and attempt to interfere with her partner. Later, Cohen and Kelly keep an appointment with Paulette and Pierre, her "bon ami," arrives inopportunely. In a fit of jealous rage, he challenges both visitors to a duel. Next morning they attempt to escape from Paris, but their plane breaks down, and descends upon the field of honor. The resulting effort of Pierre to kill the quaking Cohen, first of the two victims, is ludicrous, and is only saved from execution by the arrival of the two fat wives.

Inclusion of several rhyming subtitles adds to the fun of the picture.

GOLF.

LONDON, May 4. — Glenna Collett, twice women's golf champion of the United States, set foot on English soil yesterday for her third British title hunt, with a look of grim determination on her face.

She became serious when she was informed at Plymouth that she must meet one of her doughtiest rivals the titleholder, Mlle. Simone Thion de la Chaume in the opening round of the British championship.

"The draw at least settles my plans for me," Miss Collett said. "I'm going to practice, practice, practice from now until May 14, until I'm in tip-top form."

Kitty Hawk Honors First Plane Flight In Monument To The Wright Brothers

KITTY HAWK, N.C., May 4 (Associated Press).—While the nation's capital feted the Bremen's gallant crew, villagers of this isolated reef paid homage yesterday to Orville and Wilbur Wright, whose first short flight in a heavier-than-air machine twenty-five years ago startled the world.

Near the beach dunes a monument has been erected. It is inscribed: "On this spot Sept. 17, 1900, Wilbur Wright began the assembly of the Wright brothers' first experimental glider which led to a man's conquest of the air. Erected by citizens of Kitty Hawk, N.C., 1928."

Many persons intimately associated with the brothers during their struggles to make their huge boxkites fly were assembled to watch the unveiling of the marble monument, as were prominent men of North Carolina.

In contrast with the huge ocean-conquering planes of which the German Bremen is an example, the Wright machine was a frail affair propelled by a four-cylinder motor. The pilot reclined in a network of cross stays, at the mercy of the wind and structural mishaps. Its greatest flight after four trials was 852 feet.

Most of the inhabitants recall vivid memories of the time, particularly of the day, December 17, 1903, when Orville Wright made the first successful flight in a power-driven plane.

News of the triumph was borne to the village by a lifeguard who had assisted in the experiment. Virtually out of breath from running, this man came in yelling, "They've done it! They've done it! Danged if they ain't flew!"

The scene of the first flight was Kill Devil Hill, three miles from here, where the brothers found favorable winds and an eminence from which to project the machine.

The monument was sponsored chiefly by Captain William J. Tate, keeper of the lighthouse at Coinjack, who was an intimate friend of the air pioneers. It was a letter from Tate in reply to inquiries that caused the brothers to select this place for their experiments.

They're hungry when school's out

CHILDREN rushing home from school want a bite to eat. Often they ask for food at other odd times.

Mother solves the problem by giving them Quaker Puffed Wheat. A wholesome cereal as enticing as sweets—and satisfying. Light and easily digested. Its crunchiness ensures thorough mastication, and helps to keep teeth and gums in healthy condition. All the bran is there, but delightfully concealed.

Quaker Puffed Wheat is the whole wheat grain, puffed to eight times normal size, and exploded, thoroughly cooked and oven-crisped. Serve direct from the package, or warm if you wish.

Quaker Puffed Rice, too

Rice grains, also puffed and exploded. Dainty and light. Easily digested. Always pleasing and inviting to the appetite.

IN MEMORIAM.

BEARNE. — In loving memory of "Trix," my dear wife and our darling mother, who passed away May 5th, 1922.
'Tis not the tears at the moment shed
That tell how beloved is the soul that's fled.
'Tis the silent tears in loneliness wept,
And the fond remembrance ever kept.

PEOPLE FLEE FROM VALLEY TO HIGH LAND

Great New Dam of Greenville Water System is Giving Way.

EVERYBODY OUT.

Report of Leak in Wall Beside Outlet Causes Exodus of Residents.

GREENVILLE, South Carolina, May 5 (Canadian Press). — The Saluda River Valley was deserted today as the spectre of disaster hovered over the mill towns and farms along the river's banks. The impending collapse of the huge new earthern dam of the Greenville water system sent twenty thousand residents of the valley to higher ground last night when an innkeeper at Table Rock broadcast a warning that the five billion gallons of water impounded in the artificial lake were pouring through a big leak around the outlet valve at the bottom of the dyke. The warning was carried by courier and telephone and thousands left their homes to the mercy of floods, taking only what possessions they could carry. While no loss of life was feared, extensive property damage was inevitable.

KNIFE WOUND PROVES FATAL

Toronto Man Succumbs Today—Assailant Held By Police.

QUARREL OVER RELIGION.

TORONTO, May 5 (Canadian Press). — Though every effort was made to prolong life, including blood transfusions, James Blair died in the hospital today from a knife wound received in a brawl in an apartment house on Sackville Street here on Thursday night. Frederick Brennan, a cripple, is held by the police on a charge of attempted murder, which will be raised to murder, while Thomas Williams and John Lynch are held as material witnesses. It was alleged that the argument which culminated in Blair's wounding started over religion.

RUMANIA FEARS PEASANT ACTION

Declaration of Transylvania's Independence Expected at Congress To-morrow.

COUNTER ACTION BEGUN.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 5 (Canadian Press). — Despatches from Alba Julia say that the whole of Rumania is alarmed in anticipation of the proclamation of a Transylvanian republic by the Peasants' Congress which convenes there to-morrow.

The government is said to be taking desperate measures to counteract this move. Seventeen airplanes circled over the Cluj district yesterday, despatches add, distributing thousands of handbills warning the peasants against "Communist trickery," and urging them not to attend the Congress.

Fly Two Flags In South Africa

UMTATA, Cape Province, South Africa, May 5 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's). — Native affection for the Union Jack was eloquently demonstrated at a general council of the Transkeian territories, which might be described as a native parliament, when the Council unanimously passed a resolution that the Government be requested to permit the Union Jack to be flown with the Union of South Africa flag on all magistrates' offices in the native territories.

A councillor asked the members not to discard their old friend, the Union Jack, which had freed them from slavery and which was the only flag they knew. He did not object to the Union flag, but pointed out that were it not for the Union Jack there would be no Union flag.

JOHNSON PLANT IN PRODUCTION

First Motors Assembled Here Have Already Been Delivered.

PASS MANY TESTS.

Just a month after they took possession of their building on Monaghan Road, the Johnson Outboard Motor Company on Wednesday, May 2nd, registered their first production, and Peterboro's latest industry was clicking with all the pleasant noises of manufacture. Rather it was whirring in the room where the main volume of noise was kicking up from a chorus of sixteen engines churning away in a big tank of water. Not that the Johnson factory, at present, is a noisy place, but that testing-room confines a tremendous din.

Imagine sixteen gasoline engines peeved by the indignity of wasting their power in an overgrown tub instead of skimming over a lake or river at the business end of a light skiff! That's what it sounded like, a metallic chorus of protest at even such temporary futility. This battery of Johnsons was undergoing a five-hour running test which impresses the visitor with two features of this engine, the absence of heat and vibration. These qualities exist to a surprising extent. In fact there is practically no heat nor vibration, con-

He based his address on the collect for the Third Sunday after Easter.

WARRENITE PAVING TO BE LAID ON THREE STREETS THIS YEAR

Board of Works Accepts Tender of Warren Company For 17,000 Yards.

FOUR TENDERS RECEIVED.

New Trunk Sewer Needed For Western Part of City To Care For Growth.

Warrenite bitulithic pavement was chosen by the Board of Works last night for laying on Aylmer, Park, and McDonnel streets this year. Four tenders were received, of which the Ontario Amiesite Company's was the lowest, but the general opinion of the aldermen was that amiesite is still more or less in the experimental stage, while Warrenite is already giving good service on many of the city's streets. The prices quoted were:

Warren Bitulithic Paving Company—Pavement, $2.95; curb and gutter, 85c; sidewalks, 23c.

Ontario Amiesite Company—Pavement, $2.80; curb and gutter, 90c; sidewalks, 23c.

Standard Paving Company—Pavement, $3.10; curb and gutter, 95c; sidewalks, 25c.

The prices for pavement are by the square yard, and include excavating and concrete base, as well as the asphalt surface. The prices for curb and gutter are by the lineal foot, while concrete sidewalks are quoted by the square foot.

City Engineer Parsons opposed the amiesite as paving material. He admitted that it made good patching material for other asphalt, but declared that it was opposed to all that experience had taught, as it contains too many voids and is consequently very porous. He agreed that it presents a good gripping surface but feared that it would not settle down smoothly.

Ald. Huffman favored the amiesite, which had favorably impressed him during a visit to Montreal, but it was explained that what was laid there was laid hot, while what would be put down here would be laid cold.

Ald. Phelan—"I am in favor of concrete myself, but these people that are paying for it are in favor of asphalt and I am opposed to any experiment."

Ald. Huffman—"I am in favor of it because the city can do its own job. Curb at those prices is too high."

Opposition to letting the contract to the Amiesite Company was based on the fact that jobs in this part of the country had been "farmed out" to general contractors, instead of being done by the company itself.

"What's the matter of laying our own curb and base?" asked Ald. Stocker.

Ald. Huffman—"By the time you bought your plant you'd be out money. It would cost $15,000."

Ald. Phelan—"We know the Warrenite pavement. We have it here. I move that we recommend it."

During the discussion it was mentioned that the pavement on Chambers street has been down seventeen years and is still in good shape. It is of concrete, and Mr. Parsons declared his belief that concrete is the best paving material, but some kind of joint must be developed.

If Mayor Denne has his way the consulting engineer on the sewage disposal addition and the Department of Health's engineer, Dr. Berry, will attend a meeting of the Board of Works to thresh out the matter as soon as Mr. Parsons has the plans made. The Mayor declared that the city had gone ahead before with the type of plant recommended and had run into trouble and this additional expenditure and there should be a complete understanding reached about the additions.

Ald. Phelan recalled that the department's engineer at that time had insisted on the activated sludge tank, in spite of Mr. Parsons' opposition, and Mr. Parsons added that it is still an experiment. The engineer had then stated that the Imhoff type was obsolete, but Chicago is installing a big Imhoff disposal plant now.

As an aid to Mr. Armstrong, in his capacity of Indutrial Commissioner, in interviewing people seeking factory sites, etc., the city will pay for his membership in the Peterborough Club. The Mayor explained this matter to the Finance committee. As it is now, when Mr. Armstrong is discussing matters with such visitors he is subject to constant interruption. As a member of the club he could take them over there and discuss matters in privacy. It would also be better than going to a hotel for lunch, as a hotel dining-room is not very private.

Must Pay Sales Tax.

The gravel which the city digs up and crushes and the sewer pipes which the city makes must be kept on record and sales tax paid to the Dominion Government. When this matter was mentioned some of the aldermen opposed paying it but it was recalled by the Mayor that Pembroke had combatted the matter and lost out.

City Engineer R. H. Parsons will prepare a plan, estimate and report on an intercepting sewer along the course of the storm drain from Park street, just north of Rink street through to Weller street and apply to the Provincial Department of Health for an order to construct it. This will enable the city to issue debentures instead of paying for it out of the general rate.

This main sewer will carry sewage ...m a large area in the west end, which ... grown so rapidly that the present ...rs are not large enough to care for ...

Objects Laboratories Working Same Time

OTTAWA, Ont., May 5.—(Canadian Press.)—A vote of $50,000 for adepartment of mines, laboratory in Ottawa came before the House of Commons in committee yesterday. Mr. Bennett objected to the policy of having three or four different laboratories working at the same time. The National Research Laboratory was to be established, and all government research should be housed together.

Premier King explained that the mining research building had been started some time ago and could hardly be abandoned. He agreed, however, with Mr. Bennett, and assured him that any future development would be under the National Research Council. The item then carried.

A vote of $30,000 for the Ottawa post office additions was considered and Hon. Ernest Lapointe moved that the vote be reduced by $20,000. Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Public Works, explained that it had been found that the necessary works need not be of the permanent nature as at first anticipted. The motion was carried, and the reduced vote was passed.

NOBODY BUYS HORSE OR CAR

Attempt to Auction Off Rival Transports Fails On Markets.

EGG CANDLING BOOTH.

Two fierce competitors met a temporary Waterloo at the farmers' market this morning. Apparently nobody wanted either a horse or a car, the two rivals in modern transportation methods. It was a mild-looking little grey mare, about eleven years old. And the auctioneer couldn't get a bid of more than $13.00 for it.

Then he turned his attention to the motor car, a seven-passenger model, said to be of 1927 vintage. And he couldn't get a bid of $650 for it. The crowd was gazing with interest at the bright green finish when the funeral procession came up George Street, and melted away to join the onlookers for the melancholy cortege.

A little candling booth for eggs has been erected in the south-west corner of the upper Market Hall, for convenience of vendors and the inspector. Two, instead of the usual three tickets, were placed on several of the baskets this morning. One lady marked her supply "candled eggs" and let it go at that. Prices ranged from 28 to 30 cents a dozen. Butter was 43 cents a pound, generally, and the few chickens on view sold for 35 cents a pound. Duck eggs were a nickel apiece.

Tiny White Wyandotte chicks were offered at a nickel each, "if you take the lot." At the lower entrance, a little box of tiny rabbits attracted much notice. They were only three weeks old and were miniature bits of things, with pink-lined ears and pure white fur. A couple of them were bestowed in a coat pocket by a man who designed them as gifts for his children. They were 35 cents each.

Little pigs were $8.00 and $10.00 a pair. Potatoes were $1.75 a bag, with seed potatoes at $2.00 a bag.

Roots and bulbs had a brisk sale. Named gladioli were 13 for a quarter or 15 cents a dozen, and named dahlia roots were 25 cents each. Perennial phlox, Shasta daisies, and bergamot were 10 cents a root. A healthy-looking scented geranium plant was priced at 25 cents. Cauliflower and cabbage plants were 20 cents a box, and raspberry canes 25 cents a dozen.

THE WEATHER

The temperature yesterday was like a day in midsummer. During the afternoon the thermometer rose to 88 degrees. On May 22nd last year we had a very warm May day when the temperature rose to 87 degrees. Yesterday went it one better. Early in the morning yesterday the temperature was at 44 degrees, and during the day rose 44 degrees.—W.P.

H.M.S. BACCHUS RIDES SAFELY INTO HARBOR

British Warship Has Narrow Escape From Sinking in Channel.

RAMMED GREEK VESSEL.

No Description of Collision Given in Brief Radio Despatches.

PORTLAND, England, May 5 (C.P.)—H.M.S. Bacchus, auxiliary vessel of the royal navy, last night was slowly moving, stern foremost, to a haven here after narrowly escaping sinking in a channel collision in which the Greek steamer Ioannis Pafalios was lost with some of her crew.

The Bacchus, once abandoned by her crew and the survivors of the sinking, was so down by the head that way could only be maintained by proceeding backwards. In this wise she was able to make two knots, which brought her into port late last night, since her position was given as 90 miles east of Portland Bill.

No Description of Collision

No description of the collision was contained in the brief radio messages from the Bacchus. The Bacchus is a fleet store carrier. Apparently the Greek steamer sank so rapidly that some of its crew had barely time to leap into the water. The crew of the Bacchus rescued eleven of them, but it was supposed that nearly as many more had died.

A second and greater tragedy loomed when the Bacchus began to settle by the head. The crew hurriedly manned the boats, taking those whom they had rescued with them. Apparently the watertight compartments held, however, for the battered vessel found an equilibrium and floated. The crew returned to her and began to carefully manoeuvre her toward this port.

Meanwhile the battle cruiser Tiger and two tugs were seeking the Bacchus to lend their aid.

Odd Phenomena Is Seen At Seance; Astral Body of Houdini Makes Appearance

NEW YORK, May 5. — Mrs. Harry Houdini, widow of the magician, watched Joseph Dunninger bring a luminous ghost out of the darkness last night, and said it was the best astral body of her late husband she had ever seen.

Dunninger is a foe of mediums, the same as Houdini was. The "seance" was held in an effort to prove that spiritualism is an illusion; the results surprised Dunninger himself.

Messages, written in the bold handwriting of Houdini, appeared and a paraffin cast of an ectoplasmic hand will be examined today to see of the magicians fingerprints are on it.

EGG INSPECTOR SHOWS RESULTS

Says Farmers Were Selling Eggs Too Cheap When He First Came.

ALL GRADE HIGH.

C. W. Collingwood, egg grading inspector for the Dominion Government, was at the local market this morning giving further instructions in the way eggs should be graded and keeping a close check on the eggs that were being sold, to see that they had been graded properly.

When he came to the local market some three weeks ago, he told The Examiner, he found that the producer was not getting enough money for his eggs. The great majority of eggs offered on the market were being sold for the price of seconds. On examining the eggs offered he found that very few baskets graded seconds and all the rest were of a much higher grade.

The farmers are falling into line excellently for they see that the grading of eggs means more money for them, he said. At the market this morning firsts were sold at 28 cents a dozen and extras at 30 cents.

One woman, said Mr. Collingwood, had an extra fine basket of eggs, and she had gone to the trouble of candling the. These graded specials and brought 40 cents a dozen. One woman candled her eggs, three of which she was not sure of. These she marked and brought to the egg inspector, and he examined them. Two he found all right and the other had a blood spot in it. This is the sort of thing the inspector is doing, and he is always at the beck and call of all those who offer eggs for sale.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID BY CITIZENS AS REMAINS OF NORMAN MAKER ARE BORNE TO CHURCH AND TRAIN

Delay To Aquitania Costs Matsui Race

NEW YORK, May 5 (Canadian Press).—Six hours delay in the docking of the Cunard liner Aquitania, caused by fogs off the Grand Banks, is believed to have lost Ryuichi Matsui, a race round the world and a thousand dollars. The delay in the arrival of the liner caused the Japanese traveller to miss the westbound air mail plane which was to have carried him on the first leg of a flight to Victoria, B.C., where he hoped to catch the steamer President Cleveland to-night. If he had caught the liner he could have arrived in Tokio ahead of his rival, who is travelling in the opposite direction and unless delayed by unforeseen difficulties in his journey along the trans-Siberian Railway, will win the first prize of $1,500. The second prize is $500. The two men are using only the regular existing means of travel and were furnished expense money by a Japanese paper.

REFUSE PILES BLOCK LANES

Garbage Men Complain About Conditions in Back Alleys.

WILL CALL AT FRONT.

Spring time is clean-up time, and the citizens of Peterborough who have been so industrious as to clean up their yards, back and front, and rake the rubbish into the lanes, are asked by Sanitary Inspector C. S. Stapleton to spend a few more minutes and clean up the lanes. The lanes in the city are in a deplorable condition, he says. Garbage men are objecting to the amount of garbage and refuse they have to climb over to make their collections.

Mr. Stapleton told The Examiner this morning that if conditions in many of the lanes did not improve in the city, the garbage man would be forced to make their collections from the front instead of the back, a thing no householder wants, for no matter how dirty the lane and back yard are, he usually wants to have his front yard looking tidy.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

"True Christian Gentleman and Loyal Citizen," Declares Rev. Paul Castello in Sermon.

In the funeral procession and service for the late Provincial Constable Norman Maker, which took place this morning, was seen a city's tribute to an honored citizen and a fearless officer. Civic officials, comrades of the Great War, the city police force, firemen, and the Knights of Columbus filled in silence from the home on Princess Street to Sacred Heart Church and thence along Romaine, George, and Charlotte Streets to the C.N.R. Station. There, reminiscent of war time days, sounded, lonely and clear, the Last Post, followed by a pause—then, the gentler strains of "Nearer, My God to Thee."

Thus Norman Maker departed for Bellsville—but not to the new field of labor which he was shortly to have assumed.

Interment will take place there to-morrow.

Hundreds of citizens looked respectfully on as the procession approached Sacred Heart Church—they filled it to overflowing during the impressive service, and they stood in awed yet sympathetic silence as it moved on from the church to the tolling of the bell and the majestically solemn bars of the Dead March in "Saul," played by the Peterborough Rangers and Salvation Army Bands, in charge of Lieut. W. H. Peryer. In the procession were Fire Chief Gimblett, accompanied by Chief of Police Newhall, Grand Knight Arthur Costello, Chaplain Father Costello, and other members of the clergy; the car bearing the floral tributes, the bands, the flag-bearer, Captain Abraham in charge, His Worship Mayor Denne walking with him, and the company of war veterans.

Around the hearse were grouped the company of firemen, honorary and active pall-bearers, a detachment of the police force, Knights of Columbus, and the Canadian Legion, then followed the cars bearing the bereaved relatives, and finally the Knights of Columbus. Numerous motors of private citizens completed the long procession.

The honorary pall-bearers were Inspector Reid and Sergeant Thomas of the police force; Frank Peiren and Edward Conroy of the R. of C.; Captain W. E. Massey-Cooke and Lieutenant J. R. Heron of the Canadian Legion, while those active from the same organizations in the order named were Sergeant Deannard and Constable Thompson; Sgt.-Major H. O'Heron, D.C.M., and Detective Sergeant William Meagher, and C.Q.M.S. S. Kitchen and Sergeant F. Smith.

Solemn Service.

The service in Sacred Heart church, attended by hundreds of citizens, and participated in by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, and assisting priests, was beautifully impressive and the thoughtful and sympathetic discourse of Rev. Father Costello, chaplain of the R. of C. and of the Canadian Legion, could not have been but comforting to the sorrowing widow and relatives.

Father O'Brien celebrated solemn High mass, while present in the sanctuary were His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, Fathers Maloney, Maher, McAuley, Finn, Guiry, Costello and Carroll.

On arrival at the church, the flag-draped coffin was escorted to the front of the altar by a number of altar boys, led by Father Maher. Into the centre rows of pews filed members of the Knights of Columbus, Canadian Legion, Police Force and Fire Brigade. Then was celebrated the solemn High mass with Fathers McAuley and Maher assisting.

The children's choir sang the responses.

Father Costello.

"In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet, for the trumpet shall sound and the dead shall be raised incorruptible and we shall be changed.

"For this corruptible must put on incorruption and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory.

"O Death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?"

Thus from Corinthians, 1:15:52-55, spoke the Rev. Captain Costello:

"The scene here presented is one which continues daily as men, human beings die and their mortal remains are honored and carefully placed away. Death shall reach every man, for such is the universal law of God, though when, where or how we know not.

"God destined man for happiness, but man fell from that happy state, was condemned to live by the sweat of his brow, and finally to give back his body to the earth and his soul to God. This is, perhaps, more tragic than is the scene usually. Our pur-

80TH BIRTHDAY DULY HONORED

Friends of Gavin Preston, of Lakefield, Make Presentation.

NATIVE OF SMITH.

LAKEFIELD, May 5.—About forty-five friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Preston, Bridge street, on Monday evening to extend their good wishes and felicitations on the occasion of his 80th birthday. The house was decorated for the festive occasion in violet and white and a very pleasant evening was spent with cards and music. As a tangible remembrance of a happy occasion, Mrs. J. H. Payne presented Mr. Preston with a beautiful hydrangea, covered with bloom and Bruce Preston read the accompanying address.

Mr. Preston thanked his friends for their remembrance and assured them of his pleasure and that of Mrs. Preston, in having their friends with them. Mr. Preston proved that his spirit is still young by giving a step dance and showing skill and dexterity which few young men could equal. The company united in singing "For they are jolly good fellows", which is a time honored manner of expressing good wishes. Supper was served and a large birthday cake with its lighted candles held the place of honor in the centre of the table and the electric lights were extinguished to allow the illuminated cake to be seen to the best advantage. The party broke up shortly after midnight.

Mr. Preston was born in the township of Smith, and lived there until his removal to Lakefield about fifteen years ago and his birthday celebration is interesting to a wide circle of friends. His daughter, Mrs. Turk, and her husband, of Oshawa, were present for the happy occasion.

Y.P.S. DISCUSSES BEETHOVEN'S LIFE

Miss Sadie Young Gives Interesting Paper at Warsaw Meeting.

WARSAW, May 5. — Miss Sadie Young gave a paper on Ludwig von Beethoven at the bieweekly Warsaw Young People's meeting held in the United church on Tuesday evening. Ivan Drain was in the chair. Miss Young traced Beethoven's life from the time, as a child of less than five years, he was condemned to practice for endless hours, because he possessed a great gift for music, and his father determined that the child's talents should support the family. His ancestry on his father's side was decidedly musical, but his father was a drunkard and the family was very poor.

Beethoven was far from good looking, in face or figure, he was clumsy in his movements, eccentric in disposition, careless in dress, but there was no carelessness in his compositions. In time he became deaf and his greatest compositions were written after that affliction came. Although rude and abrupt, his simplicity and straightforwardness won fame for him everywhere.

Alex B. Currie spoke of hymnology. English poetry is accused of being mostly hymns, he asked why not, when the English people have been a people whose life was centred in religion? He spoke of the old Scottish Presbyterians singing psalms and especially mentioned Isaac Watt's hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past.' He explained all the things which go to make up a hymn and the various kinds of hymns.

Mr. E. Hawthorne spoke of Joseph Scriven's hymns and told how the writer of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" was once a guest in his father's home. This hymn was sung, followed by a musical contest and refreshments.

SAFETY BOARD HEARS REPORTS

General Department Has Best Showing For April, Having No Accidents.

AT DELORO REFINERY.

Marmora, May 5. — Though not so lengthy as usual the monthly meeting of the Deloro Safety Committee held in the Hub dining rooms on Thursday evening, was well attended and proved very interesting. R. A. Elliott presided, and after confirming of minutes called upon J. A. Rice for the report of the suggestion committee. Seven worthy suggestions were received during April, and three of which merited reward.

R. Hunter next reported for the competitive committee and mentioned that the General with no accident during last month, was entitled to both flag and star. The flag is awarded for the best departmental showing monthly while the star goes to the department with the best record from the commencement of the year until the current month.

After Mr. Hunter's report keen discussion ensued over the question of an Accidents committee. It was decided to lay this matter over for a month that information might be gleaned as to how this kind of committees operates elsewhere.

H. F. Berry followed with an outline of the prize winning suggestions.

H. Phillips, the past month's floating member on the Inspection committee, gave a very encouraging report and J. A. Rice was appointed floating member for May.

C. H. Buskard gave a brief statement of receipts and expenditures of the trustee relief fund. J. Kelly mentioned two practices of artificial respiration having been carried out at the metals department and J. Judge was requested to carry out practices during the ensuing month.

W. R. Reynolds on behalf of the publicity committe, explained the postponement of the proposed mass meeting as being chiefly due to the inability to get a special speaker.

This concluded the business of the evening. Messrs. J. Judge A. Kennedy and E Hewett are the delegates from Deloro to the annual Industrial Accident Prevention Association convention, which is being held in Hamilton next week.

GARDEN HILL Y.P.S. VISITS BAILIEBORO

Present Excellent Program at Bateson's Hall—Hosts Serve Refreshments.

BAILIEBORO, May 5.—The Young People's League of the Garden Hill United Church motored to the village on Tuesday evening and were entertained by the Y.P.S. of the United Church in Mr. Bateson's hall.

About fifty of the Garden Hill young people were present, and after a few words of welcome by the president of the local society, Fred Barnard to the visitors, Robert Waddell, of the visiting league took charge of the meeting and an excellent program was presented. Franklin Bannister had charge of the topic, choosing for this text, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." The speaker made it quite clear that the only way to live a happy christian life is to follow this commandment. A solo, "My Task" was beautifully sung by Miss Mildred McBride, and Miss Ford read the scriptural lesson.

At the conclusion of the program the meeting was given in charge of the social and literary department, Misses Edna and May Earl, and a most enjoyable two hours was spent in games and contests, which was followed by a dainty luncheon served by the local league. A vote of thanks was given to the local members for their hospitality by Mr. Smith and Franklin Bannister.

Says that All Other Remedies Failed

She Then Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I was troubled with Backache for quite a long time," writes Miss G. M. Howells, Kenaston, Sask. "After trying several different kinds of pills and tablets and as my people used Dodd's Kidney Pills for years, I thought I would try some, too, with great results. After taking a few pills my Backache left me. I now feel all right, but always keep a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills on hand."

TRAINS DELAYED BY DERAILMENT

Necessary To Make Up Special Trains Because of Blockade at Blairton.

HAVELOCK, May 5.—The line at Blairton, where the Ottawa-Toronto passenger train was derailed early Friday morning, was cleared for traffic in the afternoon, the express from Montreal, due here at 2.35 o'clock, arriving sharp on time. The cause of the derailment will not be known till after the investigation. Although the baggage car and four coaches left the track, no damage was done excepting to the ties and rails which was owing to the fact that this train was made up of all steel coaches. The passengers and also those travelling on the Montreal-Toronto train were transferred to a train made up here and arrived in Toronto only three hours behind the scheduled time. The Tweed local was also made up here but was unable to leave until 10 a.m., about three and a half hours late, as the coaches had to be brought from Toronto. The special train from Smiths Falls, bringing the body of the late Ryerson Wood here for burial, arrived about a half hour later.

BURNBRAE FARMERS ARE BUSY SEEDING

Recall Season of 1926 when Late Seeding Brought Bumper Crop.

BURNBRAE, May 5.—Spring has come at last and Burnbrae district farmers are making the most of the opportunity to get the much belated seeding done. While some farmers sowed small quantities of seed in April on spring plowed land, the majority only began on May 1. The fall plowed fields have never been really dry during April due to heavy rains and much freezing and thawing. However, now that a start has been made and with every indication of real spring weather, a large part of the spring grain will be in the ground before the middle of the month.

Many farmers recall the season of 1926, when little seeding was done before May and yet one of the heaviest crops on record was the result, so that there is no need to be discouraged. Warmer weather is making some improvement, so that with the addition of a little barley in the thin spots, the crop of wheat and rye may be fair. Grasses and clover were not affected by the frost to such an extent as the wheat, due to slower starting, and the meadows are now making rapid strides.

While a few farmers find that they will have to plow up alfalfa fields which are winter killed, the general outlook for the hay and pasture crop is a good one. Hay has been a drug on the market all winter, following last year's bumper crop and many stacks were sold for $6 to $9 a ton, the latter for baled hay. With the extremely late spring, however, the pasture is not ready at the usual time and farmers are being forced to stable feed their cows a little longer. This has emptied many hay mows so that the price has risen to $11 and $12 a ton. For the same reason, extra coarse grains and concentrates are necessary for the dairy cows and the prices of these are soaring, so that the average farmer has to do much figuring to know whether it will pay to buy extra feed. Far-sighted dairymen nearly always find that grain feeding pays even when the profits look small as the cattle are kept in better condition and consequently make more profitable use of the pasture when it does come.

With many farmers raising veal calves during the early part of the season, the cheese factories in this locality were later in starting but are going stronger now than is usualy the case at this time of year. While no local sale of cheese are reported yet, Belleville price for the first sale was 19¾ cents, which points to a much better start than last year, when the first sales were below the 16 cent mark.

Hog prices are still low in comparison with grain prices, although a slight advance is noted this week. Little pigs are plentiful, but so far no sales are reported over $3, with more at $2.50. More brood sows are being shipped than for years past as farmers are becoming discouraged by the continued low prices for hogs. Farmers who have fed all their 1927 crop to 8 and 9 cent hogs are quite blue now, but the price of oats has soared to 90 cents a bushel and even the most modest crop would have netted a nice profit.

The new seeding of clover and alsike are said to be looking well on the high land, but very few of the farmers have a field of fall wheat that hasn't several parts through it killed with the frosts.

Roads Improving

The township roads which have been in such a terrible condition during the past month are now becoming quite firm and motor traffic is once again being carried on over the major portion of them. There are still some rough holes, but the past week has made a noted improvement on them in general.

Gananoque Farmer Loses Life In River

GANANOQUE, Ont., May 5 (Canadian Press). — Mr. Thomas Eastwood, an aged and wealthy farmer, who resided east of the Provincial Highway, just west of this town, was found drowned yesterday morning in the St. Lawrence River opposite the Gananoque Golf and Country Club grounds. His daughter, on rising yesterday morning missed him and notified the rest of the family, and search was made with the above result, the place where the body was found being not very far from his own home. He had not been well for about a week, and it is thought that he got up early unknown to the rest of the family and wandered away, in a mental-conscious state to his death.

ARE YOU A MASON?

THOMASBURG, May 5.—"Are You a Mason?" was the play presented by the Dramatic Club of Christ Church, Anglican Young People's Association of Belleville, in the Oddfellows' Hall on Tuesday evening.

When the curtain was raised at 8.15 the hall was crowded. The play was well given and interesting, and the appreciation was shown by the close attention given by the audience. There were three acts and Belleville talent provided music between the acts. The proceeds amounted to more than sixty-six dollars. Lunch was served by the local members of the cast.

The cast was as follows: George Fisher, Franklin Lang; Frank Perry, Edgar Bateman; Amos Bloodgood, L. T. Legott; John Halton, Walter Symons; Hamilton Travers, Knott Gibson; Ernest Morrison, P. W. Sherbert; policeman, Sergeant Hartman; Mrs. Caroline Bloodgood, Mrs. L. T. Legott; Eva, Miss Edith Bone; Annie, Miss Lela Marton; Lulu, Miss Elinor Cox; Mrs. Halton, Miss Myrtle Diamond; Lottie, Miss Dorothy Gibson; Franchon Armitage, Mrs. E. Lang.

ON THE OCCASION of my last visit to the workshop of John Plane, he told me that Salem D. Towne had been giving some words of advice to many of his friends. His remarks had been based upon a wonderful oriental picture. It tells a story which runs something like this:

A certain nobleman gave some money to his servant as he was about to go on a long journey. Upon his return he found that two of them had put his money to a good use. They had invested wisely and well. One came, however, who had simply laid away the money he had received. He did not squander it, or misappropriate it, or steal it; he simply left it unused. For this he was condemned; the charge against him being that he should have put the money in the bank, so that, on his return, his master might have received his own with interest.

What Is A Bank?

A bank is an institution which receives money and invests it where it may accomplish great good and bring well earned returns for the investment made.

Here is one man with $1., another with $5., another with $10., another with $100., another with $1,000 or $10,000., and these separate sums by themselves can accomplish little or nothing, but when they are combined in the bank, then this combined money can build a city block, or furnish a city with ample water supply, or can build a railroad, or establish a steamship line. Without the combination of this capital, nothing of the kind could be done.

So this is the lesson. God has given talents to individuals; if they keep these talent separate and alone, they can accomplish little or nothing, and when the Master comes they will be in the condition of the unprofitable servant.

Your Personality.

To illustrate, each has a personality; that is talent. If that personality is left by itself at home, or goes wandering in the woods or fields, or goes automobiling, it can be of little or no service; but put that personality in the bank of the worshipping congregation, then it makes one of a congregation of one hundred, or one thousand, an inspiring congregation for the worship of God, for the ministry of the word, for the blessing of the world.

Without this there would be no church, no religious assemblies, no kingdom of God on earth, the Lord's Prayer would be useless, and dearth and death would everywhere prevail; but, on the other hand, the most marvellous blessings that have come to the world, have come to or through the worshipping congregation.

Are You A Member.

The progress of the kingdom of God on earth has been largely through the visible church. Where there is no church, the most terrible state of society prevails: where there is a church, it serves like a beacon light, illuminating the whole community and it also moves like a river of purity, peace and life, transforming and fertilizing the whole community through which it passes.

One person cannot make a church, but when many combine and put their membership in the church, then the organized church is an accomplished fact, and all of the beneficent blessings that flow from the church of God come to the community because of this church. Hence, we see how important it is that everyone who loves good, and wants the kingdom of God to prevail on earth, should be a member of His church, and we are exhorted to put our membership in the church, which is God's bank.

What About Your Influence?

Everyone has influence which can be exerted for good. It may be small, it may seem unimportant, and, by itself, it may accomplish little, but when that influence for good is combined with a large number of others, the power for good is very greatly multiplied and becomes an irrestible force for good. The great enterprises of God's church and kingdom and the great reforms that are needed, may be accomplished by these combined influences. Hence you are urged, by all of the wonderful good that can be done, to put your influence in the bank of God's church.

Do Your Pray?

You have a prayer that you can offer to your Heavenly Father. It may seem to you only feeble and unimportant, but combine it with the multitude as they are offering up their prayer to God in his church, and see the whole volume of prayer which is going up, an incense indeed to Heaven. Think of the wonderful results that have come to the world because of united prayer. You have a prayer, and when it is put in the bank of God's church, it may become wonderfully effective, and you may have a part in that power which moves heaven and earth. Put it in the bank!

"Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord." Everyone is a witness, everyone can bear testimony. The kingdom of God has increased because one person has borne testimony to another of the love and blessing of God. This is God's method for the propagation of the gospel and the spread of the kingdom.

Your testimony beems small and unimportant. By itself, it is small, it can accomplish little; but put it in the bank of the Prayer Meeting, or the testimony of the Christian Assembly, multiply one testimony by fifty, or a hundred, or a thousand, and see how wonderful it becomes. Your testimony then is a part of that great witnessing for God that shall bye and bye bring the millenium. Do not undervalue or underestimate your testimony.

Put it in the bank of God's church and you will find that it will multiply many fold and bring to you the greatest joy and the richest blessings.

What About Your Money?

It may be that what you give or think you give for the support of the kingdom of God is very little, perhaps it may be little, a small sum each week. That sum of money by itself could accomplish little, very little, but put it in the bank of the general contribution, then there is money for the support of the church and the ministry and all the great missionary and philanthropic institutions.

It is enough to thrill the heart with great exultation to think of all the good that has been accomplished through our religious and missionary institutions, and none of this could have been done except that individuals combined the money which they had to make up the great sum necessary for the establishing and continuing of these great religious causes. O, what a joy to think that we, each one, can have a part in this wonderful work. The one thought of pain that comes to us in connection with it is that the need is so great and we can do so little of all that needs to be done.

But, if we do the little, as the boy brought the few loaves and fishes to Jesus, this, when blessed of God, can be multiplied and accomplish marvellous things.

We can only keep what we give away. The only treasure which remains is that which is laid up in heaven. By the giving of yourself, and the giving of what you have, and by putting these in the bank of God's church and God's service, the riches of heaven become yours.

What I Saw.

As I took all this in I saw more vividly than before why it was such a serious thing for that servant to take the talent which his master gave and lay it aside unused.

If the richest blessing come through the use of these talents so the most serious results must follow the neglect of them. If all should leave unused their talents then there would be no church, no Sunday School, no Bible, no hymns, no school, no laws; chaos and sin would prevail. What is wrong for all to do is equally wrong for one to do.

Thanking John Plane for the thought he had brought to me through the pen of Salem D. Towne, I took my departure, grateful to God for such a stimulant as had come to me in the workshop of honest John.

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Minister Remarks--

—Some men can't be good-natured even when they have nothing else to do.

—It seems to me that some folks who brag about being self-made haven't much to brag about anyway.

—Some people are afraid to read what they like because it takes time from culture-getting.

—If the man who said, "Let's see, who have I kist?" had been a Bostonian he would have said, "Let's see, whom have I kist?"—or perhaps he wouldn't have said anything about it.

—If every man loved his enemies the world would not seem the same place at first.

A concourse of men in a sacred building in the height of summer. Some of the men are officials, others are ordinary persons. Their leader speaks in confident and defiant language to a solitary man who appears to be not the object of popular sympathy, but rather of dislike. The lonely man is not afraid, but replies—calmly at first, and then in words of veiled scorn and condemnation.

The first speaker steps forward, and with sudden gesture seizes something carried by the other; then with contemptuous action he holds it up, uttering the while words still more confident than before. The man who has been despoiled makes no response, but sadly walks away.

The two men have met again! The character of the scene is different; the attitude of the two has changed. He who on the former occasion spoke so insolently has now to listen to the judgment passed upon him by a court from which there is no appeal, and the one commissioned to declare the sentence is the very man whom he formely insulted.

* * *

Justice is not always slow of foot. Not more than six or eight weeks have passed since those confident words were spoken in the ears of all that concourse of people, and now—the lips that uttered them are silent and cold in death.

The key to the previous Pen Picture of Bible History is to be found in Isa. 7:3 and etc.

TELL US A STORY

PROFESSOR PARADY once taught one of his students a capital lesson in the lecture-room after some chemical experiments. The lights had been put out in the hall, and by accident some small article dropped on the floor from the Professor's hand. The Professor lingered behind, endeavoring to pick it up. "Never mind," said the student, "it is of no consequence, sir, whether we find it tonight or not." "That is true," said the Professor, "but it is of grave consequence to me as a principle, that I am not foiled in my determination to find it." Perseverance can sometimes equal genius in its results. "There are only two creatures" says the Eastern proverb, "who can surmount the pyramids—the eagle and the snail."

Have You Lost Him?

THOUSANDS cry, to-day, in sheer despair, "They have taken away my Lord and I know not where they have laid him." If you are one, here is a word for you: you will find Him where you lost Him; at the prayer place; at the Word which you began to distrust; at the church you began to neglect. If you have lost Him, pray that you may recover Him now.—"Jesus Christ at the Crossroads."

BEHAVE YOURSELVES

IT happened on George street the other afternoon. As it is nobody's business who the actors were, we shall draw the curtain of silence of that part. Let it suffice to sa ythat the woman in the case was leading three small children. As children sometimes will, they were not moving along as quickly as she wished and she commanded them to "Get a move on!" Then she turned to the youngest, who was not more than five or six years of age, and exclaimed in a rasping, strident voice: "Stop fumbling with that bundle, and if you don't hurry I'll knock the head off you." The voice and the words were quite out of harmony with the dress she wore. The child began to whimper, but the woman pushed it along with savage determination, as if she literally were about to carry out her threat.

As I went into the store opposite where this took place I could not help wondering what is to be expected of children brought up in such a way as that! Most people will agree that if they turn out badly the parents are mostly to blame. If young children are threatened and scolded in such a harsh manner their disposition must suffer. The most sunny and good-natured kid will succumb under such unnatural treatment. The child's vision of life will become distorted. Let the average child be accustomed from infancy to cuffs and blows, to ugly words and little or no thoughtful consideration, and inevitably he will grow to look upon life as something dark and revengeful. If he does not turn out a criminal or a degenerate it is only because he has something good in his nature which cannot be destroyed by such treatment.

Most children respond to kindness, as flowers respond to the light and warmth of the sun; and their souls are crushed and robbed of all that is sweet and beautiful by evil temper and cruel words, just as their bodies may be destroyed by the most venemous poison.

So, once more we say, "Parents—Behave Yourselves!" It is a great privilege to be entrusted with the destiny of young life. Show by your sunny disposition, and gentle, though firm, words that you are worthy of the trust imposed.

Execcelesiambulistic Tendencies

IN ADDRESSING his congregation at the King's Weigh House Church, London, Rev. Dr. Orchard makes one think of "A Voice Crying in the Wilderness." Engaged in a big task, and not making as much headway as he would wish, it is not to be wondered at if a minister finds himself dangerously near "the Slough of Despond." In his address Dr. Orchard said that the ideals of the church are primarily only the minister's, and no agreement can be assumed from the apparent acquiescence of the congregation. People walk out less these days, because those who have execclesiambulistic tendencies have learned to walk upward no more. He thinks it likely that "we shall always be few in number, and perhaps get fewer; for not all who set out to run this race find they can keep on." Claiming that he and his people are doing their best to come into communion with everybody which calls itself the Church of Christ, he says that the net result, so far, is that they are more or less out of communion with everyone: barely tolerated, suspected, feared, denounced or excluded. Yet there is nothing that gives such freedom as the faith once delivered to the saints.

—A. F.

When the dust of business so fills your room that it threatens to choke you, sprinkle it with the water of prayer, and then you can cleanse it out with comfort and expedition.—Dr. Stalker.

There are many things in life to which we should close our eyes—and soap is one of them.

Beware lest thy friend learn to tolerate one frailty of thine, and so an obstacle be raised to the progress of thy love.—Thoreau.

If Satan was dangerous when Paul wrote his epistles, how much more dangerous he must be now, for he has so much more experience.

Many Christians get cold warming themselves at the world's fire.

Make the Press More of a Moral Force

A prominent American preacher has been urging the press to make itself more of a moral force by avoiding sensationalism in crime news. It should treat crime and divorce news in such a manner as to make it clear that scandal and law violations are the exceptions in contemporary American life. He believes that concerted measures on the part of the newspapers can resist the trend toward sensationalism and develop in the public a tate of information rather than thrills. He says, "But what hope of progress is there if all the agencies of public opinion surrender to the slogan 'Give the public what it wants?' That principle is as enervating to the stamina of journalism as the slogan 'Everybody does it' is to personal morality.

Foreign Missions A Necessity

HAVE you ever thought where we would be if it were not for foreign missions? People say that we should leave the people alone with their own religion, which must contain something of beauty, but it is impossible for us to leave these people alone, for the Western world is making its imprint on all races on this planet. We have to prepare them for the coming of the traders.

The traders exploit the people, bringing disease and death with them. Without the church these people would get only the worst of our civilization.

The beliefs of these people are in part beautiful, and that part we are attempting to keep, but there is much of it which is terrible. Cannibalism remains to a certain extent. The people will eat a man, not as is generally believed because they like his flesh, for it frequently makes them sick, but that they may get a part of his strength and personality.

Thus spake Rev. Allan G. Whittemore of the Holy Cross Mission in Liberia.

The City Of Gold

Far beyond the storm and tempest,
Far above those starry heights,
Often does my spirit wander
To that land of pure delight.

In this scene of sin and sorrow
Where the tempter has his sway,
Once the Man of Sorrows sojourned,
Now He lives in endless day.

Far away in brightest glory,
Gone there to prepare a place,
Still he bears the marks of Calvary,
Soon we'll see Him face to face.

To His Father He'll present us,
Purified by His own blood,
Some will go there without dying,
Other pass through death's cold flood.

Oh, the joy it does bring to us
While we're in this vale of tears,
When we feel His presence near us
Casting out all doubts and fears,

And we know He never slumbers,
Once while here He fell asleep
And His own, they were distressed
Knowing not His power to keep.

By His word He calmed the billows,
Wind and waves obeying Him,
He's the One that purged our conscience,
Gives peace and joy within.

Soon He's coming to receive us,
We shall be with Him up there,
We'll be with Him in the glory
Where that City lies foursquare.

Oh, the brightness of that City
Where its streets of purest gold,
We may say as one of old did
"Half its joys hath not been told."

Fill us with Thy Holy Spirit
While we're in this house of clay,
Ever listening for that summons,
"Rise my love and come away."

—John Williams, Calgary, Alta.

ONTARIO FALLS IN LINE.

Ontario is to swing into line with the Western Provinces in the matter of old age pensions, Premier Ferguson having confirmed the report that a bill will be brought in at the next session of the Legislature.

In the meanwhile a survey of the Province will be carried out by J. A. Ellis, director of municipal affairs, to ascertain as accurately as possible the number of Ontario people who will be eligible for a pension under the Federal scheme.

This number will be found to be large, some authorities predicting that there are about twice as many Ontario people entitled to assistance in proportion to population than there will be pensionnaires in the Prairie Provinces, and the annual cost will amount to a very considerable sum, probably four or five millions.

There are many people who believe that the old age pension scheme should have been entirely a Federal responsibility, but on the principle that half a loaf is better than no bread, they will be glad to learn that Ontario is to take advantage of the plan by which the Dominion Government will pay half the cost.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.

For the fact that income tax collections up to the first of May this year amounted to $23,850,615, as compared with $9,450,439 for the same period last year, Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, gives the advertisements used by his department in the daily newspapers this year considerable credit.

The experiment has convinced Mr. Euler, as similar tests have convinced private business firms, that the most effective way of reaching the most people in the quickest possible time is to be found in calling upon the advertising columns of the daily newspaper.

In this matter of tax collections the action of the Department of National Revenue, in clearly explaining the income tax and all tht details in regard to its collection to those liable to the levy, has had splendid results.

The people of Canada were able to read just what was expected of them, and since the proof of the pudding is undoubtedly in the eating, the collection of over twice as large a sum as last year up to the first of May may be regarded as convincing proof of the efficacy of newspaper advertising.

In the case of the state as well as in the case of manufacturer or merchant, there is no other medium that will so effectively accomplish the aimed-at results.

WHAT WILL ONTARIO DO?

Premier Ferguson has announced that he will have a statement to make in a short time in regard to his Government's attitude toward the question of vocational training.

The withdrawal of the Federal grant, to take effect next year, and the firm refusal of Premier King to accede to the request of the urban school trustees who waited on him on Thursday that this assistance should be continued, is a matter of great importance.

The Dominion Government takes the position that education is a provincial responsibility, and that it would not be advisable to continue the grant in view of other heavy obligations that have to be assumed by the Federal administration.

As to the first part of this explanation there may be some room for argument, for while the British North America Act undoubtedly left education within provincial jurisdiction, such a development as vocational training was not then thought of and academic education was alone considered.

However that may be, municipalities are faced with the certainty that after this year one-quarter of the cost of technical education hitherto borne by the Dominion Government will have to be taken care of by municipalities themselves, unless the Provincial Government comes to the rescue and increases its grant accordingly.

Mr. Ferguson's statement as to how his administration promises to deal with the problem will be eagerly awaited.

LET US GET SOME PUBLICITY.

Care should be taken to see that the staffs of New York newspapers and the people of the United States generally are given a chance to read all the details of the controversy in the Dominion Parliament over the vote of $70,000 for furnishings for the Governor-General's residence in the Quebec citadel.

The fact that such a sum is to be spent for "carpets and curtains" for the comfort of Lord Willingdon at Quebec may serve to convince our neighbors to the south that the capital of French-Canada is not quite so far up in the Arctic Circle as they supposed.

Somehow the impression of Canada that many people below the international line seem to have is of a land of perpetual ice and snow, peopled largely by Indians and mounted police.

Of the ancient city of Quebec their knowledge is apparently even more elementary; those who don't think it is situated on Greenley Island rather suspect it is located somewhere up in Labrador where doctors' hospitals and serum are minus quantities and where one should be equipped with a sleeping bag and some protection against the wolves.

If we are going to spend a lot of money on trappings for a place where the Governor-General can rough it for a few days while visiting Quebec, let us be good business men enough to see that we get some valuable publicity for the expenditure.

Let us spread the news where it will do the most good; surely even New York newspapermen will see that $70,000 would not be spent in fitting up a wigwam or a log cabin, and that if that much is to be used for fittings Quebec must possess at least one fair-sized building, and must be something more pretentious than a Hudson Bay Company trading post.

THE ASBESTOS TROUBLE.

The asbestos matter, in which the United States Government under the guise of attacking an alleged asbestos combine, is endeavoring to compel the sale of Canadian asbestos cheap in the United States, seems to be attracting considerable general attention. And it should. It is a sample of the arrogance of Uncle Sam when he wants anything his own fashion, and thinks he sees a way to get it. The asbestos matter is a comparatively small one, but it has a big moral. That moral is for other people to keep clear as far as possible of political or business entanglement with the United States in matters where the United States Government may come to think it finds some reason to squeeze an advantage out of other countries.

As the Canadian Mining Journal stated in its last issue, there is no monopoly as far as Canadian asbestos is concerned in the United States or anywhere else, as it is found in a good many countries in large quantities, and it could never fix prices at arbitrary levels. As a matter of fact, the prices of asbestos are very low, and this is emphasized by the small profits shown by the Canadian-owned asbestos companies on the millions invested in the asbestos industry in this country.

The United States have attacked the British rubber and oil interests, as well as the German and French potash interests, and other foreign productions, and now they have turned their guns on their neighbor Canada over a comparatively very small industry. Their attitude should be resented by the people of this country, especially of the Province of Quebec where a large labor population is dependent on the success of the asbestos industry.—Ottawa Journal.

WHAT? WOMEN NOT "PERSONS?"

If, as somebody has said, the law is "the last guess of the Supreme Court," then all we can say is that in deciding as it did yesterday that women are not "persons" and therefore not eligible to become Senators, the Supreme Court has made a terrible guess. How they came to make it, and they all married, only themselves and the Lord can know; and perhaps only the Lord. But in any case the harm's done. Sitting there in their scarlet and ermine, and with not a shadow of a smile on their legal faces, they said, emphatically and unanimously, that when the Fathers drew up Section 24 of the B.N.A. Act and said that the Senate should be composed of a certain number of "persons" possessed of certain qualifications, they didn't have it in their minds that a woman was a "person." So that's that.

Well, frankly, we don't believe it. We have read a lot and heard a lot about Sir John Macdonald, and when anybody, no matter how steeped in legal lore, tells us that he didn't think a woman a "person" we're from Missouri. And the same thing holds for a lot of the others. The Fathers may not have been sheiks or lounge lizards, but there is no overwhelming proof that we've ever seen that any of them were asses.

For—and we ask our learned justices to especially note this—it is an extraordinary and, we should say, a hazardous thing to hold that a woman is not a person. What is a person? We look up good old Webster, and this is what we find:

> Person: A rational being; a being possessing or forming the subject of personality; an individual human being.
> One of importance; a personage.
> One as distinguished emphatically from things or animals.

Shame upon you gentlemen of the Supreme Court! Where is your gallantry, your chivalry? Women not rational! Not individual human beings! Not of importance; and, last and cruellest of all, not distinguished from animals! And not satisfied with holding all of this, to turn round and blame it on the dead. May the ghost of Sir John haunt all of you!

Of course, they tried to hedge. The Government asked them: "Does the word 'persons' in Section 24 of the B.N.A. Act, 1868, include female persons?" And the court, so the reporters tell us, twisted this round to mean: "Are women eligible for appointment to the Senate of Canada?" Conscience made cowards of them all.

The business of referring this question to the Supreme Court was all nonsense, to begin with. This Government or any other government could have gone ahead and appointed a woman senator or ten women senators and nobody would have ever said a word about it. Instead of that, and for no other imaginable reason than the old political one of "passing the buck," there was this reference to the Supreme Court, a lot of quibbling argument and fat fees for lawyers, and finally a lot of trouble.

The position now is that the matter is again up to the Government. If, as Mr. King professes, it is really anxious to have women in the Senate, it will bring down an amendment to the B.N.A. Act, have Parliament agree to it (including the Senate) and send it to London for acceptance. That, in itself, is not so simple as appears. According to our jurists and our political teachers, the B.N.A. Act is a treaty between the Dominion and the Provinces, and the Parliament of Canada can make no change in that treaty unless and until all the parties to it (which of course includes all the Provinces) agree to the change. The chances, are therefore, that there will be no end of wrangling and no end of time consumed before the question is settled; for when lawyers and constitutionists start to argue there's little help for the rest of us.

And in the meantime we're in the absurd position that a woman can sit in the House of Commons, where laws are really made, and cannot sit in the Senate, where they are merely reviewed. It looks as though Bumble was right.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Toronto's new chief constable hopes to pattern the force in that city after London's police. He has chosen a high standard.

We all hope that summer likes the place and has decided to stay.

Get your swatter ready. The open season for flies has arrived.

Anyway, let us hope that those carpets and curtains for the Quebec citadel will be made-in-Canada goods.

Votes for lavish fittings for a Quebec residence for the Governor-General and rumors of indemnity increases for members of Parliament may perhaps explain why there are to be no more Federal grants for vocational training.

While Alberta is fighting over the Coal Standard Board's classification and the railways and disputing their obligations in regard to the transportation of coal, the chance to get a hold in the Ontario market may be lost.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, May 5.—A moderately heavy run of cattle for last Monday's opening market induced an easier feeling, and buyers started out with an intention to cut down prices. The result was a slow and draggy trade for the first few hours. Later cattle began to move over the scales and in some cases buyers had succeeded in lopping off about 25c from the previous week's closing prices. The decline especially hit the heavy coarse steer type. Other grades for the most part were but slightly affected, and were selling toward the close of the day's trading at about steady prices.

In Tuesday's market there was a shade better feeling, but with a rather heavy carry over on hand, prices were not materially changed. Wednesday saw a brisk demand with prices fully restored, and before the close the market had been completely cleaned up, carry over and all, with prices in many cases showing a good 25c advance over Monday's opening, and a shade better than last week.

Good to choice steers averaged 25c higher than Monday's openings. Heavyweight steers sold up to $11.50; tops. Good choice quality handyweights at $9.50 to $10.50. Heifers up to $10.

Baby beeves, strong, up to $12.

Cows and bulls, firm at week's top price, from $8 to $9.

A few stocks moving at $8 to $8.75. Feeders at $8.50 to $9.50.

Calves slightly easier at $12 to $13.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 5 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices fluctuated at race-horse speed yesterday, repeatedly breaking and bulging on indecisive reports about the effect of rains in the Winter crop belt. Bulls contended that much damage done by drought was irreparable.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, ¾ cent net lower to ⅞ cent higher; corn ¼ cent to 1 cent up; oats showing ¼ cent to ⅞ cent advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 35 cents.

Price changes in wheat showed 4½ cents a bushel difference between limits reached at various terms during the day. Always the main reason was some development pointing to greater or less benefit which the Winter crop had received from better moisture supplies, especially in Kansas and Nebraska. About the most comprehensive summary obtainable said that the rains would have the effect of stopping crop deterioration, and that if additional and timely moisture came it would save the part of the wheat crop which is not already beyond recovery.

One of the best trade authorities here pointed out, however, that as a result of drought which has existed since wheat germinated last Fall, a very considerable acreage of wheat has been permanently abandoned and has been seeded to other crops. Meanwhile a further large amount of acreage is so lacking in vitality and so thin on the ground that at best it can make only a small yield. The day ended with advices current that export demand was fairly good, that North American exports for the week showed a rather sharp falling off and that frosts were looked for last night in Kansas and Nebraska as well.

Corn averaged higher, purchases of corn against sales of lard being a factor. Country offerings of corn diminished to a material extent, but weather conditions over the corn belt were more favorable. Most commission houses leaned to the buying side of the oats market.

Provisions reflected upturns in the price of corn, notwithstanding sales of lard to close spread transactions in which corn was simultaneously being bought.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., May 5 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was extremely dull, there being little or no demand from United Kingdom and Continental buyers.

Owing to the renewed strength in oat futures at Winnipeg and the increase in the spreads, the local market for No. 2 Canadian Western oats was strong and prices were advanced two cents per bushel, while other grades were firm and unchanged.

The demand for Spring and Winter wheat flour was quiet but prices for all grades were firm.

A fairly active trade was done in all lines of millfeed and the undertone was quiet but firm.

There was no actual change in local jobbing egg prices, but the indications were that they will be advanced over the week-end owing to the high figures demanded by Western and Ontario shippers for supplies. The demand was good. The receipts Thursday were 3,215.

The trade in potatoes was quiet, and the undertone was easy with prices tending towards lower level on account of the liberal supplies available.

The demand for imported beans was quiet, but the undertone was firm on account of the continued small arrivals. Car lots of choice white, hand-picked beans were quoted at $6.25 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $6.40 per bushel, ex-store.

The weakness in the butter market was more pronounced than any other day this week, and prices dropped 1¼ cent per lb, and the indications were at the close that they would go still lower in the near future. There was no improvement in the demand and business generally was quiet. The receipts were 830 packages.

The feature of the cheese trade was the fact that some business was done overnight with English importers in Western No. 1 white and colored fodder made cheese for May shipment at 20s pad cwt, which is the first reported this season, and the above price was said to be equivalent to about 19½c per lb here. There was practically no demand for supplies on spot and therefore was difficult to quote prices. The receipts were 577 boxes.

GOD'S MINUTE

Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip. For if the word spoken by angels was steadfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense of reward; How shall we escape if we neglect so great a salvation; which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord and was confirmed unto us by them that heard Him. —Heb. 2:1-3.

Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for all the gifts that come from Thy liberal hand; for life and health and friends and home. We thank Thee for Thy protection and care while we slept; and for the new morning with all its call to work; for the food and raiment so freely provided, and for the shelter and peace of this house. Guide and direct us this day in all we do, that we may do Thy will in all our relationships with other people. Help us to be patient, faithful, considerate and kind, and may be not be drawn into temptation and sin. Be with all our absent dear ones, and may their lives and health be precious in Thy sight. May Thy kingdom come in all the earth, so that all men may be brothers. We ask in the name of Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

DISPOSE OF MONEY AFTER OLYMPICS

Paddock and A. A. U. to Decide Runner's Film Earnings.

BOSTON, May 5.—Some time next Summer, after the Olympic games are over, Charlie Paddock, who broke his world's record for the 175 yard dash at the Penn Relays last Saturday, and the A.A.U. will decide on the disposal of the sprinter's film profits.

Charlie, who is making a personal appearance with his film this week at a Boston theatre frankly discussed his amateur standing, his film career and his future.

"Before I started out on this 'personal appearance' tour", he said, "I discussed it with A.A.U. officials and explained the financial understanding I had with the film people. I have signed no contract, but have an agreement with the film producers, who are retaining all money due me until the film has run its course. That will be after the Olympic games are over.

"Then the producers will give me a financial accounting and I intend to let the A.A.U. official decide whether or not my amateur standing would be affected by taking my share of the money earned by my film.

"I have not yet decided how I would react if the A.A.U. ruled that I would become a professional by taking this money. That depends on just how much my share amounts to and how it would affect my film career. You know I can not remain a runner all my life, and I like moving picture work.

When asked what would become of his share of the film profits if the A.A.U. officials ruled unfavorably and he decided to remain an amateur, Charlie replied that it would revert back to his producers.

Other Profits.

The sprinter frankly admitted that regardless of whether he accepts or rejects his film profits, he would derive great financial benefits from his "personal appearances."

"You know," he explained, "this act brings me before the moving picture public all over the country and makes me a prominent film figure. Five weeks of it will put me farther ahead in the films than five years of playing 'parts' in Hollywood studios would."

Paddock, billed as "The World's Fastest Human", wanted to try the 175-yard dash again next Saturday at the Harvard interscholastic meet, but when the special race was suggested to William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, the latter was forced to reject it because the race would interfere with the meet program.

To Keep Running.

Paddock said that Lawson Robertson, head of the Olympic coaching staff, had advised him not to return to California for the western Olympic tryouts, and that he should come here in July to participate in the eastern trials in the Harvard Stadium.

Robertson, he said, had advised him "to run every week or two" until the Olympic tryouts. But now that he cannot run next Saturday he has not decided where his next competitive appearance would be.

"I intend to start intensive training about June 1," he said, "but until that time I plan to get a workout every day or so and race as often as possible."

A STUDY OF FEVERS

How often you hear the expression, "This fever must be broken up at once or it will wear you out." What a ridiculous statement to make! How else are you going to get rid of a fever except by allowing it to burn out?

Fever consumes the surplus carbon, which is the chief cause of disease. By this burning up of carbon, heat is generated, respiration is increased, and the breath comes in short pants. Why is this heavy breathing necessary? Solely to obtain that surplus oxygen which is necessary to burn up the carbon that is clogging up and crippling all of the functions. Nature must unload this carbon or you will succumb to it, and it cannot always be detected because it is all through the tissues; therefore, the body must take in extra oxygen to burn it out.

Fevers only burn up the waste and poisonous material of the system and clean out the toxins of physical corruption. If these poisons could be taken out of the body and burned up, it would of course, be easier on the patient. But nature finds it necessary to burn up the poisons where they are, that is, in the tissues of the body. Temperature is increased, breathing becomes fast, and copious perspiration breaks out on the body. These indications are only signs of steps toward a cure.

Never attempt to break a fever—always try to encourage it, and as soon as the poisons are burned up the fever will disappear. Drink plenty of water if you are thirsty, as this only assists, by furnishing the body with more liquid with which to wash out the toxins. There is no reason why lemon or orange juice cannot be put into the water you drink; in fact, it seems that these citrus fruit juices really encourage elimination by their action in stimulating the flow of bile.

If your fever is accompanied by a chill, it is a good plan to use artificial warmth, packing hot water bottles around the body and allowing only woolen bed clothing to touch the skin so that when perspiration is produced it will be taken up by the wool and the bed clothes will not become clammy, as when cotton sheets are used.

Do not take any "remedy" to cure your headache, as this will only interfere with the natural eliminative processes going on.

Do not be afraid of becoming exhausted, for the more relaxed your body becomes, the more you will perspire, and the quicker your fever will disappear, as the poisons are more easily thrown out through the eliminative organs when the body is relaxed.

Inorganic quinine, such as given in pills, should never be used for a fever as long as the organic quinine is available through the use of the peeling of the grapefruit. To get this quinine from the grapefruit skins, cut the entire grapefruit into small pieces, place in a granite pan, and pour boiling water over it. Allow this mixture to stand at least thirty minutes, and drink the tea from it. This contains organic quinine, and often assists in eliminating the toxins which produce the fever.

You must always remember that in case of a fever you should go to bed and not try to "fight" the fever. If pain exists in any part of the body and you feel that you are developing a fever, take your temperature, and if it is at all above normal, jump into bed between woolen blankets and start sweating as soon as possible. If your bowels did not move well the last day or two, take an enema before you start sweating, and allow this sweating to continue every hour of the day and night until your temperature has been reduced to the normal.

There is very little danger of fatal termination of a fever if you will follow these simple methods. But beware of any method which will interfere with the throwing out of the toxins which were responsible in the first place for the development of the fever.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mrs. K. H. asks: "Can a dead tooth cause neuritis or rheumatism if the tooth shows no pus-bag in the x-ray picture?"

Answer: It is possible to develop neuritis or rheumatism from abscessed teeth. X-rays cannot be depended upon as a positive diagnosis of pus-pockets at the roots of the teeth. X-rays are a very valuable aid to diagnoses, however, and I advise patients to have their teeth X-rayed about every six months. Send for my special articles on rheumatism.

Question: R. J. asks: "With the diet that you recommend, could I drink water from roasted barley that I use as a substitute for coffee?

Answer: The only drink I recommend with meals is plain water, but the water from roasted barley would be quite harmless if you do not use sugar and cream with it.

Question: Mrs. K. S. writes: "I have beeen going by your instructions for nearly a month and have been successful in reducing my weight 15 pounds. I do not know my normal weight and wish you would tell me through the columns. I am 25 years old, and my height is 5 feet, 8½ inches."

Answer: A proper estimate of normal weight must depend not alone on the age and height, but upon temperament and type. You do not say whether you are a man or a woman, but your writing has a feminine look, and I would say your weight should not be under 120 or over 140 pounds. This is the best guess I can make without knowing more about you. Send me a snapshot of yourself in a bathing suit, and perhaps I can make a better guess of what your normal weight should be.

The manufacture of bricks and tiles in China in Western style has developed closely upon the growing demand for modern buildings in Shanghai. Native style bricks and tiles are not adapted for modern construction. The machine-made bricks and tiles came originally from abroad, but now the local product has replaced the imported articles.

STIFF OPPOSITION FOR HELEN WILLS

National Champion Will Meet Leading Tennis Stars of Europe in France.

PARIS, May 5.—Helen Wills will be faced by as strong a field of women tennis players as Europe can muster at present when she seeks the French hard court title, at St. Cloud, starting May 21.

Announcement of the entry list revealed that the American champion's opposition will include Senorita Lili de Alvarez, who met Miss Wills in the finals at Wimbledon last year, as well as a big contingent of British players including Betty Nuthall, Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, Gywnneth Sterry and Eileen Bennett.

Elizabeth Ryan, who defeated Miss Wills twice in America several years ago, also is in the lists. Miss Ryan is said to have recovered completely from the finger injury suffered last winter on the Riviera.

Miss Penelope Anderson, Richmond (Va.) girl, who accompanied Miss Wills to Europe for the team matches, also is a singles entrant. They probably will pair in the doubles, although it is possible Helen will team with Miss Ryan.

Francis T. Hunter, advance guard of the American Davis Cup squad, is entered in the men's events, where his opposition will include the complete personnel of the French and Australian teams.

There is some doubt about the playing condition of Rene Lacoste, but he is entered, along with Jean Borotra, Henri Cochet and the young stars, Boussus and Landry. Gerald Patterson and Pat Crawford are the Australian principals.

The Wright Aeronautical Corporation plans to enlarge its plant at Paterson, N.J., so that it will be able at an early date to turn out 180 of its latest motors in a month. Eight hundred men will be added to its working force.

The Mexican Government has become intensely interested in the immediate establishment of a commercial air service to carry passengers and mail between Mexico City and the U.S. border and its early operation is now expected. A two-day service between the Mexican and U.S. capitals is planned.

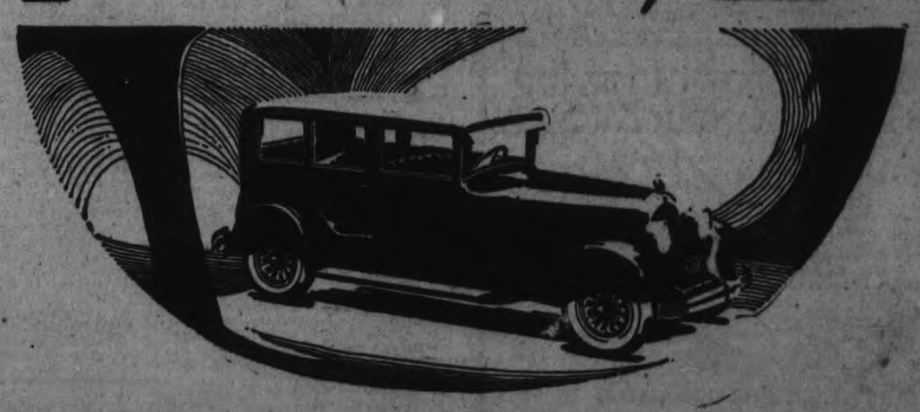
Not an inch have they gained on "72"



NEW performance values came into existence when the first Chrysler was created four years ago. . . . The industry since has gone over en masse to the effort to pattern after them. But the remarkable thing is that Chrysler "72" is just as much alone today as when it was the one and only exponent of its type. ¶ Alone in a theoretical sense only? Emphatically no. Alone in an actual sense—the performance sense which singles it out and sets it apart in competition of the street and road and hill as much as its brilliant beauty sets it apart in the eye of the onlooker.

These things could not be said if they were not true—and especially if the truth were not quickly provable. ¶ Chrysler "72" actually begs for tests and comparisons—it is eager to be checked not only on one, but on all phases of performance, with its most ambitious emulators. . . . It has not yielded a fraction of an inch of its leadership of four years ago—but has actually widened the gap and lengthened the distance. ¶ Chrysler "72" is indeed Illustrious because it is beyond doubt the one great engineering, performance, and beauty value in the market today.

No Trace Of War In Ancient Ruins

MONTREAL, Que., May 5 (CP).—Speaking of the tools of the Mousterian period found in Combe-Capelle, the site of the Canadian School of Prehistory in France, Dr. H. A. Ami, of Ottawa, Director of the Canadian School of Prehistory, told an audience at McGill University recently that there was no trace of war either in the implements or in the industries of the men of Combe-Capelle. Dealing with the school of prehistory, Dr. Ami said that in connection with the work being done in France 15,000 specimens were brought to Canada last year. The school was formed in 1925, and the first to offer help therein was a McGill graduate, Dr. H. M. Tory, former President of the University of Alberta, who was recently appointed President of the Natural Research Council of Canada. Dr. Ami himself is a graduate of McGill.

For the first time in the career of the famous Carolyn Wells, one of her brilliant mystery stories is available for newspaper serialization before appearing in book form.

"ALL AT SEA," one of the most baffling mysteries from her celebrated pen, was written directly for publication in newspapers, and following the run it will be published as a book.

"ALL AT SEA" is a clean, thrilling story with a plot so ingenious that it defies solution. There are 48 stirring chapters.

GRAY STUCCO AND GREEN SHUTTERS

Gilbert Parfitt, Architect.

A house of good taste and proportions and one of careful design and layout allowing for erection on a 50 foot lot, is shown here. The exterior walls of gray stucco and green shutters, colonial entrance and with a roof of dark red shingles adds to the charm of this delightful residence.

The house faces west and with the living room on this side and the dining room on the east side the layout allows for a sunny dining room in the morning and a sunny living room in the afternoon. The living room has a fireplace with tile hearth and one can visualize this room with proper decorating and furnishing.

The kitchen is of good size with a large sink, ample closet space and built in cabinets. A refrigerator alcove is accessible to a grade entrance and kitchen. A small hall between Ritchen and the main hall eliminates steps to the front door for the housewife.

A sun room with sleeping porch above is an added feature and could be eliminated to lower the cost if necessary.

Upstairs are four bright bed rooms with ample closet space, a sleeping porch, and bathroom with built-in bath with shower. The smaller bed room could be used for the maid if necessary, and if wanted a fireplace could be installed in the larger bed room.

This home has dark oak trim on the ground floor and ivory white on the second floor. The foundations are of concrete and brick and the house cost $9,200.

Readers desiring further information regarding a house of this design should communicate with Home Building Information Service, 345 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, Ont., who will see that it is supplied. When writing please mention design number 122. Copyright, 1928.

PARAMOUNT POINTS IN PLANNING

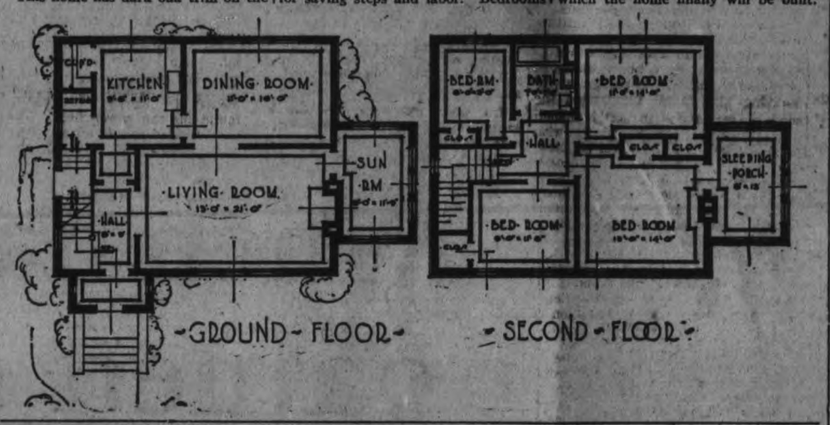
Careful Arrangement of Interiors will Ensure Pleasing Exterior.

What are the chief considerations in selecting a home-building plan? Arranged in order of importance they are roughly as follows: Economic use of materials and labor; Convenience; Comfort; Interior attractiveness; Exterior attractiveness; Finish.

Don't look at your dream house from the outside inwards. Look at it from the inside out. Try to place yourself in imagination inside it. Study the arrangement of the rooms and stairs, take into consideration the saving of steps, the later installation of labor-saving devices, the question of lighting, passages, cupboards, windows, recesses, heating and ventilation:

Kitchens are smaller but better furnished with built-in and other devices for saving steps and labor. Bedrooms are smaller than they were, but better ventilated, and usually with more closet space than was the rule even in the old-fashioned rambling houses. Dining rooms, too, are being reduced in size or eliminated altogether; their place either being taken by breakfast rooms, which are usually sufficient for small families or for homes where there is little entertaining; or else dining facilities are included in the plan of the living room. The latter is the pivotal point of the entire modern dwelling. Gone are the days when the parlor or drawing room was practically closed to the household except on Sundays or when company came in. Living rooms are being expanded to take care of the tendency of the modern family to live in the front of the house, instead of cooping themselves up in the smaller and darker rooms at the back.

Greater satisfaction will be assured if, before building operations are commenced, you have a preliminary set of plans made. You can then study each room, put the plans aside for a while and then pick them up again, thus, over a period of time, familiarizing yourself with what the various rooms will be like, almost as though you were actually living in them. By so doing you will doubtless be struck from time to time with improvements that might be made, and after thinking these over, a revised set of plans can be made from which the home finally will be built.



Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY IN THE CAVE

"Come on, boys and girls!" called Uncle Wiggily to his forty 'leven little bunnies one beautiful morning when the sun was shining and there were no classes in the Hollow Stump School. The Lady Mouse Teacher said all her pupils knew their lessons so well on Thursday that they needn't come to school on Friday.

"Oh, how jolly and fine!" crowed Charlie Chick, the rooster boy, when he heard this. And as Uncle Wiggily called his little bunny boys and girls out of the hollow stump bungalow Jingle and Jangle asked:

"Where are you going to take us, Daddicums?"

"Out for an adventure!" answered Mr. Longears. "Hurry, before all the adventures blow away in the wind!"

"Dear me! Buster needn't stay in on that account," said Uncle Wiggily with a chuckling laugh. "Tell Buster the two long cris-cross marks were made by the new rubber tires of an automobile. On the right of those, in the puzzle, the marks were made by a boy walking with his shoes on, and below them were the tracks of a barefooted boy. While to the left of the barefooted tracks were the paw marks of a dog."

So Custer ran to tell his brother Buster the answer to the puzzle, and soon all the bunnies were following Uncle Wiggily to the woods.

All of a sudden, as they were all hopping along, smelling the sweet Mayflowers, all of a quickness there was a noise behind a big rock and Jingle and Jangle caught hold of each other.

"Here comes the Bear!" they cried.

"Nonsense!" laughed Uncle Wiggily who had seen the twinkle of a little pink nose around the corner of the rock. "It's only Baby Bunty!"

And so it was. Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, who was visiting Uncle Butter and Aunt Lettie, the goat gentleman and lady, had come running through the woods to join Uncle Wiggily.

"Take me with you adventuring!" she begged.

"Of course," answered Mr. Longears. "Hop along with us, Bunty!"

So now there were forty twelve little bunnies with Uncle Wiggily. On and on they hopped, over the fields, up hill and down dale until, after a while, on a distant hill the Fox and Bob Cat saw the procession.

"Look!" whispered the Bob Cat. "There's Uncle Wiggily and a lot of tender little rabbits! Let's chase after them!"

"Come on!" snarled the Fox. So the two bad chaps ran down the hill toward Mr. Longears and the forty twelve bunnies. But Uncle Wiggily was a smart old rabbit, always on the lookout for danger. He sniffed and he snuffed the wind and he smelled the Fox and Bob Cat coming. Looking around for a place to hide the little animal children, Uncle Wiggily saw a cave, or cavern, in the side of a hill.

"We'll hide in this hole!" whispered Mr. Longears.

"Oh, but it's so dark in there!" said Baby Bunty.

"I have some fireflies in a bottle to give us light," said Mr. Longears. "Quick! Into the cave before the Fox and Bob Cat get here!"

So into the cave hopped all the bunnies before the Bad Chaps could catch them, and Uncle Wiggily rolled a big stone in the hole. It was dark in the cave, but the fireflies soon gave light and to keep the bunnies amused Mr. Longears made them a picture puzzle, drawing it on a flat rock with a colored stone. One drawing was of Noah's ark another of a man rowing a boat with oars.

"Here are pictures of some noises," said Mr. Longears. "See if you can name the noises while we are waiting for the Fox and Bob Cat to go away."

NAME THESE NOISES

"Come on!" snarled the Fox.

So the little bunnies hurried, and when Uncle Wiggily began to count the pink, twinkling noses all around him there were only forty ten instead of forty 'leven.

"Some one is missing!" said the rabbit gentleman. "Who is it?"

"It's Buster!" answered Custer. "He's still trying to do the puzzle you gave about the queer marks, or tracks in the soft ground. He can't guess the names of those who made the marks."

Sometimes Asks Camera and Pressmen to Spare Him.

LONDON, May 5.—(Canadian Press).—Probably no individual in the world has faced the camera so frequently as the Prince of Wales. Whether he is attending a great public function in some vast city or other or riding to hounds near some remote fox covert near Melton Mowbray, the photographer, press or otherwise, is ever present. In Leicestershire the Prince knows the pressmen personally, and at times requests them to spare him for once.

His Royal Highness has a wonderful collection of photographs and snaps in his plainly furnished hunting flat at Craven Lodge, where photos of his niece, the little Princess Elizabeth, and his hunters occupy the most prominent positions in the Prince's study.

TWO SAILORS SAVED.

PORTLAND, Eng., May 5.—(Canadian Press.)—Only two members of the crew of the steamer Ioannis Faxallos, which sank after a collision with the British naval supply ship Bacchus yesterday, reached port alive. Ten Greek sailors were drowned and two others died.

There is always the possibility of dangerous impurities in Raw Milk; and well authenticated outbreaks of disease have been recorded to prove this.

Interest in the Cleaner Supply of Milk to householders is widespread. "Where Health Has Right-of-Way"

LAST TRIBUTE PAID TO NORMAN MAKER

pose in this life is to know, love and serve God—we are subservient to Him as members of the fallen races and it is not optional, but necessary.

Man's Duty To God.

"But man, the human being who makes it his daily practice to show his love for God, will have no fear, for the angel of death but calls him to the folds of eternity. We are on the earth to work out our eternal salvation. How foolish it is to merely serve the pleasures of the world, for when the angel of death calls 'What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world and suffers the loss of his soul? We should keep in mind that God created us to know love and serve Him in this world and afterwards to see Him and enjoy Him in eternity; that He created us in His likeness, but to be subservient to Him.

"Therefore it is man's first duty to serve his Creator and in so doing he will necessarily be more charitable, honest and conscientious and will be more spiritual, for it is impossible to be an upright citizen without realization of an eternity. He will recognize his duties and obligations to his felolw men and to his community and when called upon to defend his country he will do it through a conscientious realization of his duties and obligations.

A Christian Gentleman.

All this that I have said may be applied to the late Constable Maker. He was a splendid type of Christian gentleman, seeking to know God and to serve his earthly king. We are told that when his Empire needed help, he, a young man, was found among the old Contemptibles of the retreat from Mons in 1914. I notice some of his comrades here now to honor him. We know that as a soldier he discharged his duties conscientiously, as he did in civil life. That he was decorated with the Military Medal bears this out.

"Following the war, he came to Canada as the country of his adoption, coming here to Peterborough four years ago. He won the love and respect of all with whom he came in contact through his work as a member of the Provincial Police and as a citizen. So fine was his character and upright of his life that one cannot but think God, in His infinite goodness, has taken him to Himself.

"We are here to honor the mortal remains and to pray for the soul which we hope is at home with God. As chaplain of the Knights of Columbus, I am pleased to see them here to honor one who weaved into his life the best principles of that organization, and as chaplain of the Canadian Legion, I am pleased to see so many comrades here who consider it their duty and feel obliged to honor one who was one of the most fearless soldiers in the British nation. You members of the police force, fire department, and citizens at large are here to do the late Constable Maker a similar honor.

"In the sentiments of His Lordship the Bishop and visiting clergy, I say that the family have the deepest sympathy from us all—we are here to show it and to pray for the departed soul. It is one of the greatest acts of charity and the most wholesome and holy acts to pray for the dead. In the words of the Holy Ritual I say, 'May his soul rest in peace and may perpetual life shine upon him'."

Y.W.C.A. PAGEANT

(By Jeanette)

Opening with the usual processional march, which brings the members of all the classes in a grand massed formation on the stage, after taking them right through the house and up an inclined runway, led by little Eleanor Chapman and Dorothy Franks, the program in its first section illustrated the physical exercises which constitute the major part of the work in the gymnasium. The girls wear medium blue or white middies and dark bloomers, with gym shoes and hose, for these exercises, their appearance having a very attractive effect. They were introduced by Duncan Walker, principal of the Normal School, who acted as chairman in the absence of Mayor Denne, who was attending another meeting. Mr. Walker enumerated some of the advantages of membership in the "Y" gym classes and commended highly the work of the leaders of the various departments.

Singlesticks, or elementary fencing exercises by the Advanced Class, constituted the opening number, the light, clashing sticks going through varied convolutions in a new and attractive section of the gym work. This was followed by a large portion of the Junior Class, about seventy in number, doing dumbell exercises. This was a snappy exhibition by the young girls, going through their exercises with military precision, to the rhythmic music which accompanied the entire pageant.

About thirty-two of the Senior School Girls and members of the Advanced Class demonstrated gymnastics based on the Swedish system, a form of calisthenics which calls every muscle into play and was splendidly demonstrated, in different movements which included handstands, pyramids, and wheel formations.

The more serious part of the program was interrupted here by the Romance of the Flower Babies accompanied by Naughty Felix Cats, an affair which elicited much amused appreciation from the audience. Casting lengthy shadows on the back drop, a group of tiny tots dressed as flowers; pink and blue roses and forget-me-nots, papered about the stage to be joined later by thirty or more cunning little black cats, with enveloping tight black cat suits and hoods, very long black tails and white neck bows. The two huge white eyes of "Felix the Cat" decorated their close head caps. These children, as well as the Flower Babies, are members of the Babies' Class and Babies' Rhythmic Class, and their ingenuous acting and manner of getting all tangled up in their long tails, brought them plenty of applause.

Wand exercises by thirty-four members of the Elementary Class followed, a graceful demonstration done in perfect time. A novelty on the program was the Intermediate Class' demonstration of Mimetic activities, a type of exercise which illustrates with ease and agility the different actions used in sports and games, such as throwing and catching the ball. Some forty-five girls took part in these exercises, and a class of thirty-seven of the Senior School Girls and members of the Advanced Class exhibited a special series of very intribate and well-done club-swinging feats.

The musical accompaniment to these exercises and to the dances which followed was especially good this year and formed a fitting background for the well-executed exercises and graceful dance numbers. During the intermission before the dancing program started, the orchestra played some snappy music. Miss Florence Gladman and Miss Muss Cox were at the piano; Arnold Spencer, violin, and T. Smith, drums and traps.

The applause which was general for the physical exercises also greeted the exhibition of lovely dances which formed the second portion of the program, and which were executed with the same qualities of speed, grace and precision.

There were about sixty members of of the Junior Class in the alert, vivid dance number entitled "The Dutch Twins," the boys in Delft blue baggy blouses and pantaloons and the girls with tulip yellow skirts, soft blue blouses, white aprons and white Dutch caps. They did a jocund, stiff-jointed, hoppy sort of dance in true Dutch style, simulating a courtship.

Following was an old French polka done by thirty members of the Elementary Class, a faceful, light-footed "heel and toe" number, the girls wearing fairly long skirts of rose and blue flowered chintz and black laced bodices, in French peasant style. There was a quaint, old-time charm to this dance which made it extremely attractive.

"Trepak" was a Russian national dance by forty members of the Intermediate Class, the simulated "men" wearing short navy breeches, loose scarlet caps; the girls with bright yellow skirts, oblong black slashed aprons and black bolero over white blouses. Their pointed head-dresses had flowing pendant ribbons of different colors. Their number was done with stamping, measured beat and swift, vital, advancing and retreating movements, in a coquettish national dance with vibrant musical accompaniment, and colorful costuming.

Lovely, soft, appropriate lighting was a feature of the atmospheric, mild grace of the beautiful "Carol of Spring," which was a poetic dance of picturesque charm. Three groups of maidens, nine in all, interpreted the song of springtime in softly flowing pink and rose chiffon frocks with pointed hem-lines and silver slippers. The garlands of flowers which decked them were used to form festoons in the dance; the flowers, filmy draperies and soft, graceful movements making a charming ensemble. Members of the Senior Dancing Class had this number.

A second of these softly graceful and quiet dances which brought renewed applause from the audience was the fascinating interpretation of the always popular "Blue Danube" Waltz, its alluring strains set to shimmering movement and color in a rhythmic maze of soft blue frocks and twinkling feet, going through the measures of the rhythmic old favorite. Senior School Girls and members of the Advanced Class had this captivating rendition, which was one of the most beautiful of the dancing numbers.

An effective and enchanting close to the program of dances and a finale to the evening's entertainment was a bewitching thing entitled "Songs of the Sea," interpretive of the wind and waves and of some of the creatures that dwell by the ocean's shore. This was done by members of the Senior, Intermediate and Special Junior Dancing Classes, the Seniors, who were mermaids, wearing fringed sea-green costumes and carrying seaweed scarfs, and their winsome little attendants, simulating tiny seagulls and sandpipers, in frocks of misty sand-colored chiffon.

Miss Littlefield, the popular instructress of the "Y" gymnasium classes, was presented last evening with two lovely baskets of pink roses, the presentation being made by three dainty little maidens, Louise Spriggs, Betty Jary and Evelyn Hill.

Members of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and their wives occupied boxes last evening and will also have boxes for this evening, when the second presentation of the pageant will be given.

WRIGHT OPPOSED FOR OLYMPIC TRIP

Canadian Champion Sculler and Partner Must Fight For Right.

TORONTO, May 5 (Canadian Press).—Johnny Durnan and Jack Barlett, well known amateur scullers, have been practising hard in a doubles shell with the intention of contesting the right to represent Canada in the doubles at the Olympic games, with Jack Guest and Joe Wright Jr., Canadian champion. It was announced recently that the latter couple would compete at Henley, England, and also in the Olympic aquatics, but Durnan and Bartlett are to oppose Wright and Guest in the Olympic trials at St. Catharines, June 5 and 6.

A Regiment of Two

A sparkling three act comedy entitled "A Regiment of Two" was presented last night by the Dramatic Society of Sacred Heart Parish in the St. Alphonsus Lyceum. The plot was tense throughout and the play was exceedingly well presented and acted.

The plot was the story of two men, father and son-in-law, who were living with their wives in the same home. These two men wanting some freedom, joined the Tigers' Club, their wives thought they had joined the Militia. Every Friday night they would go out as if to go to military drill, but would go to the meeting of the club, where, to put it mildly, a good time was had by all.

The wives for some time did not become suspicious. Then one Friday night Minnie Allan, who played the role of the mother, wanted her husband, William Collins, to remain at home and meet an English gentleman, Lord Dudley (John Cairns) whom she had met in the old country, and promised her younger daughter Laura (Margaret McCarthy) in marriage. Grace, Mrs. Arthur Sewell (Genevieve Meagher) wanted her husband (Joe Collins) to remain at home also. The men made excuses of disloyalty, and said that they were being promoted from the awkward squad to the regulars on that evening, and that they must be there.

Harry Brentwood (Roy Bacon) an officer in the regiment, and a lover of Laura, explained why it is absolutely necessary that the men attend. He also spoke of the coming of the English Lord to seek Laura's hand, and was told by her father that the Englishman would not get her. The mother on the other hand, told Harry not to come back as Laura was going to marry the Englishman.

The men left as the Englishman arrived. A water pipe had previously broken and Arthur after trying to fix it got the maid (Anna Johnston) to summon a boy friend of hers who was a plumber. Herb Masterson, the plumber arrived, and temporarily fixed the pipe, saying he would have to leave for drill and would be back in the morning. Eliza immediately inquired if her husband and son-in-law were members of the unit, and was told no. A note telling of the Tigers' club party was found on the chesterfield. The women decided to go and get their husbands, but Laura, who had been familiar with what was going on, phoned the men while the women were getting their cloaks. Laura to detain them, pulled the plug out of the water pipe, and Lord Dudley got wet trying to replace it. This gave the men an opportunity to get home, and they arrived carrying militia uniforms under their arms. Laura gave Lord Dudley the cold shoulder.

In the final act the regiment was ordered to leave for Panama. The two husbands left also, but went on a fishing trip. They forwarded letters to Harry and he sent them from the front to their wives. Eliza's brother (A. Jones) a man from Texas arrived just as the women heard that the regiment had been annihilated. There was great mourning but the brother although very rough, had plenty of money, and promised to support them.

Later, the husbands tired of fishing and hearing that the regiment was coming home, arrived also. Much explaining was done. The make Harry out to be dead, and a pitiful dying scene follows. Mary arrived home telling them that the reports of annihilation were all wrong. The plumber also arrived and told the women about the fine soldiers their husbands made.

Every part in the play was well taken. The players showed that they had put much time in preparation. That prompting that is noticeable in many amateur plays was missing and the acting was most realistic.

During the intermissions there were songs by Miss Minnie Allan, Miss Margaret McCarthy, and a quartette of male singers, and a violin solo by Joe Collins.

It is said that before a famous aviator was about to cross the ocean in his plane he consulted a fortune teller to get a preview of the result of his trip. "I want to know" he told her "if my venture is going to be a success." "The cards will surely tell us" replied the old woman, who forthwith proceeded to lay the cards on the table. "Now there are five things you must have to accomplish your trip, and if the cards come right they will show them." She therefore laid the cards in five rows, each row spelling the name of the thing he must have to reach America safely. After the cards were all laid out the aviator inquired anxiously. "Well, will I succeed, have I the five things necessary?" "Need the cards speak," replied the fortune teller, "and you will see."

HOW HE READ THEM

"You see," said the fortune teller, "each row of cards spells a word, and each card represents a letter of the word. If a card is the ace, or one spot of anything that card represents A, B or C. If it is the two of any denomination it represents D, E, or F, and so on. Now here is your code, see if you can work out the names of the five things you must have to successfully fly the ocean, and if you can read them in the cards you will be successful. To help you a bit the second word is "ship." Now find the other four yourself." The aviator did it. Can you?

STONE AGE PITS FOUND IN ESSEX

Excavations Reveal Bodies of Folk Who Lived About 2,000 B.C.

BURIAL MOUNDS OPENED.

LONDON, May 4.—(Canadian Press).—Interesting discoveries have been made at the prehistoric flint mining station on Blackpatch, a hill near Worthington. These finds relate to the industrial life and burial customs of a race of people who are believed to have settled in South Britain at the close of the Stone Age. Extensive excavations have been carried out continuously since 1922 by J. H. Pull and C. E. Stainsbury, of Worthington. As a result the burial mounds of the folk who sank and worked the flint mines have been found.

The prehistoric site at Blackpatch consists of a number of Stone Age mines hafts, which were sunk deep into the solid chalk to obtain access to the seams of a certain kind of flint from which these early Britons fashioned their tools and weapons. In the neighborhood of these shafts and bordering a very ancient road are a number of circular grave mounds or barrows. Four of these burial mounds have been examined. One contained cremated human remains which had been placed in a cinerary urn, the rim of which was ornamented by impressions of a twisted thong of hide.

A second mound contained the skeletons of three human bodies. Two of them were the orginal prehistoric interments, laid in an oval grave below the mound. The third was that of a Saxon who had been buried at a much later time. A short iron knife or saxe was still grasped in this skeleton's left hand. The third mound contained the skeleton of a man and a woman lying side by side with the cremated remains of a third individual scattered round them. The man's bones were surrounded by flint implements, including arrow heads, celts or axes, and knives. Both these skeletons were in the crouched or contracted position common to early burials of the stone and bronze ages. Shells of edible land mollusca had been placed near each, presumably as food for use on their spiritual journey. A flint mine was found and explored beneath these interments, as was also the case with the first mound opened. A fourth mound contained the skeleton of a man in an oval grave sunk into the chalk rock beneath. Flint knives and arrow heads had been buried with him.

These burials are attributed to the Beaker Folk, a tall, round-headed race who came to Britain from Northern Europe about the years 2,000 to 1,800 B.C., and who although they still used and made flint implements, are supposed to be the first people to introduce bronze into these islands. It is now believed that it was these Beaker Folk who worked the flint mines over which these burials have been found. Their name originates from the fact that it is not unusual to find a beaker or drinking cup, fashioned from a distinctive kind of pottery, buried in the grave with them.

Canada's wine-making industry is developing rapidly. From less than 1,000,000 gallons four years ago, the output is expected to exceed three times that amount in 1928.

PARIS SEES TREND TO TREATY IDEAS

Word That Kellogg Agrees To Recognize Previous Commitments Heartens French.

PARIS, May 4.—The Quai d'Orsay was heartened today by an official report received from Washington saying that Secretary Kellogg sees no objection to recognizing that France's treaties with her allies enter into the general category with the Covenant of the League and the Locarno compacts as existing commitments which would not be disturbed by the operation of the proposed anti-war treaty.

Further, more assurance from London are said to have been comporting in that the British, without committing themselves on how it should be done, favor making it plain that the anti-war treaty would not affect prior promises by the contracting parties.

In addition, the German Ambassador has told the French that the Germans, notwithstanding their reply to Washington, stand ready to discuss with France ways and means of putting their position into official clearness.

There had arisen in Paris some misunderstanding, it appears, regarding Secretary Kellogg's position toward the French alliances. Up to today it had been said that the American Secretary of State, in mentioning that the League Covenant, the Locarno compacts and the treties guaranteeing neutrality would not be affected by his proposal, had neglected the French treaties with their allies.

Confusion Was Due to French

If there was any basis for this complaint it is the fault of the French, for Mr. Kellogg replied point by point to the issues raised in the last French note and that note referred only to the League Covenant, the Locarno compacts and the treaties of guarantee. The confusion arose from the fact that the French have the habit of regarding the treaty guaranteeing Swiss neutrality as the only neutrality treaty, they applying other names to the treaties with Belgium, Poland, Rumania, Jugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

Therefore it appears that if Mr. Kellogg failed to mention those treaties, it might well have been because the French did not name them in their note.

Mr. Kellogg's speech shows that when discussing the neutrality treaties he intended to refer to the French treaties with their allies.

Therefore, it appears that the parties concerned are getting closer and closer together. The French now admit that Mr. Kellogg appears willing to recognize the good foundation of their reservations. He seems to agree that all their present treaties should remain in effect when they sign the treaty promising never to fight again, although the commitments remaining in effect pledge them to fight under certain conditions.

Poincare is Less Optimistic

What remains to be done, it seems, is to decide what reservations shall go into the treaty and what reservations shall not. It is now suggested in Paris that the jurists of the League members concerned should discuss this phase at the next favorable opportunity, which, it is held, will be the meeting of the League Council in Geneva in June.

Thus, on the face of it, Paris is optimistic about the treaty, although the French mood seem to go through sudden shifts. While officials at the Quai d'Orsay appear well satisfied, it is reported that Premier Poincare himself is not so sure the treaty affair is as near settlement as the Foreign Office believes. M. Poincare has not yet been brought around to see why reservations recognized as fair and just should not be written into the treaty.

Premier an Important Factor

M. Poincare has a meticulously exact mind. He loves details and perfect contracts. His mind does not take to general formulae like those embodied in the Kellogg treaty and he has no patience with the American argument that the League provisions for sanctions amount to encouragement of war. To him such a statement is just as ridiculous as to say that all the penal systems of the world amount to nothing more than encouragement of crime. On the other hand he sees as fully as any on the desirability of getting American co-operation in any international peace effort.

Only he thinks we should not try to reform the whole world at one fell swoop, if for no other reason than that he believes we would not succeed. And above all, in calculating what M. Poincare will do, one must recall that he is a historian. That means that the acclaim given in Washington to the German reply has for one effect, to recall to his mind the violated treaty of Belgian neutrality.

The mentality of M. Poincare must be counted with in view of the French elections. Without him there is nothing doing in Paris.

Mistakes Mothers Make In Care Of Little Ones

Many mothers give their children solid foods at too early an age and say proudly that their babies "eat everything that grown up people do." Such a course is almost certain to bring on indigestion and lay the foundation of much ill-health for the little one.

Other mothers administer harsh, nauseating purgatives which in reality irritate and injure the delicate stomach and bowels and at the same time cause the children to dread all medicine.

Absolutely no meat should be given to a child until it reaches the age of 18 months, and then only if approved by the doctor. For medicine, all strong, disagreeable oils and powders should be abandoned and Baby's Own Tablets given instead.

Baby's Own Tablets are especially made for little ones. They are pleasant to take and can be given with absolute safety to even the new-born babe. They quickly banish constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers and make the cutting of teeth easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHICAGO POLICE CHIEF RETIRING

Ill Health Ostensible Reason For Retirement of Big Bill's Henchman.

HUGHES ISSUES DENIAL.

CHICAGO, May 4.— The mighty wallop which Mayor Thompson and his ticket received in last month's primary is not without its effect as a lesson, for he is turning over a new leaf. The rumor that Chief of Police Michael Hughes is to go, is apparently well founded. When Thompson appointed Hughes a year ago, he said:

"I am going to run all the crooks out of Chicago. I told Mike Hughes, the best policeman in the country, to run them out, and he will."

Records indicate that Chicago is still loaded down with crooks and the police has made no material reduction in the ranks. Hughes has been in ill health and this is being given as an excuse for his retirement. With the attempts to oust three judges from the criminal courts, a new deal in the police department, the Crime Commission and the Association of Commerce hope to rehabilitate the reputation of the city.

Hughes, reached at Excelsior Springs, denied that he would resign "I'm not going to quit," he said. "Nothing to any such reports. I'll be back at my desk on Saturday or Monday, running the department."

Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson, who had a piano moved into his office where he could practice "Big Bill the Builder," is another that gossip has it, must go. He was formerly attorney for Samuel Insull, and this link has caused attacks on the Mayor. The overwhelming defeat of the whole $79,000,000 bond issue is said to have been the bitterest blow to Thompson.

C.P.R. EARNINGS REPORTS NOT ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY

INCREASE IS EVIDENT

MONTREAL, Que., May .—At the annual meeting of the Canadian Pacific Railway shareholders here on Wednesday, E. W. Beatty, Chairman and President said:

There is nothing in the annual report which you have had before you which seems to require very extended comment from me, particularly in view of the rather comprehensive review of the company's activities presented at the last annual meeting. The results of the year's operations accurately reflect the conditions which prevailed during that period and, viewed from the standpoint of a sufficient margin in net earnings after charges and dividends, they cannot be considered entirely satisfactory. The decrease in rates and increase in wages granted had their inevitable effect upon the earnings of your company and, in addition, expenditures on equipment and maintenance of way were substantial. The gross earnings for the first three months of this year show an increase of $3,964,778 and net earnings of $1,651,672. If the same relative increase is maintained during the balance of the year, the surplus after charges will be ample to take care of the increased dividend requirements for the year.

While it is impossible to forecast the possible crop yields at this time, it is encouraging to be able to advise you that the prospects are distinctly favorable. The seed bed is considered to be in better condition than at this time last year and there is ample moisture in the soil. The area of new land broken this year totalled 1,385,437 acres, an increase of 257,701 acres as compared with last year. The total acreage prepared for crop shows an increase of 920,708 acres, or 5.9 per cent. The improved condition, agriculturally speaking are also evidenced by the sales of farm lands for the first three months which have been almost double those of the corresponding period of last year.

Net Earnings Lower.

I have been accustomed in previous addresses to the shareholders to deal rather fully with the subject of freight rates because of their vital importance to your interests and while little in addition need be said at this time, it is only proper that I should point out that the net earnings of the company during the past year only represented a return on the investment in the property of 4.04 per cent, and the percentage of surplus from railway earnings to the amount invested in the property of 14-100 of one percent. If your company had received the average return on investment of class "I" railways in the United States during 1927, its net operating revenue would have been $42,962,000, and if it had received the fair rate of return permitted under the transportation act of the United States, its net earnings would have amounted to $56,143,000. Putting it in still another way, if your properties were valued on the basis generally adopted in the United States, net earnings would have represented probably less than three per cent. On such valuation, it is very difficult to bring home to the average business man the realization of just how low a return the company's earnings involve because, while it is known to most investors, it is not generally appreciated that the maintenance of your present dividends of seven per cent from rail earnings is due entirely to the extraordinarily low capitalization of the company.

The conservative policy adopted in former years of putting surplus earnings back into the property has, of course, been a tremendous advantage to your interests in times of light traffic and lower earnings, but undoubtedly the point has now been reached when no further diminution in these earnings can safely be made. The rates on grain were again substantially reduced last year. These losses and the effect of the increased wage scales can only be met in one of two ways, either by increased gross earnings due to increase in traffic, or by increases in freight rates. Naturally we hope that the former will still supply the deficiency, but if it fails to do so, your directors would not hesitate to appeal to the railway commission for the necessary relief. They have good grounds for doing so even under present conditions when the disparity between the rates in Canada and those charged for similar service in the United States is taken into consideration. The situation will be carefully watched and appropriate action taken as the necessity arises.

Your company continues to be the heaviest taxpayer in Canada, the total of federal, provincial and municipal taxes paid during 1927 amounted to $7,358,493 which is equal to $20,160 per day, $840 per hour and $14.00 per minute.

Confidence Undiminished.

The confidence in the companys' progress to which I have given expression on other occasion has been in no degree lessened by the lower revenues of last year, the reasons for which are well known. There is a very solid opinion throughout the country that, given good crops and active immigration, our period of prosperity should extend over several years. It is conceded that our immigration activities have not given satisfactory results and a committee of the House of Commons is now investigating the question with a view to suggesting measures to improve the situation. The only disquieting feature is the impression which prevails in some circles that because we have made progress in recent years we should be content and that a steady flow of people to Canada, even if confined largely to agricultural classes, is not essential. No view could, in my opinion, be more erroneous. The admission of settlers with sufficient preliminary training to enable them to embark upon farming operations is so obvious as to require no elaboration.

We have millions of acres of good arable land within reasonable distance from railways and admittedly they can add nothing to the country wealth unless occupied and cultivated. The products of our farm lands enjoy an eviable reputation in the markets of the world and the impetus given industry through greater agricultural prosperity can scarcely be over estimated. Therefore, in conjunction with the government and various immigration agencies, your company is continuing its activities in the selection, transportation and placement of intended settlers.

In your steamship operations, I have only to report a gradual improvement. It is essential, as in its other activities that in that branch service the company keep pace with the requirement of the trade and to this end its obsolete tonnage is being gradually disposed of and as a vessel reaches the age limit they are being replaced by larger and more modern ships. In anticipation of the necessity of replacing one of the older first class vessels on the Atlantic, your directors have decided to ask your approval to the construction of an additional vessel, the contract to be let now. It is also considered essential that a fortnightly service should be re-established on the Pacific, the future trade on which offers great possibilities, and you will be asked to authorize the construction of a new vessel of the same general type as the "Empress of Canada" for that service.

Fine Accounting System

In the conduct of operations of the magnitude of those of your company, the most perfect accounting system possible to be obtained is, of course, highly desirable and we have take a not unnatural pride in the efficiency of the system inaugurated many years ago. I know it will be gratifying to the shareholders, as it was to the directors, to learn that in a special report made covering five years of work in the checking and auditing of agency accounts the amount written off owing to defalcations was $237.05, while during this period the total amount credited to agents by the treasurer exceeded $1,032,000,000. This result could only have been obtained by the most stringent scrutiny and I cannot help but give public expression to a fact so creditable alike to the agents, the efficiency of the supervising officers and to the system itself. I doubt if there is any company which can show a cleaner record.

Early this year we lost by death one of our older officers in the passing of I. G. Ogden, who was initially responsible for the establishment of the accounting system presently in existence in the company and a little later of C. E. E. Usher one of the most experienced passenger traffic officers in America. Both these gentleman had performed remarkable effective work over a long term of years and had both passed the period of retirement though remaining in office until their deaths. John Leslie, formerly vice-president and comptroller, has been promoted to the vice presidency made vacant through Mr. Ogden's death.

One of the characteristics of the company, never perhaps so apparent as during the last few years of intensive competition with a governmentally-owned system, has been the loyalty of its officers and men. That loyalty, so conspicuous among the older officers, had fortunately been inherited by the younger officers and men of all ranks, and I think I can safely assure you that at no time in its history has the morale been higher and the striding for efficiency more unremittingly. It is a great personal pleasure to us to testify periodically to the ability and loyalty of our officers and men, which I do without hesitation and without reserve.

JAPAN FAVORS PEACE CONFERENCE

Cabinet Has Not Yet Examined U. S. and French Drafts.

TOKIO, May 5. — The French proposal for a conference of jurists and ambassadors to pool their views on the French and American peace plans is supported by the Japanese Government on condition that America is included in such a conference. In the Japanese view such a conference is the most practical next step in negotiations but to obtain results it must be six-power, not five power as originally suggested.

Engrossed in a political struggle for its life the Cabinet has not had time to consider the American and French drafts which are still under the examination of the Foreign Office jurists but in governmental circles a distinct movement of influential opinion in favor of Mr. Kellogg's plan is perceptible.

When they examine the problem from the legal standpoint, Japanese statesmen become conscious of its extreme delicacy and are thankful that the task of finding a formula which will not say too much or too little does not fall primarily upon them. But as the purpose of the treaty is studied, technical difficulties tend to take a subordinate place in the Japanese view.

The Tokio authorities understand that any American administration must act with the concurrence of the Senate and they believe that it is more important for other nations to find a way of associating themselves with the United States in a world safeguard for peace than to try to cover, in the text of the treaty every conceivable contingency.

The situation as seen in Tokio, is that France disagrees with the Kellogg plan, Germany accepts Italy is silent and Great Britain understands the French objections, but agrees with America's aim and will make a serious effort to build a bridge between the two. Japan's attitude is practically identical with the one attributed to England. The issue is held to concern Europe more than Japan which cannot be expected to take the lead, but which desires to see the project succeed and is already to play a strong second in the movement to reconcile the Franco-American differences, which she anticipates from England.

One high official told me he thought it might be possible eventually to sign the Kellogg treaty as drafted with a subsequent exchange of notes on points where the powers may wish to make their terms clear.

Tokio considers itself quite unsuitable as a location for the suggested conference.

Expert examination of the new arbitration treaty is now well advanced but the matter has not yet reached the cabinet. After passing the Cabinet the treaty must pass the Privy Council which plays the part of Senate here. Some councillors would like to balance America's reservation on the Monroe doctrine with a corresponding reservation concerning Japan's interests in Asia. Others point out that the words, domestic questions," can be extended to cover almost any issue.

Official opinion is averse to attempts, however, to introduce addenda which would have little practical effect and only cause difficulties in the Senate. The conciliation treaty is still being examined.

What do you Think of This?

"I HAVE just been reading in this paper about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a relief for sleeplessness and nervous headache.
"Well, why don't you try it."
"I would if I only thought it would do me as much good as this Mrs. Dupuis of Renfrew, Ont., says it did her."
"I am sure that it would for several women have told me the same thing and I am going to buy you some while I am down town."
"All right. It must have unusual merit when so many people are enthusiastic about it and I will certainly give it a good try out."

PAINTED FABRICS BY WAR VETERANS

Sale of Work Done By English Ex-Service Men is Opened.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 4.—(Canadian Press).—A sale of "Painted Fabrics", the work of ex-service men with headquarters in Sheffield, England, was formally opened here this week by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, Rt. Hon. F. A. Anglin. "Seldom have we the opportunity of combining service to our own interests with a real and substantial service to a good cause", the Chief Justice said. The painted fabrics comprised many beautiful garments which found a ready sale. The sale was held in behalf of war veterans, the goods having been brought to Canada for that purpose.

16 HOURS SAVED BY MAIL PLANES

Letters From Incoming Steamers to be Carried to Toronto.

STARTING TO-MORROW.

TORONTO, May 5 (Canadian Press). — Sixteen hours' saving on the carriage of incoming European and British mail from Rimouski, Que., to Toronto, will be effected when the first air mail plane arrives here to-morrow with the mail carried by the steamship Empress of Scotland, which is scheduled to arrive at that point in the St. Lawrence early to-morrow morning. W. E. Lemon, Toronto postmaster, pointed out today that this saving, which will also be effected on outgoing mail, means much to Toronto's trade and commerce—"and it means as much, even more in some cases, to the points west of us."

The journey scheduled for to-morrow inaugurates a regular service between ocean-going liners and this city, the mail being carried by way of Montreal. The saving in time naturally extends to the shipment of mail for Winnipeg and Western Canada, forwarded from Toronto by regular methods.

The Bus Driver

Buses have to operate on schedule and we make sure of dependable service by using Champion Spark Plugs.

Champion is the better spark plug because it has an exclusive sillimanite insulator specially treated to withstand the much higher temperatures of the modern high-compression engine. Also a new patented solid copper gasket-seal that remains absolutely gas-tight under high compression. Special analysis electrodes which assure a fixed spark-gap under all driving conditions.

SITUATION BAD IN CHINESE CITY

Fighting Between Nationalists and Japanese Has Ceased For a Time, However.

REINFORCEMENTS ON WAY.

PEKING, May 5.— (Canadian Press).—Scant advices from Tsinan, the battle ground of the Chinese Nationalists and the Japanese troops who formed a protective cordon around foreigners concentrated there, to-day indicated that the situation continued to be extremely serious.

The firing, which continued all day yesterday, ceased at seven p.m.

Advices said several Japanese women were assaulted and killed by the Nationalists. The naked and maltreated body of one Japanese woman was found near her countrymen's lines of defense.

Japanese reinforcements were heading fgor the city from Tsingtao and Manchuria. British, United States, and Japanese consults and naval officers conferred on the methods to be used to maintain order at Chefoo.

Anti-Foreign Rioting.

SHANGHAI, May 5. — (Canadian Press.)—Information from the Nanking office of the Standard Oil Company is to the effect that foreigners other than Japanese had been the objects of anti-foreign rioting at Tsinanfu. No further details were obtainable.

Reports of chairmen of committees were given, and the Watch Tower Heralds responded for their appointed countries.

Plans were made for an afternoon tea on Friday, 11th, at the home of Mrs. C. G. Moon, with a birthday tea to be held later in the month.

Several ladies took part in a reading on Stewardship, and a chorus was given by Miss Wood and Mesdames Maybee, Henderson and Fivers, which was much enjoyed.

ditions that are essential to boating comfort. This test room was used as an oven for drying shells during the war, and with a few minor alterations might have been made to order for its present service. A big hood has been fixed over the vat to carry off the fumes from the sixteen engines and an electric fan in the wall-end of the pipe leading from the hood creates the draft that keeps the air in the room pure. There is a final comparatively brief five-minute test for which a special room has been built on the east side of the interior.

Altogether, a Johnson portable outboard motor undergoes 641 inspections, of which 50 are made here. Hugh Campbell, general manager of the factory, expects that the number of local inspections will be considerably increased. The Peterboro plant is only for assembly operations, but it is expected that gradually there will be local manufacture entering into the finished product. Deliveries have already been made to the Peterboro Canoe Company for distribution and sale. They include the engine that bore the No. 1 ticket through its various stages to completion.

The Johnson portables weigh from 26 to 37 pounds to 110 pounds. The heavier engines are submitted to ten-hour tests. The new Giant Johnson with a speed record of 43 miles an hour is fast becoming a favorite with those who want the notch pushed up above the twenties. Mr. Campbell's ambition is to make the Canadian engine not only equal but, if possible, superior to its American half-brothers, from the parent plant at Waukeegan. He remarked that the Peterboro Canoe Company were making special light craft for outboard motors, a development that was making the Johnson outboard motor more popular. The Peterboro boats could not "be beaten anywhere," Mr. Campbell added. Performance tests will be made on the lake throughout the season.

HAVELOCK, May 5.— The funeral of the late Ryerson D. Wood, of Smith's Falls, who was killed on Sunday night in the wreck on the C.P.R. lake shore line, caused by the landslide at Sucker Lake, took place on the arrival of the special train about 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon and was one of the largest and most impressive ever held in Havelock. The United church, although filled to capacity, was not sufficiently large to contain the concourse of people who attended. The service was conducted by Rev. W. R. Archer, assisted by Rev. C.G.I.T. DISCUSSES PLANS FOR SUMMER

"The Sure Shepherd," based upon the Shepherd Psalm.

An outstanding feature of the meeting, and one that left a lasting impression, was the fact that five of the girls who have definitely accepted Christ as their Saviour, stood with the leader, making public acknowledgment of their purpose to live up to the ideal set forth in the C.G.I.T. pledge: "By His help become the girl He would have me be."

Music and a pleasant social time brought the gathering to a close. The four girls who are representing the C.G.I.T. group in the debate next Thursday evening. Misses Jean Burnham, Jean Stinson, Flossie McMahon, and Wilma Fallis, met together and discussed the material each will use in presenting her points during the five minutes allcted to the speakers on either side.

The Tuxis Square will be represented by Messrs. Kenneth Skitch, Kenneth Fallis, Lawrence Rowland, and Aubrey Todd. The subject is: "Resolved, that country life has more advantages than city life."

Personals

GIRLHOOD DANGERS.

Too Many Growing Girls Are the Victims of Anaemia.

In their early 'teens it is quite common for young girls to outgrow their strength and mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time. It is when the strength is sapped by too rapid growth that anaemia develops. The first signs may be marked by peevishness, langor and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation becomes apparent, with low spirits and depression.

At the first sign of anaemia, mothers should act at once. Neglected anaemia often leads to a decline but if you see that your daughter's blood is enriched there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood enricher ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pure, red blood created by these pills quickly banishes all signs of anaemia. They will build up your girl's health and ensure for her a healthy, robust womanhood.

Give your daughter a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now. Make her bright, vigorous and strong like the thousands of girls and women throughout Canada who have been rescued from the clutches of anaemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Send your name and address to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, and you will receive free a valuable little booklet entitled "Building Up the Blood."

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or you can get them by mail at 50c a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE GO TO COLLEGE

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.

(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

There are more college students in the United States than in all the rest of the world combined. Many colleges are forced to limit their numbers.

Social pressure is the chief motive for going to college. There are a number of minor or more immediate reasons such as athletics, culture, prestige, self-improvement, a desirable position, etc. Usually several of these drives motivate the student.

Traditionally college was the place to find wisdom and culture and only those who wanted "higher learning" and could absorb it went. Presumably there are still a few who go to college for that purpose. But with the introduction of many new courses leading to good positions other motives for going to college have entered the breast of the student.

One prominent motive for going to college is to gain social recognition and prestige. The college contacts and friendships are a great aid in "climbing." Those who go to college for this reason usually select the institutions that have the greatest prestige in the hope of capitalizing the reputation of the great college.

Not infrequently able-bodied fellows go to college for the primary purpose of making the varsity teams. The college athlete is looked upon as a hero. This incentive is the most effective form of social pressure.

There are also those who go to college because it is the thing to do. The tide moves in that direction and they are victims of suggestion and imitation. They have no idea what it is all about. They are in college because they happen to be there. Many of them are "sent" to college.

Some go to college for a liberal education, for culture, some go for lack of something else to do, some for social standing and prestige, some for self-improvement, some to get a desirable job; all go because of social pressure.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

For evening wear this summer nothing is smarter than white moire. This is edged in front with silver.

For the woman who wants a summer evening wrap that is to be used for all evening occasions and occasionally to cover a light afternoon frock as well, I strongly recommend white moire. I know that it is easily soiled and may seem impractical, but, unless you are going to spend your summer in a smoky city, there is no reason why an evening wrap need become soiled at all. The great advantage of the white wrap is that it looks well with any color and is a tone of which you never tire. Another thing to bear in mind—white is extremely smart, and will, I am sure, become increasingly so as the warm months advance.

The new moire from which afternoon and evening wraps are made is in fact moire taffeta. It has, as you are aware, been used extensively all spring for daytime coats in black, navy and beige.

For evening wear just at present capes seem to be gaining ground—possibly because they can be slipped on over the new and more elaborate evening gowns with somewhat more ease than the sleeved type of garment. Still, for the woman who has but one evening wrap—which must also do occasionally for afternoon—the coat has advantages. Younger women nowadays are prejudiced against any sort of wrap, even an evening wrap, that does not leave the arms free for motoring.

Every fashion to succeed now must, I think, be put to this test— this motor test. No one can expect over-elaborate hats or really long, full skirts or capes for general wear to come back into fashion so long as women continue to take their place at the wheel.

LYRICS OF LIFE

OUR OWN BACK YARD

Some fellows think about this town
Of theirs as something 'way, 'way down
Where all the banks and buildings are—
And then this town seems pretty far.
And yet, no matter how it's grown,
A little of this town we own.
Each has his part, and I've though hard,
And mine is just our own back yard.

Our town was like a lot you see,
Just kind of careless, seems to me.
And Father said he thought the mayor
Should really give the streets more care,
And Mother thought about the same,
But thought the council was to blame.
I went outdoors right afterward
And looked around our own back yard.

And then that day I started in
And picked up all the trash and tin,
And Dad came out, and gave a grunt,
And took the rake and raked the front,
And then the man who lives next door
He did the same, and even more,
And then the city cleaned the ward,
Like I had cleaned our own back yard.

Dad came right out and said to men,
"That boy's a better citizen
Than lots of us." The woman's club
Got everyone to paint and scrub.
And then the mayor and council came
And said the pavement was a shame.
And now they're talking boulevard.
'I'm glad I cleaned our own back yard.')

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate)

FOR SUNDAY, MAY 6, 1928.

Good and evil planetary aspects contend today, according to astrologers who read the benefic rule as dominant.

This should be a favorable sway for the clergy who will find church members inclined to express their devotion to their creeds.

An awakening of religious interest may be expected to be widespread and this may be exploited unwisely, the seers warn.

Politics will assume many puzzling and undemocratic phases in the next few months, owing to Neptune, it is pointed out.

While this rule prevails the mind should be open to good suggestions. Preachers should find congregations responsive.

Under this direction of the stars the mind should be withdrawn from utilitarian matters. Nature should be sought in the outdoor world.

Epidemics may be expected in certain European countries and all who travel abroad should be careful to safeguard the health.

The seers predict a new discovery that will be of great moment to dentistry.

Diet again is to be much studied and discussed, for there will be continued agitation regarding abuses that affect the health.

Persons whose birthdate it is may carry out important plans, although there may be serious financial obstacles to overcome.

Children born on this day probably will have good heads for mechanics. Many sportsmen are born under this sign.

FOR MONDAY, MAY 7, 1928.

This is read as an unlucky day by astrologers who find the strongest influences adverse to Earth dwellers.

It is a time especially unfavorable to the plans and ambitions of women who may meet severe disappointments in important matters.

Industry is subject to influences that arouse discontent and suspicion. Labor troubles may develop under this sway.

This is not a particularly lucky day for gardening, but the seers declare it is wise to be on the lookout for pests.

Under this planetary government young folk may be especially bumptious and difficult to manage.

While the cult of youth is subsiding, astrologers predict that the old will find scant consideration of their views.

This direction of the stars is believed to encourage hasty marriages and ill-considered engagements.

Fickleness and a desire for conquest on the part of women is believed to be encouraged by this positing of the stars.

Again the rise of a new fashion leader who will frown upon what is not distinctly good form in dress or conduct is prognosticated.

The summer is to reveal a tendency to go back to the simple life in spirit as well as body and this means the elimination of all that is artificial.

Wealth is to come suddenly to a number of Americans from the most unexpected sources.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be self helpful, for they will regret dependence on others.

Children born on this day may be highly organized and very temperamental. They should be taught to demand their rights judicially and not angrily.

Leafs Win Third Straight Game at Home

ALEXANDER HITS HOMER

Leaf's Heavy Hitters Train Guns On Zubris For 5-2 Win.

BEARS ERROR THRICE.

TORONTO, May 5. — Toronto Leafs made it six in a row and the third from Newark when they took the Bears into camp yesterday afternoon by the count of 5 to 2.

Fisher twirled masterly ball for the Leafs and was accorded perfect support. He let the heavy hitting Bears down with five hits and they bunched two of them, a triple and a double in the sixth for the lone run. Zubris pitched well for the losers, but his support was wobbly and it was their erratic work in the field that defeated him. He was retired for a pinch hitter in the eighth, and Fisher, who replaced him, met with a warm reception, with Jacobson on second. Alexander hit a home run over the right field fence to settle the issue.

The Baltimore Orioles, making a great and stronger finish, chastized the Bisons in the third game of the series here yesterday by a score of 11 to 2.

In the first inning the Birds drove Lefty Williams from the hill, scoring five runs. In the ninth and final round they thumped Joe Stryker for six runs including three towering homers over the left field fence from the bats of Dixon, Lamotte, and Jacobson. In between these fatal rounds young Howard Signor pitched grand baseball, allowing only three hits in seven and two-third frames.

Rochester took a wild combat from the Jersey City Black Cats in the third game of their series here yesterday, 14 to 12. Charlie Gelbert hit a home run in the ninth inning to score Ira Smith with the winning runs. After eleven pitchers had paraded into view of the crowd of close to 4,000.

VIEWS ON SPORT

The Kiwanis Juvenile and Junior teams will hold their first practise of the year at the Exhibition Park diamond at 6 p.m. on Monday. Players seeking a berth on either of these teams are requested to be in attendance.

Looking ahead to the greatest year in junior baseball, the city league has broadened out into a twelve team loop. The schedule for the year and other matters pertaining to the running of the league will be discussed at the final meeting before the opening of the season, which is slated to be held on Tuesday next in the board room of the Duffus Bowling Academy at 8 p.m. sharp. East City has promised to make the fourth entry in the juvenile series under the leadership of Herb Ralph, and while there are four teams in the bantam group there is still room for one more club. While as yet the line-ups of the different teams are unknown, much can be expected from the so-called "dark-horse" clubs. Alex Kay's entry promises to toss a surprize in the direction of the remaining squads of the junior series, while Burke and his gang from the Lockworks have their eyes on the group honors. The diamond near the Manufaoturers' Building in the Exhibition Park will be put into shape and a few days should see the prospective young players cavorting about showing their wares.

* * * * * *

The city in general and junior ball players in particular heaved a great sigh of relief at the appearance of "Old Sol" during the week for the first time in many moons. Several of the local ball squads took the field for the first practise of the year to-day and put in some snappy work-outs. A large number of players have not made up their minds yet who they will play with, but a couple of good practises under their belts and they should come around without difficulty.

* * * * * *

Developing from a pasture for cows and sheep to a golf course, the Beavermeadow gives promises this year of becoming one of the best nine hole courses in this district. Men are now grooming it and "it won't be long now." Secretary-Treasurer Robert MacMorran reports many new members this year.

* * * * * *

The Oshawa Times says: "Manager Schultz has six hurlers on his staff, all of whom are able to hold their own in fast company when they get into proper condition. Practices will be frequent and it is expected that before the official opening of the schedule the Motor City tossers will be practically in mid-season form.

"With five teams comprising the C.O.B.L. this year and every team reported to be well supplied with high class players, fans throughtout the circuit are evidently in for one of the best season's sport in the history of this loop. Deloro, the new entry, should make a great showing since it always was knocking at the door for the intermediate O.B.A.A. honors. Oshawa, Kingston and Belleville seem well supplied with material, but Peterborough, it is reported, needs considerable strengthening.

"The executive of the Central Ontario League meets in Belleville on Saturday for the purpose of passing on certificates. Days are rapidly going by toward the league opening which is now only about three weeks away."

FILLY SCUTTLE WINS CLASSIC

Colors of King George First in One Thousand Guineas.

IN 25TH ATTEMPT.

NEWMARKET, Eng., May 5 (Canadian Press Cable).—The first 'classic' victory of King George, recorded yesterday in the One Thousand Guineas with the filly Scuttle, a descendant of Captain Cuttle, was hailed through out the countryside with enthusiasm. His Majesty realized his ambition to win a classic at the 26th attempt, the first of which was made in 1902 when Pintadean carried his colors in the Derby but was unplaced. Until yesterday none of King George's horses had ever been among the first three in any of the five great classics of the English turf—the Two Thousand Guineas, One Thousand Guineas, Derby, Oaks and St. Leger.

Scuttle, ridden by Joe Childs, the royal jockey, won by a length from Lord Dewar's Jurisdiction, with Lord Derby's Toboggan third, another six lengths back in a field of 14. The betting was 15 to 8 against Scuttle and 100 to eight and 11 to two respectively against the second and third horses.

Won Five Out of Seven.

Scuttle, whose victory was watched by the Prince of Wales and His Majesty, on her dam's side belongs to the same family as Princess de Galles, who just failed to win the same classic for the late King Edward VII. in 1909. Scuttle has won five races out of seven in her career; including three out of five last year. The aggregate stakes in her five victories were about $60,000, largely, however, made up in the rich One Thousand yesterday.

The King's last important victory was with Weathervane in the Ascot Royal Hunt Cup in 1923.

The demonstration at the historic turf headquarters yesterday afternoon reached unprecedented heights of enthusiasm when His Majesty's filly won, hats being flung in the air amid vociferous cheering. Jockey Childs now has won all five classics, this being his first One Thousand victory. He has ridden the winner in three Derbies and in four St. Leger's, as well as once in the Two Thousand Guineas and Oaks.

The last horse to achieve a classic win for a reigning sovereign was King Edward's Minoru in 1909.

Scuttle yesterday showed herself to be a brilliant but wayward animal. She delayed the start, and probably lost a few lengths in the early stages by unruliness, being six lengths behind the leaders at the half-mile. Bringing the filly into the front rank with Jurisdiction, Childs used the whip, and Scuttle swerved, but the veteran jockey held her well in check and made her forge on to win.

Both His Majesty and the Prince congratulated Childs, and His Majesty's racing manager, Major Fetherstonaugh, as well as the royal trainer, W. Jarvis. A quarter of an hour after the race Princess Mary, Lady Lascelles, saw Childs walking past the paddock, and she also congratulated him.

BABE RUTH GETS ANOTHER HOMER

Chicago White Sox Routed By Yanks 10-4 in Opener.

NEW YORKERS OUTHIT.

NEW YORK, May 5. — Canadian Press. — Babe Ruth and Joe Dugan hit home runs yesterday and the Yankees routed the Chicago White Sox 10 to 4 in the opening of the season's first West-East series in the American League. Thomas, Cox and Barnabe were hit at opportune moments and Thomas was wild.

Herbert Pennock turned in his fifth victory, and although the visitors outhit the Yankees 13 to 11, the star left hander never was in danger. He eased up after gaining a lead of 10 to 1.

Dugan found the bases filled when he bounced a drive into the left field grandstand for the circuit in the first but nobody scored, head of Ruth as he straightened one of Cox's curves out in the sixth for his sixth home run of 1928. Dugan got three hits and Ruth four out of four.

Danny MacFayden, the boy pitcher of the Red Sox, had a slight edge on Hudlin in a closely played game at Boston and Boston defeated Cleveland 3 to 2. Doubles by Langford and Summa after Jamieson had been passed in the first inning gave the Indians their two runs. Boston squared it in the fourth on a quartet of singles and Flagstead's double paved the way for the winning run in the fifth.

The Athletics met the invasion of the western clubs of overwhelming Detroit in the opening game of the Philadelphia series by a score of 10 to 5.

The Athletics won by hammering Whitehall for six runs in the third inning. Sammy Hale hit a home run in this inning with one on base. Jimmy Fox hit the third circuit blow of the game off Sullivan in the fifth inning, scoring Hale ahead of him.

St. Louis errors were coupled with Washington's heavy hitting yesterday to give the Senators a 12 to 6 victory in the series opener at the capital. Blaeholder and Coffman shared a bad fifth inning in which the locals crossed the plate five times. Three of the markers came over on West's triple to right.

Manager Howlay sent five Brown pitchers to the box in an effort to stop the Washington attack.

Pete Latzo Will Meet Leo Lomski

NEW YORK, May 5.— (Canadian Press.)—Pete Latzo, Scranton miner, who lost the welterweight championship and then jumped into the lightweight class, will meet Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, Wash., in the main ten round bout at Ebbet's Field, home of the Brooklyn Dodgers, on May 30, Humbert J. Fugazy announced yetserday.

Some months ago a German chemist was making a chemical analysis of certain insects. The process involved covering them with powdered copper oxide and heating them in small platinum crucibles in an atmosphere of carbon dioxide. A little later he was astonished to find that the insects had turned to metal, with all the delicate marking and structure preserved. The discovery is regarded as of much importance, as it will enable museums to preserve rare specimens indefinitely.

HENRI COCHET IS ELIMINATED

Wimbledon Champion Loses to Patrick D .B. Spence in Semi-Finals.

FALTERS UNDER STRAIN.

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng., May 5.—(Associated Press.) — Henri Cochet, Wimbledon champion, was eliminated yesterday from the all-England hard court tennis championship in the semi-final round, falling before Patrick D. B. Spence, an Englishman, who has represented South Africa for several years in Davis Cup play. The winner outplayed the loser in a prolonged battle decided by scores of 5-7, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 9-7.

The French marvel won the first two sets, but after that seemed to falter under the strain of hard driving play and the heat. The Englishman, seeming better acclimated, fought his way to victory in the last three sets.

Both players frequently went to the net and provided spectacular volleying.

Spence will encounter Rene Lacoste, the No .1 French Davis Cup star, in the finals to-morrow.

Lacoste won his semi-final match from H. G. Mayes, 6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, I'm glad to be able to tell the customers that the outlook for sr. ball is getting better all the time. With all the old officers and practically all the old players deciding to stick together again for another season, they is plenty of enthusiasm in the outfit, and they're out to give all and sundry in the Central loop a real run for their money. Manager Tommy Holyman had a few of the lads down to King Eddie School yard last Sat. for a workout, and I went down to give them the well-known once over. I want to tell this before somebody beats me to it that the spring breeze was so cold that I walked out on the ball practice and went over to see the soccer teams perform. Them firemen's shirts the C.O.E. kickers was wearing was the warmest things in sight, and so I naturally drifted over to where I could get closer to the red jerseys. It was quite a bout at that, but I ain't going to try to tell you about the fine pts. of the game. Every man to his own trade, see I, and writing soccer ain't exactly my fort. But I sure liked them fiery red shirts.

The customers should keep in mind the Petes is going to run a show to get some funds for new unies. The suits the boys has been wearing won't last no longer, and so when they step out this year Mister Holyman and his lads is going to be all dressed up like a sore thumb. Uniforms cost money, and while the ball club ain't asked the public for help for years, they feel the fans won't mind digging down to see a good show and at the same time help to make the Petes look like the smart ball team they is. "Now Fancy That" is the name of the show, and it is real entertainment that all the customers will enjoy. The Dramatic Club of the Immaculate Conception is putting on the play and contributing their services to a good cause, so it's up to the fans to give the thing a bumper house. Week after next she comes off, and I'm just writing this so the good citizens will know in plenty of time to line up for tickets.

Well, Mac, hardball looks like gaining all along the line this summer. The youngsters is playing everywhere they is a chance, and there will be plenty competition in all the serious. A good thing, two, Mister Sporting Editor, and the public oughta to help out by supporting the game as much as possible.

The Toronto Leaves opened their home season by beating Newark before 22,000 fans. Looks like Mister O'Hara has some smart performers on his pay roll, and if they continue to show color on the diamond the customers will show plenty of long green at the box office. Premier Ferguson pitched the 1st ball, and I understood the scouts have passed him up cause Mayor McBride connected with a clean single. At that the Toronto Mayor must be a better hitter than Ben Spence, who ain't able to get even a foul off of the Premier's delivery.

It won't be long now. 3 weeks from this Sat. Belleville is here for the 1st local Central League game. We don't expect 22,000 customers, but we're looking for a bunch at that.

Well, Mac, they's nothing more on my mind, if any, so I'll just bust off at this point.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

GLENNA COLLETT MEETS LA CHAUME

Golf Stars Are Paired in Draw For British Title.

LONDON, May 5.—The luck of the golf draw for pairings in the British women's championship decreed that Mlle. Simone Thion de la Chaume, defending champion, or Miss Glenna Collett, the most serious American threat, will be removed in the first round of the tournament starting May 14.

An unkind golf fate that throws these two sterling women players in a match in the first test will deprive the gallery of anticipated relish in following their play, with a possibility before the draw that they would be the survivors at the final.

Miss Collett seems to be followed by a jinx in this respect. In 1925, the former American champion fell before Miss Joyce Wethered, the title-holder, in the third round, and the great British player swept on to repeat her national triumph.

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Philadelphia, former British women's champion, who also has won the United States title three times, drew a first round bye and will advance to the second round without a contest.

Three Michigan women players, Mrs Stewart Hanley, Miss Madge Miller and Miss E. Curtis, also will seek the British crown.

Men are Practicing.

The American women golfers are not alone in their quest for British honors. As they were learning their pairings, men golfers from the United States were practicing at Sandwich for the open which begins Monday. Archie Compson, after his victory over Walter Hagen, has been installed a co-favorite with Abe Mitchell.

Tommy Armour, native Scot, but now the American open title holder, found his way around the familiar Sandwich course in 70 and 71. Two other former champions of the United States, the smiling Gene Sarazen and dour Jim Barnes, also took a turn at the course they hope to subdue. Hagen is trying to dismiss the rout by Compson from his mind and is engaged in serious preparation for the wearing 72 hole test of the open.

PIRATES TAKE SECOND GAME

Stage Wild Hitting Orgy To Defeat Boston Braves 13 to 3.

HORNSBY GETS THREE.

NEW YORK, May 5 (Canadian Press). — The Pirates took the second game of the series from the Boston Braves at Pittsburgh yesterday, winning 13 to 3, when the Pirates went on a wild hitting orgy at the expense of three Boston pitchers.

Grimes was strong throughout the game, and was backed up by good fielding on the part of his teammates, especially L. Waner.

Hornsby accounted for the Braves' three runs by driving in two of them and scoring the other.

The Pirate attack was led by the Waner brothers, Traynor and Gonzorosky.

Paul Waner's four hits included two doubles, a triple, and a single.

The Giants opened their first western invasion of the year with a 11 to 7 victory over the Reds at Cincinnati. The visitors combed four Cincinnati pitchers for 19 hits, while the Reds got 13 safe drives off three of McGraw's boxmen.

Pid Purdy, Cincinnati left fielder, suffered a badly sprained right ankle in the third when he tripped as he slid into third base.

Melvin Ott played second base in the place of Andy Cohen, who has influenza. Ott, Lindstrom Terry and Hogan were the batting stars for the Giants.

New York ruled Luque and Edwards in the sixth with a six run rally which decided the game. Jim Faulkner, young New York southpaw, did excellent relief pitching after Barnes and Chaplin had failed.

NEW PLAY SCORED BY LONDON CRITIC

Psychology of "Stranger in the House" Wrong, He Says.

LONDON, M 5 (By the Canadian Press).—Reviewin the recent production in Wyndham's Theatre of Michael Morton and Pet Traill's play, "The Stranger in the House," E. A. Baughan, well-known dramatic critic, says:

"In real life, if a woman has not earned the respect of her husband and of her children, to say nothing of their love, even her greatest friend would have to admit that the fault may have been hers. On the stage, marriage and motherhood go for nothing.

"In Morton and Traill's 'The Stranger in the House,' Rosamund Withers, after 15 years of marriage, is so snubbed by her violently practical husband and by her cheeky, ill-mannered children that she practically lives in her bedroom. She is a stranger in the house. When an old sweetheart returns from South Africa she plucks up courage. She then discovers that the real stranger in the house was Love. And after telling her husband of that great discovery she calmly returns with her middle-aged sweetheart to South Africa.

"I felt that the authors had really created all the trouble in the Withers's home. Either that or Mrs. Withers must have been a characterless fool. As Lillian Braithwaite acted the part at the 'Q' Theatre some months ago and as Sybil Thorndike played it in Wyndham's, Mrs. Withers did not look the kind of woman that an energetic man of business would ignore, or who could not manage to gain the love of her children. The psychology of the play is wrong, and especially when the wife declares that love is a stranger in the house. For she never brought love into it, but married Withers for his money. I imagined we ought to have heard his story.

"However, the play was very well acted by Sybil Thorndike, Frank Royde, Nicholas Hannen, Mary Rorke, Wallace Geoffrey and Maisie Darrell, and it was enthusiastically received."

CHEMICAL PROCESS QUICK EXTINGUISHER

Two U. S. Chemists Explain Important Discovery For Quenching Fires.

ST. LOUIS, May 5 (CP).—A new way to put out fire has been discovered by Charles Allen Thomas and Carroll A. Hochwait, consulting chemists, who call it the "catalytic method." They described it at the general session of the American Chemical Society recently as an alkali metal compound that effectively paralyzed fire. Mr. Thomas related incidents in connection with the discovery, and admitted that he and Mr. Hochwait had accidentally found the new method of extinguishing fire.

"We started work," Mr. Thomas explained, "by adding material to water to increase its effectiveness on wood fire. We accidentally fodnd that sodium potassium carbonate would even put out a gasoline fire. This led to further work, which, in turn, brought us to the remarkable discovery of the 'catalytic method' of extinguishing fire. Water is a representative medium for cooling material below its kindling point, and carbon tetrachloride foam and various other meags have been used to blanket oxygen from the fire. Yet this 'catalytic method' neither cools nor blankets a burning oil fire.

"We discovered a solution of sodium potassium carbonate extinguished an oil fire. We thought we knew why this compound put out the fire, namely, because the compound had given off carbon dioxide, which blanketed the fire. Thus we thought that ammonium carbonate would work even better, since it decomposes much easier than carbon dioxide. We were greatly surprised when it did not work. Further work showed that this phenomenon resided with the potassium and that any water soluble compound which contained potassium rubidium or caesium exhibited this remarkable result.

"After developing an apparatus for testing, it became possible to investigate the water soluble compounds for the presence of the same catalytic flame extinguishing property as is possessed by sodium potassium carbonate. With a few minor exceptions, almost every element capable of forming a water soluble salt was studied. Practically all of the salts of the alkali metals exhibited this catalytic fire extinguishing effect.

"A peculiarly interesting point is the fact that all of the compounds of the alkali metals that have oxygen in them have a greater extinguishing effect than those without oxygen."

Mr. Thomas said that the results of this discovery are now being utilized commercially in a one-and-three-quarter-gallon fire extinguisher that has been passed by the Underwriters' Laboratory of Chicago. This new compound puts out an artificial fire built by Underwriters' Laboratory in nine to 12 seconds, he said, while the record for extinguishing fire with standard soda acid extinguisher is 35 to 40 seconds.

A Remarkable Happening.

42 Essex Sedans and Coaches Swept Overboard a Steamship and Remain Afloat.

When the steamship "Sultana" pulled into Chicago recently after a severe storm on Lake Michigan, Capt. David Smith reported a remarkable happening with 42 Essex Super-Six sedans and coaches which were swept overboard.

Capt. Smith reported that instead of sinking the cars floated readily amid the high-rolling waves and could be seen still afloat as the ship travelled out of sight. As they were closed cars, tightly constructed and with all doors and windows closed, his theory is that the air within the bodies was sufficient to float them until waves should break the window glass or capsize the whole automobile in the wave troughs.

"That was a sight for you—a line-up of cars like a miniature formation of battle ships," said Capt. Smith. "They were loosened from the deck in whole rows when the rope lashing broke, consequently they slipped overboard in regular formation. I expected them to go to the bottom immediately, but not one of them did so. The air kept them up and the axles, motor and frame acted as ballast. They're of good balance for they floated erectly and steadily in the heavy seas. This was the hardest storm I have ever seen in many years on the Great Lakes."

The cars were on their way—the season's first water shipment—to the Hudson Motor Co. of Illinois. The cars were insured and J. R. Histed, general manager and vice-president of the concern, was scarcely downhearted at all about the incident. Instead, he said:

"This is just a bit out of the usual as a demonstration, but there are certain distinctive things about those Essex cars which would simply make them float. The construction is so tight, the doors and windows are so snug, that the air supply would be retained for hours. Essex bodies are much similar to steel ships in their construction.

Their staunch storm-tight qualities thus surprisingly proved, are well known to hundreds of thousands of motorists."

Brewer Motor Sales ,131-135 Brock street, are local distributors for Essex and Hudson Motor Cars.

TWO OF ONE FAMILY RETIRED ADMIRALS

Sir Edmund Fremantle, 92, and Son, Sir Sydney, Hold Unique Distinction.

LONDON, May 5 (By the Canadian Press).—As already announced, Admiral Sir Sydney Fremantle has been placed on the retired list at his own request. His father, that vigorous veteran, Sir Edmund Fremantle, will be 92 in June. It is probably without precedent to have a father and son, both full admirals, and both on the retired list.

In the early eighties Sir Sydney was a brother midshipman on H.M.S. Canada with King George. In view of the recent trouble on H.M.S. Royal Oak at Malta which resulted in Captain Kenneth G. B. Dewar and Commander H. M. Daniel being reprimanded by court-martial and dismissed from their ship for conduct subversive of discipline and the subsequent retirement by the admiralty of Rear-Admiral Bernard St. G. Collard for his part in the Royal Oak affair, it is interesting to remember that Sir Sidney as a lieutenant on H.M.S. Cambridge was tried by court-martial for the alleged sinking of two fishing boats by gunfire from the gunboat of which he was in charge. The subsequent career of the young officer, as events have shown, was unaffected by the incident, for there has always remained considerable doubt whether the fishing craft were actually sunk by the gunboat's fire.

The Fremantles are one of England's hereditary sea families. Sir Sydney's great-grandfather commanded Neptune at Trafalgar; his own son has just left China station. Only three more years would have seen Sir Sydney's completion of half a century of service in the Royal Navy.

Sir Sydney is believed to be assuming some responsible position in the financial life of London.

McGILL STUDENTS WORK IN SUMMER

Will Be Employed In Various Occupations During Holidays.

MONTREAL, Que., May 4.—(Canadian Press).—Many McGill students enrolled in the McGill Bureau of Appointments have already been placed in suitable positions for the vacation months and approximately 150 others are awaiting summer jobs. From the period beginning Sept. 1, 1927, to April 1, 1928, this bureau has had calls for over 500 student workers, the duration of employment varying from an hour to permanent full time positions.

Summer employment which will be carried on by McGill men and women this year will cover a considerable range of jobs. One prominent steamship company has again expressed a willingness to co-operate with the bureau for summer positions for students. The staff of bellboys, waiters and bus boys at two noted summer hotels owned by this company will be composed largely of McGill students. A number of McGill men, it is expected, will also be employed by one of Quebec's largest hotels.

While several students are acting as private chauffeurs this summer, there are still several on the list who are looking for this type of work. Summer camp work has long been in favor with college students because it affords a chance to be in the open air along with its financial renumeration, and several McGill men will follow this line of work during the vacation as camp councillors and as city park and playground supervisors.

Other McGill men will serve as locker boys for the various golf clubs and the university students will also be employed by an auto club as motor cyclists for special work.

giving way, and the rough unpaved strip on Water street north of Smith street, will be paved this year.

The sharp corners at Hunter and Park and the northwest corner of Park and Charlotte street, will be rounded off.

Mr. Wiggins, of Kent street, asked permission to use part of that street for an extension of his chicken property. He has recently leased the land adjoining from Mrs. Lazure, and this part of the street has been used as a garden. The chairman and engineer will look over the situation.

The complaint book recommended before will be installed in the engineer's office. It will be in charge of the young lady in the office, who will take all complaints and enter them up. Mr. Parsons suggested that a carbon copy be made and was instructed to get such a book.

No further action will be taken, the Finance committee decided, on the proposal to seek legislation to have publicly owned utilities subject to taxation. At the suggestion of Ald. J. M. Greene several months ago, letters were sent the cities of Ontario asking them to support such legislation. Some were in favor of it, while others refused to commit themselves. Last night City Clerk Armstrong explained what it would mean to the city.

The Utilities Commission has water works valued at something over a million dollars. Half of this is in the city and taxes on it would reduce the general rate but come out of the consumer in another way. The other half is in Smith and Douro townships, which would benefit. The electrical property is worth $448,000, all in the city, but the H.E.P.C. has in Central Ontario a plant worth ten million dollars. Peterborough uses eighteen per cent. of the power produced, and would therefore have to pay that proportion of the taxes collected by the various municipalities in which the plant is located.

It was decided to remit the taxes owing on the old Red Arrow Tire factory. These were computed on the assement of $24,000, which has recently been reduced by the Court of Revision to $5,000, and accrued while the company was in liquidation. John E. Hayes, who now owns the land, has paid up $630, and the aldermen felt that this was about the right amount on the lowered assessment.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

STAR RISES FROM MEDIOCRITY TO BECOME BELLE OF THE CAMPUS.

If you hate to laugh stay away from the Regent Theatre next week.

Bebe Daniels, Paramount star, will be in possession for three days, starting Monday ,and her latest picture, "Swim, Girl ,Swim" is the greatest thing in the world for convulsions of happiness.

Remember "The Campus Flirt?" Remember the sprinting Bebe of that production and the chuckles which went with it? Well, "Swim, Girl, Swim" has even its predecessor backed into the corner.

The dashing Miss Daniels certainly picked a "natural" when she selected this story of college athletics with emphasis upon swimming. And, even better than that, she has Gertrude Ederle, world famous swimmer with her not only to see that the swimming scenes are correct but also as a player in a prominent role.

The story itself revolves about Miss Daniels who is a student naturalist but who longs to become a great athletic star. She chooses swimming, much to the amusement of her fellow students, particularly because she cannot swim. They plan to enter her in the channel swim and do but, when she is declared the winner of the event things begin to hum.

The channel swim is only one of the many interesting episodes. There is the perfect atmosphere of the campus, the color and romance which seems to typify everything connected with a university. There are real students because Miss Daniels insisted upon the right thing and selected the University of California as the location for the college settings.

You'll love Miss Daniels in this part. You will admire Gertrude Ederle and James Hall and Josephine Dunn and William Austin in the other principal roles.

The story came from the pen of Lloyd Corrigan who knows his college backwards. It was he, in collaboration with Louise Long, who wrote "The Campus Flirt." And, fortunately, for everyone concerned, Clarence Badger again directed.

AT THE CAPITOL.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN IN "THE CIRCUS" COMES TO THE CAPITOL THEATRE ALL NEXT WEEK

Latest Comedy a Merry Tale of Peanuts, Sawdust, Tigers and Pink Lemonade

Charlie Chaplin in "The Circus"! Peanuts . . ss.wdust .. .pink lemonade. . . clowns, tigers, elephants, roaring lions, acrobats, wire-walkers, and Charlie Chaplin in his brand new comedy will all be at the Capitol Theatre all next week. Written, directed and produced by Charlie Chaplin, "The Circus" was two years in the making and it is the first Chaplin comedy since "The Gold Rush."

Charlie plays a wandering lad who is mixed up in a series of hilarious adventures, chases, arguments and ovations that land him in "The Circus" as a very fine fellow. Merna Kennedy, with red hair and just five feet, two, with eyes of blue, is his leading lady; she makes her screen debut in the role. Others in the cast are Harry Crocker, Henry Bergman, Betty Morrissey and Allan Garcia.

According to officials of United Artists Corporation, which released the new Chaplin comedy, "The Circus" presents the Chaplin of old, the Chaplain of "Shoulder Arms," "Pay Day" and "The Pilgrim," — the thumping, bumping little man with the trick derby and cane, the wriggling moustache and the feet almighty. Chaplain himself announced during production of "The Circus," which was made at his own studio in Hollywood, that his new picture would be "a low brow comedy for high brows."

Manager Stewart of the Capitol Theatre said that he felt "highly gratified" in being enabled to present at his theatre Charlie Chaplin's first comedy in two and a half years, especially so because he considers "The Circus" the funniest Chaplin picture he has seen in his many years of motion picture exhibition.

AT THE GRAND.

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE."

Theatre goers are promised a rare treat on Tuesday, May 8th, at the Grand Opera House, when Anne Nichols' laughing comedy, "Abie's Irish Rose," the outstanding comedy hit in New York, where it has played for over six years to capacity audiences, who make the house rock and roar with laughter.

The story of the play deals with the marital troubles of Rosemary Murphy and Abie Levy, a Jewish boy and an Irish girl. The comedy element is furnished by the fathers of the young couple marrying outside of their respective religions. Miss Nichols has succeeded in handling this delicate problem in a most amusing manner and the success that "Abie's Irish Rose" has attained wherever it has been shown has proven conclusively that the author and producer has given the public what it wants

An unusually strong and special cast has been selected for the local presentation. A special carload of scenery is carried to insure the correct stage settings.

Here is a play that no one should miss seeing and one that once seen will make you want to go again.

Lakefield, Ontario:

Dear Madam: The retirement of Miss Duff principal of Lakefield public school, after long and devoted services and the circumstances under which her retirement took place, have been made known to the department. I do not wish to address her personally, so soon after her accident, so I ask you to be good enough to convey to Miss Duff my appreciation of her faithful and successful record, and my hope that she will speedily recover. The work that she and similar teachers have done for the young of Ontario can not be overestimated. Yours sincerely,

G. H. FERGUSON.
Minister of Education.

FINE EQUIPMENT FOR TOOL MAKING

W. Juniper Has Ideal— Work Turned Out Must Be Perfect.

Mr. W. Juniper, who is well-known in mechanical circles in the city, recently opened up a machine shop under the name, Peterboro Tool Works. His place of business is at the rear of 176 Simcoe street, where he has set up a complete outfit of modern lathes, drills, thread cutters, grinders, etc., and recently added an acetylene welding and cutting apparatus. With the equipment for almost any class of machine work, and the mechanical knowledge and experience to use it to the best advantage, Mr. Juniper very quickly discovered that there was a demand for work that called for originality and creative ability.

The thing he prides himself on is that whatever he is asked for, when he delivers it, it must fill the bill perfectly. Should a job be presented that could be turned out more economically by the original manufacturers of the machine being repaired, Mr. Juniper makes a mechanical drawing of the part wanted which can be followed at the foundry, and the part duplicated without loss of time.

No job is too small to be given careful attention, no job too complicated for correct solution, or too large to be properly handled.—Ad.

HUDSON'S BAY CO. TO BRING OUT MEN

Migrants Will Be Trained at Home For Work on Farms Here.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 5.—(Canadian Press).—Under a scheme of migration that is being undertaken by the Hudson's Bay Company in London a limited number of men will be trained in the old country for farm work in Canada, with Winnipeg as the headquarters for the distribution of the new arrivals. The Winnipeg office will find situations in the Dominion for the immigrants, who must be between the ages of 16 and 35.

The company will take inexperienced men in Great Britain and train them for farm work in Canada. For this purpose a 250-acre farm has been secured at Bletchley, about 50 miles from London. A competent superintendent with several years' practical experience in farm work in the Dominion will be in charge of the training, which will be as nearly in line with agricultural work in Canada as possible. The implements used on the training farm will be patterned after those used in the Dominion.

The men in training are not to be charged for their board, lodging or training, but will be required to deposit $50 each as a guarantee that they will go to Canada at the end of their period of training and engage in farm work there. From the $50 the migrant's fare is paid to Winnipeg, and the balance will be given to him upon his arrival. This is estimated at about $33.

Concrete road near Chatham, Ont.

for Twofold Saving

Concrete . . . the permanent paving material . . . puts an end to tax-eating upkeep costs. It saves the taxpayer's money; makes each year's budget more productive of NEW MILEAGE.

The motorist, too, profits with even greater directness. Each mile of concrete road he drives over reflects itself in reduced gas, tire and car-depreciation costs, and in greater driving safety and comfort.

Advocate concrete paving in your community. It will pay you two ways.

"It's the little it costs to maintain that makes concrete paving economical."

NEW LOCATION FOR BLIND MAN'S NEWS STAND.

John R. Brownlee, the blind news dealer of Charlotte Street, announces that he will remove from his present stand on Monday next. The new location for this popular news stand will be on the north side of Charlotte Street, on the lot immediately west of Loblaw's Groceteria—NOT at the corner of Louis and Charlotte Streets, as announced in Wednesday's Examiner. 3d-107-1471

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

Is the gospel (glad tidings) of the Kingdom preached in the various religious sects of to-day? Is it glad tidings to tell the people, that billions upon billions of human beings are suffering endless torments, and billions more to follow who will suffer the same unending torture? What extreme bosh it is to say (as a preacher formerly of Peterboro' said) concerning the gospel, that it is a success, because all the little children who died have gone (as he falsely stated) to heaven, notwithstanding that many billions went into endless torment. If this reverend's idea of the gospel could be called good tidings, or a success in any sense, then he might as well declare, black is white or darkness is light. Why do men preach this devilish untruthful doctrine, the preaching of which is absurdity? We know of no other reason, but that their minds are dominated by Satan (the god of this world). The present time, on account of the machinations of Satan and his servants, is surely a night time of weeping, but joy cometh in the morning. The glad day of the resurrection, the time of the restitution of all things, and the joyful day of the righteous judgment of God is nigh at hand.
M. T. BUTCHER.

Dust of the Earth

"The Dust of the Earth," a very fine four act drama, was presented by the young people of Stewart Hall in the auditorium of George Street United Church Sunday school last evening, under the auspices of the Primary Department of the Sunday School. A fair sized audience witnessed a fine performance by these amateurs. Their acting was so easy and natural that they delighted the entire audience. The following is a cast of the characters:

The difficult part of Nell is particularly well presented by Helen Throop. The Rev. Dr. Templeton calls to ask Mr. Moore's permission to address his daughter. When he and Elizabeth are left alone on the stage, his love making, so unlike the modern "stuff," causes great amusement, and Elizabeth's manner in handling her suitor in order to gain time to discover if she can land a richer husband, is good.

One of the most amusing characters is Miss Arabella (the village gossip) who caused great merriment by her acting when Nell and Herbie appear on the stage on roller skates in the second act.

Take 2—Dust of the Earth .....

Nell makes friends with an old man, "Wandering Tom," who lives in a shack nearby with his faithful servant, Old Marse. Wandering Tom is a great mystery in the neighborhood, having lived there a number of years but being unable to recall his name, relatives or past life, always saying "If I could only remember."

A frequent called at the Moore home is John Ryder, the rich owner of "The Maples," whom Elizabeth wishes to marry. He is in love with Nell and is about to propose when her Aunt Susan enters and finds her in his arms. She is ordered from the room, and commanded to take off the dress she is wearing; so she attires herself in her mother's wedding gown and flees to the cabin of Wandering Tom. When he sees her thus apparelled, his memory returns and he knows he is Thomas Osborne, the real owner of "The Maples," and that Nell must be his daughter, as he had secretly married Ellen, her mother, and taken her to New York and was forced to accompany his mother to Switzerland for her health. They intended publishing their marriage on his return, but he fell, while climbing the Alps, and was supposed to have been lost. Ellen returned to her brother's home and died without divulging their secret, leaving a baby daughter, Nell.

Somehow Thomas was saved but no no one knew who he was and he was led by some instinct to return to his old home, which John Ryder, a distant relative had inherited. All turns out happily. John very nobly insists that he will not claim Nell, as he is now a poor man but she refuses to let him go and Elizabeth takes comfort in the cool effection of the minister.

Piano Solo—Miss Madeline Willis.
Vocal Duett — "A Spring Song." Isobel Skitch and Lenore Lewis.
Instrumental Duet.—Misses Marion Lang and Dorothy Willis.
Vocal Solo—Millicent Elston.

This was enthusiastically applauded and the young soloist responded to an encore.

Accompanists — Miss Flowers and Miss Willis.

IN POLICE COURT

Feeling at rest.

And the fond remembrance ever kept.

Eternal life was best for thee.

ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED AT ST. PAUL'S

Rev. D. R. Drummond is Special Preacher For Occasion.

CHURCH 96 YEARS OLD.

Speaker Preaches Inspiring Sermons—Choir and Soloist Sing Splendidly.

Rev. D. R. Drummond, D.D., of Hamilton, one of the leading ministers of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, was the special preacher at the 96th anniversary of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, held yesterday. Large audiences listened attentively to the most eloquent discourses and the choir, assisted by Madame Holland of Toronto rendered special music for the occasion. Madame Holland is the contralto soloist of the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, which was recently destroyed by fire.

In the morning Dr. Drummond took his text from Revelation 3:20, "Behold, I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me"; and from Matthew 25:11, "Afterwards came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us."

The speaker in a most clear manner, described the pictures as portrayed in the words of the text, as being the most terrible in history. "In one God is standing at man's door with all his graciousness, lovingness and forgivingness seeking admittance; but behold the door is closed to Him. In the other picture man is standing at God's door; but the door is shut for he has failed to take advantage of the opportunity when it was open to him.

"God can open the door, but He is no more compelled to through our refusal to obey and our disobedience of His commandments. Look at the first picture. It is often said 'Familiarity breeds contempt' and in this instance we have become so familiar with the thought of God's knocking that we do not give it any further concern, and put it off to some other time when we will give Him admittance. But does it not seem strange to you that God would come knocking at our doors. He to whom we are subjective for health, life and food might claim the right to walk in, but He humbles Himself and knocks at our door seeking admittance."

Dr. Drummond compared God's way of seeking admittance to man's heart and soul with the way great nations settle disputes to-day. In many cases the nations could crush their weaker neighbors but they are willing to wait and let matters run their course rather than crushing.

"All through history, it has revealed the arm of God knocking at the door; now at the door of Assyria; now at the door of Rome; now at the door of England; now at the door of United States; and now at the door of some other nation. Let yourself imagine the inventions of the last 25 years, the automobile, the movies, the airplane and hundreds of other things. It is no wonder the world is dizzy by these rapid changes. But in all it is God, doing His work so that we might cease to be bond-slaves and burden-bearers."

The speaker referred to the God's knocking at the door of the churches seeking admission and the great opportunity that was afforded the church to-day.

"He has to keep knocking, we are so deaf. Ignorance is the cause of shutting the door and later we are heard say if we had known that 'what a man soweth that also must he reap' we would have admitted Him long ago and not kept Him ever knocking. He will not break in for He is no house breaker; He will only enter when we ask Him.

"In the second picture we are the ones who are seeking admittance and are standing at the door and knocking. If we refuse Him admittance some day we will be standing at the door and He may not let us in. We may miss a blessing just as actually as we can miss a train and the door of opportunity may be closed just because we failed to knock."

In conclusion Dr. Drummond appealed to his hearers to permit God to enter into their hearts and to take Him into their confidences in all their walks of life, so that when they knock at the door God will admit them.

In the morning Madame Holland sang, "The Lord is My Light," by Allitsen, and "He Was Despised," by Handel. The anthem was, "Blessed Jesu, Fount of Mercy," by Dvorak. In the evening, Madame Holland's selections were, "Abide With Me," by Liddle, "The Lord is Mindful of His Own" by Mendelssohn and "O, Rest in the Lord," by Mendelssohn. The chorus was "And the Glory," by Handel. Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., presided at the organ at both sederunts of worship.

Aged Woman Shot And Relatives Wounded By Band Of Moonshiners Seeking Revenge

SHEPHERDSVILLE, May 7 (Canadian Press).—A band of at least seven men, believed by officers to have been moonshiners seeking revenge upon the informers who aided prohibition agents in recent successful raids upon their stills, shot and killed an aged woman and wounded her sister and four children after setting fire to the family's home at the Browningtown settlement, nine miles from here, Friday night.

Mrs. Kate Browning, 60 years old, was shot down from ambush as she fled from the flames that destroyed her home shortly after midnight. Shot at least twice in the chest, she died instantly.

Mrs. Lou Browning, her sister; her two daughters, Angie, 16, and Mrs. Amanda Jones, 26, and her two sons, Peachie, 23, and Ben, 18, also were shot as they sought to leave the building. Ben has not been seen since the shooting, and officers thought he might have been taken captive. The others were not seriously wounded.

F. S. Harstone, who is in the coal business in Winnipeg in a big way, is in the city for a few days, and is interested in the disposal of Alberta coal in this city and district.

Mr. Harstone speaks very highly of the quality of the Alberta coal, and he feels sure that as this coal is used in the east it will become just as popular as it is in his own home city, where it has replaced many thousands of tons of anthracite coal previously used there.

DAVID MONTGOMERY BURIED SATURDAY

Rev. William McDonald Conducts Service at Comstock's Funeral Parlor.

Closing another chapter in the story of last week's double shooting tragedy, the funeral of the late David Montgomery took place at 4.15 on Saturday afternoon, May 5, from Comstock's Funeral Home, Water street. A large crowd, of which the more charitable were half sympathetic—the remainder curious—awaited the conclusion of the service, outside. Within gathered a small group.

The Rev. William McDonald, of Knox church, conducting the service chose the thirteenth chapter of 1st Corinthians and having completed its reading, offered a prayer. Of the man, David Montgomery, he had known nothing until reading of the tragedy. He had learned of his habits and life since that time and felt that "charity, which covereth a multitude of sins" would be the note of this service.

"This charity should be wide in its scope—it should not only embrace the bereaved ones of that gallant officer who died in the discharge of his duty, but it should extend to this man, the victim of agencies which had made him commit a rash and inconsiderate act, for though the court of public opinion may judge him by that act, God will judge him, taking into consideration his entire life," said Mr. McDonald.

In the prayer which followed, the reverend gentleman sought comfort for Constable Maker's family and prayed that the most charitable judgment from the court of Public Opinion might fall upon David Montgomery.

Then, from the funeral home, the pallbearers bore the remains to the hearse, the funeral procession moved off to Little Lake cemetery, and with the brief commital service, the burial was over.

TROUBLE DUE THIS MONTH FOR ANGLO-SAXONS

If Theory in Regard to Great Pyramid is Sound, Says R. J. Bolton.

29TH IS THE DATE.

Preparations For Big Camp For Boys Are Announced to Rotarians.

Some event of great importance to the Anglo-Saxon people of the world is due to happen on May 29th of this year, if the theory many people hold in regard to the Great Pyramid at Gizeh is correct, R. J. Bolton, principal of the King Edward School, told the Rotary Club to-day in an addres sof unique interest.

Mr. Bolton explained the theory, pointing out an interpretation of the design and measurements of the inner passages of the great structure, coincided with outstanding dates in the history of the Anglo-Saxon race and that following the same principles as a guide to the future some great trouble was indicated for the 29th of this month. The speaker merely advanced this prediction, not because he believed it himself, but as a very interesting matter over which his hearers might ponder.

Mr. Bolton, who was introduced by Rotarian R. F. Downey, declared that the Great Pyramid was the world's greatest wonder, and then proceeded to prove that statement by an apt description in which he dwelt upon the immense size of the pyramid and the nature of its construction. There was enough stone used to build a sidewalk round the world or to erect all the buildings in Peterborough and have enough left to build a city three times this size. The many mathematical coincidences that have been discovered in connection with the measurement of the pyramid were explained by the speaker and formed an interesting part of his address, the crowning feature of which was the linking up of the destinies of the Anglo-Saxon people with the wonderful structure and the exposition of the theory that led to the naming of May 29th as a day of vast significance to the Anglo-Saxon race.

The hearty thanks of the club expressed by President Killaly to the speaker thoroughly expressed the sentiments of the members.

Two new Rotarians were added to the clubs membership to-day. T. O. Donaldson of the Conger Coal Company, introduced by Rotarian J. H. Seels and J. H. Verner of the Western Clock Company, introduced by Rotarian Lou Potvin. They were given a hearty welcome.

Among the guests to-day was Judge R. M. Dennistoun of Winnipeg. The former well-known resident of Peterborough was gladly welcomed, and although an attempt to have him sing his old masterpiece, "Drill, Ye Terriers, Drill," failed, Judge Dennistoun was persuaded to address the club and briefly expressed his delight at visiting his old home city, and meeting so many old-time friends.

Deep regret at the imminent departure from Peterborough of Rotarian Max Sauer, who has been the club's pianist for the past year, was voiced by Rotarian John Crane and by President Killaly. Mr. Sauer leaves in a few days for Winnipeg.

At the beginning of the business portion of the meeting, President Killaly rapidly reviewed the outstanding features of the Rotary District Conference held in Toronto last week, pointing out the fact that practically every speaker there stressed the sixth object of Rotary.

Rotarian Claude Rogers announced different arrangements in connection with the Boys' Camp at Clear Lake this year, which is to be known as Camp Skookum and is to include camps for intermediate and seniors as well as for the younger boys.

Rotarian J. H. Seels, who is to head the committee to get the boys for camp gave warning that he would shortly call upon some of the members for assistance. It was hoped, he said, to have 50 or 60 boys at the camp continuously during the season.

HUNDREDS ATTEND FUNERAL OF LATE CONSTABLE MAKER

CITIZENS ATTEND.

Firing Party and Bugler From Argyll Light Infantry Add Military Note.

BELLEVILLE, May 7. — (Special to The Examiner). — Citizens in every walk of life were represented at the last sad rites for the late Constable N. F. Maker, yesterday who met an untimely death at Peterborough last Thursday morning. It was one of the largest, if not the largest funeral ever held in the City of Belleville. Hundreds of people lined the route of the cortege, attended the brief services at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Patterson, 237 Albert Street, and gathered at the grave in St. James' cemetery where the body was laid to rest on the shores of the Bay of Quinte.

Many an eye was tear stained as the bier was lowered into the ground when five priests said a last prayer for the fearless, brave and devoted officer who died in the attempt to carry out his duties as a constable of the Provincial Police. He was one who was admired by scores of people in the Bay of Quinte district as well as the City of Peterborough where he had been stationed for four years prior to his death.

Buried In Uniform.

There was a profound silence intermingled with a deep feeling of regret as the remains, enshrouded with the Union Jack, the flag he had served so well, were placed in their resting place by six comrades of the provincial police. The circumstances surrounding his death his sense of deep rooted loyalty to the service and the fact that duty came foremost with this distinguished officer, called for the sympathy of a wide range of citizen whose friendship he enjoyed. The casket, encompassed with floral tributes, was visited by hundreds of people at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Patterson. He was buried in the uniform of a Provincial Police Constable and wore the medals for overseas service.

Short services were conducted at the home by the Knights of Columbus, of which order the deceased was a member, following which citizens were allowed to pass by the casket for a last look at the fallen soldier. As six stalwart members of the Provincial Police shouldered the casket there was a distinct hush felt among the citizens who gathered at the home from Belleville and the surrounding towns.

The Salvation Army Band lead the cortege, followed by comrades in uniform, the 15th Argyle firing squad, heads of the Provincial Police Knights of Columbus, and citizens in motor cars.

At the grave Fathers Killen and Kinlan of St Michael's Church Belleville, and Fathers Costello, O'Brien, and McAuley of Peterborough repeated short prayers. The firing squad fired three volleys and a bugler sounded the last post for the departed. The services were extremely short since a special service had been held in Peterborough previous to the body having been brought here on Saturday for internment.

Police Attend.

The pall bearers were: District Inspector Lougheed of Belleville, under whom Constable Maker had served, Sergt. Clarke, and Constables Thompson of Napanee, Morris of Picton, Storey of Cobourg, and McCoy of Madoc. Constable McCoy was to have succeeded Constable Maker at Peterborough this month.

The guard of honor was composed of Constables Clubbe of Kingston, Mitchel of Oshawa, District Inspector Ray of Kitchener, Sergt. Cousans of Cornwall, Constable McNeill of Morrisburg, Sergt Creasy of Barrie, Constable Stewart of Peterborough, who accompanied Maker on his ill fated journey, Constable Walker of Guelph, Constable Weatheral of Lindsay, Constable Law of Barrie, Sergeant Melville of Kitchener and Constable McLeod of Prescott. Inspector Killing of Toronto was in charge of the guard of honor. Canadian National Constables Foster Jerome, and White also formed a part of the guard of honor.

Deputy Commissioner Alfred Cuddy, of Toronto, assistant to Commissioner General Williams, was present as were Inspectors Elliott, Miller, Hammond, Stringer, Boyd, Gurnett, and Ward of the Criminal Investigation Department of the force.

Among others noted in the procession were Chief of Police Alex. Kidd, Sergt. Harman and Constables Izzard, Evans, and Thompson, and Sergeant of Detectives J. Truaisch, of the Belleville City Police; Constable Matthews of Peterborough, who was one of the first to reach the hotel following the unfortunate affair, Chief Newhall of Peterborough, Provincial Constable Nappan, who came from the Soo for the funeral, Chief Ruse of Cobourg, Chief Friend of Oshawa, High County Constable Jas. Lovelace of Prince Edward County, Chief Biddle of Picton, Chief Bain of Trenton, Officer David Sylvester of Belleville, Officer Hill of Madoc, and Detective Carey of Peterborough.

Will Send More Troops To China

TOKIO, May 7 (Associated Press). — The government of Baron Giichi Tanaka remained in power yesterday despite the attack of the Opposition. The Diet session ended at midnight for the year before the Opposition could put their motion of want of confidence to a vote. The debate on the motion had been prolonged to the last minute of the session.

It was stated here yesterday that the sanction of the Cabinet will be sought for the despatch of all infantry units in the Nagoyo Division, including the divisional headquarters, to Tsingtao, China, to guard and administer the Shantung Railway. It is also proposed to despatch five additional companies of infantry to Tientsin.

The general staff and other high war and navy officials who have been in conference on the Tsinan situation propose that the fighting factions of the Chinese be ordered to cease making war in Shantung, and secondly, that Japan hold the province and its railways until the soluation of the present difficulties.

MANY SUBJECTS FOR DISCUSSION

Chamber of Commerce Executive Will Hold Meeting On Thursday.

TO SHOW TRANSPARENCIES.

Many will be the subjects discussed at the executive meeting of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce on May 10, if the agenda, already prepared, may be taken as a criterion. At least six matters will feature the discussion.

One item of business arising from the minutes of the last meeting will be the suggestion of His Worship Mayor Denne, that a tourists' information bureau be opened at the corner of Charlotte and George Streets. The appointment of delegates to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce third annual convention being held in Quebec City June 4-9 will take place also.

There will be a report by the president relative to the visit of the Honorable Charles A. Dunning interesting the Trent Waterway Development Association, while of local interest will be the secretary's report regarding the proposed civic celebration here on July 2.

To Show Transparencies.

Within the next few days will be shown in the windows of the C.D.S.L. store, the many "transparencies" which have been procured by the Chamber of Commerce for use at the Ohio Second Annual Sportsmen's and Outdoor Show being held at Cleveland May 17 to 23, where the local Chamber expects to have an exhibit. These transparencies are considered one of the finest advertising agencies available and will enhance the exhibit considerably.

Another item coming under new business will be consideration and discussion of plans for a series of visits to neighboring boards of trade and Chambers of Commerce such as Port Hope, Cobourg and Lindsay.

HEATING SHED WILL BE BUILT

A. J. Preston Prepares Service Station For Winter Drivers.

ENCLOSED PITS.

C. H. Huffman & Sons have received the contract to install a heating plant and build an addition to the service station of A. J. Preston, at the corner of Aylmer and Hunter Streets. The new addition, which will be heated by steam, will include an enclosed shed with three entrances and two pits where cars may be greased and thoroughly thawed out in the winter. This is the first addition of this kind to any service station in the city. Formerly if a man wanted his car thoroughly greased and the parts thawed out during the winter, he would have to take it to a heated garage. Now the service stations are adding this service to their equipment.

HONORED BY PEOPLE.

RT. REV. MONSIGNOR McCOLL, who last night was given a purse of gold by the people of the parish of the Immaculate Conception, in view of his transfer to St. Mary's Parish, Lindsay, having been made permanent.

MGR McCOLL RECEIVES GIFT FROM PARISH

People of Immaculate Conception Church Regret Departure of First Pastor.

THERE 13 YEARS.

Rt. Rev. Father McColl Takes Charge, Permanently, of St. Mary's Church, Lindsay.

In a congregation-wide gesture of devotion to a beloved pastor, the people of the Immaculate Conception parish filled their church last evening, to do honor to Monsignor McColl, who for thirteen years guided the destinies of the Ashburnham parish, since its inception, and who has recently been placed permanently in charge of the Roman Catholic parish at Lindsay, necessitating his removal from Peterborough. The church was filled with parishioners, assembled to bid this public farewell to their spiritual father and guide, and to present him with a tangible token of their regard in the form of a purse of gold. The service was simple but impressive, Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament being followed by the presentation to Monsignor McColl, and his reply. The pretty white altar was beautifully decorated for the occasion, with gold lace altar cloth, vases of pale pink roses and ferns, and glimmering radiances in the tall candelabra and twinkling little red votive lights. The music was finely rendered, with Miss Leona Hummel presiding at the organ, and the choir singing the Benediction music in excellent voice. An "Ave Maria" was sung very sweetly by Miss Stella Brady, who also joined with Miss Anna Gallegher in a pleasing rendition of the "O Salutaris Hostia." The entrance of Monsignor McColl was preceded by the appropriate salute to a "good pastor," in "Vivat, vivat, pastor bonus."

Monsignor McColl was assisted at Benediction by Rev. Father Black as deacon, and Rev. C. Carroll as subdeacon. Rev. P. McGuire and Rev. James Guiry were also present in the sanctuary.

The presentation of the purse of gold was made by J. C. Sullivan, and the accompanying address was read by J. Malane. Representative of the sentiments of the choir boys of the church and the children of the parish generally was a second nicely-worded parchment address, read by Vincent Butler and presented to Monsignor McColl by Paul Roche.

Visibly affected by the sentiments of affection from his people, as expressed in the two addresses from adults and juniors of the parish, Monsignor McColl said that he felt sure they had exaggerated to some extent, his good qualities, and went on to express his own feelings with regard to the congregation of the Immaculate Conception parish.

"I thank you very much for all the nice things you have said about me, and suppose that a little exaggeration is permitted and lawful on an occasion like this. We, (and when I say we, I mean all of you) have done very well here, I think. The priest is simply an instrument in the hands of God. He furnishes the opportunities for spiritual advancement and the people have to take advantage of them. I know something about spiritualities, and I do not feel that I am exaggerating when I tell you that there are no more spiritual people anywhere in this diocese than right here. You practise the Catholic religion more exactly than any people I have ever worked with. You are not people who go about boasting of religion. You are good, honest,

Mass Meeting Will Be Held Today To Perfect Plans For Boycott.

Unions Back Nanking Government in Strong Policy For National Self-Defence.

SHANGHAI, China, May 7.—(A.P.)—The Nationalist Huamin News Agency yesterday announced that plans were under way to sever all economic relations with Japan in retaliation for the action of that country in Shantung province.

These plans would put a stop to the purchase of Japanese goods of all kinds and the sale of Chinese goods to Japan and Chinese employed by Japanese would be asked to resign their connections.

The agency announced that a mass meeting would be held to-day to perfect plans for this boycott, following which the Students' Union plans to launch a campaign against all relations with Japan.

The News Agency also said that schools, shops and factories in Shanghai would be closed to-day in protest against "the massacre of Nationalist officials and civilians at Tsinan by the Japanese."

It was said that the Chamber of Commerce, Students' Union and Labor Unions have telegraphed the Nanking government to establish "a stronfi policy for national self-defence and pledging support for such action."

Takes Firm Stand.

NANKING, China, May 7.—(A.P.)—In a statement telegraphed from Tsinan and dated Friday, General Chiang Kai-Shek, leader of the Nationalist army, said that the British and American Consuls were mediating between himself and the Japanese.

He added: "The Japanese have challenged us. For no reason whatever, they fired upon our soldiers and civilians and more than a thousand of our officials, soldiers and civilians have been killed. The Japanese malice and oppression are beyond description. I cannot bow to such bullying. I propose to expose such Japanese deliberate brutality to the world."

What Will Japan Do?

PEKING, China, May 7 (Associated Press).—With the rifles at Tsinan silent since Friday and the warfare at least temporarily stilled, the whole Orient yesterday anxiously awaited answer to its query, "What will Japan do?" The chief attention is now focussed on Tokyo, where the Diet was reported in extraordinary session to solemnly consider relations with China.

Assurances of the safety of the British, American and German communities limit the issue to Japan and Nationalist China. The United States assurances of the safety of Nationals and property have reached British diplomats.

The Japanese troops at Tsinan, wearied by several days of fighting and with the tension of uninterrupted guarding of their Nationals concentrated in the Consulate and its vicinity, have been relieved by 2,000 soldiers, who had made a forced march overland from Tsintao under Major-General Tsukura.

The latest Japanese accounts are calculated to strengthen the advocates to Tokio taking strong measures as the result of the Tsinan trouble. The Japanese Consul there in a measure giving the first details of the sufferings of his civilian compatriots, said at least fourteen has died cruelly at the hands of the Nationalists. The bodies, including those of women, were found with unmentionable mutilations, he said, and others were defaced beyond recognition.

He stated that some of the women who have survived had been assaulted and feared that the death roll will be still larger after a complete check. At least 100 Japanese houses were pillaged. Twenty wounded had been brought to a place of safety.

FIRST PAVEMENT AT CAMPBELLFORD

Standard Paving Company Has Begun Work on Grand Road.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 7.—The first pavement on the streets of Campbellford was laid on Friday by the Standard Paving Compnay of Ottawa. This firm was successful in getting the contract for the two miles of paving which Campbellford is to lay this year after having received a grant of $50,000.00 from the government for this purpose. It was understood that local labor would be employed as far as possible for the work and it has been noticed that much foreign labor has been employed. Inquiry by The Examiner showed that local men had been given work but failed to stick on the job. It is also understood that the company will employ as many local teams and teamsters as it is able to get.

The operations so far have been on Grand road, south of the paper mill siding. Excavation has been in progress since May 1st and the first of the pavement was laid on Friday. During the operation so far, Grand road has been closed to traffic and a detour has been necessary.

Go Slow Mary

NORHAM, May 7. — "Go Slow Mary" was presented in the interests of the missionary fund of Norham Young People's League, in the Warkworth Town Hall on Wednesday evening. The characters were as follows:

Billy Abbey, a young husband out of a job, Arthur Menelley Mary Abbey, the discontented wife, Ida Clare; Mrs. Berdon, Mary's mother, Orletta Gummer; Sally Carter, Mary's bosom friend, Florence McCready; Harry Stevens, Sally's sweetheart, Allen Platt; Burt Childs, Billy's friend, Blair Huycke; Bobby Berdon, Mary's young nephew, a holy terror, Norman McCubbin; Dolly Berdon, Mary's niece, another holy terror, Claire Curtis; Katie, the Abbey's maid, Alma Gummer; Danny Grubb, an iceman, suitor to Katie, Edward Huycke ;Murphy, a policeman, Danny's rival, Ralph Campbell.

A discontented young wife wished to go back to office work. She challenges her husband, Billy Abbey, to trade places with her for a week. His amusing experiences and endeavors to live up to the job cause much laughter. Two visitors, Sally Carter and Burt Childs arrive and receive the confidence of Mr. and Mrs. Abbey. Matters become strained between Billy and Mary. Sally and Burt are used by Billy and Mary to create an atmosphere of jealousy. The two "angels," Bobby and Dolly, Mary's niece and nephew, who with their grandmother, Mrs. Berbon, are visiting at the home, proved to be the proverbial mischief makers. Unintentionally they increase the spirit of jealousy between the married couple. Billy becomes desperately tired of housekeeping. Mary cannot find a position. Matters come to a head when Mrs. Berdon loses her diamond ring. Suspicion rests on a stranger sitting in the park, watching the house. The stranger turns out to be Harry Stevens, whom Sally has secretly married. Katie, the Dutch maid, finds the ring in the goose which she is preparing for dinner. Dolly, playing with the ring, had dropped it; the goose had swallowed it. Murphy, the policeman, confesses that he is a poor Sherlock Holmes. Katie and Danny, the iceman ,are blissfully oblivious to everyone else. Harry is proven innocent. Mary is ashamed of herself ,and sick of hunting for a job. Billy is discouraged with

SHEEP KILLED BY STRAY DOGS

Lorne Hay of Petherick's Corners Suffers Heavy Loss.

NO CLUES FOUND.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, May 7—Another raid by sheep killing dogs on Wednesday night, resulted in a severe loss to the flock of Lorne Hay. Twenty-two head including ten lambs were killed and three others badly mangled out of a flock of thirty five, a result of the midnight attack. Mr. Hay keeps his sheep in a barn some distance from his home and did not hear any disturbance, of course, so received a rude surprise when he paid a visit to the flock on Thursday morning. No clue as to the ownership of the culprits has been found and as is usual in these cases the township council will have to pay indemnity. This is a drain in the municipal funds and at the same time does not fully compensate the sheep owner fo his loss but seems to be the only satisfactory method at the present time. A declaration of war on stray dogs might prove of some benefit as sheep-raising is becoming a very hazardous business under existing conditions.

WARSAW CLASS SUPPORTS CHILD

IN INDIAN HOSPITAL.

WARSAW, May 7.—The secretary of the Warsaw Woman's Institute received a letter from Dr. I. Mary Roberts, Mission Hospital, Madura, South India, thanking the Institute for the money sent through Miss Alexander, to support the child for a year, and asking if it would be possible to continue the support. She sent a picture of the child.

There was a certain amount of money over the expenses at the close of the nursing class, and the class decided to give it to Miss Alexander to help care for some child in the mission in which Miss Alexander had been, and they decided to, and did, raise enough money to support a child for a year. The child to whom the support was given is a girl of three years, whose mother, in a dying condition was brought with her and laid on the hospital steps. Nothing is known of her history. Her name is Balammal.

The annual meeting will be held on Thursday afternoon, May 10.

WORK STARTED AT BAILIEBORO

Farmers in District Commence Seeding Land During Past Week.

WATER LOWERING.

BAILIEBORO, May 7. — Harry Barnard and F. C. Jewison commenced seeding on Wednesday. Mr. Barnard seeded six acres of oats, and stated the ground cultivated in excellent manner. Mr. D. Rutherford patched some small plots where the wheat had killed out during the winter, and started to sow a field of oats on Thursday morning.

During Wednesday and Thursday, the warm weather started the wheat, seeds, and pasture to grow, and the entire countryside is taking on a green coating, which makes the worried farmers' hearts rejoice.

Cattle Go to Pasture

Harold Beebe turned about twenty head of cattle out to pasture on his ranch in Hamilton Township this week. Mr. Beebe states the old grass left from last year will give the stock plenty of pasture until the new grass comes, and it is coming very fast at present.

The swallow and meadow lark have arrived from their winter quarters. This is always a good sign that warm weather is here to stay.

Water Lowering.

The water in the lake is going down very rapidly. If it continues as it is doing at present, the first of the week will find it almost normal again. The fishermen, with their rod and line, are once again trying their luck from the wharves along the water front, but as yet the mudcats refuse to bite at the angleworm.

CADETS MAKE FINE SHOWING

Campbellford High and Public School Boys Inspected By Captain Herron.

ALL IN UNIFORM.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 7.—After watching with interest and admiration the manoeuvres of the cadet corps of the high and public schools Friday afternoon, Capt. V. W. S. Herron, District Cadet Officer, spoke highly of the efficiency of the two corps and expressed his complete satisfaction with the demonstration which he had been privileged to witness. There were about one hundred and twenty cadets on parade for the inspection. A highly satisfactory report of the inspector for both the high and public school corps is anticipated. As a mark of appreciation of the fine showing which the boys had made, the principals and instructors of the corps financed a journey to Long's for the entire corps.

After Captain Herron had addressed the corps and remarked on their remarkably high standard of efficiency, E. H. Greig, B.A., Charles Haig and the Rev. James Grier delivered brief addresses. Next year there will be another inspecting officer since Captain Herron stated during the course of his remarks that he was a member of the Canadian Permanent Force and was about to rejoin his regiment. The officers in charge of the parade were, for the high school, Donald Kidd, Commanding Officer and Lieutenants Garnet McGee and Grant Thain. For the Public School Corps Nadoo Reynolds acted as Commanding Officer with three Lieutenants, Manson Lebrash, Jack Deoher, and William Malhiot.

Since the inauguration of the crops several years ago, when the highest seat of learning was the Old High School situated midway up School Hill on the north side of Bridge street, the cadet corps has enjoyed an exceptionally favorable report from the inspecting officer. In those days, uniforms for the cadet were almost an unknown quantity and only a few of the "standard size" cadets were so fortunate as to be given a khaki suit. The officers appeared dressed for parade with sam browns and swords attached over shirt sleeves rolled to the elbow and frequently bare headed. For the last few years the corps has appeared in smart khaki uniforms which have the appearance of being practically tailored to measure.

Until this year, the inspection has always been followed by a social home where afternoon team was served and dancing permitted. The exception this term was because there was to be a basket ball game played here with the team from Albert College and it was the intention of the staff to entertain these players. Owing to the fact that the end of the term is not far off, the principal does not deem it advisable to depart too far from the usual course of study.

TEACHERS DISCUSS SCHOOL PROBLEMS

Workers In St. James' Sunday School Enjoy Banquet and Addresses.

On Tuesday evening the teachers and officers of St. James' United Church, with their friends, sat down to a banquet in Wesley Hall. There were some 75 present and a pleasant and profitable time was spent. It had been suggested at a meeting of the Executive some time ago, that more practical help could be gained, if as a school, the officers and teachers could get together and face their own problems. To A. E. Prest, the Superintendent, was given the task of providing the program, and the thoughts presented by the various speakers were seen to assist many of the teachers over some of their hard propositions. The following is the program for the evening:—

"What are some of the best features of our school, and how can we make most of them"?—presented by J. H. Spence.

"How the 'Cheerful Workers' Class has been improved, and they themselves have been encouraged by home visitation,"—presented by Mrs. H. Welbourne.

"What can we learn and introduce to our school by visiting other schools?" —presented by Mrs. Elliott.

"The value of home study for the Junior scholars," by Miss Mabel Dulmage.

"How can we best interest our classes in missions—and what others can do," by Mrs. Patterson.

"Encouraging members to take part in the general exercises and class discussion," by Mr. Welford.

"Putting into practise the teaching of the lesson," by W. McLaren.

"A Summary of all by the pastor," Rev. J. H. Dudgeon.

The Sunday school orchestra was present and rendered several numbers. Besides duets by the Misses Baldry, Mrs. McLaren and Miss Ritchin, Mr. and Mrs. Cutmore and Misses Rose and B. Dudgeon. All were delighted to have with them as guests Rev. and Mrs. Greatrix and Mr. and Mrs. T. Brown; but the greatest surprise for the company was the presence of Rev. J. G. Brown, MA., D.D., now Principal of Union College, Vancouver. Mr. Brown was pastor of St. James' some 16 years ago, and was very popular with his people and those who were associated with him in former days were pleased to meet him and hear him again. He told the gathering of his work in British Columbia, and also of the wonderful province in which it is his privilege to be living at present.

Altogether the evening will not soon be forgotten, and it is expected that this growing Sunday school, not only in numbers but in spiritual life, will reap greater things in the future because of this gathering.

Spring work is general throughout this vicinity. A number of farmers have some sown, whose farms are of light land, and the hum of the tractors is heard at every angle.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

This very wearable little hat of navy blue straw and silk has a matching scarf of silk, hat and scarf both being ornamented with a gray embroidered anchor.

To begin with—late in the winter there were little between-season hats covered with printed silk, each hat provided with a little triangle scarf of silk to match. Small-town and suburban milliners—as well as those in the city—who had hats of this sort to offer were gratified at the way women bought them. For some time the French milliners have included these hat scarf sets in their offerings. It was not until this season's revival of interest in the square or three-sided scarf was established that the scarf to match became so important to milliners.

For sports wear there are natural-toned straw hats with scarf tied and knotted around the crown—and with them scarfs of a larger size for the neck. A good plan is to buy an untrimmed natural-toned straw hat and then three or four sorts of figured silk—enough of each to make a square or triangle for the neck with another somewhat smaller square or triangle for the hat. The hat scarfs may be tied once and for all, and then slipped on over the top of the crown.

The sketch shows a straw hat with upturned front section lined with silk. The long scarf is of the same silk—trimmed with an embroidered anchor like the one on the hat.

I must tell you of the latest jewelry fashion in Paris. It consists of long heavy chains worn about the neck with a bunch of keys dangling at the end—not meant to represent latch keys, as you might suppose, but the doors of Heaven! These new ornaments were copied after the imposing key chains worn by dignitaries in certain European cathedrals. Chain and keys are all of gold—sometimes with precious stones set in the keys. The chains themselves are quite long and the keys make a pleasant tinkling sound as the wearer walks or dances.

LYRICS OF LIFE

ALL MAN WANTS

A fellow thinks he wants a wife,
And so he weds a woman,
But what he really wants for life
Is something superhuman.
For, when he weds, he wants a maid,
A little wicked, I'm afraid,
And yet he fondly hopes the change'll
Not leave her any less an angel.

He wants the vision and the fact,
Both custard pie and kisses;
He wants her like a girl to act,
And still to act the Missus.
He wants her foolish, wants her wise,
To still agree, and yet advise,
Restore his faith when his is shaken,
But never tell him he's mistaken.

Yes, you will make a go of life,
The same as many another,
If you can be his maid, his wife,
His mistress, and his mother.
For all that you will have to do
Is be a saint and sinner, too,
Yes, be an angel and a woman,
A cipher, and yet superhuman.

HOROSCOPE
The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicat) e
FOR TUESDAY, MAY 8, 1928.

Astrologers read this as rather an uncertain day, but benefic aspects are dominant.

This should be an auspicious rule under which to solicit loans political support of any sort.

The seers foretell surprises in the national campaign which is to be bitterly fought. Personalities will be much discussed and not at all kindly.

There is a promising sign for those who desire to start in new positions or business ventures.

According to the stars individuals in independent business enterprises are to have hard struggles, for astrologers foresee even greater combinations of capital than formerly.

All will be mass production and mass merchandising, if the planetary indications are rightly interpreted.

All will be mass production and mass merchandising, if the planetary indications are rightly interpreted.

This is an exceedingly good day for beginning any sort of a journey and most auspicious for ocean voyages.

The stars presage much travel abroad in airplanes as well as motor cars, but care should be taken to safeguard life, for sinister signs are read.

Amazing revelations regarding the use of drugs may be expected early in the summer.

It is repeatedly foretold by seers that the reign of crime and vice will be ended by a public movement in which there is a modern Joan of Arc.

Women's organizations now come under a planetary rule which is stimulating and helpful. One of these will contribute much to the world of industry.

From the colleges are to come both men and women who will bring to national ills scientific knowledge which will assure widespread reforms, astrologers prognosticate.

Persons whose birthdate it is may meet enemies in the coming year, and they should be unusually circumspect.

Children born on this day probably will have a talent for keeping order and for directing work. These subjects of this sign should be methodical and executive.

MISSION OPENS AT CATHEDRAL

Redemptorist Priests Will Conduct Special Services For Two Weeks.

OPENING SERMON.

A fortnight's Mission, preached by three Redemptorist priests from Toronto, Rev. Fathers Cloran, O'Hara and Keogh, opened at the ten o'clock Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning, with a sermon preached by the Rev. Father Cloran. The first week of the Mission will be devoted exclusively to the women of the parish and the second week to the men. Mission Masses in the morning will be at five and eight o'clock, with an extra Mass at seven o'clock, and evening devotions, when Mission sermons will be preached, will be at half past seven o'clock. A special Mission for the children commenced yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Father Cloran exhorted the parishioners to be constant in their attendance at the various Mission exercises, in order to prove to God that "we are Catholics in deed and in truth, as well as in name."

The reverend speaker took the basis of his sermon from the Old Testament chronicle of the Prophet Elias, who freed the land of Israel from a three years' drought by bringing the people from an idolatrous worship of the false God Baal, to the worship of the one true God. The Almighty assisted him by sending down fire from heaven to consume the sacrifice of Elias, while the sacrifice of the priests of Baal remained untouched.

The Prophet Elias asked the people why they were of two opinions in deciding between the one true God and the false god. Rev. Father Cloran said: "If Christ be God, why do you not accept Him and follow Him and love Him. Why masquerade as Christian and Catholic? Why be inconsistent? Why are you wordly and Catholic? Why are you sinful and Christian? Is it because you doubt the religion of Christ or because you are not thoroughly convinced of it or because it is lacking in Divine fruits? No, you halt between two opinions because you try to serve two masters and because you actually think that you can go along in this way and in your last days you can turn to God, embrace His doctrines then and save your souls. Dear friends, don't make that mistake. You can't do it. Others have tried it and failed. If Christ is God, let us accept Him and love Him and serve Him.

"You count on the assistance of time, grace and good will. But what assurance have you that you will live one hour, one day longer than the present? God has said: 'Be you ready. I shall come and claim you like a thief in the night. I shall demand your soul when you least expect it.' You cannot count on time.

"Nor can you trifle with the grace of God. He may give you opportunities again and again, but the time will come when He wil ldemand an accounting of the advantages of grace that He has given you.

"As for you own good will how do you know that you can retain it, if you trifle with sin? The soul that trifles in this way becomes wedded to sin in time. It becomes habitual, a second nature to it, and it finds it impossible to turn aside from its own evil habits. It gradually develops a hatred of God that is like the hatred of the Almighty possessed by Frederick the Great, of whom history tells that he ordered struck from his standard a portion of the words, "For God and country," saying that he was not fighting for God. He died a bitter, sad man.

"It is simply a truism to say that as we live, so shall we die. We cannot halt between two opinions. If Christ is God, we must accept Him, believe in Him, follow, love and serve Him."

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE DO WHAT WE DO.

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

No two of us are exactly alike in every respect. Yet by virtue of the fact that we are human beings we share like qualities. We are all alike in kind. We differ only in degree. We all have the common human instincts of hunger, sex, curiosity, except that one or more of these impulses are stronger in some than in others. In one person the instinct of curiosity may be completely overcome by the emotion of fear while another person might have this impulse abnormally developed as in the vicious forms of gossip.

The same is true of all the other human qualities of body and mind. Heredity, training, education, likes and dislikes both native and acquired make a difference as to the exact place an impulse or emotion or idea or some other mental trait will have in any given case. Nevertheless we all possess these traits in varying degrees.

It is on the basis of these common psychic human traits that we interpret conduct. Human nature is no exception to the rule that nothing ever happens without a cause. When you see a broken window pane you know that something happened to it. You may not be able to tell whether it was struck by a ball, a stone, a club or something else, but you are certain some force was applied.

Similarily there is a cause or motive for every human act. Why do we laugh, cry, etc., sleep, dream, get angry, run away from danger, grow old, die, suffer pain, feel sorrow, and do many other things peculiar to human beings? There is always some cause or causes for every act.

Sometimes it is very difficult to determine the true motive. Life is a tangled skein and motives are highly complex. What other seems like a real motive may turn out to be a rationall action, the reason we give for doing what we want to do. The science of motivation is the latest and one of the most interesting and useful studies in psychology.

IDEALS OF BEAUTY

If you wish to gain them, follow nature's laws—and, above all, this natural rule in skin care which has proved its effectiveness to the world

RIGHT living, right diet and proper exercise are the factors leading experts urge for physical perfection. For skin perfection these experts urge natural ways in skin care.

Thus, on expert advice, the artificial beauty methods of yesterday have largely been discarded.

Foremost beauty authorities have found beauty insurance starts with proper cleansing of the skin. They urge the soothing lather of olive and palm oils as blended in Palmolive as the safe, natural way in skin care. Most of the pretty skins you see today are due to it.

Use Palmolive according to the simple rule here given. Note the difference a single week will make. It is nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

Start today with this simple care—
Note how your skin improves

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging the lather softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all. Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Avoid this mistake

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or one represented as of olive and palm oils, is the same as Palmolive.

And it costs but 10c the cake! So little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes.

STICKERS NOT ENOUGH.

As a step in the campaign to eliminate motor accidents in Ontario several cities in the Province are organizing safer drivers' clubs with the object of encouraging motorists generally to observe traffic laws and safety first principles.

Such organizations are capable of good service, but they must go further than merely arranging for a slogan to be printed on a windshield sticker.

The Examiner was not greatly impressed with the value of those "Care and Courtesy" signs carried on many Ontario cars last summer, for the simple reason that they were displayed by many drivers whose actions showed that they were neither for care nor courtesy, and, on the other hand, numerous citizens who prided themselves on being careful drivers declined to bedeck their windshields with the slogan.

Educational campaigns must go a little deeper than that; they must arouse a real desire on the part of motorists generally to bring about safer conditions by impressing uopn the dire results of recklessness and carelessness, as exemplified by the appalling casualty lists rolled up last year in the United States and Canada.

COURAGE UNDER FIRE.

For the manner in which they dealt with a very nasty situation at the Montgomery House last Thursday, the members of Peterborough's police department who were involved in the tragedy deserve every commendation.

Detective Wm. Carey and Constables Gordon Puffer and Leonard Matthews, who went to the rescue after the slaying of Provincial Constable Maker, tackled a perilous job with a promptness and fearlessness worthy of the best traditions of police officers anywhere.

The situation they were called upon to face might well have daunted the bravest of men, yet they hesitated not a second in coming to close quarters with an armed murderer who had already claimed one victim and whose warped mind undoubtedly had decided that his life would be sold as dearly as possible.

Detective Carey and Constable Puffer risked death at every step when they went upstairs after the slayer and drove him out, and when his turn came, Constable Matthews unhesitatingly entered the building into which the desperate killer had fled, and by cool nerve and quick action, with his own life at stake and in the certain knowledge that if he failed death for himself and possibly for others would be the penalty, brought the career of dangerous David Montgomery to an end.

These three officers deserve the gratitude of the community for the courage and nerve they displayed in grappling with a most dangerous crisis.

WHY THE COST CLIMBS.

We are inclined to grumble at the cost of government, high taxes and that sort of thing without giving much thought to the fact that, although we pay more in taxation than was paid fifteen or twenty years ago, the cost is represented by many services and activities that were then not thought of as possibilities.

Ontario is to adopt old age pensions next year; a development that will add four or five millions to the annual expenditure.

The withdrawal of Federal grants for vocational training may have to be made up by further financial assistance from the Province, another material increase in the cost of provincial government.

The motor car has created an almost insatiable demand for better roads, which are being provided at heavy expense.

Each year sees new channels for governmental expenditure, created largely by public opinion and requested as public necessities.

It should be remembered when the cost of government is under fire that we ourselves have petitioned for, in some cases demanded, the establishment of new services and the launching of new government enterprises, and that although we have to pay more than ever in taxes, we get a good deal from such expenditures that we did not get in the period erroneously and not very definitely described as the "good old days."

AN IMPORTANT COMMITTEE.

In an article in these columns a few days ago The Examiner pleaded for greater attention to be given the Manufacturers' Committee, pointing out that this committee has usually been treated as the Cinderella of the City Council.

Large appropriations are made for our streets, for fire protection and other municipal services, but the committee whose responsibility is to give the community a transfusion of new blood periodically by the adding of more factories to the city's list of industries is expected to function without any great amount of expense.

This, of course, has been the condition for many years, and the policy is open to strong criticism.

To spend money to get new industries is undoubtedly good business, for every additional factory means more men employed, more houses needed, more taxpayers, more business for merchants, and more money in circulation.

For example, this year's Manufacturers' Committee, under the chairmanship of Ald. Malcolm McIntyre, has already secured for Peterborough a most promising industry in the Johnson Outboard Motors Company, an industry that gives every reason for predicting for it rapid and substantial expansion, with benefit to the whole city.

And Ald. McIntyre and his committee have been hot on the trail of other factories.

That's good work that means much for Peterborough, and should be backed up and encouraged.

The Manufacturers' Committee should have a place in the sun, with more recognition for its importance, and more of the sinews of war to enable it to relentlessly keep after more industries.

This year's chairman has shown that results can be secured, and this success may obtain for the committee he heads the recognition its responsibility should have long since had.

LESSON FOR PERMIT-HOLDERS.

A cable despatch a few weeks ago linking the names of Mussolini and Rothermere seems to have escaped the attention of Rev. Ben Spence and other stout believers in the doctrine of coercion as applied to the liquor problem. It is open to argument if the position of Mussolini and Rothermere is not the more influential.

It seems that Lord Rothermere visited Premier Mussolini and, on returning home, gave an account of his interview with the remarkable Italian. Lord Rothermere emphasized that "strict self-control and economy of time are the secrets by which a high standard of efficiency is achieved." No doubt men like Mussolini and Rothermere, the latter the owner of many English newspapers and periodicals, whilst Mussolini is not only Premier but personally conducts seven Cabinet departments (Interior, War, Navy, Aviation, Foreign Affairs, Corporations, and Presidency of the Council), could not handle a fraction of the work they perform but for the wisest and most resolute self-management.

There is a lesson for holders of permits from the Liquor Control Board in a further remark of Lord Rothermere:

"Mussolini takes no part whatever in social life. He sleeps eight hours a night. For ten years he has not taken a drop of alcohol, and he does not smoke.

"He regards alcohol and tobacco indeed as entirely unsuitable for people who have hard mental work to do.

"This opinion of his confirms my own experience and practice, for, out of regard for the heavy responsibilities resting upon me, I have been for some time past a teetotaller and a non-smoker."

Utterances of the chief commissioner of the Liquor Control Board, as well as speeches by Premier Ferguson and Attorney-General Price, indicate appreciation of the fact that the success of the legislation now in effect in Ontario depends upon the moderation and reasonableness of permit-holders. They hold in their hands the key to the success of the Liquor Control Act. They voted for it and shouted for it, but from the behavior of some who buy and drink to excess, or who create scandal at the Act's expense by abnormal behavior of some kind (and that does not necessarily mean a summons to police court), one would suppose their desire is to "knock" the Act. Unquestionably that is the effect of their conduct, and if enough of them forget themselves in the same way, ultimately there may arise an agitation for another attempt at coercion in the previous or some other form.

We have before us illustrations of the working of two contrasting systems of dealing with the liquor problem: (1) Coercion per the Ontario Temperance Act, and (2) freedom under regulation and restriction. One takes no account of human nature; the other does. Some social reformers are so constituted that they can understand but the one method. Most of them are estimable people, but they have somehow alienated the majority of the electorate. Abnormal permit-holders are playing into the hands of those against whom they contended in the last provincial election, and are doing more damage to the present liquor control law than is the Rev. Ben. Spence.

The Liquor Control Board should be commended for its penalizing of permit-holders of the wrong-headed type, and for its efforts to impress upon the holders generally the wisdom of moderation and sobriety. The examples of Mussolini and Rothermere are apropos in this connection and will carry a wide appeal.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

A "ROUND ROBIN" ABROAD.

Members of Parliament never, perhaps, appear to less advantage than when the question of their own salaries is mooted. Almost alone among people of the country, they are privileged to raise their own incomes without even consulting those who pay the bills, the people of Canada. Every few years the issue is raised, and when it comes up there is gossip, agitation, a "round robin," and altogether an atmosphere of shiftiness and mystery.

We are now told by Ottawa despatches that the salary issue is again raised in an aggressive form. Apparently the question is, Who can put it over, and who can escape the blame therefor? Mr. Bennett is credited with refusing to sign the "round robin," on the plea that the Government should take the responsibility, while all members get the benefit. But if the move should be unpopular the Conservatives could put the blame on the Liberals. The latter are said to be too wary to be caught in that trap. The increase must be sanctioned by both parties or there will be no action.

But why should there be an increase? What has occurred to justify a larger indemnity at this time? Only last year a proposal to secure an increase for the Cabinet Ministers was dropped through the firm opposition of Hon. Mr. Robb, the Finance Minister. Members of the Government have heavy departments to administer, requiring full time all year round. Members of the House are at Ottawa four or five months of the year, and members of the Senate one or two months.

The casual visitor to the House knows that most of the time there is only a small proportion of the members present. What is there so arduous about the work of the non-attentive majority that calls for an increase in pay? The move this year to shorten speeches should shorten the session also, if there were not so many addresses which are echoes and repetitions.

In view of everything, the average elector will conclude that the majority of the members are overpaid rather than underpaid, and that the stealthy round robins and corridor agitations should be discouraged by the Government, and the members told to rest in peace and do better work for their country.—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

And now what we want is a whole string of don't-step-on-the-gas weeks.

Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, will, of course, be delighted to hear that Major Fitzmaurice, the Irish flyer, speaks with an Oxford accent.

Judging from the conduct of the Opposition at Ottawa, there will be no million-a-minute passing of the estimates during the present session.

You'd naturally expect the British runners in the bunion derby to make good time out of Chicago.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., May 7 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the fact that foreign bids were below working basis the export trade in grain here Saturday was extremely dull.

On account of the further advance in prices for oat futures at Winnipeg the local market for cash grades was stronger and prices were marked up one cent per bushel. The demand for Spring and winter wheat grades of flour was quiet, but prices were fully maintained.

A feature of the millfeed trade was the marked improvement in the demand from the United States for bran and shorts and a large volume of business was accomplished for May shipment. The domestic trade was also good and values were unchanged. The undertone to the market for standard grades of rolled oats was firm under a fair demand.

A moderate amount of business was done in eggs and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 2,407 cases.

Little business was transacted in butter and the undertone to the market was easy. The receipts were 2,229 packages.

Extreme dullness market the local and export trade in cheese and prices were fractionally lower The receipts were 983 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 7 (Canadian Press) —Big speculation buying of future deliveries of wheat, with Eastern and foreign interests taking the lead, gave the market here a lively swing upward Saturday. Chicago July delivery of wheat rose to almost 7c a bushel above Friday's low point. Sharp falling off in world shipments of wheat was indicated, and the Liverpool market showed unusual strength.

Closing quotations here for wheat were unsettled, 3¼ to 4c net higher, with corn 1¾c up; oats showing ¾c to 1c advance, and provisions at 7c to 20c gain.

In some quarters, talk was current that the May crop report from Washington, due this week, would probably show a lower condition for Winter wheat than did recent unofficial estimates, and would also point to a larger loss in acreage, about the heaviest ever known, meanwhile, reinstating of large speculative lines which had been sold out of late was actively in progress, and continued unfavorable crop reports from Europe were a further stimulus to buy.

Advices from Poland were in particular of a bullish character. Winter kill of wheat in Central and Western sections of that country being reported as 12 to 15 per cent of seedings, and rye generally worse than wheat. In Chicago, rye advanced faster than any other grain, a circumstance attributed to export buying, European purchases of North American wheat Saturday for prompt shipment were estimated at 600,000 bushels.

Corn as well as wheat was active and higher, with commission houses and speculators both largely on the buying side. Nearly 800,000 but decrease of Kansas City stocks of corn inside of five days was reported, indicating brisk shipping demand from a wide area. A liberal reduction of the corn visible supply total today was looked for. Oats were helped upward by signs of export dealings. Provisions went higher chiefly on account of the upward trend of hog values and of grain.

GOD'S MINUTE

Let us lay aside....the sin which doth so easily beset us.—Heb. 12:1.

Our Heavenly Father, 'tis Thy hand that opens for us the gates of the morning and draws about us the curtains of the night. We thank Thee for all the blessings that enrich our days, for the watchful care that shields us from evil, for the strength of body and mind with which to perform daily tasks and duties. Truly Thy compassions fail not, and there is no measure to Thy love. Thou dost care for each of us as if each were Thine only child.

To all Thy love and grace may we respond with a life dedicated wholly to Thee. Help us to glorify Thee by consecrating to Thee every affection of our hearts and every work of our hands.

May we do nothing which Thou canst not approve, ask nothing that we cannot receive from Thee, nor go where we cannot go with Thee. Blot out from the book of Thy remembrance our many trangressions. Strengthen us that we may shun every allurement of sin, and grow daily in the knowledge and love of our Saviour, so that when we nightly pitch our moving tents we may be a day's march nearer home. We ask it in the Name of Jesus. Amen.

MANITOBA PLANS RESEARCH BUREAU

Scientific Investigation into Resources of Province is Urged.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 7.—(Canadian Press).—The formation of a provincial scientific research bureau has been suggested by a sub-committee of the Industrial Development Board with a view to the development of industrial Manitoba. The aims of the proposed bureau are given as follows:

To ascertain in what direction scientific research will be most readily applicable of the problems of the development of resources and industries and to organize and direct such research; to work in close co-operation with the science departments at the university and with research departments in provincial industrial corporations.

The council of the bureau, it is proposed will consist of seven members including the provincial premier as chairman; the council to be appointed by the lieutenant-governor-in-council.

The bureau plans to devote itself to purely provincial problems in co-operation, where possible, with the National Research Council at Ottawa. These problems will include the separation of base metal sulphides, the extraction of lithium from ore, lessening the cost of long distance power transmission, the study of the varieties of muskrat most suitable for fur-farming, and others.

SCIENCE GIVES WINGS TO INDUSTRY, and Mining becomes big business

OUT back of beyond, burrowing and tunnelling, boring and blasting earth's riches from her deep hidden storehouses, the miners toil. Directing them is the field staff, managers, inspectors, foremen, time-keepers. At headquarters in the distant city the executive officers of the mining corporation are at their desks, in touch with the banks, with the markets, studying alertly the ever changing conditions of the industry.

Long Distance is the liaison officer between headquarters and the front line, at the mines.

Emergencies arrive, inevitably. Instant contact between mine and office becomes imperative. No time to write. Message and reply must conquer delay. Minutes may mean millions.

Long Distance does it.

Canada possesses the largest partially developed mining area in the world. To complete its development, that the Canadian people may realize to the fullest extent upon the wealth close held in their country's mineral deposits, some medium of constant immediate communication between mine and executive offices, over thousands of miles of barren country, is essential.

Long Distance supplies that medium.

Even in its present embryo state as a producer of minerals, Canada leads the world in annual output of nickel and asbestos, mines more silver, copper and zinc than any country within the Empire, and stands third in the world in gold production.

In 1880 when The Bell Telephone Company of Canada was organized, the country's total mineral production was valued at $15,000,000. In 1926, the value was $241,773,000. The actual coal reserve is officially estimated at 414,193,000,000 tons.

Adequate development of these vast resources depends largely upon speed. The Bell Telephone Company co-operates with industry to annihilate time in communication. Long Distance connections are made now more rapidly than was possible a year ago. Still greater speed is the goal of our constant striving.

In 1928, we expect to connect 135,000 telephones, which will mean a net increase of 40,000 telephones in service.

In Quebec and Ontario there are more than 2,100,000 miles of Bell Telephone wires; enough to girdle the globe more than eighty times—and 1,400,000 miles are under ground.

REGENCY REFUSES PEASANTS' DEMANDS

Will Not Ask Government of Vintila Bratiano to Resign —Boycott Likely.

BUCHAREST, May 7 (Canadian Press).—The Regency to-day refused the demand voiced by two hundred thousand peasants meeting at Alba Julia yesterday that the Government of Vintila Bratianu resign. Julio Maniu, leader of the peasants, who brought the demand to Bucharest, was informed that the Regency saw no occasion for demanding the resignation. In face of the negative reply, the Peasants party may now adopt passive resistance towards the present Government, including non-payment of taxes, in order to embarrass it.

REV. J. T. BLANCHARD ACCEPTS CALL

Almonte Gazette Contains Item Regarding New Pastor to Omemee Church.

OMEMEE, May 7.—The Almonte Gazette contains the following item regarding the Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard, who has accepted a call to Trinity United Church, Omemee.

The departure of Mr. Blanchard will be very deeply regretted, not only by the members of his own congregation, but by the people generally. He came here seven years ago from Avonmore, in the County of Stormont, at the special invitation of the Almonte congregation, the delegates who carried out the negotiations being the late Mr. William Thoburn and Mr. Hugh Martin. During his ministry here, he has endeared himself to very many peoplee.

Mr. Blanchard for the past eighteen months has been in charge of the Appleton congregation and he has also been Moderator of the Blakeney and Clayton churches since the Union.

He is a native of Athens, Ont., descendant of a United Empire Loyalist family, which was originally Hugenot. He is a graduate of the Montreal Wesleyan College, now the United Theological College. Mrs. Blanchard is a native of Burrit's Rapids and has taken an active part with her husband in church work. She also will leave many warm friends in Almonte.

CHINESE OBSERVE 'HUMILIATION' DAY

Situation Graver Now Than at Any Time Since Trouble With Japan in 1915.

PEKING, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Japanese warships were distributed throughout Chinese waters and additional troops were on their way to reinforce their embattled comrades in Tsinan to-day as the Chinese observed "Humiliation Day." The thirteenth anniversary of Japan's ultimatum of twenty-one demands took on a more sombre and threatening aspect than ever before. The annual day has been an occasion of anti-Japanese demonstrations. The massacre and fighting in Tsinan today had brought about what was considered the gravest Chino-Japanese crisis since the 1915 demands. It was feared that in Nationalist territory at least race hatred might flare and be the spark to set the train of powder off.

Andy Cohen, who has been playing a sensational game at second base for the New York Giants, holds the unique distinction of being the only 100 per cent Jewish ball player in the major leagues this season.

: ALL AT SEA :

By CAROLYN WELLS

1927—By NEA Service Inc.

CHAPTER I

Of all scenes of sheer gayety, of relaxed conventionality, of utter freedom from responsibility, care or trouble, there is no spot to compare with an ocean bathing beach.

The wine-dark sea may stretch its dangerous depths to the far horizon in one direction; the land, with its seething spots of civilization, may yawn with equal dangers on the other side; but at the joining, the foam-fringed bit of No Man's Land between earth and water, all is merriment and abandon.

Bars are let down, restraint flies, caste is forgotten, and high and low, good and bad, real and imitation are made free and equal by the one touch of salt water that makes the whole world kin.

Among the beaches best adapted for sea dipping are those on the coast of New Jersey, and of those one of the finest is the great resort called Ocean Town.

Its habitues contend that nowhere else is the temperature of the water always as it should be, and the adjustment of the sun's rays a counsel of perfection.

Year after year, the lovers of the place return with joy and leave with regret.

July opened auspiciously. Everything was in readiness for an enormous celebration of the national holiday, and those who could do so came a few days ahead of the crowds, to get, as it were, a running start.

The noonday sun shone down on hundreds of human hands in long straight rows, human fists, rather, as each tightly clasped itself around the hard, thick rope that shot its way far into the ocean.

With many the sea bath consisted in a continuous frantic clutch on this life-line, while the more adventurous dared let go, and buffet the spent waves near the shore.

Others still, and these were the ones that turned gray the hair of the life guards, were possessed to swim out far beyond their depths, and beyond all bounds of wisdom or safety. But the lure of the surf is a subtle spell and its danger seems negligible when the great waves call.

On the other side of the last lace-edged frill of the combers, the beach groups sat about in utter bliss of contentment.

Here, a family from an inner county of the state; there a small crowd from the middle west; yonder a gay bunch from New York City itself.

A quiet, sophisticated-looking group of five consisted of three men, a yuong woman and a girl.

Her lithe eagerness proclaimed her a swimmer, and she was manifestly impatient to start.

The other woman, only slighter older, was garbed in an elaborate bathing costume of flowered crepe de chine, with a coquettish beret that fell over to one side of her curly bobbed hair. Clearly, she had no intention of dampening her newly marcelled locks. Her frock was ruffled and sashed, and a smart beach cape of flowered silk fell from her shoulders.

Her lovely face was alight with fun, her eyes dancing with laughter, when, suddenly catching sight of some men and women approaching, she gave a stifled, startled exclamation, and swung the gay parasol she was holding round till it shielded her face.

"What's the matter, Maddy?" cried the girl by her side, "coy?"

"Sun in my eyes," was the reply, but when the parasol was again pushed aside, the dark eyes, with their heavy brows, lacked all hint of laughter, and the red lips paled beneath their red, and called for a fresh application from the enameled vanity case she carried.

The oldest of the three men rose and shook himself like a big dog.

"Come on, people," he said; "what are we waiting for? I suppose, Robin, you and Angelica will take your life in your hands, as usual—"

"Yes, rather," and the girl in the swimming suit scrambled to her feet. "Today we're going way out—farther than ever before."

"Fools!" growled the older man. "I wouldn't mind, only it's so expensive to subsidize a guard to pay exclusive attention to you two idiots. Well, go to it."

They all rose then, the beautiful Madeline Barron, in her French costume and her adoring husband, Ned Barron, the copper king.

The pretty girl, Angelica Fair, was her friend and guest, and the other two fatherand son, were Croydon Sears and his boy, Robin.

But, about to start, Madeline was delayed by the appearance of her three-year-old daughter, with her nurse.

The baby was in bathing rompers and gleeful at the prospect of going in paddling. Both parents stopped and sat down on the sand again.

"Go ahead, you people," Barron sang out. "We'll come along in a minute. We want to play with Popsy."

So the others went on, Robin and Angelica, who were expert swimmers, to brave the waves out to a daring distance, and Croydon Sears to stand at the rope and jump up and down until the Barrons joined him.

Another group on the beach that morning was keyed to a somewhat different pitch.

The dominating spirit was Carmelita Valdon, a beauty as exotic and alluring as her name.

Her beach pajamas were distinctly Parisian and a step or two ahead of American fashions.

But then Carmelita was a step or two ahead of most things and most people, and her oriental costume and Japanese parasol made a picture that was as attractive as it was colorful.

Her woman companion made a perfect foil, for Mrs. Barnaby was fair, fat and forty, and dressed the part.

Also she was of great importance socially and possessed of a sharp tongue, so her favorites fawned on her, while her enemies gave her a wide berth.

"Duchess," said Carmelita, in languid accents, "aren't you going in this morning?"

"Of course," returned Mrs. Barnaby, who bore the noble nickname. "Shall we toddle now?"

"No hurry," put in Garrett Folsom. "I only came yesterday, you know. I want to look about a few minutes."

He was a big man, and his bathing costume of worsted shirt and trunks was becoming to him. The color was a silver gray, with three black strips across the chest, and a white belt with black stripes.

Perhaps fifty, his hair was gray at the temples, but his face was unlined and his eyes clear and bright.

Deep set, dark eyes they were, that had looked upon much of this world, for better and for worse, and whose shrewd appraisals were rarely at fault.

Now, he was observing the beach crowd, the young girls and women in their alluring costumes and the men in their scarcely scantier garb.

"The bathing suits grow prettier every year," he said, with an appreciative glance at the passing throng, and then at the two women in his own party.

"Oh, come on," said Neville, the other member of their quartet, "you can look at them in the shop windows on the Boardwalk later. I assure you, Garry, they have some stunning rigs on show."

"But perhaps it isn't only the garment that pleases the eye of Mr. Folsom," Carmelita Valdon suggested, wishing now she had worn a more decollete effect than her chic pajama suit.

"Everything pleases me," he declared smiling, and rose, stretching himself luxuriously as he feated his eyes on the gorgeous scene. "I haven't been down here for three years, and the place is renewing its charm for me. I always did revel in it. I only wish I could swim in the surf. Look at those chaps way out beyond the breakers! That's the stuff."

"Don't you swim?" asked the duchess. "I'm glad, for then you'll stay with us. I hate men who get me clutched to the rope and then say 'Excuse me a moment,' and the next thing you know they're out beyond the three-mile limit!"

"Nothing like that!" Folsom smiled at her. "I can swim all day in still water, but not in the surf. Probably could, after a little practice—"

"Don't practise; stay with us," smiled Mrs. Valdon, and Folsom agreed to do so.

So the four of them grasped the rope, and, like puppets on a string, jumped up and down, sprang at the oncoming waves, choked and laughed as the salt water dashed over them and behaved generally like irresponsible children in a big bath-tub.

Roger Neville, unable to resist the call of the surf, swam away, took an incoming breaker head on, and came up smiling on top of it.

"Get into the game, Garry," he called out. "It's great, really, and there's almost no undertow today. If you're carried off there are scores of life guards about who'll pick you up."

"Oh, I'm not exactly timid!" returned Folsom, scoffingly, as Neville came near enough to hear him. "But I promised these ladies I'd stand by—"

"You did so!" insisted Carmelita, who stood next to him, and who laid a detaining hand on his own, as it grasped the rope next to hers. "If you want to swim, choose some other time. Just now you are a squire of dames. Isn't he, Duchess?"

"You bet he is!" exclaimed Mrs. Barnaby, wiping salt water out of her eyes with the back of one hand, while hanging on to the rope with the other. "If he deserts us, me for dry land! I know I'm going to be swept out to sea by this next wave. Oh, mercy! here it comes! It's like a wall of water!"

It was a wall of water, and it engulfed the party as well as hundreds of other bathers near them.

The Duchess coughed and sputtered, but gamely held her ground. Carmelita took advantage of her friend's bewilderment to slip from her place on the rope, and exchange with the Duchess, thus bringing herself next to Folsom, a position she had coveted from the first.

"How's Mrs. Barnaby? She all right?" Folson asked bending over to see the lady in question.

"All right, yes!" growled the Duchess, "but that snipjack slid into my place! Now I shall be drowned, I'm sure!"

But her words were lost in the roar of another approaching wave, and she gave over talking and devoted all her attention to preserving her equilibrium, and keeping her hold on the rope.

Far out, beyond the rough and tumble of the breakers, the two expert swimmers sat on an anchored raft.

"You're a marvel, Robin," the girl said. "I'm glad Fate sent me a life mate who loves swimming. I believe you could swim all the way across!"

"Probably not," returned Robin Sears. "But I'd get as far as the next fellow, I'll bet on that! And, too, Angel, endurance isn't the only test."

"No, but you'd pass all the rest, too. You can swim every way, can't you?"

"Of course. Sideways, on my back, under water, any old way. You're a bit of a wonder yourself, you know. For a girl—"

"Oh, yes, for a girl I'm all right. Not every girl could get out here with you. But I can't do any trick swimming."

"You can learn. I'll teach you. But no more today. You're a bit winded, and we must be getting back, or we'll be late for luncheon."

Diving gracefully, Angelica came up beside Robin, and with long, capable strokes they made for the shore.

"There they are—I see Maddy's cap!" the girl cried as they came nearer the line of rope clingers. "Let's go there."

Assisted by a friendly wave, they reached their goal and scrambled to their feet, seeking a vacant spot on the rope. But it was crowded, so they laughingly moved over toward the next rope.

"Better go in now," Ned Barron called to them, and a wave of her hand told him that Angelica had heard and would obey.

"Wonderful swimmers, your two young friends," said a voice next him, and Barron turned to see a stranger smiling at him.

"Yes," he replied, a little curtly, for he had a deeply rooted aversion to making friends in the ocean.

But the friendly stranger wouldn't accept rebuff, and went on, affably.

"Haven't been here for some years. Quite a lot of change. Mostly in the women's bathing suits—for the better, of course."

The speech grated on Ned Barron's taste, but the voice was cultured and the man's appearance both civil and correct.

A clubman and a gay one, Barron sized him up at once.

"From the west?" he said, with more perspicacity than tact.

"Yep. That is, Chicago. You alone?"

As he spoke, he leaned forward to see Barron's next neighbor. It was his wife, Madeline, and Ned leaned his own big body forward to intercept the stranger's regard.

"No, not alone, my wife is with me," he said, and perhaps no such short sentence ever carried greater weight of advice.

The curtness of the speech, combined with a direct glance straight into the other man's eyes, carried understanding, challenge and a note of warning that was unmistakable and definite. Only a dumb brain would have failed to grasp Ned Barron's intent, and Garret Folsom's brain was anything but dumb.

"Where's Roger?" he asked, turning back to his own party, who were at his right hand.

"There he is," and Carmelita Valdon glanced admiringly at Neville, swimming with long, clean strokes toward them. "I know you're just dying to swim away, Mr. Folson. Go ahead, if you like. I'll stand guard over the Duchess."

A smile of gratitude thanked her for this, and Folsom let go the rope and swam into an oncoming wave.

But he quickly returned.

"It's too hard on me," he exclaimed, laughing, while he puffed and panted for breath. "I must get used to it by degrees. I'm not as well in condition as I ought to be."

She had saved his place on the rope for him, and he slipped in between her and Barron again.

"Who's this chap on my left?" he said to her. "Do you know?"

"I know him slightly, yes. He's a Mr. Barron, from New York, I think, or near New York. Why?"

"No reason at all. Idle curiosity. I thought I saw him at our hotel last evening."

"Yes, they're staying there. A party of several. Don't you think we'd better be getting along home now? I've had about enough."

"Yes, let's collect Neville and get out. Whoo-oo, Roger!"

But no one responded to his summons, and Mrs. Barnaby began to fret.

"Let's go on out, anyway," she said. "That's Roger all over. He always runs clear off, just when we want him most. Come, Mr. Folson, help me to shore. I'll have to let go the rope, it's so full of bathers this morning. I never saw such a crowd on this beach before!"

"Oh, yes," Carmelita said, "often and often. But these days just before Fourth of July bring extra hordes of people."

"Wonderful sight!" and once more Garrett Folsom gave himself over to admiring it. "I've bathed on nearly every beach in Europe, but none of them can touch this for magnitude!"

"Not at all exclusive, though," and the Duchess gave a fastidious little sniff. "All sorts and conditions of men, I call it."

"That's part of its charm," laughed Folsom. "I like to rub shoulders with the proletariat, now and then. Especially when I can't tell them from the patricians! And who can, in the ocean?"

Ocean Town was not exclusive. It held out welcoming arms to anybody and everybody who could pay its prices and would behave properly.

But as a spectacle, as an enigma, it invited attention, and with something of the lure of a crossword puzzle, it intrigued the imagination of those who saw it as a form of mental entertainment.

One man in particular never tired of watching the ocean show from the coign of vantage which was his chosen resting spot.

The great Hotel Majuscot had, in common with its neighboring hostelries, a large deck, as it was called, the same being an enormous veranda or platform extending partly out over the Boardwalk.

Titus Riggs, known to all his own world as Tite, spent his mornings here, in one of the great rockers provided for indolent guests and let his gaze wander idly over the bathers.

Though not at all a hermit, he was not a sociable sort, and seldom made new friends.

His vocation was that of an architect, his avocation to view quietly and unostentatiously his fellow men.

For a holiday, he chose to come down to Ocean Town, where the architecture was among the worst on earth.

On this Saturday morning, Riggs sat in his great rocker, slumped down in a somewhat ungainly heap, and watched, aided at times by a pair of field glasses. He was not looking for or expecting anything to happen—anything unusual, that is—he was content just to look at the moving picture spread out before his eyes.

And then, something did happen, or rather something had happened.

As he looked he saw people in the sea, gathering in a huddle at one spot.

He saw one and then another of the life guards stride to the ever-enlarging group, and he saw them fairly fling the bathers aside as they hurried.

Riggs took up his field glasses and saw the guards carry from the crashing waves the helpless form of a man, a large man in a gray bathing suit, and lay their burden down on the beach.

Riggs kept on watching closely. And then another man from the ocean came and bent over the stricken one.

Riggs could hear no word, but he gathered from the look of finality on the face of this man who made an examination, that the victim of cramp, or whatever the trouble was, was past help.

It was a strange scene. Without doubt the investigating man was a doctor and had pronounced the other man dead. No other hypothesis could explain the helpless, hopeless appearance of those nearest the unconscious man, and no other meaning could be read into the faces of the shocked crowd.

Not often did Tite Riggs give way to curiosity.

But in this instance he rose and went down the steps, crossed the Boardwalk and walked out on the beach.

(To be continued.)

Which of the bathers is dead and how did he die? These are surprises in the chapters ahead.

REPORT OF RATS HORRIFIES WEST

Steps Taken To Prevent Rodents From Moving Into Prairies.

FIND MUSKRATS.

LAMONT, Alta., May 7.—(Canadian Press).—The other day somebody reported to the Saskatchewan provincial police that a woman was making playmates of a pair of rats that had come from a freight car from Winnipeg. House rates spreading west! Two seen at Lamont! The Saskatchewan police wrote the Alberta police, and Constable James of Lamont was sent to make a thorough investigation, and, if he found the rodents to be of the dreaded house or sewer species, he was instructed to poison, shoot, drown or otherwise slay the vermin before they set up housekeeping in real earnest.

The rats were traced to the home of Mrs. H. Dalley wife of the assistant station agent at Lamont—she admitted readily that she had two rats running around in the basement for a whole week. She had fed them, as they appeared to be starving. Then after getting well filled, the rats had withdrawn.

They were muskrats from a neighboring slough, frozen out.

Employment Figures In Steel Business Good

TORONTO, May 5.—In a summary of the iron, steel and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News makes the following comment this week:

The fact that employment figures are the best since 1920 practically tells the story of conditions in the iron and steel industry this spring. Business is good and is getting better despite considerable handicaps. The metal-working industry showed gains over the last month where most industries were either receding or marking time.

Sales in the metal markets are good, and specifications against contracts are heavy. Prices are not so remunerative, however, from the sellers' point of view. Operations in consuming industries continue at a high rate, with many plants working day and night, and much of the unused space and equipment being absorbed. The Dominion Iron and Steel Co., for instance, is operating 24 hours a day. Algoma is also running to capacity with orders on hand to occupy the next several months.

This activity is bringing interest in new equipment, as in the words of Ross H. McMaster, president of the Steel Co. of Canada, who says: "A point has been reached where consideration should be given the installation of improved and more modern facilities, looking toward the replacement of some of the rolling mill equipment. This will involve corresponding changes in steel producing units and blooming mills."

Railroads are buying constantly, and much construction work is going on. The government has authorized a subsidy of nearly half a million dollars toward the construction of the new railway in Lake St. John district, to be built the 170 miles from Chicoutimi to Chibougama. The opening of the Welland Canal is expected to boost water shipment of ore, coal and steel between the upper and lower lakes.

The automotive industry is interesting itself in new equipment, as are general manufacturing plants and firms making automotive parts. The March output of cars was 17,478, or 39 per cent. over the February figure. March pig iron output was 22 per cent. over that of March, 1927. For the three months ending March, production was 17 per cent. higher than last year. Steel ingots and casting were 20 per cent. over February in March and 10 per cent. over March, 1927. For the three months steel ouput was 32 per cent. over last year.

General prices on the markets are unchanged although easing in some districts owing to water shipment. Demand is giving the market strength, although imports force cut prices.

OIL SHOULD BE CHANGED OFTEN

No Engine Yet Made is Proof Against Dilution and Pollution.

"How often should I change the oil in my car?"

There are few questions more frequently addressed to the engineers of the Canadian Automobile Association, in which are federated the Provincial Motor League.

Little wonder! Advertisements of oil cleaners and filters, air cleaners, gasoline filters, crank case ventilating systems and what not, are sometimes very eloquently articulate with claims as to how they are the elixir of life for oil, the fount of oil's eternal youth or at least a multiplier of its normal span of life.

Now these devices are all or practically all meritorious—all contribute more or less to car longevity if rightly used and too much reliance is not placed on them—and they do not reduce crankcase pollution. But there has yet to be devised a motor car engine, however, equipped that is proof against crankcase dilution and pollution, through seepage past the pistons, condensation and the minute metal filings accumulation.

"How often do I need to change the oil in my car?"

It is obviously impossible to answer that question even with a rough degree of accuracy without first ascertaining a number of things. The make and model of car, certain of its individual peculiarities, and its equipment, how the driver starts it, especially with regard to his use of the choke, how he runs it, frequency of starts, length of runs, the carburetor's setting, what condition is it kept in—these and much else should be known before an intelligent answer could be given, and not the least important item is the brand, the quality and the grade of oil used. Obviously it is impossible to make a detailed study of each enquirer's case.

One of the leading manufacturers of quality cars some years ago developed and equipped his cars with possibly the best preventive of crank case dilution ever made standard equipment. It provided a hot, dry gas for cold starting. That equipment was discontinued a year or two ago. Why? Because the service station reports of that manufacturer's distributors and dealers revealed that owners were careless as to whether that device was functioning or not.

So it is through no cynicism but as a result of wide experience with motorists and their vehicles that the engineers of the Canadian Automobile Association reply to that question, "How often should I change the oil in my car?" simply:

"Ascertain from the maker of your car the brand and grade of oil found to be the most satisfactory for it. Change the oil at the end of its first hundred miles, then again at the end of its first four hundred miles, and again at the end of its first eight hundred miles and thereafter every five hundred miles. This may be a more frequent change than is necessary in many cases, but its cost is relatively small compared to the cost of running an engine with oil the lubricating valve of which for one reason or another, and usually for a combination of reasons—has been seriously impaired.

Home Runs Feature In Toronto Leaf's Double Victory

LEAFS WIN TWIN BILL

Defeat Baltimore Orioles 13 to 5 and 8 to 2—Home Runs Feature.

ALEXANDER GETS TWO.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 7 (A.P.). —The Toronto Leafs again made the Baltimore Orioles look something like a second-hand suit in a fashion parade yesterday, when they battered the offerings of seven hurlers for a total of 25 hits and won both games on a double bill, 13 to 5 and 8 to 2. It was a great day for circuit clouts, with Sheedy, Alexander and Phillips accounting for two, while Bill Henderson and Don Songer finished with one apiece. Poor work in the box spoiled the day for Baltimore.

Rochester opened its series with Reading here yesterday with a victory, 10 to 3. Every man on the home team, with the exception of Bell obtained at least one hit; Joe Brown getting a homer to right centre inside the park. Bell allowed but seven scattered hits.

YANKEES SET LEAGUE PACE

Same Teams Dominate Standings Over Period of Seven Days.

MAJOR BASEBALL.

NEW YORK, May 7.—(Canadian Press.)—The teams which dominate the standing of the clubs in each of the major leagues also dominated the pennant campaign as it was waged in the seven days ending Saturday night. The Yankees and the Athletics set the American League pace, each losing only one game, while the Giants, the Pirates and the Reds showed their heels to other contenders in the senior circuit.

As a result of winning four games while losing one, the Athletics climbed into second place, two and one-half games behind the Yankees, who won five games and lost one. The standing of the clubs means little at this season of the year unless one of the teams shoots suddenly to the front by something like eight or ten games. The antics of the Yankees indicate that, despite their showing in the exhibition season, they again have just such a position in mind for themselves.

Cleveland slumped last week, losing four games while winning only two, and ended up in third place. In continuation of the Indian downfall and any slight faltering by the Athletics, coupled with another Yankee week, could put too much of a New York tinge on the American League race to suit the magnates.

The showing of the Pirates was the real feature of the major league week. The Corsairs, like the other two National League leaders, won five games and lost two to climb into the first division, but their manner of doing it was more impressive than the work of the Giants and the Reds. The Pirates pounded Cincinnati, Chicago and Boston pitchers for ninety-nine safe hits, an average of almost fourteen to a game, and scored forty-six runs.

Brooklyn, which remained in second place despite an even break in six games, flashed the best defensive mark in the National League, giving its opponents just 23 runs, including that 14 to 4 beating by the Giants on Monday. The Athletics, giving seventeen runs, had the best record in their own circuit.

Three American League teams, the Yankees, the Senators and the Tigers, tied on the offensive with seventy-two hits each, but the Yankees made the most of their hits—forty-five runs. Washington had forty-two and Detroit forty.

The Boston Braves, playing three games in the Phillies' restricted park, led both leagues in home runs with six. The Brooklyn Robins were next with five, and the Yanks, American League leaders, third in both circuits with four, three by Babe Ruth.

The week's major league record of games won and lost, runs, hits, opponents' runs and home runs, including games of Saturday follows:

CANADIANS WIN NATIONAL TROPHY

Hamilton Collegiate Institute Take Honors at Annual Marquette Carnival.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 7. — A Canadian invasion of the United States was climaxed by victory when track stars of Central Collegiate Institute, Hamilton, captured the National Championship Trophy at the annual Marquette relay carnival on Saturday.

Youth carrying the colors of 75 schools participated in the carnival during which 11 new records were established.

The Canadians from Hamilton flashed across the finish line first in four events and placed second in a fifth. Their accomplishments easily gave them the national championship trophy. They turned in their most brilliant performance in the mile relay where the proteges of Captain J. R. Cornelius, former Canadian Olympic coach, approached within a second of the interscholastic national record. Their mark of 3:28:2 was one of the new meet records they contributed. Another was their time of 8:34:5 in the two mile relay. Hamilton runners won the sprint relay and the distance relay, and were seconded in the 88 yard relay.

Humberside Collegiate Institute of Toronto, appearing for the first time, added international complexion to the carnival. They placed in the distance relay, finishing second just behind Central Institute.

Thomas Ellis also of Hamilton, was twelfth in 3:59:00 661:59:17.

John Cronick, Saskatoon, was 13th

Geo. Liebergall, Bellevue, 4.28.31, in 4:07:13, 461:17:28. 517:51:28.

Andrew Constantinoff, Toronto, 5: 09:05, 502:38:03.

S. Stevano, Calgary, 6:53:21, 627: 57:38.

David Davies of Sandwich, Ont., quit the long grind last night in Chicago. He said that he was in good shape, but "just dissatisfied." He said that he feared the extension of the daily controls.

Phil Granville walked into the big city second on Saturday after covering the the 43.2 miles from Joliet in 5:22:26.

VIEWS ON SPORT

Peterborough is to have a good hardball season this year, with two leagues, Junior and Intermediate; and Senior entry in C.O.B.L., fans can expect to witness some snappy ball this Summer.

It has been suggested that a resolution be passed at the next Junior meeting, slated to be held in the board room of the Duffus Bowling Academy, at 8 p.m., to-morrow night, providing a rule whereby each team will only be allowed twelve players until some later date (the date to be set by the city league executive) during the playing season, when each team can then add three more men to the line-up. This rule should prove satisfactory to the managers and backers in the league alike as it gives each team a fair chance to have a more even line-up instead of one or two clubs having the cream of the players.

* * * * * *

A Junior ball practise is slated for the Exhibition Park diamond to-night at 6 o'clock sharp, providing the weather holds out. There was a raft of players at both of the south-end diamonds on Saturday. The Seniors and the Royals putting in a snappy workout at King Edward Park, while Burke and his Lockwork Juniors showed their wares at the Sacred Heart Grounds. Dick Murray looks like the Industrials' choice as moundsman, while Jake Crary, although a free lance as yet, put a few bafflers over the plate to the dismay of the budding Ruths. Kenny Carroll was out on the infield and was prancing around like a two-year-old. Pilots of the various Junior league teams have a fair idea as to their probable rosters and hope to get down to earnest practise some time this week.

Several of the runners training for the big meet in Lindsay on May 24 were not backward in making the most of the opportunities for training offered by the few warm evenings last week. While many runners are beginning Spring training, it is feared that some may not make the grade in time for the meet. Nevertheless, Peterborough will probably be represented by more runners in this competition than in any other track and field meet held in the last few years. The track at the Exhibition Grounds has been improved and is in good condition for running at present.

GREAT BRITAIN WINS SINGLES

Defeat Argentina To Qualify For Second Round Matches.

DAVIS CUP PLAY.

TORQUAY, England, May 7. — Canadian Press. — Great Britain won both singles matches from Argentina Saturday and qualified for the second round of the Davis cup tennis play with a record of four victories in five matches during the three day series.

The South Americans after splitting the single matches Thursday lost the doubles on Saturday and were able to win but one set in the play to-day. England now will play the winner of the Jugoslavia-Finland engagement for the right to advance through the second round.

Edward Higgs, British star, clinched the series for England by taking the first of the two singles contests from W. E. Robson. The win gave Great Britain the necessary three victories in five matches, regardless of the outcome of the final tussle. J. C. Gregory then trounced Roland Boyd to make the victory conclusive.

Higgs lost a set to Robson in winning 7-5 6-2, 2-5, 7-5. Both slugged the ball viciously, but the Englishman proved fa more consistent.

Gregory won his match in straight sets, 6-4, 11-9, 4-2. Boyd's defeat of Higgs Thursday spurred Gregory to a brilliant exhibit and he outclassed the man who had beaten his partner. The South American's back had been ineffective and he failed to show the fine form that beat down Higgs.

Gregory improvement was marked particularly in power of service and forehand driving from the centre court.

Schmeling Stripped Of Heavyweight Title

BERLIN, May 7—The National Boxing Commission has stripped from Max Schmeling the German heavyweight title he won by defeating Franz Diener on April 4th.

The commission took this action because Schmeling, suffering from a fractured thumb, will be unable to defend the championship against Ludwig Haymann, the university student challenger, on May 13th, as scheduled. Diener has been substituted as Haymann's opponent with the title at take.

Australia and Italy Split Matches Even

GENOA, Italy, May 7. — Australia and Italy split even in the first two singles matches of their opening round Davis Cup competition here yesterday.

Baron H. L. Demopurgo, of Italy, defeated Pat Crawford the young Australian star but Gerald Patteron veteran of the Anzac team, defeated Giorgio de Stefani, to square the series.

Crawford, somewhat indisposed will not play in the doubles to-day. Hopmann will take his place.

YANKEES TAKE THIRD STRAIGHT

Bremen Crew Watch White Sox Go Down To Defeat 4-2.

FITZMAURICE THROWS BALL.

NEW YORK, May 7 (Canadian Press)—Before 60,000 persons, among them the Bremen fliers, Fitzmaurice, von Huenefeld and Koehl, the Yankees defeated the White Sox yesterday 4 to 2 for the third straight time. Fitzmaurice threw out the first ball.

Stanley Coveleskie, veteran spitball pitcher, started his first game for Yankees and got credit for the victory though Moore had to finish for him.

Home runs by Gehrig, Dugan and Barrett featured; Gehrig's coming with Koenig on in the first inning.

A triple by Reynolds and a sacrifice fly by Motzler accounted for the other Chicago run, while Combs' double scored Collins with the last Yankee marker.

Sammy hung up his sixth victory of the season at Washington, hurling the St. Louis Brown to a 7 to 6 decision over the Senators in 11 innings. The game was a thriller and Gray was often in tight places. Three times the bases were filled with Washington runners, after two were out. In the fourth inning, Manager Harris tripled to score three runs and in the ninth Judge prolonged the result by a sharp single through the box which scored two more.

Haskell Billings held the Boston Red Sox to two hits and the Tigers won yesterday's game at Detroit 3 to 0.

Both of Boston's blows were made by Buddy Meyer, the former Washington infielder, now playing third for the Red Sox. His first hit came in the sixth, when he drove a grounder between Warner and Tavener. He was left at first. In the eighth, with two men down, Meyer singled cleanly to centre, but again he got no further than first base.

Three games scheduled.

MALONE HOLDS PHILLIES 6-4

Brilliant Fielding Enables Reds To Win From Giants 4-3.

STRIKES OUT EIGHT.

NEW YORK, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Pat Malone came to Sheriff Blake's rescue with the bases loaded in the seventh inning at Chicago yesterday, and the Cubs defeated Philadelphia 5 to 4 in 11 innings.

Malone's fast ball mystified the Phillies. He struck out eight men and held them to but one run and that came in the seventh when the bases were jammed with none out. The winning run come when Hack Wilson sent up a sacrifice fly to Williams and Beck scored.

Brilliant fielding enabled the Reds to win the second game of the Cincinnati series from the New York Giants in ten innings yesterday, 4 to 3.

The Reds won with none out in the tenth when Critz started with a single. Hogan dropped Gallaghan's roller and Critz went to third. Kelly, sent up to bat for Pipp, was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Hargrave, who batted for Walker, hit a long fly to centre. Roush, seeing that Critz would score, did not attempt to make the catch.

CENTURIES HIGH ON CRICKET FIELD

Watson For Lancashire Scores First Double Hundred of Season.

LONDON, Eng., May 7. Canadian Press cable. — Centuries continued to be scored in English county cricket on Saturday. Watson, playing for Lancashire against Northamptonshire at Manchester, securing the first double hundred of the season. Besides Watson's effort Hallons and E. Tyldesley also made centuries in the match, the champion team at the end of the day's play having credited with the great total of 559 runs for only four wickets.

The West Indians gave an impressive display both with the ball and the bat against Derby at Derby. Getting rid of the counts for 150, Brown bowling well for the visitors for an average of four victims for 44 runs, the West Indians, when stumps were drawn, had scored 107 runs for one wicket. Challenor was not out with 70 runs to his credit.

Centuries were also secured by Morgan and Longfield at Cambridge University against Leicestershire.

AT THE CAPITOL.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN IN "THE CIRCUS" OPENS A WEEK'S ENGAGEMENT AT THE CAPITOL TO-DAY.

Some idea as to the physical magnitude of Charlie Chaplin's production, "The Circus" which opens a week's engagement at the Capitol to-day may be had from figures compiled by George Webster, general statistician at the Chaplin studio.

Livestock housed at the Chaplin plant in Hollywood for a period of more than a year included elephants, lions, tigers, horses, mules, monkeys, pigs, dogs, cats, ducks, pigeons and geese. To properly feed and care for such an assortment of guests the commissary department was required to handle for many months food items that totalled more than sixty thousands pounds, the greater bulk of this being in beef and tons of hay, corn, carrots, potatoes and bread.

During filming of scenes under the circus tent and surrounding grounds, in some instances where 3,000 women, children and men were gathered, the necessary "fixings" for an assemblage of this character called for 3,000 gallons of lemonade; 3,622 bottle of soda pop; 2,602 bags of peanuts; 1,126 rolls of popcorn; 5,706 frankfurters— and and equal number of rolls; 1,517 sticks of chewing gum; 1,282 lollypops and 1,806 pretzels.

Additional figures show that 23,000 yards of canvas; 1,900 tons of sawdust; 7,000 yards of rope; 51 kegs of nails; 1,000 yards of wire; 42,000 feet of lumber and 14,000 gallons of water were required.

When this statement of facts was placed before Charlie for his scrutiny, the comedians dryly remarked, "A statistician's work must be most interesting. But I note we didn't use any butter!"

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE"

"Abie's Irish Rose", the comedy sensation by Anne Nichols, which comes for one night at the Grand Opera House Tuesday, May 8th, enjoyed a run of over six years at the Republic Theatre, in New York, and was the outstanding hit of the metropolis. It has played to capacity audiences in record-breaking engagements in Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Atlanta, New Orleans, etc. It has demonstrated that the public enjoys clean wholesome entertainment, for there is nothing suggestive in any action of the play, nor does it attempt to discuss any sex problem. It dispenses pure, clean humor from the rise of the curtain until its fall, and elicits roars of laughter every minute. It will be presented by a cast of well-known metropolitan

Seats for the engagement are now

AT THE REGENT.

BEBE DANIELS A WINNER IN "SWIM GIRL, SWIM."

You'll just have to take your hat off to Bebe Daniels.

When it comes to first class screen entertainment Miss Daniels rarely misses and her latest Paramount comedy which opened at the Regent Theatre to-day is no exception.

In fact, "Swim, Girl Swim," is one of her very best. Never has the dashing star had a better story. The latter by the way, is an original by Lloyd Corrigan who co-authored on "The Campus Flirt" and the boy knows his college atmosphere. The direction is excellent also with Clarence Badger again responsible.

The story concerns a very studious girl—Miss Daniels, of course— who has an ambition to become an athlete instead of always being known as a bookworm. In a spirit of jest she is given a place on the swimming team when, if the truth were known, she cannot swim a stroke. In spite of this she wins the channel swim and is changed overnight to the heroine of the campus and very much in the public eye. How she overcomes the agony of learning that she did not actually win the swim and how she captures James Hall, the leading man, provides a thousand laughs.

The picture marks the first appearance of Gertrude Ederle on the screen as a player in her own right and, all round, she performs in an exceptional manner. There are many shots of her in action in the water and also "in character" when she takes Miss Daniels in hand and trains her.

Miss Daniels romps through these situations at a rapid pace ;so fast, in fact, that not one dull moment turns up. Clarence Badger, with a deft touch, has given the production a colorful collegiate atmosphere.

RUNNERS TRAINING FOR LINDSAY MEET

Local Sprinters Prepare For Meet To Be Held on May 24th.

Several of the runners training for the big meet in Lindsay on May 24th were not backward in making the most of the opportunities for training offered by the few warm evenings last week. While many runners are beginning spring training it is feared that some may not make the grade in time for the meet. Nevertheless, Peterborough will probably be represented by more runners in this competition than in another track and field meet for some time.

In the 15-mile feature event on the card, fans can expect to see Billy Reynolds make a strong bid to capture first place. Johnny Miles will be out and can be relied on to give Reynolds a merry battle. "Doug" Brandon, of the Monarch Club, will probably enter, and should furnish quite a surprise. Other noted runners will take part and the meet promises to be one of the biggest ever held around in the district.

PETERBOROUGH CRICKETERS WIN

Start Season With 86-41 Victory Over Lakefield Club.

BOWLING IS GOOD.

The Peterborough C. C. opened its season's games on Saturday afternoon with a fine victory over a strong Lakefield team, winning by 45 runs. The game was played on the Grove school grounds in cold, dull weather. The Lakefield captain won the toss and put the Peterborough team to bat first. Thorpe and Stuart opened the innings and with only four runs scored Thorpe was bowled out with a good ball from Peck, which came in sharply from the leg side. Dunkerley helped the score along to 29 before being caught in the outfield. Stuart by this time was settling down and playing a fine game, his cutting on the off side being exceptionally good. The next four wickets fell cheaply. Hamilton, who was ninth man in, opened very carefully, but soon gained confidence and scored runs at a good rate, and along with Stuart brought the score to 82 before before the latter was out leg before wicket. Stuart was given a great ovation on leaving the wicket for a brilliantly played 43. The innings closed at 86. Hamilton, who is quite a youngster and a product of the Peterborough C. C., carried his bat for a well played 20. Peck was the most successful Lakefield bowler, capturing five wickets for 28 runs.

Lakefield's innings opened disastrously, Frank Dyer clean bowling Marling with his first ball. Another wicket fell at four, Loosemore being unluckily run out, after Massey-Cooke and Thorpe had collided in the field in attempting a catch. Thorpe recovered the ball and returned to Dyer who smartly broke the wicket. This was a lucky break for Peterborough, as Loosemore is a fine, steady batsman. McKenzie played well for ten runs and was the only Lakefield player to reach double figures, the innings closing for 41 runs.

Dyer took three wickets for 18 runs, Dunkerley three for 13 and Elliot four for 2 runs.

The Lakefield players entertained the Peterborough team to tea in the school during the interval between the innings.

Peterborough entertains the Grove team next Saturday afternoon at the Oval. The game commencing at 2.30.

The Peterborough team will start regular practices at the Oval on Monday Wednesday and Friday evenings, commencing May 7th.

HOTSPURS LOSE TO MANCHESTER

Soccer Vies With Cricket As Sporting Attraction On Saturday.

FINAL GAMES.

LONDON, Eng., May 7 (Canadian Press Cable).—Soccer vied with cricket as a sporting attraction in England Saturday. Matches in both varieties of sport were played under a blazing sun. Despite the ideal cricket weather many thousands were attracted to soccer matches, which, on account of the tangled condition of the clubs in the standings were thoroughly interesting. The past soccer season will long be remembered as one in which form was continually upset and in which Saturday's fixtures, the last of scheduled games in England, were no exception. Fate, which has been fighting against the Tottenham Hotspurs, one of the historic clubs in England, dealt them a final cruel blow Saturday, firstly through Manchester United and secondly through the Wednesday. Both the Manchester and Sheffield clubs some weeks ago seemed doomed to relegation from the first to the second division. Tottenham would have been saved Saturday if Manchester had drawn their game and the Wednesday had lost. As it was both won very impressively. London, moreover, suffers a dual blow, because Fulham, who on goal average could have afforded to lose, if Clapton Orient, had been beaten, are now pushed down into the Third Division with South Shields. The Metropolis, however, has secured consolation from the fact that Millmall, who have played fine football all season, come up into the Second Division.

The "Needle" matches in the First Division were naturally the games in which the teams facing demotion were engaged. Thirty thousand turned out at Manchester to see the United team defeat Liverpool by six goals to one. The Manchester team led at half time by four goals to one through goals by Spence and Rawlings, each of whom scored twice. Hodgson scored for Liverpool. Spence completed his hat-trick after the turn round. Hanson registered Manchester's sixth tally.

Forty-five thousand saw the Wednesday beat Aston Villa, who earlier in the week had humbled Huddersfield Town and given the championship of the First Division to Everton. The teams were dead-locked without score at half time. Allen and Trotter netted for the Wednesday in the second half. The crowd were delirous with excitement and refused to disperse after the game until the Wednesday eleven had paraded in front of the Directors' box, where they received an enthusiastic reception.

Middlesbrough did not lack for local support in their crucial game with Sunderland. Over 40,000 were there to urge them to win. Sunderland took a lead in the first half through Wright and Halliday and Death added a couple more after the Interval. Middlesbrough accompany the 'Spurs into the second division.

BENEFIT GAME IS SUCCESSFUL

Two Well Chosen Elevens Give Splendid Exhibition of Soccer Code.

BLUES 4, REDS 3.

A fair crowd of spectators turned out to witness the benefit game on Saturday afternoon between two well-selected soccer teams at King Edward Park. The financial issue was splendid and the committee desire to thank the players and fans. It was an excellent display of the soccer code, which was greatly appreciated. Blues defeated the Reds four goals to three.

Cameron Scored in Two Minutes.

Play opened up with mid-field tactics, holding the ball to the centre of the field, until McPhate on the wing, trapped the sphere quickly on the line, he left Cameron in possession who went straight ahead to open the scoring. From the centre, A. Mitchell (Reds) travelled to the other end where he compelled the opposing goalkeeper to jump up in the corner of the upright to save.

Wilson Equalized.

Twice in succession Coleman repelled severe forward attacks but he had to admit defeat when Wilson sent a low grounder into the net. Both teams were well balanced in every department, the blue eleven indulged in the long swinging passes while the Red forwards confined themselves to close dribbling, which allowed the full-backs ample time to frustrate the attacks. A few minutes later, Wilson again scored but the lead was not long held because W. Curtis evened up the game later from a perfect centre by T. McPhate. Just before half-time, loose play by the Red defence allowed Cameron a splendid opportunity to put his team ahead by three goals to two. Blues, 3; Reds, 2.

Half-Time.

On resuming, play was carried from goal to goal, both sides dangerous raiders, and all the players altering their style of play to suit the conditions. Beggs, at centre, for the Blues, distributed the play well, and it was from one of his individual movements that Cameron was able to beat Bolton with a lobb shot, making it four to two. Exchanges were even thereafter, with both elevens playing a clean and fast code, in fact, the tactics were excellent, also void of any infringement that the referee had to use his authority. It is games like the benefit match that will be appreciated by the fan. Attack after attack was launched on the Blues' goal, in which Coleman in the goals saved further scoring until a scrimmage in front of his citadel nullified his view, thereby allowing a fast grounder go into the net. A cold wind blew up just before the final arrived. Blues, 4; Reds, 3.

The Teams.

Blues—Coleman (De Laval), goal; McLeod (Thistle) and Blowers (C.G.E.), full-backs; J. Mitchell (C.G.E.), Dawson (C.G.E.), and Buchan (Quakers), halves; Evans (De Laval), W. Curtis (Quakers), Beggs (Thistle), Cameron (Oshawa), and McPhate (Thistle), forwards.

Reds—Bolton (Thistle), goal; Downer (De Laval), and H. Curtis (Quakers); full-backs; Carmichael (Quakers), Robb (C.G.E.) and Bromley (Thistle), halves; A. Mitchell (C.G.E.), Craig (Quakers), J. Wade (C.G.E.), T. Wilson (Quakers), and Fowler (De Laval), forwards.

plain workers in the vineyard of the Lord. I think there is less sin here than in any other part of the world. You have co-operated always, to the greatest extent, with the gifts of the Church. You have never neglected your opportunity in this regard."

The reverend speaker went on to refer to the financial growth of the parish, and to compliment once more his people for their faithfulness in assisting the work of the church in this way. When the church was begun, and the present foundation built, it was hoped that a gradual increase in population in Ashburnham would be manifested, but this failed to materialize. Despite all this, the people of the Immaculate Conception parish, about two hundred and thirty-five families in number, have "done extraordinary well." An initial indebtedness on church-foundation, priest's house and school, amounting to nearly $77,000, has, within thirteen years' time, been reduced to less than $16,000. Payments of principal and interest, amounting to about $6,000 annually, have been made regularly, besides the upkeep of the church and priest's house and all necessary repairs..

The credit for all of this was given by Monsignor McColl to his people, and he also went on to compliment them on their faithfulness and honesty in minor ways. "I felt that I was not obliged at any time to keep my eye on you. You could always be trusted to do the right thing."

Alluding to the children of the parish, the reverend speaker extolled them as outstanding examples of a rare combination of the "wisdom of the serpent and the gentleness of the dove," spoken of in the Gospel as the proper type. "They are smart, good children, innocent, but wide awake. They have never been bold or forward with me, and yet I felt always as though they liked me and had no more fear of me than of their parents."

Monsignor McColl concluded with the words: "I thank you for every favor and for every good thing you gave me. But we are not bidding a long farewell to each other to-night. I do not live very far away from you and I will often be down here on special occasions. We are going to meet often in the future."

The address from the seniors of the congregation, read by J. Malane, is as follows:

The Immaculate Conception Parish,
Peterborough, Ont.
May 6, 1928

To The Right Rev.
Monsignor McColl, P.D.V.G.,

We, the congregation of the church of the Immaculate Conception, Peterborough, are assembled to express to you our loyalty and devotion, and our regret upon your departure for other fields of endeavor.

Since coming to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, a matter of thirteen years ago, you have been at all times zealous in the performance of the Lord's work, and most faithfully devoted to your parishioners. Your sterling qualities have been recognized by the Holy Father but comparatively recently by your elevation to your present dignified office of Domestic Prelate. Our beloved Bishop, too, has in recognition of your sterling qualities as priest and man advanced you to the position of Vicar General of his Diocese. It is a matter of very deep regret that you should have been removed from among us, but we know that your high sense of duty and devotion to your Priestly office would dictate to you, irrespective of what your personal feelings in the matter may have been, that you should answer the call, if it were to serve the purpose of furthering the ends of God's Church on earth. We feel, that we can look to you, as a personal friend deeply interested in the welfare, both spiritual and temporal of each one of us, and we feel that not only have we lost a well beloved pastor, but that a really true frien has left our midst.

Since taking charge of the Parish, we have through your self sacrifice and encouragement, endeavored to achieve something, that will always remain as a spiritual and temporal monument to yourself. You have well and truly laid the foundation for progress in the Parish of the Immaculate Conception, and the thriving condition, in which you are leaving this Parish, we feel should be attributed almost in its entirety to your own faithful labors, and to your zeal and unselfish service, in the interests of God. Through your efforts a substantial start has been made in the erection of a church, and we can point with certain justified pride to the church, priest's house and school, and say that Right Rev. Monsignor McColl was the inspiration of it.

We congratulate you on the fact that your ability, erudition and piety, have been recognized, in that you have been chosen as Pastor of St. Mary's Parish, Lindsay, the second largest parish in the diocese, and we know that your sterling qualities will merit you further and greater honors.

That your efforts in the future may be met with your usual success, is the earnest prayer and hope of this congregation. We congratulate the people of Lindsay on their gain, while deeply mourning our own loss, and we are assured that as time goes on, they will feel that they have been indeed most fortunate at our expense.

We wish you continued happiness and prosperity, and we want you to know that you are to always consider that in the hearts of the people of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, you have won a place; and that our memory of your kindly and genial efforts; and that our respect for your spiritual and kindly leadership, are of our most valued and lasting memories.

Signed on behalf of the congregation:

J. C. Sullivan, Michael Lynch, Daniel Hennessy, David Conroy, J. Malane, D. Holland, John Primeau, Sr, Joseph A. O'Brien, John Torpey, Michael Ryan, John Devlin, William Perdue, M. J. Roche, J. Drain.

Scout News

5TH HOLDS PARENTS' NIGHT.

The 5th Peterborough Troop of Boy Scouts held its first annual parents' night in All Saints' Parish Hall on Friday evening About fifty Scouts and Cubs entertained their parents with an excellent program of scouting activities which was followed by the serving of refreshments. J. John president of the Scouts' Association, acted as chairman. J. A. McKone attended the meeting, as did the Rev. J. D. Paterson, Rector of the church, B. Ottwell, Rector's warden and C. Wiggins, president of the Men's Club.

The opening speech of welcome was read by a Cub after the ceremony of the "breaking of the flag." The grand howl was given by the Cubs forming a circle. Scout Gibson skillfully demonstrated the Scouts' art of signaling, by sending a message which extended to everyone a real Scout welcome. Scoutmaster H. Wilkes explained several Scout signs while the troop went through the different formations.

This was followed by the Cubs performing the snake dance. Cubmaster A. Hope explained the principles of the Cub movement, saying the chief idea is for the Cub to run with the pack until they are eligible to become scouts. Reports were then given by H. Wilkes and the badge secretary on the work of the troop.

A very good demonstration of first aid work was given by several scouts and the work proved the value of scout training to boys.

Games and an obstacue race were followed by a knot tieing demonstration and all were both interesting and lively.

The whole troop then assembled in a real camp fire scene ,and the singing of 'Old Black Joe' drew much applause Mr. John, as chairman, made a few brief remarks. "Scouting helps the boys develop their interests," he said, "and helps them find their natural avocations. I know of no better way, he continued, of training the boys for citizenship and of no other way of bettering your church than through the scout movement."

Mr McKone then spoke a few words of praise and encouragement to the boys and assured them that he was behind their work.

After the serving of excellent refreshments, the grouping of the flags took place while the national anthem was sung.

The meeting closed with the boys reciting the Scout promise, the Cub law and the Scout prayer.

Johnston Nash Motors Formally Open New Home For Nash Cars in Peterborough.

Established in 1921, the partnership of Dawson and Johnston has been recently dissolved, the latter still carrying on under the name of "Johnston Nash Motors." Dawson and Johnston won a city and country-wide reputation for efficiency and dependability in tire and rubber goods vulcanizing, linked up with which they handled new tires, auto accessories, gasoline and Atwater Kent radios. This business Mr. Johnson will continue in its entirety, but on a larger and more aggressive scale. And to facilitate expansion he has purchased the whole building at the corner at George and McDonnel street (the old stand), Whatley's shoe repair shop to the north has been absorbed, the two stores incorporated into one, two large display windows built into the south wall, and the whole premises re-decorated. These improvements provide a bright and cheerful new home for Nash cars with plenty of floor space for that advantageous display which their gratifying sales increase calls for.

These enlarged quarters were formally opened Saturday, and Mr. Johnston invites inspection of the Nash, a car highly recommended by owners for giving satisfaction in performance, economy of upkeep, beautiful body build, and riding ease and comfort. He is showing four new models—a 2-door sedon, 4-door sedan, 2-door coach, and a Cabriolet with rumble seat.

Johnston Nash Motors are carrying a complete stock of Nash parts, Dunlop tires and tubes, and Atwater Kent radios and supplies, together with high grades of gasoline, oils, greases, etc. Orders for vulcanizing and car washing will also be given prompt and expert attention.

In Buenos Aires a city ordinance requires that all automobiles using the public thoroughfares shall be kept spotlessly clean.

URGE DIET INSTRUCTION IN SCHOOLS

The public school system of today is undoubtedly improving its effectiveness in educating the child to be more proficient in making a living. Manual training is available in every well organized school, and students are carefully trained to be more efficient in business, or in the professions.

It is deplorable that more time and effort are not spent in teaching these students the fine art of healthful living. In only a small percentage of schools is the study of physiology made compulsory, and the books on hygiene are so primary as not to be taken seriously. Pages are given over to a description of the evils of tobacco and alcohol, but almost no information is given on the important subject of food science!

It is hard to find a good reason to account for this neglect of so vital a subject for study. Even though every educator will tell you that such study is needed, nevertheless, year follows year and more subjects are added to the school curriculum, but never the subject of diet and food science. While doing everything in your power to force our educational institutions to add these studies, you should not neglect to give your children the benefit of what has been discovered by food scientists and those whose lives have been devoted to the study of the science of health.

Thousands of books have been written by earnest investigators whose knowledge has been gleaned from laboratory experiments and from a practical study of health problems. Your duty does not end when your child is sent to the public schools, but if your health conscience has been sufficiently aroused you will realize that it is not only your duty but your God-Given privilege and opportunity to see that your child is given the very best chance to learn the habits which make for a healthful life.

As your child learns in school that two and two make four, you can likewise teach him that this food and that food added together make healthy blood. Your child should be taught what food to use out of which he can build a strong and beautiful body.

Children's diets should not differ materially from those of adults, so you can multiply your advice by the priceless example of practicing good diet habits yourself. If sausage is not good for your child, it will not be good for you. Do not say, "This is not good for little boys," and then eat some unwholesome food yourself. No teaching you can give your child about the bad effects of certain foods will be worth anything if you yourself continue to use such food.

If you will honestly learn to use the right kind of food in the proper combinations and quantities, you will be helping yourself to better health and, at the same time, the influence upon your child will be such that he will learn to practice only good habit for health. These habits will become so fixed that there will be no desire for less healthful ones.

Questions and Answers.

Question: K.N.G. asks: "Will you kindly tell me what should be the reason that very often I have a burning pain at the back of my neck when I touch it or move my neck much? Also the reason for cold clammy hands when my body is warm?"

Answer: There may be some trouble with a cervical vertebra. If the burning pain is around the seventh cervical vertebra, it shows a malposition of one or more vertebrae in that section and this could also cause a poor circulation in your hands.

Question: J. O. asks: "What is an 'Alligator' pear?"

Answer: "Alligator pear" is a name which has been given to the avocado, but this name should not be used as it does not describe the avocado. It is not a sweet fruit as the name "pear" suggests, but a salad fruit of a nut-like buttery flesh, rich in vegetable oil with also some protein and carbohydrates. This fruit may be used at almost any meal, and combines well with any other kind of food.

Question: S. O. H. writes: "I am a sufferer from what doctors diagnose as urticaria." It affects me with welts breaking out all over my body ranging from the size of a pea to that of a half dollar, and they produce almost intolerable itching. What would you advise as a cure?"

Answer: Eat good food combinations and drink plenty of water between meals, using from one to two quarts before luncheon, and the same amount during the afternoon. Send for my special articles on the cause and cure of acidosis.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BEAR'S SUPPER.

Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
(By Howard R. Garis.)

"Hark!" suddenly exclaimed Baby Bunty, who was in the cave with Uncle Wiggily and the forty 'leven little rabbit boys and girls, hiding from the Fox and Bob Cat. "Hark! Did you hear that bark!"

"Why, Bunty!" laughed Uncle Wiggily before any of the small bunnies had time to worry over what the little orphan said. "You have guessed one of the pictures in my puzzle, Bunty!"

Mr. Longears pointed to where he had made a large letter B with a drawing of Noah's ark.

"That's B-ark," said Uncle Wiggily. "You guessed it."

"Oh, but I didn't mean that kind of a bark," whispered Baby Bunty. "I meant I heard a bark outside the cave and maybe——"

"See if you can guess the names of the noises in the other three puzzle pictures!" exclaimed Mr. Longears before Bunty had finished what she was saying. And the animal boys and girls looked at the pictures and so forgot, for a time, about the Bad Chaps outside the cave.

"Oh ho! Ah, ha!" snickered the Bear to himself.

Tingle guessed that the letter R beside the oar meant ROAR and Uncle Wiggily said that was right. Then Tangle said the letter C and the man rowing a boat meant the noise CROWING.

"That's right!" laughed Mr. Longears. And when Buster said the picture of an old-fashioned sign with the letters YE on it and next to that two L letters meant YELL.

"Right you are!" yelled Uncle Wiggily, and he shouted so loudly that the Fox and Bob Cat, waiting outside the cave to nibble some tender little rabbits —the Bad Chaps became so frightened, thinking it was the Police Dog barking at them, that they ran away.

Uncle Wiggily looked out through a hole beside the big rock, which he had rolled to the mouth of the cave, and, seeing that the Bad Chaps were gone the rabbit said:

"Now we can hop out and have some fun!"

"Hurray!" cried all the little rabbit girls and boys. So out they tumbled, when Uncle Wiggily had rolled away the stone and soon they were skipping through the woods, gathering flowers and pretty shells to take home with them.

Uncle Wiggily sat down on a log in the warm sun, which made his pink nose twinkle so gently that soon he fell asleep. And, while the old rabbit gentleman had his eyes closed, and while the little rabbits were far off amid the trees, paying tag, all of a sudden along shuffled the Black Bear.

"Oh, ho! At, ha!" snickered the Bear to himself, rubbing his red tongue over his white teeth as he saw sleeping Uncle Wiggily. "Here is my supper all waiting for me! Oh, ho! Ah, ha!"

Walking silently on his tippy tiptoes, the Bear shuffled closer and closer to Uncle Wiggily, and he was just going to grab the bunny gentleman in his claws when, all of a sudden, the Bad Chap slipped on some wet leaves and down he fell, sitting hard on a big toadstool that grew near the log on which Mr. Longears was asleep.

"Oh, hello!" exclaimed the rabbit gentleman, quickly opening his eyes. "What do you want, Mr. Bear?"

"I have come to supper!" growled the Bear. "It's late and I'm hungry!"

"Oh, so you want some supper, do you?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who bravely made up his mind to puzzle that Bear. "Well, before I let you eat, suppose you tell me what you like for dessert. Here, look at these! Uncle Wiggily quickly drew five pictures. Under one he wrote the word "udding," and under the other such words as: "ake," "ookie," "ustard" and "ie."

"Now," said the rabbit gentleman to the Bear, "you must guess the names of those five desserts before you can have any supper!"

"SHALL I BUY a New Car or a Used Car?" This is the question with many a man just now. He has just so much money to spend, and would like to buy as much for it as possible. Remember, there are many Cars in the market that have been in service only one season; and if you will consult with a reputable firm like The BREWER MOTOR SALES, 131-135 Brock Street, Telephone 102 you will get good, honest advice.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

St. Peter's Cathedral was crowded to its utmost capacity last evening when Rev. J. A. Cloran, C.S.S.R., of St. Patrick's church, Toronto, gave his first instruction to the women. Father Cloran is a missionary father and an orator with Dominion wide experience and delivered an eloquent and forcible sermon on the "Importance of Salvation." Father Cloran referred to the soul as being the image and likeness of God, quoting the words of Genesis, spoken by the Almighty at the very dawn of creation, "Let us make man to our image and likeness." The eloquent Redemptorist began by painting to the imagination of his hearers a vivid scene of Christ, the son of God, standing bleeding and scourged before Pilate, and then contrasted the injury done to Christ by the Jews with the injury done to the soul by sins of mankind. At the front of the Cathedral stood a large cross as a reminder of what Christ has done for the salvation of immortal souls.

The Mission devotions opened with a recitation of the rosary, led by Rev. Father O'Hara, C.S.S.R., and after a hymn was sung to the Holy Ghost Father Cloran preached.

The Image of God.

"How brutally is the immortal soul treated by the world of to-day! Like Christ it is flatly denied by many. People will say, 'What is my soul? There is no such thing as the soul and I am no different from the animal in the field. When life ends, all ends. Therefore, 'eat, drink and be merry, for to-morrow we may die'." Thus speak the wording and the sinner of a pleasure-seeking, modern world. The soul of man, the image and counterpart of God is accordingly scorned and ignored by a proud, selfish and lustful generation.

"Two thousand years ago the weak Pilate pointed to the bleeding Son of God and said to the Jews, 'Behold the man.' To-night as a priest of God, with all the power and eloquence I can summon forth to cry out to you Christian women like the words of Pilate, 'Behold your soul.' 'Behold the image of God buried within your corrupting body and I ask you what are you going to do with it.

An Important Question.

"This question of your immortal soul is one of the greatest import. The care we take of our souls during life will one day draw upon us either the blessing or the curse of a just and an all holy God, a God who hates sin and defilement and who will not tolerate sin nor the sinner in his presence. On the day of judgment we Christians will hear either 'Come ye blessed of my Father,' or we will hear those terrible words, 'Depart ye cursed into everlasting fire.' This all important matter of salvation is a personal question with each and every one of us present in this Cathedral to-night Life is all too precious to waste and there is no time to lose.

Champions of the Soul.

"The soul, however, has its friends, its defenders, its champions. St. Alphonsus says: 'For the soul's sake many a man has fled from the world and its transient joys, many a noble or even royal virgin has shut herself up in a cloister, many an anchorite has fled to the desert and many a martyr has given up his bodily life.' Yes, and many a saint of God has prayed and preached and suffered and died to convince the world and the sinner of the existence of the soul and the need of nourishing and caring for its welfare. 'What doth it profit a man to gain the whole world and suffer the loss of his immortal soul?'

"Behold the saintly and intrepid apostles of the Gentiles. At first Paul was cruel and heartless. He hated Christians with a deadly venom. He hated Christians because they were believers in the soul and reminded him of his own wickedness. He was thrown from his horse by the hand of God and heard a mysterious voice from Heaven. His mind was enlightened and his heart was changed. He became a Christian, an apostle and a worker and a preacher for the sanctification of souls.

St. Alphonsus.

"Behold another champion of the immortal soul! His name is Alphonsus Liguori. He was of noble parentage with every promise of a bright and brilliant career. Suddenly a new conviction took hold of him; the thought of his immortal soul and the thought of his eternal salvation. He consecrated his life to the salvation of immortal souls. He studied, prayed, fasted and preached. He vowed to use every moment towards one end, the salvation of his soul. He founded the famous Order of Missionaries called Redemptorists and imbued them with his convictions and trained them to preach salvation to men. And finally at the age of ninety, when lying upon his death bed, after sixty years of missionary works, when visited by his friends and relatives, he refused to discuss temporalities with them, he refused to refer to his own sufferings. All he could say to them were the pleading words of his whole life's work, 'Save your souls, save your souls.'

The Little Flower.

"Behold another, a third champion of the human soul. She is a mere child and is called by her friends the Little Flower of Jesus. At the age of fifteen she entered a Carmelite monastery, where she spent ten years in the practice of virtue. What wrought such wonders in one so young? What raised this young child to the loftiest heights of spirituality so that now she is honored by the church as a saint of God? It was the thought of her immortal soul and that she preferred the love of God to the pleasures of the world. She not only worked out her own salvation but is the inspiration to-day to millions of Christians to raise their thoughts and desires towards Heaven as she did."

PUBLIC NURSING OPENS NEW CAREER

Gives Young Women of Quebec New Opening—Hospital Nurses From Convents.

MONTREAL, Que., May 5.—(Canadian Press).—Public health work has an indirect bearing on the struggle for political rights for women because of the appointments it has to offer them, it was shown by Professor Edith Hurley, of the Department of Public Health Nursing of the University of Montreal, who addressed the Canadian Alliance for Women's Vote in Quebec recently.

Looking back over the position of those in the nursing profession in Quebec a few years ago, Professor Hurley reminded her hearers that the French lay nurse had been confined almost entirely to private work, as most of the main hospital posts had been filled by members of religious orders. Thus it had been difficult for graduate nurses to command large salaries in the very profession which is admittedly woman's own sphere. The public health sphere, on the other hand, is particularly siuted for the lay nurse, the speaker believed, and since the inception of the Public Health School at Montreal University a new career had been opened for French-Canadian young women.

"We cannot all be happily married, nor can we all live in convent life. We may not want to be dependent on uncles or brothers who already have sufficient responsibilities. Then we must consider possible careers", the speaker argued.

The death occurred at Fraserville, on Sunday afternoon, May 6, of William Allen Pue, at the age of 72 years. The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock from Fraserville United Church to Fraserville Cemetery.

JOHN ARTHUR VANCE.

MILLBROOK, May 7. — The funeral of John Arthur Vance took place from St. Thomas' Church, Millbrook, on Saturday, May 5, at 1 p.m. Deceased had been for some years the western representative of Canada Vinegars, Limited, Toronto and his death occurred suddenly on Sunday, April 29, while journeying by train in British Columbia.

Mr. Vance was in his fifty-eighth year, and was born in Millbrook, being the second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Vance. His father was postmaster here for approximately fifty years, and the family history is closely associated with the community happenings and developments.

Mr. Vance was predeceased by his wife, whose maiden name was Maud McCartney ,and whose death occurred in Winnipeg in 1914. Their marriage took place about thirtytwo years ago.

When the late Mr. William Vance decided to give his time solely to his duties as postmaster, his son took over the grocery business which his father had been conducting, but after a few years sold out and entered the ranks of the commercial travellers. For the past fifteen years he had successfully represented his firm in the west, his territory extending from Winnipeg to the coast. In religion Mr. Vance was an Anglican, and in politics a staunch Conservative. In fraternal circles he was both a Mason and an Oddfellow.

The immediate surviving relatives include two sons, Austin of Orillia and Donald of Winnipeg, and four sisters, Miss Alice of Toronto, Mrs. Albert Elliott of Fort Erie, Mrs. James Colling of Bancroft, and Miss Lottie of New York. An only brother, Judge Vance, of Barrie, died last summer.

The funeral was under Masonic auspices, and was largely attended. Rev. P. C. Howard had charge of the church ritual, and the service of the Masonic order was conducted by Worshipful Brother G. P. Berry, W. M., and Worshipful Brother L. C. Russell, Chaplain, Worshipful Brother J. H. Paul was director of ceremonies ,and there was a representative turnout of J. H. Hall Lodge at the church and graveside.

The pall-bearers were all members of the Masonic Order, Brothers W. T. Wood, A. A. Smith, G. E. Burnham, Dr. A. Jemison, Dr. H. A. Turner, and W. H. Coombe.

Among the many beautiful floral tributes which covered the casket were wreaths from Norwood Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 119, Winnipeg, J. B. Hall Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 945, Millbrook; the directors of the Canada Vinegars, Limited, Toronto, the staff of Canada Vinegars, Limited, Toronto, the Monday Night Class, 1926 and 1927, Winnipeg; the Granite Curling Club, Winnipeg, Millbrook Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 206.

Brother Masons who carried the flowers from the church were: Stewart McGill, Clifford Hall, P. I. Bentley, H. R. Scott, Lloyd Byam, and L. C. Russell. Interment was in St. John's Church, North Cavan.

Those from a distance attending the funeral were: Mr. Donald Vance of Winnipeg, Miss A. Vance of Toronto, Miss L. Vance of New York, two nephews, Messrs. E. H. Menhenitt and B. A. Colling of Toronto, Mr. Pepper of Toronto, representing the firm for which Mr. Vance had travelled, an uncle, Mr. J. Jackson, of Ida, and Dr. G. E. Needler, of Toronto.

ALEXANDER DAVIDSON.

Widely and favorably known throughout the entire district as one of its oldest and finest residents, Alexander Davidson, for many years a farmer and later a citizen of Peterborough passed away on Saturday, May, 1928. Death took place at the family residence, 607 Water Street at about five o'clock in the afternoon.

The late Mr. Davidson was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Davidson and had reached the age of eighty-three years. For the past ten days or so, he had been ailing.

Alexander Davidson was known as a successful farmer for many years. He lived on the land situated on the first concession of Smith Township and retiring some twenty years ago, came to Peterborough to live. He attended and was welcomed into the congregation of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and as a member of long standing in the Independent Order of Oddfellows lived up to the finest principles of that organization. His sorrowing wife survives.

The Rev. William Allan, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church will conduct the funeral services at the residence, 607 Water Street at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, May 8, and at the graveside in Little Lake Cemetery.

Pilot Insurance Co. Makes Good Showing

The Pilot was organized and commenced business last-year. It operates under an Ontario charter, and is regularly licensed by the Ontario Government for the transaction of business. Its organization expenses were exceptionally low, and its affairs have since been managed in a careful and economical manner, with the result that the company completed the year 1927 in a sound business and financial position. Its total assets at the end of 1927 were $74,701.11, while its total liabilities except capital were $12,483.43, showing a surplus as regards policyholders of $61,212.68. The paid-up capital was $45,250.00, so that there was a net surplus over paid-up capital and all liabilities of $15,962.68. In view of the modest premium of $10 per share at which the stock was sold, this is an unusually good showing for a new casualty company to make after its first eight months in operation and indicates a bright future for it in the insurance business. — "Saturday Night," April 28th, 1928.

CHELMSFORD MINING CORPORATION

Latest entrant into the Sudbury field is the Chelmsford Mining Corporation.

Properties of this company, which are divided into two groups, comprise one of the largest and most impressive holdings in the history of this popular district, totalling over 5,000 acres all lying on the Onwatin Slate Belt, with a length of more than six miles on that formation.

Group 1 adjoins the Treadwell-Yukon for a distance of two and a half miles, and divided with that company the now-famous belt of Onwatin Slate in which their ore deposits have been found. It is significant that the shafts and principal workings of Treadwell-Yukon follow the boundary line between the two properties.

Group 2 is located in the northern section of the Onwatin Slate belt and contains 3,300 acres. Five shallow diamond drill holes have shown the structure to be typical of the producing areas and results are regarded as highly gratifying and encouraging.

Much favorable comment is being given to the company's financial structure. The capitalization is 5,000,000 share of no par value; 1,000,000 shares have been issued for property. This is only 20 per cent of total capitalization and is regarded as setting a high standard conservatism. Proceeds of the remaining 4,000,000 shares go direct to the company's treasury.

The company's management is also attracting attention. C. Lewis Campbell of Toronto, is president and managing director, and Charles H. Ackerman of Peterborough, Ont., vice-president. Mr. Campbell's success with his personal operation of the Foster Mine was one of the romances of later Cobalt, while the White-Feiderman-Montgomery is one of the outstanding developments of Quebec. Dr. G. Y. Harcourt, of Pompaun, Ont.; Percy J. Quinn and A. J. Young, both of Toronto, complete the directorate.

The company is offering 1,000,000 shares at 50 cents per share. Twenty thousand feet of diamond drilling is planned for the coming summer and purchases, at the present price, are regarded as holding opportunities for substantial profit.

Grain Prices Go Up Due To Cold Weather

CHICAGO, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Wheat scored material from upturns in price early to-day, owing mostly to persistent dry cold weather west and southwest. Offerings were light, but increased on the bulges. Opening at ⅝ to 1⅜ cent advance, wheat fluctuated rapidly at near to the initial range. Corn, oats, and provisions averaged higher also, with corn starting ¼ to 1 cent up, and subsequently continuing firm.

Toronto Market Active With Prices Going Up

TORONTO, May 7. (Canadian Press).—Very active trading was shown on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, with prices tending mostly upwards. British American led the market in activity, selling up one point to 61, and Canada Cement at 35½ registered a 1½ point gain. Canadian Malting at 40¾ was up 1⅝, and Cockshutt Preferred, after selling up to 11, closed at 120¾, up ⅝. Northern Bakeries sold up to 48, up 2⅛, with Price Brothers at 119¼, three and a half stronger. Walkers and Imperial at 68¼ and 70 were up 1¼ and 2⅛ respectively. International Nickel in the listed section continued strong, remaining unchanged from Friday at 91⅝. Twin City at 50 made a gain of three. Brazilian and Canadian Canners were fractionally firmer. International Utilities "B" at 14 lost 1⅛.

Declines In Majority On Standard Exchange

TORONTO, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Declines outnumbered gains at the early session of the Toronto Mining Exchange to-day. The market was fairly active, with slightly more than half a million shares changing hands. Amidst, with a decline of fifteen to 2.25, led the declines, while Hollinger Consolidated, up ten at 15.10, showed the greatest gain. Argonaut, heavily traded in, was unchanged at eight, while Barry Hollinger, another active stock, was down ¼ at 83½. Noranda was up five at 20.70, and Teck Hughes down five at 9.40, while the new Wright-Hargreaves issue gained ten at 6.50.

TSINAN FIGHTING CEASES WITH WITHDRAWAL OF NATIONALISTS

Reinforcements Arrive For Japanese Defenders of Foreign Settlements.

DEATH LIST INCREASES.

Aeroplane Bomber of Northern Forces Brought Down By Japanese.

SHANGHAI, May 8 (Associated Press). — The situation at Tsinan was seen in a new light here yesterday with despatches from the Shantung city that an airplane bomber of the Northern forces was brought down by the Japanese. The plane had been engaged in bombing the foreign settlement, the despatch said.

This report is the first of active hostilities between the Japanese in Shantung and the Northerners, and, indeed, follows but three days an offer by the Peking War Lord Chang Tso-Lin, to aid the Japanese in their fighting at Tsinan. The offer, summarily refused, was followed by more or less vigorous protests by the Pekingese against continued Japanese occupation of Shantung Province.

Tsinan itself was said yesterday in what reports penetrated to the outside world to be comparatively quiet, with only desultory looting. The list of known murdered Japanese increased from seven to thirteen, with 28 others missing, of whom are two believed to have been murdered.

Fighting has almost entirely ceased with the withdrawal of the Nationalist troops and the arrival of reinforcements for the beleaguered Japanese defenders of the foreign settlements.

Despatches from Tokio indicated the despatch of still more warships to Chinese ports, and the sending of an airplane carrier to Tsingtao.

ADDRESS ON LEAGUE IS GIVEN AUXILIARY

Ladies of Legion Hear of Success of Recent Social Evening.

That the recent card party and dance, held under the joint auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion and the Female Voice Choir, had been a financial success, was reported by Mrs. R. Bugg last evening at the regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Legion, held in the rooms at the Legion Hall. The president, Mrs. J. Mills, was in the chair.

It was decided to have a sale of work on the farmers' market some time in the near future.

An interesting address dealing with the work of the League of Nations was given by Mrs. J. F. Allan, who spoke of its endeavors as a preventive of war. Mrs. Allan spoke of the interest taken in the League of Nations throughout the Empire, instancing the case of a parish presided over by her brother in London, England, where seven hundred members of the congregation belong to the League of Nations' Society.

Mrs. Allan spoke of the terrible losses of life incurred in the Great War and of the visible consequences of its ravages encountered in such institutions as the Christie Street Hospital in Toronto. She also referred to the fact that the Kaiser had not lost any of his sons in the war, and said that the only nations remaining outside the League of Nations at present are Turkey, Mexico, Russia and the United States.

A hearty vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Mesdames Rushes and Tamblyn.

South Africa Would Stand With Empire

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, May 8 (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's).—South Africa's position in relation to the British Empire in times of stress was clearly stated in the House of Assembly yesterday afternoon by Col. Hon. F. H. P. Cresswell, Minister of Defence, during a debate on a vote affecting his department.

Col. Cresswell declared that the Union of South Africa would be unable to prevent invasion of its territory by sea if it relied entirely upon its own forces.

"We in point of fact are an independent people associated with the other dominions in the British Commonwealth of Nations and one of the senior partners," he said. That great commonwealth is not a mere phantasy. Independent as we may be, there is reality behind that association and I am confident that if we were wantonly attacked or hard pressed we would find that the others would certainly not see us mauled or badly used without coming to our assistance. I am also quite certain that we in a similar position would feel ourselves called upon to go to the assistance of the others."

THRILLING FINISH FOR CHESTER VASE

Three Leading Horses In Famous Race Separated By a Head.

CHESTER, England, May 8. Canadian Press. — A thrilling finish occurred in the running of the Chester Vase here to-day when Reid Walker's Hectare won by a neck from Sir Abe Bailey's Lucca, with Josephus, owned by Sol Joel, in third place, beaten only by a short head. Eleven three year olds went the mile and a half. The betting was nine to one against Hectare, ten to one against Lucca, and eleven to two against Josephus.

The race is a popular "double" with the historic Chester Cup which will be run over a two and a quarter mile course to-morrow.

RUSH OF WATER DAMAGES DAM

Sweeps Down Sturgeon River Against Spanish River Company's Property.

MILL CLOSED DOWN.

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., May 8. —(Canadian Press.) — Considerable damage, the extent of which company officials refuse to estimate, was caused to the dam and paper mill of the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Mills here on Saturday night when a wall of water, rushing down the Sturgeon Falls river after the breaking of the dam at Martin Lake, ran over the dam and flooded a considerable portion of land.

One thousand cords of pulpwood stored in the river above the dam, were carried over the structure by the onrushing water and swirled away in the river below. Large damage was also done to the mill, the basement of which is flooded to a depth of 19 inches. It has been closed down, throwing 200 men out of employment. All fittings on the super structure of the dam were carried away, including the winch and railings.

FISH INQUIRY REPORT TABLED

Creation of Separate Department of Government Urged Depletion Feared.

NO STEAM TRAWLERS.

OTTAWA, May 8. (Canadian Press).—Recommendations of major importance to the fisheries of Canada feature the report of the Royal Commission on Fisheries table in the House of Commons to-day by the Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries. The commission recommends the establishment of a separate department of fisheries. The five commissioners point to "numerous representations" which were made as to the necessity for a separate ministry and unanimously recommend the "creation of such a department to the government of Canada.

Among other things adequate assistance for fisheries education in the Maritime provinces is mentioned, while the marketing of fresh fish is dealt with in a lengthy chapter of the report. A note of warning with respect to the serious depletion of certain of the fisheries is sounded and in certain cases drastic regulations are recommended in order to save the fishery in question. Especially is this true in the case of the lobster fishery. All the commissioners, with one exception, favor legislation which would prohibit the operation of steam trawlers from Canadian ports after June 1, 1929.

NO INVESTIGATION OF 'BOTTLE' CLUE

St. Thomas Authorities Think Note About Car Ferry It Hoax.

ST. THOMAS, May 8.—(Canadian Press).—Local officials will make no investigation as a result of the finding of a message in a two ounce prescription bottle off Port Stanley on Saturday saying that the car ferry Bessemer Number 2 would be found fifteen miles north-west of Port Stanley. Those who have examined the bottle and the message, faintly written on an old magazine cover, believe that it is a hoax. The wooden cork in the neck of the bottle show no signs of having been in the water or exposed to the weather for any length of time.

The lake north and west of Port Stanley several years ago was dragged thoroughly by tugs employed by the insurance underwriters and no trace was found of the wreck. The car ferry, which was lost on December 9, 1909, with all hands, has been sought by hundreds of people eager to gain the thousands of dollars in rewards offered.

CITY BUSINESS IS TRANSACTED IN SHORT TIME

Only Routine Matters Dealt With at May Meeting of Council.

MANY BY-LAWS.

Information Arrives About Gas Plant and Special Meeting For Discussion is Arranged.

By-laws for the issue of debentures took up most of the time at last night's meeting of the City Council, its regular May meeting. Alderman Phelan introduced five of these for a total of $176,141.70, all for work already done, and two of them for expenditures over which the council has no control, the work on the Provincial Highway and the extension to the county buildings.

Last night's meeting was devoted to routine matters and lasted the comparatively short time of one hour and fifty minutes. The only item of great importance mentioned was the purchase of the gas plant, all the information sought by the council having now come to hand, but this will be dealt with at a special meeting called for next Tuesday, when the aldermen can spend the whole evening on the one matter. Another reason for postponement was that Alderman Lowe was absent last night through sickness and Ald. Ackerman has not yet returned from his trip to the Manitoba mine country. Ald. Phelan suggested Christmas Eve as the date for considering this matter but met with no support.

By laws were passed as follows:

2770.—To provide for borrowing the sum of $34,000 to pay for the city's share of the cost of the work done on the Provincial Highway last year. The rate of interest is 4½ per cent, and the debentures are 10-year serial type.

2771.—To provide for the borrowing of $16,000 to pay for the city's share of the additions and alternations made to the court house. The rate and type of debentures is the same as for the highway, but the term twenty years.

2772.—To provide for the borrowing of $118,041.70 to pay for the paving done in the city last year. The term of the debentures is 10 years and the rate 5 per cent, that rate having been fixed in the construction by-law last year.

2773.—To provide for borrowing $7,500 to pay for the construction of sewers and private drain connections laid last year. The term is thirty years and the rate five per cent.

2774—To provide for borrowing $3,600 to pay for concrete sidewalks laid last year. The rate is five per cent. and the term of the debentures is twenty years.

2775.—To repeal by-law 2716, which provided for laying of concrete pavement on Aylmer, McDonnel and Park streets, which the council now plans to pave with asphalt.

2776.—To authorize the execution of an agreement with the Warren Bituminous Paving Company for paving Aylmer, McDonnel and Park streets with Warrenite Bitulithic pavement.

2777.—To authorize the execution of an agreement with D. Hayward for taking care of the city parks for 1928.

"I see we still stick to the Warren Bitulithic. I see we will never get into the business for ourselves. I thought it was the intention of the city to try and do the work and keep the money in the city. We can at least do the curbing, gutters, and base ourself. I move that clause 10 be struck out," said Ald. Macdonald when the Board of Works report was read, recommending the letting of the contract for paving to the Warren company.

"In Woodstock they lay all their own pavement," added Ald. Stocker. Ald Huffman explained that he had been wrongly reported the other night in his reference to paving in Montreal, as he had not said he had been there. He had, however, been in Port Hope since that night and saw Amiesite there which had come through two winters, and it was in good condition.

There was no seconder for Ald. Macdonald's motion.

Firemen Get Shirts.

"I am going to move that the last clause of the report be struck out. It means a cost of $170, and I think we might as well supply them with boots and shoes. I don't see why we should discriminate against other employees," said Ald. Greene, resuming his attack on the supply of shirts for the firemen, when the report recommending acceptance of the tender of Riley & Hickey was read.

Ald. Stocker seconded the motion, but no other alderman voted for it, the report being adopted as presented.

The Fire Brigade will get along with 500 feet of hose this year in an attempt to cut down the overdraft likely to result from the addition of several men. This will save $560.

"Better buy hose than shirts," was

FIRE DESTROYS DWELLINGS IN TWO VILLAGES

Large Residence of John Gray, at Millbrook, Is Burned to Ground.

YESTERDAY EVENING.

Midnight Blaze Destroys Home of Mrs. John Duggan at Young's Point.

YOUNG'S POINT, May 8. — The dwelling of Mrs. Thomas Duggan, Sr., with practically all the furniture, was destroyed by fire about midnight last night, in spite of the efforts of a bucket brigade to save it. The house was a frame structure, grouted with sawdust, and had caught fire during the afternoon. This fire had apparently been extinguished, but it is supposed that a spark had fallen into the sawdust and smouldered there, breaking out during the night.

The building was owned by Mrs. Joseph Richardson, of Peterborough.

MILLBROOK, May 8.—Fire broke out in John Gray's house, Main St., at 8.45 yesterday evening, the large red brick residence being totally destroyed, and only the barn being saved.

A defective chimney is blamed although the actual cause is unknown, none of the family being at home when the fire started. The flames were shooting out from the roof on the south side of the house before any alarm was given. Fortunately there was no wind and hence the fire was confined to the one area; a close watch was kept on houses in the immediate vicinity and pails of water poured on the roofs when the sparks were flying, and danger was anticipated.

Practically all of the furniture in the front part of the house was removed to a place of safety, but the entire inside of the house was burned before the firemen could get a stream playing on the building. The hose had to be attached to the pipe on the west side of the Commercial House beyond the C.N.R. station to get enough water to begin throwing a stream on the burning building.

There is some insurance but not enough to cover the loss sustained.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION MEETS

Queen Alexandra Branch Hears Report of Federation Meeting.

Mrs. W. H. Andrews, president of the King Edward Home and School Association, gave a very interesting report of the sessions in connection with the Federation of Home and School Associations meetings, held recently in Toronto, at the monthly meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, held last night in the kindergarten room of the school, the president, Mrs. R. Parnall, in the chair. A record attendance was registered.

Brief business discussions disclosed satisfactory returns from the recent illustrated lecture given by Rev. J. D. Paterson, from a paper collection, and rummage sale.

On behalf of the women teachers of the school, Miss D. Walker expressed appreciation to the Association for renovations made to the rest room.

The musical program was comprised of vocal solos by Miss G. Phillips and Miss H. Mulligan, which were much enjoyed. Accompaniments were played by Mrs. S. L. Purdy and Miss A. Batten.

The evening closed with a social half-hour, when dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. J. E. Stephens, assisted by several new members.

The attendance banner was again won by Senior Fourth room, taught by M. H. Park.

MISS H. S. PECK NEW PRESIDENT

Succeeds Mrs. W. E. Conway as Head of Grenfell Mission Branch.

COLLECTION REPORTED.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission was held on Monday, May 7, at the home of the president, Mrs. W. E. Conway, Park Street.

The results of the campaign for funds and the contents of the bale to be sent to Labrador were discussed. The treasurer reported a total of $131.00 having been contributed in 1928.

An interesting letter received from Mrs. Purdy, a nurse at Harrington Hospital, and a former resident of Peterborough, was then read by the secretary. The Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Church spoke concerning the work Mrs. Purdy was doing at Harrington. He stated that All Saints' was behind her personally, she having been a member of the church, but that in a larger way All Saints' stood back of all endeavors of the Peterborough Branch of the Grenfell Mission.

It was decided to hold a tea at the home of the secretary on May 22, in order to augment the funds of the parent organization. It was also decided that the new work prepared for the bale should be on exhibition at this tea.

The election of officers for the year results as follows:

Hon. President—Miss E. Edwards.
President—Miss H. S. Peck.
Vice-President—Mrs. F. M. Somerville.
Secretary—Mrs. Gordon Langley.
Treasurer—Mrs. R. J. Devey.
Convenor of the Dorcas Committee—Mrs. J. Trussler.
Convenor of the Packing Committee—Mrs. J. C. Smith.

The meeting then discussed sending an invitation to Sir Wilfred Grenfell to visit Peterborough when on his next lecturing tour.

Mrs. Conway, the retiring president, kindly served tea at the conclusion of the meeting.

NEW HYDROPLANE MAKES GOOD SPEED

"Canada Flyer," Built in Peterborough, is Demonstrated at Toronto.

"Canada Flyer," a new type of hydroplane driven by W. C. (Bill) Landrigan, of Toronto, made a speed of approximately 34 miles per hour at the National Yacht Club, Toronto. It is powered by a 1928 Evinrude Speeditwin. This boat was built by D'Arcy Carter and Brothers of this city.

This little hydroplane is being displayed and demonstrated by the Evinrude Motor Company, 64 King street, Toronto.

She is the product of D'Arcy D. Carter and his brothers, of Peterborough, who certainly know their macaroni when it comes to building a racing boat. The new boat is a superb specimen of the boat-builders' art. She is built from the plans of a series of racing craft which won several races at Miami and Daytona Beach this winter under the general name of "Diamonds." Carter calls her the "Canada Flyer" and will send her to the mark in the races in Toronto this summer. The advent of the flyer brings the N.Y.C. total up to fourteen already in active service with six more on tap.

CAROL READY TO TAKE OVER POLITICAL BURDENS OF COUNTRY

Manifesto Is Outline of His Policy For Future Government of Rumania.

AWAITS CALL OF PEOPLE.

Army Aeroplanes Guarding Against Revolt By Marching Peasants.

(By Dorothy Russell, Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.)

GODSTONE, Surrey, Eng., May 8. —(A.P.)—Former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania, who is on a visit here, is ready to take over the political burdens of his country. He confirmed yesterday the issuance of his manifesto, which he declared is a complete outline of his policy for the future government of Rumania, and repeated that he would return to assume the throne and put his ideas into force at the first call of his people.

The disturbed state of affairs in Rumania, the march of the peasants on Albajulia, Bucharest and other cities has stirred the son of the late King Ferdinand into activity. Talking with the Associated Press correspondent, he admitted that copies of his manifesto had been sent to America some time ago, to await word for distribution, which was given Saturday.

No Assistance From America.

"I have no financial assistance from America," said Carol, "but I have strong support there. It is possible that if my plans fail, I shall visit America."

On the general question of his position, he went on to explain "My renunciation of the crown and exile from my country were forced upon me under duress of domestic afflictions. My marriage was unhappy and I wanted to divorce Princess Helen, but my father, a strict Roman Catholic, would not permit a divorce. Under unbearable circumstances, it was only the act of a gentleman to sacrifice myself and to save my child (King Michael) by leaving the country.

"It is not true that I left because of another woman. The paper I signed, promising not to return for ten years, is not valid. This was tacitly admitted by Bratianu (the late premier), who wrote me a letter only three days before the king's death, asking me to send another written promise. I paid no attention to this.

"Carol Ready."

(By George Haladians, Associated Press Staff Correspondent.)

SIBIU, Rumania (By Telephone to Vienna), May 8.—(A.P.)—With army aeroplanes hovering over them ready to drop bombs if they attempted to start a revolt in rural Rumania, 5,000 peasants fresh from the Albajulia Congress reached this town late yesterday in their march toward Bucharest, where they will present the Rumanian regency with a demand for a change in government.

To reach Sibiu, they tramped most of the night, preceded and followed by government cavalry, perfect order prevailing among them and the cavalry escort has instructions not to impede their march unless they try to incite the countryside to insurrection.

Resembles Army Camp.

The whole of Transylvania resembles an armed camp. Martial law prevails and the entire Rumano-Hungarian border has been closed for three days to automobile traffic. All travelers are sharply interrogated and searched.

The government's nervousness has been increased greatly by alleged threats of Prince Carol in England to return to Rumania. Severe censorship has been reinstated and news despatches are meeting rigid scrutiny before transmission is allowed.

Perfect order prevails everywhere, but the Rumanians are apprehensive that unless the government tries to appease the peasants, who have become thoroughly aroused, the rural population may try to bring about a change in government by force.

OTTAWA, May 8.—Senator Frank B. Black, New Brunswick, will on Wednesday, introduce a bill to incorporate the New Brunswick Bank, with a capital of $1,000,000, and head office at St. John. DIVING FOR BODIES OF TWO AVIATORS

Crew of Fish Tug Left Last Night For Scene of Accident.

ERIE, May 8.—(Canadian Press.) —The work of diving for the bodies of James Lapey, Buffalo, and John Rosecrans, Milwaukee, is believed to be under way to-day off Long Point, Ontario, by Capt. Joseph Divell and the crew of the fish tug Ruth. The tug left Erie last evening to get a start early to-day. The spot where the two men went down in their plane on Friday had been marked with a buoy. The sea was quiet to-day, allowing diving operations to proceed.

BISHOP DIFFERS WITH CARDINAL

Answers Statements Made in Sermon On King's Religious Position.

ON NATURE OF OATH.

LONDON, May 8. — (Canadian Press.)—Rt. Rev. Dr. Knox, formerly Bishop of Manchester, commenting on the sermon of Cardinal Bourne, Archbishop of Westminster at Cambridge on Sunday, in which His Eminence referred to the position of the Sovereign with regard to religions, particularly deals with the Cardinal's statement about Queen Elizabeth's oath, which the Bishop doubts. The Cardinal says that Queen Elizabeth, in virtue of her coronation, made a contract with her people to be a faithful Catholic, but that she ceased to be a Catholic and thereby lost all legal claim upon the allegiance of her Catholic subjects, though they remained loyal to her except in matters where their duty to God was concerned.

Bishop Knox says: "I fancy the Cardinal is wrong regarding the nature of Queen Elizabeth's oath. As for the rest, I should not attach much importance to it. It is all talk, as much so as to speak of the Pope becoming a Protestant."

NEW YORK, May 8. — (Canadian Press.)— The list of the missing in the collision in which the government dredge Havesink was sunk off Staten Island, stood at eighteen to-day as a board of army engineers opened an investigation into the accident. SEVERAL DEPUTATIONS APPEAR BEFORE CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL

Business Men Request Extension of Pavement On Front Street.

SIGNAL FOR POLICE.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 8. — All members of the Town Council were present at the regular meeting held in the Council Chambers last night. There were also several citizens present, some of them as deputations for various purposes. Not till ten minutes past ten had the last of these been heard and the next regular order of business, correspondence, entered upon. This also required more than an hour, and after passing three by-laws, the Council adjourned shortly before midnight.

The first deputation to be heard was from the ratepayers and business men on a portion of Front Street. This street is not included in the so-called connecting links since it has been impossible to have the Ninth Concession of Seymour accepted as a county road. For this reason the paving program as originally drafted did not include this section of street. There was also the matter of sewers on Front Street to be dealt with.

J. A. Irwin, spokesman for the deputation, explained his mission to the Council, and asked that Front Street be paved. He believed that it could be done at a much lower cost at the present time when the paving equipment was on the spot, than it could be later when it would be necessary to bring in the machinery, and if it were left over at the present time, it might not be done at all for several years. It was the earnest desire of the merchants and other ratepayers to have the work done this season. It would be a serious matter for them if the street were allowed to go unpaved.

T. S. Baker, Front Street, agred with what Mr. Irwin had said, and was also of the opinion that if it were not paved now, it would be allowed to go for several years. Regarding the sewers, he said, he knew nothing except that since the street had been graded, the connection of his service to the main had frozen frequently.

Councillor Wiggins, Front Street, also agreed that it looked like good business to proceed with the work at the present time since it would be an impossibility to get the work done as cheaply another time when it would be necessary to bring in the machinery for a small job.

T. H. Rowe, Front Street, also spoke in favor of the paving and said that a sewer was badly needed on Front Street. It would be a shame to let this opportunity pass, he thought. This street should be second to none, and he was willing to pay his share for both paving and sewer.

Charles H. Davidson rose to express the wish that the pavement might be continued south to the Fire Hall. He was willing to pay his share both for his house and for his garage frontage.

Reeve Bygott advanced the opinion that it might hurry matters along if a petition were brought in. He was in favor of pavement on Front Street, and was sorry that it had been impossible to have it listed as a connecting link. Regarding the sewer, he thought that a proper system ought to be put in, and that the same applied to the water service. The paving company, he stated, had agreed to a certain extent to do any extra work for the same prices as were being paid for the original amount mentioned in the contract.

Some difficulties arose as to the petition, and the matter was left over till Friday, May 11, when a special

Spanish Aviators Fly To New York

SEVILLE, Spain May 8. — The Spanish aviators, Francisco Jiminez, and Ignacio Iglesias, will pass Havana by and fly to New York when they set out from this city, it was said here yesterday. Their plane which has been loaded for several days in readiness for the flight, awaits only good weather for the take-off.

The aviators, who have been unusually secretive about their plans, insisting that they intended flying to India and not Havana, are now understood to have the New York flight project in mind their ultimate determination depending entirely upon how gas holds out. It is planned to take southern route to Cuba, striking the United States at the Southern tip of Florida and flying up the east coast.

Provisions for the fliers include a supply of chocolate and Thermos bottles containing coffee and cognac.

PRESENT PLAY AT MARMORA

Rylstone Dramatic Club Stage "An Arizona Cowboy" in Town Hall.

TAKE PARTS WELL

MARMORA, May 8. — Rylstone Dramatic Club scored a decided success at Marmora Town Hall on Friday evening, dramatically speaking, in its fine presentation of "An Arizona Cowboy." Leading a cast of well trained amateur artists, Reginald McKeown handled the role of Farley Grantt, the cowboy sheriff, in realistic style, while Walter Jones as Paul Quillan, his weak willed partner, also made a good impression. In Eldon Anderson as Hezekiah Bugg, a glorious liar, and Douglas Barnum, as You Kee, a heathen Chinese, the audience found much occasion for mirth. The former's continual reference to the year '89 and the latter's skillful impersonation of the Celestial assured their success along the lines of comedy. The comedienne of the cast was Miss Winnifred Spencer, who was adimrably suited to the role of young 'un a poor house waif and her fondness of Jupiter, a pet hen, occasioned several humorous incidents. Fred Rutherford, as Duke Blackshear, a stranger from Frisco, and Granville Meiklejohn as Grizmly Grim, a cattle thief, furnished the plot in no uncertain style. Evelyn Bonnycastle took her part exceedingly well as Marguerite Moore, the pretty ranch owner. Wilfrid Spencer looked formidable as Big Elk, a Navajo Chief, while Gladys Spencer cleverly impersonated Fawn Afraid, an Indian Maid. Evelyn Totten, as a great success as Mrs. Petunia Bugg from Old Indianny, her wielding of the broom against unwelcome guests was pronounced most realistic. Beatrice Lain in the lesser part of Coralie Blackshear, Duke's sister, and John Lain and Lorne Anderson as cowboys completed this good all round cast. Mrs. Fred Rutherford ably assisted as pianist. At the conclusion of the fourth and final act, a flashlight photo was taken of the characters (not excluding Jupiter) by Mr. Bonnycastle, of Campbellford.

The net proceeds were devoted by the Women's Memorial League, under whose auspices the play was given, to the Memorial Clock Fund.

W.M.S. MEETING

Routine Matters Discussed at Warsaw Meeting—Musical Program.

WARSAW, May 8.—Mrs. Arthur Edwards was hostess to the members of the W.M.S. at the regular meeting on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. George Taylor led a responsive service on systematic giving, and Miss Clara Payne, leader of group B, led a responsive service on "The Church and its mission."

Mrs. David read from Lux Christi, a few paragraphs bearing on the earliest christian work in India. It is supposed that Thomas Didgmus, one of the apostles visited India and had some disciples. Mrs. Arthur Edwards read a letter from Miss Staples, a missionary in Japan, written just after she returned from her furlough. After her visit home, her surroundings at Kameido seem very cramped, but she would not exchange. The only yard at the mission house is brick, about eighteen feet by fifty. Her responsibilities are the supervision of two kindergartens; three English night classes a week; an English Bible Class; two classes in near by high school; church work, and charge of the home. The letter described much of the work in the mission and some of the customs, among them being, if a house is rented, only the walls, roof and floor are rented, even the paper partitions are brought in by one who rents. Sometimes they are crowded for space in the hostel but they never shut out a girl who comes needing shelter.

Miss Elsie Moore sang "Be a Helper." It was decided to invite Cottesloe W.M.S. to join the Warsaw Auxiliary at the June meeting for which Mrs. Robert Moore has offered her home. Lunch was served by group B at the conclusion of the program.

The auxiliary here hopes to have at least one carload to go to Lindsay for one day of the missionary conference, which is being held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Mrs. Herrington intends to go for the entire three days.

IMPORTS RABBITS

Harry Tinney Adds to His Flock From Registered Stock.

HAVELOCK, May 8.—Harry Tinney, of Belmont, has added to his flock of rabbits, three of a new fur breed from registered and imported stock, the Beaver Havana These rabbits are about the same size as the Chinchilla. Their fur, which is a chocolate brown about the same color as a beaver, is very valuable. Mr. Tinney states that a fur buyer in New Brunswick is paying $5.00 for No. 1 ordinary furs from these rabbits, being the highest-priced rabbit fur on his list, and also that a breeder in the United States charges $120.00 a trio for his Beaver Havanas. At the present time this new breed is very scarce in Canada and the United States. Mr. Tinney also has thirty white Angora rabbits.

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD BANQUET

Members of St. John's Church Society Gather at King's Wharf.

GOOD PROGRAM

KING'S WHARF, May 8.—The banquet for the Young People's League of St. John's Church was held on Friday evening. The devotional side had won in the number of points gained during the season for good attendance, therefore the three losing sides, social, missionary, and literary, provided the program. The president, Miss Marguerite Ranson, presided while the following program was given: Recitation, "Buying Presents", Miss Calder, of Bobcaygeon; "My First Music Lesson", Miss Clara Pogue; a duet by the Misses Mabel Hunter and Mabel McFeeters, and a vocal solo by Mrs. William Pogue.

George Richardson gave a lecture on the war, showing a few souvenirs which he brought home. "Seeing Things at Night" by Miss Mabel Nelson; and recitations by Kenneth Killaby and Mrs. Wallace Aldred; "Auld Lang Syne" was sung by the Misses Mabel McFeeters and Mabel Hunter, followed by a song by Mr. and Mrs. Garner Hunter which brought the program to a close. The ladies served lunch before the meeting adjourned until the opening meeting in the fall when the officers for the year will be elected.

Trapping Season Over

The trapping season is over and it was a very poor one owing to the very high water, in which many rats escaped, and the very cold weather. The price was also low, being only from $2 to $2.15.

The syrup season is also finished. It was a very good season at the last and a large number of gallons of syrup was made by those who tapped.

Shingles Barn.

George Ranson had a number of his neighbors helping him shingle his barn on Friday.

Work on Land Started.

The first work on the land was done here last week, which is very late. The ground is very wet and hardly fit to work. The fall wheat and ground which has been seeded down doesn't look very good with so much hard frosts, since they came through the winter in splendid condition.

Personals.

Mr. Gayton Kimble, of Bobcaygeon has been buying cattle through here recently.

Mr. Joseph O'Leary was a business visitor to Lindsay last week.

Miss Helen O'Neil of Detroit spent the week end as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neill.

Mr. Michael Harrington was a business visitor to Lindsay on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred White and baby spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George White.

Mrs. Arthur Bell is the guest of her sister, Mrs. John McFeeters.

Miss Mabel McFeeters spent Friday as the guest of Miss Mabel Hunter.

Mr. John McFeeter has purchased a new car.

Mr. Emmet O'Neill is home from Toronto where he spent the winter months.

Mr. John O'Neill has returned to Toronto to spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. O'Neill.

Mr. Connor Farrell and two little daughters, of Sprucedale, are the guests of the former's father-in-law, Mr. Michael Fitzpatrick.

Mr. Thomas Murtha, Jr., has purchased the McDonald farm and will move in the near future.

Mr. Thomas B. Morrissey has purchased the south hundred of the John Winn farm, which adjoins his own.

WHEN FOOD FAILS.

Defective Digestion is the Cause and Misery Follows.

There are thousands of people who do not get the proper nourishment from the food they eat, because their digestion is defective. Food that lies undigested in the stomach is not merely wasted, it will ferment and poison your system. Flatulence and sour risings in the throat follow and unless you are careful you will become a chronic dyspeptic.

By toning up the stomach to do the work nature intended, you will remove the cause of the trouble. Nothing will more promptly restore the digestive organs than good new blood. Stomach nerves and glands all depend on the blood, and when it gets thin and watery they are at once weakened. It is because of their action in building up and enriching the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved successful in so many cases of indigestion where ordinary medicines have failed. The new rich blood quickly tones up the digestive organs; the appetite improves and you are able to eat with comfort and get full nourishment from your food.

A little booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat", will be sent free to any address on request.

You can get Dr Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ENGLAND ASKS CAROL TO LEAVE

Former Crown Prince of Rumania Accused of Foreign Intrigue.

USUAL PROCEDURE.

LONDON, May 8.— (A.P.)— The London Mail to-day says that the British Government has decided to ask Prince Carol, of Rumania, to leave England. The Prince had been visiting at a country estate in Surrey for the past week. Carol yesterday admitted responsibility for a manifesto printed in London which declared that he awaited only a call from Rumania to assume its throne in place of his young son, King Michael.

Late editions of other London morning newspapers also said that the British Government had decided to request Carol to leave the country.

The Mail says that the decision was reached after a conference between officials of the Foreign Office and Home Office. A Scotland Yard officer was send to Godstone, where the Prince was visiting, but found Carol was attending a moving picture performance in London.

Later, the newspaper says, Sir Wyndham Childs, assistant commissioner of the Metropolitan police, and two other high police officers, motored to Godstone. The Prince returned at midnight and saw the officers.

The Mail quotes the Prince as saying afterwards that he was surprised that the Government had disapproved of his activities here.

The action upon which the British Government has decided, according to the newspapers, would be in accordance with the usual procedure when a foreigner has used English territory as the centre for intrigues against a friendly Government. That is what Carol and his advisers are accused of doing by their manifesto.

WORK DELAYED AT DOWNEYVILLE

Farmers Unable to Commence Operations on Farms on Account of Weather.

DOWNEYVILLE, May 8.—A few people have started to work on the land but the weather is so cold and the ground is really too wet to work, except in very high land.

The fall wheat is about half killed by the recent frosts, and the clover and alsike are also checked. There is no sowing done around here yet.

Road Bad.

There is a terribly bad piece of road west of Fox's Corners, where every car that crosses it has to be drawn out. The bottom seems to be gone out of the road and when the cars sink they go down to the axles. The road is so badly cut up with holes now that it is almost impossible to go over it with any kind of a vehicle. The other roads through here are in splendid shape.

The burial of the dead was held here on Thursday when requiem High Mass was said by Rev. Father Galvin, and afterwards the bodies which had been placed in the vault during the winter was buried.

Two undertakers, James Cain, of Lindsay and Gerald McFadden, of Peterborough, assisted in the ceremony.

Personals.

Miss Mary Connell has purchased a new car.

Mrs. James Carroll of Lindsay is spending a few days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Carroll, Jr.

Miss Lillian Garvey, of Buffalo, N.Y., is spending a few days as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Garvey.

EMPIRE DAY.

In his Empire Day message in a special booklet issued by the Ontario Department of Education, Premier G. Howard Ferguson in his capacity as Minister of Education effectively sums up the desirability of an adequate celebration of Empire Day in every school in the Province.

"Young people as they grow older," says Premier Ferguson, "see more clearly the advantages that flow from intimate membership in the British Empire, and that is one reason why, in our schools, the teacher should seize this opportunity annually of laying a solid foundation of knowledge of the claims that the Imperial connection has upon all our people."

This year's booklet, intended to furnish teachers and pupils with information needed for a suitable celebration of Empire Day, contains many interesting articles, a specimen programme, and much other material that will be of great assistance.

As usual Peterboro' schools will participate heartily in the observance of Empire Day on May 23, 1928.

A BRAVE TEACHER.

The full story of the rescue last week of a seven-year-old youngster who fell from a raft in a pond near High street reflects the greatest credit upon the bravery and quickness of action of Miss Beatrice Wilson, the school teacher who plunged into the cold water and brought the boy to shore.

Miss Wilson, The Examiner is informed, is unable to swim, but, although the water in this old clay-pit is of varying depth, in places nearly ten feet deep, the plucky teacher ignored the danger to herself and unhesitatingly entered the water and saved the boy's life.

And having brought him to shore, she, with commendable presence of mind, immediately applied resuscitation methods with successful results.

Those who know all the circumstances in connection with this gallant rescue feel that the bravery of Miss Wilson should be suitably and officially recognized, and that the story should be brought to the attention of the proper authorities so that this end may be attained.

It is fitting indeed that deeds of heroism should have some public recognition, and it must be admitted that we as a community have been decidedly lax in regard to such rescues in the past.

"KAMP SKOOKUM."

Vacation plans are already being made, the long summer days are almost at hand, and most Peterborough boys and young men are hopefully looking forward to a holiday filled with clean and healthful recreation.

"Kamp Skookum," under which name the boys' camp at Clear Lake is to be known this year, offers, under the new plan adopted for its operation, an unique chance of just such a holiday, and parents of Peterborough's boys in planning for the summer would be well advised to consider this opportunity.

There are to be camps for boys from 10 to 13 years, and from 13 to 16 years, followed by a serior camp for young men, greatly widening the usefulness of the splendid equipment available at Kamp Skookum and making it possible for more boys and young men to enjoy the facilities that are offered as a result of the efforts of the Peterborough Rotary Club and the Rotary-annes.

Here is one of the finest boys' camps in the Province, ideally situated, splendidly equipped and furnished, conducted on safe and sensible lines, and providing every ingredient for a model holiday.

It should be utilized to its full capacity every day that it is open this summer.

TRIBUTE TO HON. W. D. EULER.

The day of the partisan newspaper is rapidly passing.

The majority of Canadian journals are now independent of party affiliations, while the few that still adhere to one party or another are not hidebound in their allegiance, and are willing to admit flaws in their own party and pay tribute to good points in others.

Thus the Ottawa Journal, Conservative, in dealing with the remarkable record in income tax collection set up by the Department of National Revenue, remarks:

"The gain—$14,000,000—is an extraordinary one. It reveals, undoubtedly, an increased activity and efficiency in the Department of National Revenue. Canadians are being educated into making prompt, correct and honest income tax returns, and would-be slackers are being taught that attempts at evasion do not pay. For this no one is deserving of more credit than Mr. Euler himself. Mr. King has secured two or three Ministers of unqualified capacity—and Mr. Euler most people consider to be one of them."

The Journal's tribute will be generally echoed.

Canadians everywhere regard Hon. W. D. Euler as a fine specimen of a capable and energetic executive whose department is being operated on sound business principles, and with every effort directed toward producing efficient service.

BE A LAWYER, YOUNG MAN!

(From The Ottawa Journal.)

Toiling in the national vineyard, if you happen to be a lawyer, is an exceedingly remunerative business. As Exhibit A of this assertion we submit a return tabled in Parliament last week. It shows that the eminent legal gentlemen who were engaged to find how much liquor was being bootlegged and smuggled and by whom and why, drew down in fees $91,326, in living allowances $14,845, and in travelling and other expenses $6,365. Just at a time when the rest of us are taxing our intellects and our consciences in finding out how much income tax we must pay the Government it makes rather rueful reading.

There were four lawyers—Mr. N. W. Rowell, Mr. R. L. Calder, Mr. G. C. Lindsay and Mr. R. B. Law—engaged in the final inquiry, while Mr. W. F. O'Connor acted in the preliminary investigation, being fired by Mr. King's Government for the misdemeanor of being a Conservative. He was evidently too concerned with "the past."

Mr. Rowell was apparently the ace of the lot, his fees amounting to $44,060. Mr. Calder, although a rather bad second, was enabled to keep the well-known wolf away by getting $21,038; Mr. Lindsay had to be satisfied with $8,685, and Mr. Law got $10,142. The work, we should point out, consumed about six months.

In addition to fees, there were travelling and living allowances. Looking at the figures, we trust that these same eminent gentlemen will never be employed to inquire into the cost of living. For they would almost certainly be inclined to say that for most of us it was too cheap. Mr. Rowell's living allowance (it is nice to get wages that you don't have to live upon) totalled $3,230; his travelling and other expenses reached $3,140. Mr. Calder, too, must have lived well. His travelling expenses (maybe he had a pass) were only $1,138, but his living allowances totalled $3,375. Mr. Lindsay's living allowances were $3,885 and his travelling expenses $1,056. Mr. Law topped all of them with a living allowance bill of $4,085, but his travelling expenses were only $888.

Nor did the three judges who acted as commissioners fare badly. As judges they could not take anything extra in the way of salaries, but they got $23,850 among them for living allowances (they evidently stopped at better hotels than counsel) and their travelling expenses were $3,677.

There is consolation in the fact, so far as the public is concerned, that the inquiry paid. The end, in other words, justified the means. But that has nothing to do with our main thesis, which is that law is a fine profession. If you wish to succeed, young man, don't bother with theology or philosophy or science or literature. Be a lawyer—and support the right party.

THE AUTO'S TERRIBLE TOLL.

It is estimated that 25,000 people in the neighboring United States will be killed by automobiles in 1928. These are not the figures of alarmists, of men who would make a sensation without just reason. No, the figures, while alarming, are not the work of alarmists. We only wish they were. The estimates have been prepared by statisticians who for years have been tabulating the number of motor vehicle crashes, types of accidents and the causes responsible for the toll taken on the streets and highways. They are, alas, too true.

These figures, which will be duplicated, proportionately, in Canada, will not mean anything to the careless driver, but they will mean a great deal to those who are interested in the conservation of life. The announcement that many thousand will be killed by the modern juggernaut this year should lead to redoubled efforts to reduce this number to an appreciable extent. Safety on the highway should be preached incessantly. Ordinary care by driver and pedestrian would avert the greater part of these estimated casualties.

It will surely pay to be careful since it will mean the saving of many lives. Human life is valuable. It means a good deal in dollars and cents to the state. Unfortunately, a great many of those who are killed by the auto are desirable citizens whom the community in which they reside can ill-afford to lose. Some are men who have been actively engaged in enterprises that make for the betterment of a place, and their passing makes communal life the poorer. Some are parents of growing families which need their protection and support. And many are children with lives of usefulness and promise before them. The slaughter of these innocents is, perhaps, the greatest tragedy that has followed in the wake of the automobile.

In view, therefore, of this wanton waste of life, it is not asking too much that care should be the watchword of everyone who has occasion to use the highways and streets of the country. Eternal vigilance is the price of avoidance of accidents by motor. The result is well worth the price.

There is no estimate of the number that will be injured this year by automobiles, but if 25,000 are to be killed in the United States alone, the number of injured will far exceed that number. Some of the injured will be laid up for months, resulting often in heavy financial loss and in great inconvenience to the sufferers and their families.

Since watchfulness and care will prevent many deaths and accidents, there should be a constant endeavor on the part of all to exercise these virtues on all occasions. Some touring cars carry these words on the windshields: "I'm for care and courtesy. Are you?" Of course, a great many cars do not carry these words, but the drivers nevertheless exercise care and courtesy. But there are many who do not exercise them. One thing is sure, and that is, if everybody diving a car displayed care and courtesy, there would be very few casualties. Every motor club should be a safety league, and safety first should be the motto of every driver. It might not be a bad thing if every person securing a driver's license were required to make a declaration that he or she would exercise care in driving.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que, May 8 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the absence of demand from exporters and the fact that few orders from country buyers came to hand the trade in cash grain on the Montreal market showed no improvement yesterday. A steady feeling prevailed and prices were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of Spring and Winter wheat flour were firmly maintained under moderate demand.

There was a good inquiry again yesterday from United States buyers for bran in the millfeed market and further sales of car lots for May shipment were made to Boston, and some business was also done for June delivery. There was also an urgent demand from the Maritime Provinces and in addition to this quite a number or orders came forward from other sources. The tone of the market was firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet, but prices were maintained.

A feature of the egg trade was the much firmer feeling that prevailed in the market and jobbing prices for fresh extras were marked up one cent per dozen higher, which was attributed to the fact that country shippers were demanding more money on account of the increased competition for supplies for storing purposes. The receipts were 2,681 cases.

There was no actual change in prices for potatoes, but the undertone to the market continues easy and lower prices are expected in the near future without the demand improves.

The market for imported beans was rather quiet owing to the fact that buyers in many cases are awaiting the arrival of fresh supplies. The tone of the market remains firm with car lots of choice white hand-picked beans quoted at $4.20 per bushel, ex-track, and broken lots at $4.40 per bushel, ex-store.

The weakness which has characterized the local butter situation for some days now was more pronounced than ever yesterday and prices scored a further decline of 1c to 1½c per lb., and the prospects are that the market may possibly reach a still lower level before the turn comes. The volume of business continued of a disappointing character. The receipts were 692 packages.

The trade in cheese was quiet, but the undertone to the market was fairly steady and prices showed no change. The receipts were 746 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 8 (Canadian Press).—Liberal arrivals of Spring wheat from Minneapolis to deliver on May contracts here did a good deal to turn Chicago wheat prices downward late yesterday. Speculative holders who were rather free sellers of May, however, were at times conspicuous buyers of July.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous at ¼ cent to ¾ cent net decline, with corn ¾ cent off to ¼ cent up; oats ¼ cent to ¾ cent down and provisions varying from 7 cents setback to a rise of 15 cents.

Receipts of wheat in Chicago yesterday totalled 354 cars, mostly Spring wheat which had been brought here from Minneapolis. Word was also at hand that yesterdays receipts at other centres were likewise of generous bulk. This circumstance tended to give an advantage finally to the bear side of the market in a day of numerous and rapid fluctuations. Earlier transient upturns were based to a considerable extent on persistent dry cold weather in domestic wheat territory west and southwest and on anxiety in some quarters regarding Rumanian affairs and about Japanese-Chinese difficulties as well.

Exceptionally favorable crop reports however, especially from Kansas, the banner wheat state, were a contributing factor.

At times yesterday in stimulating bear sentiment as to wheat, much notice in particular was taken on dispatches from Sylvia, Kansas, by a leading Chicago expert saying lots of wheat throughout that section is now knee high and good stand and color, and has moisture nearly ample to mature the crop. Unless some unforeseen calamity occurs, he said, Kansas will raise a crop considerably about average. Under such circumstances, the market failed to respond well to predictions that the government crop report this week would prove bullish. Decided falling-off, too, in the amount of wheat on ocean passage was virtually ignored.

Corn prices became weak after visible supply figures were posted, the decrease of 2,241,000 bushels not being as much as had been expected. Besides, corn planting is making good progress over a wide area. Oats averaged lower, sympathizing chiefly with wheat.

Warehouse and shipping interests were sellers of provisions, and this fact largely counterbalanced an upturn in hog values.

NEW YORK, May 7 (Canadian Press).—Spun about in the ocean steamship channel off Staten Island by the swirling ebb tide, the Government dredge Navesink, with 47 men aboard, was sunk in four minutes today when it crashed into the freighter Swinburne. Two ocean liners and a tanker lowered boats and the dredge's crew was saved with the possible exception of three men.

GOD'S MINUTE

If ye forgive.....your Father will forgive you.—Matt. 6:14.

Our Father, we praise Thee for the blessings that crown us morning and evening, for the love that abides with us through the darkness and the light.

With contrite hearts we confess our sins, pleading for the cleansing that God gives through the atoning blood of the Cross, and for the sanctifying power that causes us to grow into the beauty and strength of the Christ life.

Master, we dedicate ourselves to Thee for service. Wherever we may be and whatever the task that may be laid upon us, help us to be Christ-like. May we touch other lives with blessing, communicating the Spirit that cheers the depressed, comforts the sorrowful, supplies the needy, encourages the weak, and leads the unredeemed soul to the Saviour. Thou hast honored us by calling us to be co-laborers with Thyself, the God Who works. May we toil in the fulness of our powers, to the end that earth may become like Heaven.

Father, keep us true to the highest ideals. Give us, in ever increasing measure, the peace that passeth understanding, and in life's evening hour may the light of the Glory Land be upon our faces.

Our prayer is in Jesus' Name. Amen.

The fire started apparently in the grandstand. The manager of the exhibition was unable to estimate the loss, but stated that replacement will involve considerable expense.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Another immense crowd filled St. Peter's Cathedral last evening when Father Cloran, Redemptorist missionary, spoke on "Mortal Sin," the second evening's sermon of the Women's Mission. The body of the beautiful cathedral presented a striking sight at seven-thirty when Father Cloran mounted the steps of the pulpit, every inch of seating space being filled with girls and women, while another large crowd occupied the rear galleries. The attendance last evening was even slightly larger than the attendance at the Sunday evening's sermon.

Father Cloran defined mortal sin as open rebellion against Almighty God and a deliberate breaking of His holy laws, or sometimes a cold-blooded disregard of the ten commandments of the Almighty. The missionary father compared the ingratitude of the sinner today with the ingratitude of the Jews of old and declared that God to-day had the same hatred for the sins of the twentieth century as He had for the sins of His chosen people. God punished Israel for her sins and God will punish sin to-day.

The Sins of Israel.

"God loved His chosen people, Israel. The whole Sacred Scripture is but one long recital of that love. He gave them power to conquer their enemies and protected them against misfortune. He consoled them in their grief and rejoiced with them in their joys. Yet for all this love, Israel was not grateful. They turned their backs upon God and gave themselves up to all manner of sin. So much so that God had to send His prophets to warn them of the enormity of their crimes and of the terrible punishment that would follow if they persisted in sin. God said to Isaias, 'Cry, cease not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet and show my people their wicked doings and tell the house of Jacob their sins.'

Are We Guilty?

"My Christian friends, have you been cold and indifferent in the practice of your religion? Have you neglected the important law of prayer? Have you been guilty of insulting God or violating His holy laws? Have you been guilty of cursing and swearing? Have you been guilty of the missing of mass? Have you been guilty of quarrelling, hatred or enmity? Have you been guilty of drunkenness or the terrible sins of impurity? Have you grievously neglected the duties of your state in life? In a word, have you committed mortal sin? Have you violated the laws of God in all important matters and do you persist in violating them? If so, then to you, as to the Jews of old, God sends his prophets in the person of His missionaries and bids them 'Cry, cease not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet and show my people their wicked doings.' Thus, at God's bidding, I cry out a warning to you to-night, and I lift up my voice against sin, because by sin men and women lose their bearing. They no longer hear the voices that would warn them, the voice of God, the voice of Holy Mother Church, the voice of conscience. By repeated sin men and women also lose their spiritual sight and no longer see the malice of sin or God's punishment of sin.

Essence of Mortal Sin.

"Mortal sin, according to your catechism is a deliberate and wilful transgression against the law of God in matters of great importance. Firstly, mortal sin is a transgression, it is a violation and an act of disobedience to the law of God, either in thought, word or deed. Secondly, mortal sin is a deliberate transgression. It is the act of one who has full knowledge of the command or prohibition in question. Thirdly, mortal sin is a wilful transgression, receiving from the will full consent to its commission. Mortal sin is a transgression of God's law, whether that law was made by God or by God's representative, the Church. Since the soul belongs to God and is a holy image and likeness to God, mortal sin is a deliberate, wilful corruption of the human soul.

Contempt of God.

"In a word, mortal sin is nothing else than an act of supreme contempt of God. Mark well! It is supreme contempt, that is, a contempt greater than which none can be imagined, and a contempt and an insulting of God Himself. It is a question of God, the Infinite, God the All Powerful being insulted by His creature, a being finite, miserable and helpless. Who is this God to Whom the sinner offers contempt? Who is this God Whom he refuses to obey? It is He in Whom are united the most sacred titles of Father, King, Benefactor and Creator.

"God is our Father and more truly so than any earthly father because He has given us all we are and have. He is also our King and our Ruler, His Kingdom being so vast that man is but a speck in it. Yet He made man His courtier, promising him for obedience to His laws, untold peace and happiness in this life as well as in the next. He is our Benefactor, our greatest of benefactors, because there is not a thing man can point to that is not a gift from the hand of God.

God, the Creator.

"But God's greatest title of all is that of Creator. God is man's Creator. Out of the fathomless abyss of noth ingness He called him into being, and for what? Because God depended on him? Because God had need of him? No! God created man because God deigned to confer on him the nestimable privilege of loving and serving Him on earth and then the happy lot of sharing with Him His own divine happiness for all eternity in Heaven. Nature tells us the child must obey the parent, the subject must obey the king. Why then not obey the most loving of fathers, the greatest of Kings! Why, then, not obey the greatest of benefactors and the Creator of our very existence.

Audacity of the Sinner.

"God wants us to be happy even on this earth and to be eternally happy in Heaven. Therefore He has given us ten commandments, ten holy laws to regulate our conduct. But in spite of God's desires in our regard, in spite of God's plans for our own welfare, the sinner cries out with that awful blasphemy, 'Keep your laws, I don't want them! I will make my own laws! Keep your laws and keep your Heaven for those who want them!' Like the rebel angels in Heaven, he dares his God and definantly exclaims, 'I will not serve. You tell me to avoid cursing, blasphemy and drunkenness? I will not avoid them! You, O God, tell me to be pure and modest—to be kind, charitable and forgiving? Who are you, my God, to dictate to me and tell me what I must do. I am my own master and I will do just as I please!' Thus speaks the sinner to his God, to his Father, his King and his Creator.

The Justice of God.

"God first created the angels, bestowing upon them most lavishly all His heavenly gifts. But the angels, led by Lucifer, sinned and, as a punishment, forfeited forever all the gifts they had ever received. They were deprived of their exalted gifts, driven from heaven and the presence of God and hurled into an abyss of torment.

"Adam and Eve fresh from the hand of God and created to His own likeness, also insulted the Divine Majesty and forfeited the happiness of their original state of happiness. God is infinitely just and He can no more admit the sinner to Heaven than He can condemn the innocent to eternal suffering. The world today is throwing away the old-time standards of morality and even propriety. What is the modern world coming to? In a few more years will we have any culture and refinement left in our midst?

"Resolve tonight to make this mission well, my dear Christian women. Take this mission as an opportunity to draw yourselves closer and closer to Almighty God. Resolve tonight to dread sin as the greatest of all evils because sin is the one thing that tears us away from God, renders us unhappy in this life and takes us away from our live destiny, our home in Heaven with God for all eternity."

Bullet-Proof Car Stolen By Bandits

LONDON, Ont., May 8. — H. Warden, a former Londoner, and son of H. J. Warden, of 45 Cameron Street, this city, outfitted himself with a bullet-proof car for safety sake when he became a resident of Detroit. His father informed the local police yesterday that notwithstanding these precautions, his son had been held up in Detroit, and both the bullet-proof car and his roll of $290 were taken by the bandits.

AKEY APPEAL HEARD TO-DAY

Judge O'Connor Reserves Decision After Hearing Evidence.

CONTROL ACT BREACH.

His Honor Judge O'Connor reserved judgment this morning in the appeal of James Akey against the sentence imposed upon him by His Worship Magistrate Langley, in the Police Court, Peterborough, for having liquor in his possession without a permit. The defendant was then fined $250, and costs, or one month with hard labor in the common jail.

J. A. O'Brien represented the accused this morning, and Crown Attorney Hatton, K.C., prosecuted for Provincial Officer Joseph Stewart. Mr. O'Brien in his argument reviewed the evidence, and argued that the room in Akey's race horse stable was the exclusive residence of Milton Barnard, the owner of the eight bottles of beer that the Government officers had found. "Barnard at the trial had assumed for responsibility for the beer," declared Mr. O'Brien. "But in this case we are not trying Barnard. He may have been wrong in keeping the liquor there, and action could have been taken against him, but the officers have preferred Akey. I submit that the magistrate has lost the point entirely in his judgment, for surely it is up to Barnard if it was not a residence according to the Act," said Mr. O'Brien.

Mr. Hatton claimed that a room where a man had not the exclusive right, which was not locked, and where other men could pass through while going to put down hay for the horses, was not a residence under the Act. "A man can hardly call a place a residence where he has not eaten for a month and only lies down on a bed with his clothes on when he drops in at night when he has not some other place to go."

Mr. Hatton also argued that Barnard could not consume the amount of liquor that was shown on his permit and remain in his ordinary senses. He emphasized the fact that one officer who raided the stables found a glass in a room downstairs where four men were with a little liquor in it and that Barnard had never changed the address of residence on his permit from R. R. 3, Peterborough, to the Brock Street number.

MISS MARJORIE MAXSE.

Lady Who Holds Post in Conservative Party Has Had Rapid Rise.

LONDON, May 8 (By the Canadian Press).—"Behind the appointment of Miss Marjorie Maxse to the newly created post of Deputy-Principal Agent to the Conservative Party lies one of the most rapidly successful careers ever made by a woman in the internal affairs of a political party," says the Liberal organ, the Daily News and Westminster Gazette.

"Miss Maxse is a member of a well-known family, being related to Viscountess Milner and Leo Maxse, editor of the National Review. After the war, during which she was a nurse in France, she was employed at the Foreign Office, and it was only in January, 1923, that she became an active worker in the Conservative Party. At first a district agent for the southern area, she had become head of the women's organization within six months, and, when it was decided that a woman should organize the party's campaign among women, Miss Maxse was appointed to that position. She will now combine the duties of administrator of the women's organizations with those of her new post.

"She is tall and dark, but there is authority in all her actions as well as in her presence, and her ability is as evident on the platform as in her office. Her progress she owes largely to her capacity for hard work and for making others work."

Mr. Roberts' many friends fill be glad to learn that he and his band will provide the Chemong dance music this summer. The Peterborough boy has had a successful career across the border and has often been heard over the radio. He and his orchestra are expected in town at the end of this week.

Imperial all the way

The Peruvian Oil Fields in South America produce a petroleum that meets, in an unequalled degree, all the requirements of a fine motor oil.

These fields were developed by IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED and their entire output is controlled by this Company. In its own tankers, IMPERIAL transports the Peruvian crude to Canada, and in its own modern plants in Canada refines it for the use of Canadian motorists.

Out of the fine lubricating qualities which Peruvian crude alone possesses, IMPERIAL evolves Marvelube, a distinctly better motor oil.

Through every step in production and manufacture, Marvelube's inherently superior qualities are preserved by the unmatched facilities of Canada's largest refiners of petroleum products.

Toronto Stocks Active With Fractional Losses

Toronto, May 8. Canadian Press—A fairly busy session of the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning brought forward International Nickel, Brazilian, and Massey Harris as the active leaders. Nickel, in trading of 3,175 shares, gained a point from its close yesterday. Brazilian was fairly active and won 7-8 at 62 5-8. Massey-Harris remained unchanged around 45. Hiram Walker was the active leader in the unlisted section and dropped points at 65⅝. Imperial Oil was also briskly traded in and was down 1 1-4 at 69½.

Liverool Declines Followed In Chicago

CHICAGO, May 8. Canadian Press.—Influenced by Liverpool quotations lower than due and by favorable crop reports from Kansas, wheat prices here tended downward early to-day. Much of the time however, traders showed a disposition to await tomorrow's government report from Washington. Opening 1-8 to 1 1-8 cent. off wheat later kept near to the initial limit. Corn and oats were also easy, with corn starting 1-8 to ½c lower and subsequently undergoing little change.

Opening prices were: Wheat May 159 1-4; July 159½, corn, May 108 1-4, July 111 3-8; oats, May 64 1-4; July 68.

Barry Hollinger's Loss Features Mine Market

TORONTO, May 8 (Canadian Press).—A drop of six points in Barry Hollinger to 76 in heavy selling featured the trading on this morning's session of the Standard Mining Exchange. Opening at 81, a point down from yesterday's close, the stock afterwards recovered but later dropped again in sales aggregating 95,250. It was by far the most active stock of the morning. Declines were general in a fairly active session. Aconda lost one at 19, Area a half at 21⅛, and Bidgood 2½ at 97½. Other declines were mostly fractional.

Higher Call Money Rate Checks New York Advance

NEW YORK, May 8 (Canadian Press).—Resumption of a broad upward movement of prices in to-day's stock market was checked by the marking up of the call money rate from 5½ to 6 per cent. Early gains of one to nearly twelve points in the industrials were cut down and some of the recent favorites sold three to four points below yesterday's final quotations, but the rails pressed forward under the leadership of high grade dividend payers. Trading was again in large volume, with the ticker half an hour or more behind the market.

The banks called $25,000,000 in loans by early afternoon. Although a large volume of out-of-town funds was attracted by the higher renewal rate, the supply proved inadequate and the call rate was raised in the early afternoon Operators for the rise derived some encouragement from the report that the current demand for pig iron in this district was the largest in months and that gasoline consumption was rapidly increasing in volume. The failure of the directors of the New Haven Railroad to authorize a dividend at today's meeting was somewhat of a disappointment, although it was made plain when a special payment of $1 was declared three months ago, that such an action did not signify the continuation of such payments unless earnings and prospects warranted.

CARLING ACTION OPENS AT TORONTO

Government Sues For Back Taxes and Interest Totalling Nearly Half Million.

TORONTO, May 8.—(Canadian Press). — The Dominion Government's action against the Carling Export Brewing and Malting Company, Limited, for sales tax of $149,160.07 on export beer and for gallonage tax of $272,240.09, together with interest, opened before Mr. Justice Audette, of Ottawa, in the Exchequer Court today. The capital sued for is $421,400.16. Interest at five per cent. to June 1, 1927, and at 2-3 of 1 per cent. thereafter on both sums will bring the aggregate sum near the half-million mark.

N. W. Rowell represents the Crown, while W. N. Tilley, K.C., is retained for the defence, with J. Clark, of Windsor. Major Nash, special Government auditor during the Customs probe, was an early witness, and the accuracy of his statements came under fire from Mr. Tilley, who strongly objected to what he termed opinionative evidence.

RAILWAY BILL BLOCKED.

House Committee Rejects One Clause of London and Port Burwell Bill.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 8 (Canadian Press). — A Bill to incorporate the London and Port Burwell Railway was blocked but not defeated by the Railway Committee of the House of Commons to-day. After passing the preamble of the Bill at a meeting last week, the committee to-day defeated one of the clauses respecting capitalization. It was pointed out that at both meetings the attendance at the committee had not been representative, and rather than kill the Bill because one clause was rejected, it was agreed to sit again.

BREATHING OUT TOXINS

The lungs have two useful purposes. One is to supply oxygen to the blood, and the other to throw out poisonous wastes. The ordinary air inhaled into the lungs is 'pure,' and that going out is 'impure.'

There is an unseen burning up of tissues going on in the body at all times as long as there is life, and this oxidation of tissues can only continue from the absorption by the blood of oxygen which is extracted from the pure air we breathe into our lungs.

It is important to learn to breathe deeply enough to keep up an adequate supply of oxygen which the body can use, but, at the same time, equally important that the poisonous gases of the body be thrown out through these same organs. The double action of inhaling and exhaling must go on day and night without interruption. Oxygen is necessary that the foods may be burned within the cells. Poisonous gases must be exhaled with every breath, or death would ensue within a few minutes.

When you consider that the lungs are important organs of elimination, you will realize how valuable it is for one who is ill to understand how to increase the throwing out of poisons through these organs.

The blood and lymphatic circulation go to all parts of the body and must pass through the lungs. No matter where disease exists at any particular place, the wastes from tissue changes and toxins are finally carried to the lungs and at least a portion eliminated.

Any exercises which will increase deep inhalation and exhalation of the lungs will assist in emptying the blood of toxic substances which are hurrying about through the circulatory system looking for a place of exit.

Walking at a leisurely gait of two miles an hour will force the lungs to eliminate twice as much poisonous air as when one is resting. If one will increase the speed of his walk to four miles an hour, the elimination of poisonous gases will be four or five times greater than when one is comfortably seated, or working at some sedentary occupation. If deep breathing is taken with calisthenic exercises two or three times daily, the amount of elimination of toxins is materially increased.

An offensive breath is usually an evidence that the body is literally loaded with impurities, and increased deep breathing is always indicated for the one who is suffering from halitosis.

Many will argue that it is not natural to do any more breathing than that which is involuntary. But whether forced deep breathing can be called "natural" or not, the fact remains that it is a "trick" we have learned which can be used to increase health, to improve efficiency, and which is a valuable aid in the actual cure of every disease.

Take my advice and try a little "unnatural" deep breathing and see what wonderful improvement will be made in your general health. Those who are ill and too lazy to take deep breathing probably deserve to be sick!

Questions and Answers.

Question—Mrs. J. L. writes: "I am anemic, and my doctor advises blood transfusions. What do you think about this kind of treatment?"

Answer: Blood transfusions are most helpful after a loss of blood through hemorrhage. If you have pernicious anemia you are in a serious condition and must not depend upon the advice which I can give you in such a short answer in this column. Transfusions of blood can at best be only temporary help. You must at once start getting rid of the vicious toxemia which is destroying your red blood cells. It may seem ridiculous to you when I tell you that you can best do this through fasting for ten days or two weeks. You need so much information about this that I urge you to go to some doctor who understands how to apply the fasting cure, or write me again, giving your name and address so I can answer you personally.

Question—Dorothy D. writes: "You seldom include sweet potatoes in your menus, and as my children like them so well I would like to know if they are good for them."

Answer: I place sweet potatoes in the "not so good" class, although when properly prepared by roasting or boiling instead of adding quantities of sugar and fat as in the preparation of candied yams, for instance, they may be used as the starch part of a meal in combination with the non-starchy vegetables, such as spinach, string beans, asparagus, etc.

Question—S. Y. asks: "Is there any charge for your booklet, 'Weaning the Baby'? I would like to have one."

Answer: I have written several articles on the subject of weaning the baby, and how to feed him afterwards, and they will be sent to you upon receipt of your name and address.

JAPAN SENDING ARMY DIVISION

Will Despatch More Than 15,000 Men to Tsingtao, Shantung.

EMPEROR TO AGREE.

TOKIO, May 8.—(Canadian Press.)—The Japanese Cabinet has decided to despatch a division of troops to Tsingtao, Shantung, and the Emperor's sanction is expected to-morrow. On war strength the division known as the Nagoya division numbers from fifteen to eighteen thousand men.

Fourth Peterborough Troop.

Say, who had the big peanut sale? You don't know? Well somebody must have had, judging by the number of peanuts around the troop room last meeting. The P. C.'s had charge of the meeting this week. They opened in the usual snappy style A neanut race was held and it was a picnic to watch the troop. A lengthy instruction period was held, followed by a soda race.

The three leaders stood at one end with a handful of soda biscuits The three patrols were lined up at the other end of the troop rooms. At the signal number one of each patrol ran down, touched the wall, ran back and then down again. Each then had to eat two soda biscuits and whistle. Did you ever see a monkey shoving a piece of cake into his mouth? Well, you should have been at the meeting to see some of the fellows eating those sodas and then trying to whistle. It was a sight. The Crows won the race and were given the special prize, a wine glass full of water. My, but they smacked their lips and asked for more.

The council fire was then quickly arranged. After the opening song, O Canada, a snappy song was sung. The Kangaroo patrol had to put on a play which they did in the form of a sleight of hand. Some very amusing tricks were performed. The meeting closed with the singing of God Save the King, the lowering of the flag and Scout silence.

The camp treasurer has not had a very large amount deposited for the camp fund so bring your spare nickles along next week. The paper collection is progressing fairly well.

BRITISH SETTLERS ARRIVE AT QUEBEC

Montcalm Brings Out 86 Trained Boys and Ten Families, Besides Other Migrants.

QUEBEC, May 8.—(Special).—Twenty-eight hundred passengers on two ships set a mark that will be hard to better for this port when Canadian Pacific liners, Empress of Scotland and Montcalm docked here on Sunday on their first trips of the season, with fifteen hundred on the first and thirteen hundred of the second vessel. In addition to hanging up a record in this respect, the Empress also had the honor of inaugurating the air mail service for the 1928 season, 66 bags of air mail being taken aboard the airplanes at Rimouski in the morning, destined for Montreal, Ottawa, and Toronto. Letters by this delivery were delivered yesterday morning, a saving of twenty-four hours.

The British Ministry of Labor's second big catch of trainees, 86 strong, arrived on the Montcalm. These youths have all had farm experience and are scheduled for Ontario and the West. Sixty-one children all under 16 and 53 boys under 17, together with ten families of 53 persons under the 3,000 family scheme, were also included in the sailing.

Boiler Explosion Wrecks Apartment

OTTAWA, May 8.— (Canadian Press.) — Two persons were injured, their apartment was badly damaged, and a city block was thrown into excitement when a hot water boiler in the apartment of Abe Stattner exploded last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Stattner, who had just moved into the apartment yesterday, were badly bruised and suffered many minor cuts and severe shock. The explosion was so violent that many residents of the neighborhood thought some building had been blown up with dynamite.

5,000 MARCHERS DEMAND CHANGE

Peasants From Transylvania On Way To Bucharest With Protest.

UNDER ARMED ESCORT.

BUCHAREST, May 8.— (Canadian Press.)—The whole of Transylvania to-day resembled an armed camp as five thousand peasants marched on the capital to demand from the Regency a change of government. There was no doubt that the Regency and Cabinet were disturbed by the manifestation, although the statements of the Government and other sources differed greatly as to the importance and volume of the peasants' march.

Army airplanes ready to suppress the revolt with bombs hovered overhead as the peasants marched. Government cavalary brought up the front and rear of the marching horde. Perfect order prevailed when the peasants reached Sibiu and the cavalry escort was under instructions not to impede the march unless the peasants tried to incite the countryside.

FEARED FOREIGNERS ENDANGERED AGAIN

Japanese and Nationalist Forces Resume Fighting in Tsinan.

PEKING, May 8.— (Canadian Press.)— Concern for foreigners in Tsinan, where Chinese Nationalists and Japanese troops clashed with heavy casualties, was renewed to-day with the receipt of advices saying that fighting had been resumed. The Japanese chief of staff at Tsinan also sent a despatch saying one American missionary had been killed. The United States' Legation could not verify this to-day and the belief was expressed that the despatch was a repetition of an earlier rumor found to be erroneous.

Carol Must Leave.

LONDON, May 8 (Canadian Press). —The Home Office, in formally announcing to-day that former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania had been asked to leave the country, said the matter had been placed in the hands of suitable authorities to see the order was carried out.

Rain has been falling steadily since yesterday, and the engineers planned to start by truck and complete the journey on horseback if necessary.

1927—By NEA Service Inc.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

From the veranda of the Hotel Majusaca, at Ocean Town, N. J., Titus Riggs, a guest, sees a man taken from the ocean and laid on the beach while a crowd gathers to stare.

The reader has been introduced to these bathers:

Ned Barron, the copper king, and his wife, Madeline; Angelica Fair and her fiance, Robin Sears; Robin's father, Croydon Sears; Carmelita Valdon and her companions, Roger Neville, Garrett Folsom and Mrs. Barnaby, whom everyone calls The Duchess.

From the shocked expression on the faces of the throng, Riggs surmises that the man is dead and, putting down his field glasses, he hastens down to the beach.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

As Titus Riggs drew near the crowd on the beach, he found himself restrained by a stalwart policeman, who forbade him to advance another step.

"Who is it?" he asked, and so pleasant was Riggs' manner, that the strong arm of the law unbent enough to answer.

"Garrett Folsom, they say," he replied, and Tite Riggs ejaculated, "Good Lord!" though whether the words were an expression of pious gratitude or merely an exclamation of astonishment was not obvious.

"Is he dead?" Riggs pursued.

"As a doornail!"

"Cramp? Stroke?"

"How do I know?" returned the other. "Anyway, they gotta get him off the beach!"

"I should think so. Is that a doctor bending over him?"

"Guess so. He seems to be giving orders. Though it ain't up to him to say what to do."

"Who is it up to?"

"I don't rightly know. But I s'pose the life guards will take him to his hotel and they'll see to him there."

The life guards bore the body through the crowds, two or three uniformed officers making a way, and though followed by a horde of curiosity seekers, most of the beach population went back to the surf or the sands.

Roger Neville and the two women who had been the bathing companions of the dead man conferred quickly as they stood on the beach.

"You'd better go straight to your bathhouses and dress," he told the others, "and I'll do the same. Then hurry to the hotel; we'll all be asked for."

"Why?" inquired the Duchess, her eyes wide with amazement. "We had nothing to do with his stroke, or whatever it was. I'm not going to get into the papers as a friend of Garrett Folsom's."

"Why not?" asked Mrs. Valdon. "There are lots of worse people than that man."

"Oh, not that, but I object to publicity, and I won't be interviewed—"

"Don't worry," Neville said. "Folsom's an important man in some ways, but his death won't make a dent down here. What does Ocean Town care for a sudden death more or less?"

"I suppose that's so," the Duchess said, with a relieved air. "Well, I'll get dressed anyhow. Come along, Carmy. It's spoiled our swim for today."

"Don't be so heartless," said the other. "I'm all upset. I think a sudden death is fearful. And we will be in the limelight, I don't care what Roger says. I think I'll go straight back home. Do you suppose his sister will come here?"

"Didn't know he had a sister—"

"Well, he has. A Tartar. One of those strong-minded persons."

They disappeared into their respective bathhouses and dressed as rapidly as they could in the cramped and uncomfortable quarters.

Although the ba hhouses belonging to the Hotel Majusaca were roomy compared with some, hey were not luxurious dressing-rooms, and when the two women at last emerged they both expressed a desire to reach their own bedrooms unnoticed.

This they accomplished and set to work to repair the ravages of an ocean bath.

But though they had reached a quiet haven, there was anything but quiet down in the hotel lobby, several floors beneath them.

The suave and impassive gentlemen who had the well-being of the hotel in their charge were upset one after another with terrific suddenness and swiftness.

The pompous doorman was the first to be affected, and he was minded at first to refuse admittance to the sinister looking procession that carried a covered, still form on a stretcher.

But his half-hearted objections were promptly overruled, and the ghastly burden was carried to the office of the hotel and the manager was called for.

The manager not being present for the moment, the room clerk stepped forward, closely followed by the vigilant hotel detectives.

These two were promptly bowled over, as the doorman had been, by the information that the body they bore was one of the hotel's guests and must receive immediate attention.

"Who is it?" asked the flabbergasted room clerk, losing for once his imperial air.

"Garrett Folsom," he was told, and thereupon lost his last remnant of self-possession.

"You'll have to take him away," he almost screamed. "We can't have anything like that here! The guests won't stand for it! The hotel can't have it! Take him to the morgue or the undertaker's—or—somewhere!"

"Wait a minute," said the hotel detective, who was named Dixon. "What has happened?"

One of the life guards answered him.

"Mr. Folsom had a stroke or a fit of some sort, and died in the ocean or just after his being brought to the beach—I don't know which. Where's Mr. Pelham, the manager?"

"Mr. Pelham is at his lunch; he'll be here in a minute. I've sent a boy for him," Dixon returned, keeping his head, as the room clerk grew more and more excited.

And then Pelham ame, and though greatly perturbed, lost none of his customary calm as he heard the scant details of the tragedy.

"I see," he said, using his favorite expression of acceptance of a situation. "Now, will you men please take the body to Room J, next my office over there?"

He indicated a room across the lobby. He beckoned to the hotel detective and called a clerk to his aid, then followed the men who bore the gruesome burden.

As they turned back the covering blanket, Pelham saw the well-formed figure in its bathing suit of gray jersey, with three black stripes across the chest and a belt striped black and white.

The face was calm and lifelike, the hair, though touseled by the waves, was orderly enough, and the man looked as if merely unconscious rather than dead.

But Pelham's questing hand told him the heart had ceased to beat, and the briefest examination was enough to show that life had gone.

"Stroke, of course," the manager said, looking at Dixon. "But we must have a doctor—"

"One looked at him down on the beach," the guard volunteered. "Doctor Manning, he was; he's in the hotel here, and he said as how Mr. Folsom was dead."

"Dead? Of course he's dead. But we must have a certificate and all that. Has Doctor Manning come up from the beach yet?"

Inquiry proved he had not, and saying, "That can wait, then," Pelham turned his mind to more immediate errands.

"Who's in this man's party?" he asked Dixon.

"Nobody. He's alone—or, I believe he has a valet—but no one else in his suite."

"Has he a suite? A good one?"

"One of the best. Two rooms and bath. His valet sleeps on the same floor, but not in a connecting room."

"I see. Send for the valet. Why isn't he already here?"

"We've only just come in, Mr. Pelham," said the life guard. "Will you take the matter in charge now? Can we go? We belong on the beach, you see."

"Yes, yes, go on. I'll attend to this. Leave your names with Mr. Dixon, in case he wants to see you again."

He rang a bell for the room clerk.

"Tuttle," the manager said to him, "was no one with Mr. Folsom here?"

"Only his valet, a man named Ross."

"Send for him. Who were Mr. Folsom's friends or associates?"

"Mr. Neville, and two ladies were with him last evening. He only came yesterday afternoon."

"I thought he was new. Neville's been here longer?"

"Oh, yes, a week or more. The ladies, a few days—nearly a week."

"I see. Get the man, Ross, but don't disturb Mr. Folsom's friends just yet. Were they in the water with him?"

"Yes," said Dixon, "the guard told me so. They'll probably show up soon."

"They'll have to. We must learn from them as to Mr. Folsom's home and people."

A clerk appeared then, bringing a quiet-mannered, middle-aged man with him.

"This is Ross, the valet," he said, and giving the man an introductory push into the room, he went out and closed the door behind him.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

FOR FREE SPEECH

To the Editor, The Examiner,
Peterborough, Ontario.

Dear Sir:

One of the most highly esteemed ministers of this city (Toronto) has taken the trouble to write me expressing the disappointment of himself and of others of his ministerial bretfren at seeing my name associated with the announcement of a meeting at the Pantage Theatre to protest against the non-renewal of the radio licenses of the International Bible Students Association. These and others may be interested in knowing why a conservative and regular Baptist should feel in duty bound to appear in such company. I enclose my reply.

Dear Sir:

It is always somewhat of a pleasure to have someone find fault with one's actions because it shows at least that someone cares.

You know of course that I have grown up with regular Baptist associations and my studies so far have not led me to disagree on any material point with the Baptist position. This means that I do disagree on certain points with the teachings of other denominations including the United Church and the I.B.S.A.

One of the basic Baptist doctrines is the right of individual freedom of thought. That involves the defence of the other man's right to speak even when that other man is wrong or when I think he is. If Judge Rutherford sincerely believed the British Empire to be an agent of Satan I am prepared to defend his right to express that belief. Personally my studies have led me to suspect that the truth is very much closer to the position held by W. G. MacKendrick that the British Empire is the fulfilment of prophesy.

It is a very interesting and curious thing that the premillenarian view advocated not alone by the I.B.S.A. but by sections in practically all of the other denominations has such a tendency to be a disturbing element arousing a peculiar bitterness and vindictiveness in many of its zealous advocates. That is true in our own denomination and undoubtedly the chief factor in hastening my father's death. But the fact that Dr. Shields for example has caused a good deal of trouble would not lead me to favor the setting up of a government official or a government bureau with the power to prohibit him from speaking and writing.

If a church could be closed down in a community because a considerable proportion of the people in that community disapproved of the teaching or the method of that church there are very few churches that would in the end find themselves able to stand. To close down a radio station on these grounds by bureau action without any fair British trial is setting an extremely dangerous precedent, and a precedent which I must oppose.

I will speak not in defence of the I.B.S.A. as a religious body but in defence of the British principle of freedom of speech and the right to fair open trial.

If some of your ministerial friends would like to approach me directly I will endeavor to have copies of what I have to say Sunday prepared for them. When men question my conduct, sincere earnest men, I would rather have them come and talk to me as you have done than go and talk about me before they understand either my motives or my actions.

Yours for character and health.
ARTHUR BLACK FARMER.

MANY DEPUTATIONS BEFORE COUNCIL

meeting will be held to discuss the matter, and to which any of the ratepayers who wish are invited to attend. Mr. Irwin expressed the appreciation of those concerned for the generous manner in which the matter had been received by the Council.

Signal For Police.

Chief Light was the next to appeal to the Council. He asked that there be an electric signal installed on the corner of Front and Bridge Streets as a telephone call which might be seen by the police officers while patrolling their beats. This would be in the form of a red light attached to the building some distance above the ground, and would be operated by the telephone central. The initial cost would be very little, he thought. There had been several instances lately when an urgent call had failed to find a policeman since he was out on the streets and had no means of knowing that the phone was ringing. The matter was left in the hands of the police committee with power to act.

A representative of Frank King, of Lindsay, interviewed the Council with regard to oiling the streets this year, and was allowed to leave a copy of his price of materials with the clerk. No further action was taken by the Council last night.

Regarding the estate of the late J. N. Kent, J. A. Irwin, executor of the estate, requested the Council to purchase the lot adjoining the gravel pit, on which he claimed the town had encroached. This made it impossible to dispose of the lot to any other person, he pointed out. This was left with the road and bridge committee to investigate and report at the next meeting.

Harry Cassan approached the Council for the second time regarding his sewer frontage taxes, which were not yet paid. He did not think he should be required to pay them but claimed that the tax collector had been after him and he had come to the Council to request a rebate or reduction. He pointed out that the sewer was of no use to him and that he was connected to a different sewer. There was also an error in the amount of frontage charged, he claimed. "I am here to refuse to pay my taxes as they stand," he stated after he had outlined his case. He further stated that he wished to be a good citizen and do what was fair, but he was inclined to think he should be allowed some reduction on the gross amount. After some discussion of the matter, Mr. Cassan was granted a reduction of $4.78 for this year and for the two years, 1926-27, for which his sewer tax had not been paid. His other taxes, Mr. Cassan advised the Council, were all paid.

Wants Stop Streets.

A. V. Light again addressed the Council to point out that the motor traffic was increasing, and that the cars were not allowing pedestrians the proper precedence at the intersections and crossings. He asked that stop streets be laid out. This matter was re-discussed and finally left with the Road and Bridge Committee for their report at the special meeting on Friday.

Mr. McIntyre, paving engineer, asked for instructions regarding the sewer on Rear and Bridge Streets. There were two methods which might be followed, he said. One was to tear up the sewer along Bridge Street and relay it. The other was to connect the Rear Street sewer south of Bridge Street with the Bridge Street sewer. This would require about 100 feet of excavation. He pointed out that the levels would be correct for the latter procedure and was instructed to proceed with the work.

Fence For Memorial.

Councillor Wilkinson pointed out that a fence around the war memorial was needed. He proposed to have one erected ten feet outside the retaining wall and the cost as estimated would be $71.40. This was for material known as lawn fence and included two gates and steel posts of suitable design. He declared that dogs, cattle, horses and men were prone to wander among the flowers and the result was considerable damage.

Reeve Bygott supported Councillor Wilkinson by pointing out that since the I.O.D.E. had ceased to exist in Campbellford, the local branch of the Canadian Legion had assumed the responsibility for the care of the memorial. He thought the point well taken and moved that the fence be supplied by the Council. He understood that Councillor Wilkinson had agreed to erect the fence gratis. To this Mr. Wilkinson agreed.

The point called forth considerable discussion and Councillor Wilkinson stated that if the Council did not furnish the fence he would do so himself. The motion was passed and Councillors Wilkinson, Sullivan and Stone were appointed a committee to purchase the material Delegation to Toronto.

Before allowing the meeting to proceed any further, the Mayor thought it advisable to settle the matter of a deputation to wait on the Honorable George S. Henry, Toronto at 130 this afternoon (standard time). He pointed out that Major J. F. Belford had arranged the meeting and that it was for the purpose of requesting the department to take over the Brighton-Havelock road as a Provincial Highway. A motion was passed appointing the Mayor as a delegate and giving him power to appoint such others as he wished. He appointed any councillor who wished to go and expressed a wish that as many citizens as could would attend the meeting. When the meeting closed, it was understood that the council would be represented by the Mayor, Deputy-Reeve Davidson, Councillors Wiggins, Cole, Wilkinson and Stone.

At ten-fifteen, all the deputations had been heard and the correspondence was brought before the council. The first letter was from the Trent Waterways Association, signed by Frank G. Stinson. It stated that the Hon. Charles Dunning had signified his intention to visit certain sections of the Trent Canal during the month of July and would interview certain people en route. Mr. Stinson requested that delegates from Campbellford attend a meeting to be held in Peterborough for the purpose of drafting a program of receptions for the minister's tour.

J. A. McGregor reported in writing recommending the construction of a sewer as requested by petition from Lot 20, Block R to Lot 2, Block Q. The report was received and the solicitor instructed to prepare the necessary by-law. In another letter, the attention of the council was brought to the ditch at the west end of Garry street, with a request that it be tiled and filled in since it was very inconvenient for residents of the section and also for motorists who wished to park their cars there. The matter was referred to the Road and Bridge committee.

David F. Robertson advised the council by letter that he had once given the town permission to install a sewer connection across the property but that the town had not availed themselves of the permission. He was not agreeable to having the digging done now without some consideration since there was the chance of possible damage to trees and other property. He had warned them at the time that he might not allow this work to be done in the future. After some discussion, Councillor O'Sullivan was appointed a deputation of one to make an appointment with Mr. Robertson in Montreal and attempt to arrive at a satisfactory settlement.

A list of old and new water services was read by the Mayor. These are all in the area to be paved and require certain alterations. The old ones are being altered now by the town. The new ones will be altered immediately at the expense of the frontage of the property owners under the Local Improvement Act.

A letter to the Mayor from W. L. Scott, advised the council that the lighting system required certain improvements. There were two regulators which were loaded to capacity and a third one was required. The letter pointed out that it would require approximately two months to get delivery on these instruments and requested the council to deal with the matter at once. The initial expense would be borne by the Water and Light Commission.

"Can anybody tell me why the lights in front of the stores were cut off?" Reeve Bygott asked.

"Because there are better lights on the streets," replied the Mayor.

"It seems to me that with all the water going over the dam they might have been left on" said the Reeve.

"They can be if the merchants want to pay for them," replied the Mayor.

Reeve Bygott presented a by-law, authorizing the Mayor and treasurer to borrow from the Bank of Montreal not more than $50,000 as required to meet the current expenses of the paving. The interest rate was set at six per cent. per annum. The by-law was passed.

Building By-laws Pass.

Following a resolution passed some time ago by the Council, Councillor Stone presented a by-law amending the clause in By-law 465 referring to sheet metal used in building operations. The by-law was passed.

Immediately after the by-law a motion was passed instructing the clerk to advise the fire underwriters that this by-law had been passed.

The third by-law was presented by Councillor Wiggins. It was with reference to building restrictions. It stated in part that no person should erect any building without having the plans accepted and signed by the building inspector. The builder must also obtain a permit for building, the fee for the permit to be one dollar. No barns, stables, or outhouses are to be erected within seventy-five feet of a dwelling unless by the special permission of the building inspector. The penalty for infringement upon this by-law is not to exceed $50.00. Failure to pay the fine may be punished by a jail term, to be imposed by a police magistrate, and which may include hard labor.

It was pointed out when the by-law had been passed that some people in town might not know who was the building inspector; and it was desired that it be generally known that James Y. Mitchell occupies the position.

On the motion of Bygott and Wiggins, the Mayor and treasurer were authorized to sign cheques in favor of the Standard Paving Company on receipt of progress reports. After passing the pay sheets and accounts, the matter of the salary for the police was left over till the Friday night meeting. The Council adjourned at twelve minutes before midnight.

GRAND OPENING OF GALA WEEK

LEGION AUSPICES.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 8.—Saturday night was only a try-out for all the various machines and amusements down the midway of Joyland shows which are being operated under the auspices of the local branch of the Canadian Legion on the market square this week. Joyland shows have made this town their established headquarters and will carry advertising from Campbellford all during their tour throughout the entire province. Before starting on their summer wanderings, the management agreed to run the entire list of attractions for one week on a percentage basis with the Veterans. Last night was the first night of the week.

Before the shows were officially opened by His Worship the Mayor, the regimental band played two selections to the accompaniment of the merry-go-round pipe organ. In the absence of the regular drummer, Reeve Bygott who is also president of the Legion here officially "played" that instrument. Later he was called upon to accept a horseshoe wreath presented to the Legion by the management of Joyland shows.

On the platform before "Fun on the Farm" which was utilized for the opening ceremonies were the Mayor, Major Bygott, president of the Legion, Joseph Hollander, representing the management of the midway, and others. Major Bygott detailed the conditions under which the midway was being operated for the week and was pleased that the management had made such a liberal offer to the veterans. The offer was very much appreciated.

Mayor Kingston expressed his pleasure at being called upon to declare the show officially open and thought the entire affair a happy idea to thus turn the proceeds to such a worthy cause. The Legion, he declared, had done much good since its organization. He hoped that the week would be a financial success for two reasons. First, he said, he wished the midway to get a good start from its "home town." Campbellford would derive considerable advertising from it during the season. In the second place it would assist the Legion in caring for the men who through war service had been unable to reap the success which might otherwise have been theirs. He hoped and trusted that the citizens would give the venture a good financial backing and expressed the wish that the show would enjoy a very prosperous season.

Joseph Hollander, of the management of Joyland shows wished to make a brief announcement. He stated that the midway was the cleanest in the province and perhaps in the Dominion. This week's performance was in a genuine effort on their part to assist the Legion who had been the men who had done so much for the country a few years ago. On behalf of the management he asked the Legion to accept a beautiful horseshoe wreath as a token of friendship and of reverence to the memory of the men who names appeared on the memorial.

Major Bygott replied briefly saying that the wreath would most certainly be placed on the memorial and that if possible a case for its protection and preservation would be secured. On behalf of the Legion, he wished to express his appreciation.

In order to allow the entire "works" to be set in motion the band was called upon to play one more selection before the fun "went on apace."

OBITUARY

MARY ANN CRAIGHEAD.

BURNBRAE, May 8. — There passed away on Friday last another of the older residents of Burnbrae, in the person of Mary Ann Craighead.

The deceased, who was in her seventy-sixth year, had been in poor health for several years, and so was unable to keep up an active association with community life.

The funeral was held on Sunday, at 2.30 p.m., from the home of W. C. Wallace, nephew of the deceased, to Burnbrae Cemetery, with a short service in the church, conducted by Rev. D. A. McKenzie, pastor of St. Andrew's, assisted by Rev. James Grier, of Campbellford.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. John Little, William W. Little, John Oddie, Neil Morrison, A. T. Donald, and J. H. Watson. Many beautiful floral tributes showed the esteem in which the late Miss Craighead was held by her friends of Seymour.

MRS. WILLIAM CROWE.

WARSAW, May 8.—Rarely has such a large number of people been in Warsaw, as there was on Sunday afternoon, at the funeral of Mrs. William Crowe. With an exceptionally large family connection on both sides, and a large family of their own. During her life long residence in Warsaw, Mrs. Crowe had won the love and respect of all who knew her. Mr. Crowe has been quite feeble for some time and Mrs. Crowe was able to care for him and wait upon him practically until she became paralyzed about ten days before her death.

Besides her husband, nine daughters, and five sons, there are fifty-six grandchildren and thirty-six great grandchildren.

Mrs. Crowe was always ready to help any one who was ill or in distress, when she was able. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Charles Bowen, where she and her husband had been for a few months. The service was conducted by the Rev. H. B. Herrington, of the United Church, and the interment was made in Warsaw Cemetery. The pall-bearers were five sons, Messrs. William, Richard, Joseph, George and Gordon, and a son-in-law, Mr. Charles Bowen.

Two daughters, Miss Eva Crowe, who is ill in St. Joseph's Hospital and Mrs. Chambers, who had to return to Toronto on Wednesday, were unable to be present. Her sister, Mrs. Mallory, of Peterborough, was present and four of her five brothers. Mr. Crowe is eighty-seven years old.

MARY MARGARET HOLT.

The funeral took place from her parents' residence, 38 Walpole avenue, Toronto, on Friday afternoon to St. John's cemetery, of Mary Margaret Holt, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Holt, aged fourteen years and six months. Margaret was born in Peterborough, Ontario, but has resided in Toronto for the past nine years. She possessed a sweet and sunny disposition which made her a favorite with all who knew her. She was a pupil of Rhoden school also Donlands United Sunday school. Through her long illness of eighteen weeks, ten of which were spent in the Western Hospital, her cheerfulness and patience endeared her to all and the beautiful floral tributes which banked the casket and filled the room were a fitting emblem of the bright young life so early brought to a close.

The service was conducted by Rev. R. J. Irwin of Donlands church. The pall bearers were Dr. Hooking and Dr. Marshall, Toronto; Messrs. P. Bignall, Toronto; W. Robson, Peterborough; F. Duncan and M. Thompson, Hamilton.

Deep sympathy is felt for the parents and two younger brothers in the loss of their little girl.

ARRESTED HERE.

John T. Millett, Wanted For Bigamy, Taken Back To Toronto.

Arrested here, John T. Millett was taken to Toronto on Sunday by Detective Mulholland on a warrant charging bigamy. On July 10, 1920 Millett is alleged to have through a form of marriage with Lillian B. Holdstock. Police stated that Millett's wife was at present living in Toronto.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Above is shown a large silk handkerchief for sports wear—the other three are new evening handkerchiefs of chiffon and lace—showing new ways to carry them.

Here are handkerchiefs that really are handkerchiefs, carried in the hand or tied about the wrist, one finger or the palm of the hand, and not tucked away inside a purse or vanity bag. Doubtless, if this fashion for carrying handkerchiefs continues we shall learn all sorts of tricks—and modern novelists will say as Balzac did eighty years ago that the character of a woman can be best ascertained by the way she holds her handkerchief.

Just why it has become the fashion to display the handkerchief so prominently—and not in the pocket but in the hand—it is hard to say.

Seventy years ago Empress Eugenie of France was responsible for a tremendous increase in interest in fancy handkerchiefs when she wept so effectively at the performance of a new play in Paris. The Empress paid no less than five hundred francs for her cheapest handkerchiefs. After that fashionable ladies were seen to weep at the slightest opportunity at the theater, and the demand for costly handkerchiefs increased.

But empresses who set the fashion are no more and women of fashion never weep—at least in public. They will comb their hair and rouge their cheeks, powder their noses and pencil their lips—but weep in public?—well hardly!

These new large handkerchiefs that women wear or carry are very nearly useless. One usually carries another smaller handkerchief for actual use. Often they are made with lace on two sides only or at least with one corner unadorned, for tying.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE BOY'S WORLD

The boy's world's a big world, the world of out-of-doors,
A blue world, a new world, a world with merry shores.
There's song there that's sung there by many a bird and tree;
The boy's world's a fine world, so come along and see!

The boy's world's a bright world, a world of sky and sun,
A gay world, a play world, a world that's full of fun.
There's health there, and hope there, and things you like to do;
The boy's world's a free world, and how it waits for you!

The boy's world's a man's world, a world for man or boy,
A green world, a clean world, a world of peace and joy.
The boy's world's a big world, there's room enough for men;
Let his world be your world, and be a boy again!

Why We Do What We Do.

Most of us work because we are driven to it by the sheer necessity of earning our daily bread.

The particular job is usually a matter of accident. We drift into a job and somehow hang on. Sometimes we don't even hang on. If the job is altogether distasteful to us we keep shifting from one thing to another till we happen to strike something that is more to our liking or, realizing the hazards of being out of work, we learn to like the job sufficiently to keep from getting fired.

Now and then a fortunate individual appears who knows exactly what he wants to do, has the gift for it, and is lucky enough to land the job. This is more likely to happen in the case of those who spend a lot of time preparing themselves for a definite task.

With the great majority finding the right job is a haphazard affair and is almost wholly determined by chance.

In our day dreams we often picture ourselves financially independent with plenty of leisure to play around as the idle rich in the movies. If work enters the picture at all it comes as a relief to too much frivolity and is of an interesting sort, most decidedly moderate, and eminently successful.

Once in a great while even this sort of a dream comes true. A man inherits a fortune and immediately throws up his job. Of course there are instances of a man keeping right on with his job after he has earned or inherited a lot of money and is not under the necessity of working for a living. In such a case the job is thoroughly enjoyed or else it has become so well established in the life of the person that he would feel lost without it.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 9, 1928

Early in the morning the planetary government is favorable, according to astrology, which finds the later hours less favorable.

Women are subject to good influences from the stars and they should be stimulated to philanthropic or altruistic effort.

Success in the law is indicated for girls who are to be graduated from colleges next month.

The younger generation is now subject to a direction of the stars that is read as exceedingly fortunate, making for serious endeavor and growing civic consciousness.

Astrologers have explained frequently that this is a new era in which many adjustments must take place, but the old ideas must be modified in any event.

Morning weddings are subject to fortunate influences, but a clash of wills should be avoided at any cost.

There is a sign supposed to encourage intrigue and double-dealing, especially in politics.

According to the seers many party lines will be broken down and women will desert old-time political affiliations.

This is read as an unlucky day for aviation and special care should be taken in flying.

This is not a favorable day to confront one's financial situation for it may be discouraging.

Bankers may be difficult to deal with while this rule prevails and it is well to defer important conferences.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have rather an unsettled year, but they may expect aid from friends.

Children born on this day may be rather restless and fond of excitement. The subjects of this sign are lucky.

Mehlhorn and Holland Get 72 in British Open

MEHLHORN TIES WITH HOLLAND

Fine scores Among Early Finishers in British Open.

DUNCAN NEXT

SANDWICH, England, May 8. — "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn led 200 golfers home yesterday in the first qualifying round of the British open championship, although he did not want to do it. The sensational American, who usually manages to throw a fright into his opponents during a round or more of any championship in which he participates, has often started off in front only to finish behind, and he frankly hoped that his 72 compiled early in the day would not stand up.

A stroke behind Mehlhorn's 72 were George Duncan, the veteran Scot, the long driving Jack Smith, Len Holland, an experienced competitor, and William Davies of Prenton.

T. A. Torrance, Scottish amateur, led the amateur ranks with James Bradbeer, H. C. Jolliye and Arnaud Massey, the French star, scoring a neat 74.

Long Jim Barnes, the United States pro, had a 74 and Walter Hagen 76.

Percy Allis, E. R. Whitcombe and Jose Jurado, the Argentine were in with 75's; Archie Compston and Abe Mitchell 77, and Aubrey Boomer 78.

Veterans had Troubles.

Some of the veteran British professionals had their troubles Harry Varon used 84 strokes in his round, and J. H. Taylor took 82; Tod Ray was better with 80, and Alex. Herd needed only 79.

Dr. W. Tweddell, British amateur champion, required 86, and Roger Wethered, the former amateur champion had 87.

Conditions yesterday were difficult and old golf observers said no previous championship competition here has been made harder for the contestants. With whitecaps topping the waves of the English channel from a stiff wind off the North sea, it was hard to score on both Prince's and Royal St. George's.

As a result the huge score board half hiding the little St. George's Club house was covered with late 70's, a lot of 80's and numerous 90's.

As the seemingly never-ending string of golfers wound its way among gigantic sand dunes and tried to skirt yawning bunkers from morning to night, the wind kept on blowing and with each extra gust a golfer asked himself "Will I qualify?" The players battled a head wind much of the way and it blew some of them out of the competition. They will not be counted out formally until to-night but many are out now.

The wind is still blowing and the high scores of yesterday are not expected to be much lower to-day.

The second qualifing round will be played to-day to reduce the field for championship competition to 100 or slightly more, and then after the additional rounds the field will be further reduced by elimination of all who are 15 strokes or more behind the leader.

Hopes Take Drop

SANDWICH, Eng., May 7. — Canadian Press. — British hopes of regaining the world's golfing supremacy which had risen substantially during the last few weeks owing to the brilliant showing of Archie Compston, who decisively defeated Walter Hagen, the United States star, in a special match, were modified somewhat yesterday, although not quite dimmed, by the really brilliant showing of United States competitors in the first qualifying round of the British open golf championship over the difficult St. George's courses and the even more troublesome Prince's course.

There were 265 starters over the two courses here, half of the competition played over the St. George's course and the other over the Prince's course.

"Wild Bill" Melhorn played a noteworthy round by registering a par 72 over St. George's. This course, however, is much shorter than the Prince's, where a strong wind also prevailed. W. Davies, of Prenton's, had a 73 on the latter course and his score is regarded as the equal of a 70 on St. George's.

Davies played a steady game, and went out with 35 for the first half, and altogether played a more consistent game than Melhorn.

George Duncan's assistant, Jack Smith, who bracketed with Duncan with a 73, would have finished with a 72 but for a cruel misfortune at the 12th when his full iron shot which was only a yard or two out of line, settled in a hoof print six inches deep—the ball was unplayable and had to be lifted out.

Duncan was at his best throughout but Compston with a 77 seemed to suffer from a nervous strain probably due to the fact that he is the favorite. Abe Mitchell was also some what nervous and unable to show his true form.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will be present on Thursday, and on Friday he will present the cup to the winner. The Duke of York will attend the matches on Thursday.

MAKE SWEEP OF SERIES

Yankees Defeat Chicago White Sox 8-5 in Fourth Game.

ATHLETICS WIN 10-0

NEW YORK, May 8 (Canadian Press).—The pace setting Yankees made a clean sweep of their series with the Chicago White Sox by winning the fourth game yesterday 8 to 5. Al Shealey, who started for the Yankees, was knocked out of the box in the seventh, and George Pipgras checked the Chicago bats.

Al Thomas, who was knocked out in the first game of the series, tried it again yesterday and lost.

Dugan was out of the lineup, but Gene Robertson, substituting for him, performed well, hitting a home run in the second with Lazzeri on base. Meusel and Barrett also hit homers.

The Athletics made a clean sweep of the three-game series with Detroit at Philadelphia by taking the final game by a score of ten to nothing. The Athletics drove Carroll from the box in the second when the first seven men hit safely. Cobb then hit for the eighth successive hit of the inning and drove in the seventh run.

Cleveland took the odd game at Boston, 4 to 2, yesterday. The Indians scored three runs by bunching hits off Harris in the third and fourth innings. Jamieson's hitting and fielding featured the contest.

Three Washington pitchers fell before St. Louis' attack yesterday and the Browns won 15 to 2, breaking even in the four-game Washington series. Stewart held the Senators to six hits, one of them a homer by Pitcher Van Alstine. The Browns scored ten of their runs in the first two innings.

VIEWS ON SPORTS

REMEMBER—
The junior ball meeting in the Board Room of the Duffus Bowling Academy at 8 o'clock to-night. Don't wait for the other fellow to go—be there yourself and boost the League.

* * * * * *

Right now we predict a great year for the junior ball league. With three cups one for each group championship honors and four teams to a group, hardball in Peterborough this year will be above par. Fitzpatrick & Geraghty, West-end grocery merchants, have donated a cup for the bantam series; a music company is giving one for honors in the juvenile; and the Mark Bredin Bread Company is donating the trophy for the junior group. These cups are to be won three years in succession for final possession.

* * * * * *

It has been officially announced that Edgar LeBarr and Alex. Kay, deans of amateur baseball, will umpire the majority of games in the City League—bantam, juvenile, and junior.

* * * * * *

There was action a-plenty at the Exhibition Park diamond last night when Jack Deannard's two Kiwanis entries in the Junior City League were seen in their first practice of the season. There were 22 candidates out for the juvenile teams and 19 for the junior. Jack Crary was on hand, and acted as moundsman during the workout, putting over his stuff in mid-season fashion.

* * * * * *

Judging by reports, the Lockworks Juniors will field a strong aggregation this season. Jack Burke is handling the Industrials, and has lined up some of the star performers of past years and also some promising young talent ready all set to bring home the bacon.

* * * * * *

The Canadian Packing Company are to enter a team in the City League to make the fourth entry in the junior group. Strong backers of Inter-City and C.O.B.L. baseball in the past, having sponsored the Seniors in the championship finals in 1923 when they played with Hamilton Plowites, the Packers will place a strong line-up in the field for group honors.

* * * * * *

The Royals will also be well represented when the playing time comes around, working their way up through juvenile ball, the A.A.A. team have entered the junior group, and will be a strong contender for the loop trophy. Manager McFadden has several young players who performed well last year slated to try out with his team.

* * * * * *

The General Motors C.O.B.L. team's candidates for places had a lively workout again on Saturday afternoon under the eager eyes of Manager Walter Schultz and Coach Stan. Burgoyne. The light rain put a little damper on the afternoon's activities, but the majority of the boys refused to be squelched by E. Jupiter Pluvius, and stayed on hand and had a real snappy workout. The crew hopped right into it, and had a peppy time. Coach Burgoyne and Manager Schultz picked a team each, so the boys had about five innings of baseball, after warming up. The squad is commencing to show signs of getting a little condition and of being more used to each other. About four more stiff workouts like Saturday's will see the squad pretty well advanced.—Oshawa Daily Times.

ERRORS COST LEAFS GAME

Toronto Entry Drops First Game in Last Ten Starts.

ORIOLES WIN 2-0

MAPLE LEAF STADIUM, May 8.—Baltimore broke the Leaf's winning streak yesterday with a 2 to 0 victory over the leaders. Coumbe left-handed the Leafs into submission throughout, shutting the big guns of the local wrecking brigade in neat style, although only fine catches by Brower, W. Jacobson and Porter prevented Alexander and Sheedy from getting long hits. Proudhomme pitched almost as well. An error by Alexander following a walk giving the Bird's their first tally while a double by Brower and Lamotte's single with two out sent in the other score. It was a dull affair with both teams showing the effects of their long long trip to Baltimore and return on Sunday.

Take Third Straight.

Montreal Royals captured the third straight game of their home stand here yesterday afternoon and the fourth straight victory in a row when they defeated Jersey City, 8-3. The contest was a loosely-pitched game and although Billy Bailey spread the Black Cats' six hits over as many innings, he was wild at times, walking six batters in all.

Horne pitched six innings and was touched for 15 hits, two of them homers by Holt and Gulley, a triple by Daly and doubles by Jourdan, Gulley, Head, Fewster, and Fabre. Holt' homer was a prodigious wallop over the 27-foot scoreboard, the first circuit clout driven out of the new stadium.

Reading Defeated.

Rochester defeated Reading 6 to 4 in the second game of their series here yesterday. Four unearned runs were scored off the delivery of Hal Smith in the second inning. He was never in danger after that, showing the best hurling of the present season at the Rochester park.

Browns Win 8-2.

Curley Ogden twirled the Bisons to an 8 to 2 victory over the Newark Bears here yesterday to even the series and was deprived of a shutout when the Bears rallied twice in the final inning. Al Mamaux, Newark ace suffered his thirg defeat of the season and retired for a pinch hitter after 7 innings on the mound. Barrett and Barnes led a furious attack on the Bears, the former clouting a homer, double and single while Barnes accounted for a triple, double and single.

BENTON HOLDS CINCINNATI 5-1

Allows Ten Hits to Win Final Game of Series for Giants.

BOSTON LOSE 9-4

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 8 (Canadian Press).—Larry Benton, the Giants' hurling ace, allowed ten hits yesterday but kept them so well scattered that the New York Giants bagged the final game of the Cincinnati series 5 to 1.

The Giants fell on Mays in the third inning for three runs on three doubles and a single and completed their scoring with two unearned runs in the fourth.

The Pirates made it three out of four by winning the final game of the Pittsburgh series from Boston yesterday, 9 to 4.

John Miljus, Pirate twirler, settled down after the 4th inning and only permitted three hits during the rest of the game.

Robertson was touched for ten hits in the six innings he worked for the Braves. Wortz finished the game.

The Cubs made a clean sweep of the first of the Chicago series with Philadelphia, winning the third and last game 7 to 4.

Guy Bush held the Phillies to 3 hits and one run until the eighth inning, when the visitors bunched four hits to score three runs. The Cubs counted three times in the third on two errors by Thompson, a base on balls, a hit batsman and a sacrifice fly. Stephenson was responsible for two more runs in the fifth when he bounced the ball off the right field fence into the box seats for a home run. Wilson scored ahead of him.

Scoring a run in the ninth after the Robins had tied the score in the eighth, the Cardinals defeated Brooklyn at St. Louis 6 to 5 yesterday. Bissonette hit his sixth home run of the season in the second inning.

AT THE GRAND.

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE"

If your idea of entertainment in the theatre is to laugh and hear your neighbor laugh with you, then do not fail to see "Abie's Irish Rose", the mirth provoking comedy success by Anne Nichols, who is both its author and producer. "Abie's Irish Rose" will be at the Grand to-night.

Aptly described as "the play that puts 'U' in humor," this comedy, based on the martial troubles of a young couple of different race and religious beliefs, has established a record for continuous laughter that has not been equalled by any other theatrical attraction in America. It ran over six years at the Republic Theatre, New York, and has also broken capacity records at Chicago, Washington, Baltimore, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Atlanta, etc. etc.

The story of the play hinges around the difficulties of a young married couple, a Jewish boy and an Irish girl, whose fathers endeavor to separate them on account of differing religious faiths. This theme is so delicately and humanly handled as to give offence to no one. Seats for the engagement are now selling at the box-office.

AT THE REGENT.

HAND PICKED CAST IN "SWIM, GIRL, SWIM."

Good news from Hollywood. Two days more, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Regent Theatre presents dashing Bebe Daniels in her latest Paramount comedy, "Swim, Girl, Swim."

Advance reports have it that this is the best Miss Daniels has ever made and if facts mean anything the reports cannot be exaggerated. "The Campus Flirt" was a knockout, but the critics agree that "Swim, Girl Swim," has it topped.

Here are the facts. In the first place the story was written by Lloyd Corrigan who knows everything about how a college story should be written with color, romance, thrills and laughs. It was directed by Clarence Badger and this man has never been known to miss.

It has a star particularly suited for just this sort of thing—fast moving comedy—and the cast is hand-picked. James Hall, Gertrude Ederle—yes, the famous Trudy of English channel fame, is in the cast—Josephine Dunn, William Austin and James Mack, are only a few of the names

The story is about a girl who swims the channel and yet who is unable to swim. And that is a situation. Ther are races and chases galore, just one event after another. And just to be sure that the college atmosphere was really there, Miss Daniels selected the University of California in Los Angeles for the location of the campus scenes. More than 200 students participated in the production.

"Swim, Girl, Swim," is the first picture Trudy has ever appeared in. Her role is a good one and she is seen as a player and also in her customary role of a swimmer.

AT THE CAPITOL.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN IN "THE CIRCUS."

The shadow of Charlie Chaplin apparently never grows less. A filled house at the Capitol Theatre last night greeted the return, after a lengthy absence from local moving picture screens, of the famous comedian, and plenty of laughter echoed constantly in recognition of his adventures as the tramp who becomes the star performer in a circus.

There are people who think Charlie Chaplin is a scream and others who think he is foolish. His admirers, however, far outnumber his detractors, and few can deny that he plays the game from start to finish. Like Mary Pickford, he remains true to the role that he popularized himself with. He gives the crowd what it expects, and he loses no small opportunity to get a laugh. He has never become self-conscious, either. He is absolutely and ingenuously funny in this part of a down-at-heel, cheerful tramp, and even when he sits forsakenly during the last moments, to watch the circus caravan travel out of sight without him, and when he goes off into the perspective, a lonesome figure, still his little cane twirls jauntily and his head is up. One feels that, for Charlie, another adventure is just around the corner. This habit of including little bits of pathos in the conclusions of his pictures is just another of the artistic touches that this comedian uses to enhance the comedy.

It is the same Charlie with the big boots, the baggy trousers, the "gates ajar" collar, and checked vest. The derby remains, but, curiously enough, it looks quite up to date now, since "cadys" came back into fashion. When Chaplin donned it first, it was just another back-number item in an old-fashioned outfit.

"The Circus" must be seen to be appreciated, and it remains here for a week to give everyone a chance to enjoy a good laugh. Charlie has a romance in it, which he settles in characteristic style. The lady is a lovely bare-back rider of the sawdust ring, and her father is the cruel proprietor of the circus, who uses her very badly indeed.

Charlie gets mixed up in an impromptu act, after an officer of the law chases him through the circus rings and through a maze of mirrors, where pursuer and pursued have some funny adventures. Then he is added to the circus personnel, as an actor who is really the laugh of the show and doesn't know it. He has various little mishaps of the real Chaplin type, ludicrous and unexpected, like the sudden entrance and exit of the lion's cage, and there is an odd little bit of picturization in the shadowy Charlie who leaves the real man and kicks his handsome rival. The rope-walker, Rex, cuts Charlie out in the lady's affections, and the "funny man" essays the rope-walking stunt, with hilarious consequences. The laughs continue throughout. There isn't a dull or slow moment and that is an achievement in a comedy that gets laughs with unstrained effort.

With it is an exquisite two-reel colored picture depicting episodes in the life of Napoleon Bonaparte.

—Jeanette.

SOCCER GAME THURSDAY NIGHT

De Laval Versus C. G. E. in a League Fixture at King Edward Park.

The regular meeting of the local soccer executive was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last evening, with vice-president Robert Gilmour in the chair.

President Stewart Re-considered his Res'gnation.

After many interesting debates, views and explanations, President Vincent Stewart reconsidered his resignation on the condition that the executive deal very sevcrely with any player who is ordered off the field. A vote of confidence was passed, thanking him for his excellent services in the interest of the game.

Players Registered.

The following players were registered as follows: George E. Munkley and Henry Wilks for C. G. E., Joseph Mayette and John Armstrong for Thistle; also Frank Dyer for DeLaval, Henshaw of C.G.E. and Lewiston of DeLaval, were struck off the list.

Game on Thursday Evening.

Arrangements were completed so that the DeLaval and C.G.E. play a league game on Thursday evening at the King Edward park. Kick-off at six o'clock. This game was brought forward from May 26th.

Game for Saturday.

Saturday's match is Thistle versus Quakers at the King Edward Park in a league fixture. Kick off at three o'clock. Referee J. C. Russell.

Soccer Standing.

	Pld.	W.	D.	L.	F.	A.	Goal Pts
Thistle	1	0	1	0	3	3	1

DeLaval	1	0	1	0	3	3	1
Quakers	1	0	0	1	0	3	0

Two points for a win and one for a draw

This soccer ruling is printed for the benefit of the fan who is requested to study it from every angle. The law says that at a free kick a player of the opposing side shall not approach more than ten yards from the ball, unless he is standing on his own goal line. Obviously, however, if the kick was being taken near the corner flag say, the referee would enforce a retiral to ten yards in the direction of the goal, although the goal line extends from corner to corner A goal may be scored direct from a free kick granted for infringement of Law 9, which says—"Neither tripping, kicking, striking nor jumping at a player shall be allowed, and also from a corner kick. For all other infringements, such as dangerous play, foul shy playing ball before it touches the ground, when dropped by referee, goal keeper "carrying," etc., no goal can be scored direct. A man cannot be offside if he be in his own half of the field, if he have more than two opponents between him and opponents' goal, if ball was last played by opponent, if he were behind the ball when last it was played or at the bye kick, corner kick or throw in.

Halliday has scored 261 goals in first league football for Dundee and Sunderland. Great rejoicing prevailed in the city Sunderland camp because their native town escaped relegation.

SELL REAL ESTATE.

Headed by Mrs. M. A. Martin, of Detroit (left) and Miss Ruth McClenaghan (right), daughters of the vice-president of Ontario's Liquor Control Board, some forty young Toronto ladies have just been added to the quota of those who sell real estate. Women realtors are fast coming into their own, dealers say. They are credited with a special gift for selling homesites, etc.

"You're a good little sport! That's the only way to get through the world these days. Plenty of pep and sparkle gets you anywhere."

A Good Little Sport!

HELEN and Sue — self-sufficient and self-supporting—flippantly broadcasted their belief that a wedding-ring on the finger forged an indissoluble band of iron around one's soul! And to verify their philosophy, they would point to the little wan face of Eva Holbrook as she gazed sadly into the courtyard of her dingy one-room apartment opposite them.

Alone in New York, Eva was the child-wife of a drug addict who, having discovered that his dreams had cheated him, became a recluse and forbade his wife the companionship of friends. Having learned Eva's pathetic story, they took pity on the lonely little girl. They invited her over to their smart apartment—unknown to her husband—dressed her up in their chic clothes, introduced her to their sophisticated, free-and-easy friends . . . and, unwittingly, imbued her with their cynical philosophy of life and marriage.

Eva learned to be "a good little sport"—learned to enjoy the thrill of luxury and the flattery of admiring men. She was pretty to look upon and budded forth like an exquisite rose under the spell of her benefactors' generosity. Eva drank freely of Life's luxuries, never once stopping to consider that she was a social impostor, a parasite—the object of pity and charity.

The two girls had thought only of giving Eva a glimpse into their world of happiness, for it was a new experience to them to watch the metamorphosis which clothes, jewelry, cosmetics and flattery wrought. They never dreamed that their philanthropy or their idle words about matrimony would take root, nor that stark, cruel tragedy would fling back into their faces their thoughtless words and deeds. For, one day, when Eva's husband . . . .

But to appreciate the realism, the pathos and the tragedy of this true episode from life, you really must read the story itself. It appears in the June issue of TRUE STORY MAGAZINE — now on the newsstands — and is entitled "SHE PLAYED THE GOOD LITTLE SPORT."

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BOB CAT'S SNEEZE

"Dear me," growled the black, bushy Bear, looking at the five pictures of nice, after-dinner desserts which Uncle Wiggily had drawn for a puzzle picture. "So I must guess the names of these, must I?"

"Indeed you must!" said the rabbit gentleman. "Why, it ought to be easy. I almost gave you their names."

"But such funny names!" growled the Bear, scratching his head.

As I told you in the story before this, the Bear had come to catch Uncle Wiggily, but the rabbit had set a hard puzzle for the Bad Chap. And while the Bear was trying to guess the names of the desserts, Uncle Wiggily slipped quietly away and ran safely home to his bungalow.

He gathered a paw full of flowers.

It wasn't until almost dark that the Bear, stupid chap which he was, guessed that the desserts were cake, cookie, pudding, custard and pie. The first letter was left off each name, and the cookie's name was under the cake. But I don't believe that fooled you; did it?

Anyhow the puzzle served Uncle Wiggily a good turn, for it helped him to get away from the Bear. And the next day the rabbit gentleman started out again to look for adventures.

"Are you going near where there are any flowers?" squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, as the rabbit gentleman hopped away with his twink, pinkling nose.

"Why yes, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy," he answered. "It is now May and I hope to see many flowers."

"Then please bring me a bouquet," begged the muskrat lady housekeeper. "I expect company for tea and I want flowers for the table."

"You shall have them if I can find any," promised Mr. Longears.

So Uncle Wiggily hopped here and Uncle Wiggily hopped there and then he hopped to another place, but no May flowers did he see and no May flowers did he smell.

"This is strange," said Uncle Wiggily. "I thought surely I would find some flowers. Some one must have picked them all."

Then, all of a sudden, the bunny rabbit gentleman heard a noise and quickly jumped behind a log, for he thought the Bear might be coming again. But when he looked over the log he saw where a little toad boy was jumping and playing leap frog and this had made the noise.

So Uncle Wiggily gave the toad boy a green penny and went on his way looking for May flowers. Once he thought he saw a daisy but just then, all of a quickness, another noise sounded and Mr. Longears leaped behind a big rock.

"For maybe the Wolf is coming," he said. But when he looked around the corner of the rock the bunny saw a brook gurgling over stones and it was this which had made the noise.

"Well, I'll hop along some more and look for flowers," he said. So away he went and soon he saw, growing amid the green grass, a number of pretty blossoms. "Here are some for Nurse Jane," cried Uncle Wiggily.

He had gathered a paw full of flowers and was going to hop home with them when, all at once, up out of the deep grass rose the Bob Cat.

"What are you doing—ker-ker-ker-choo—here?" sneezed the Bob Cat for some of the pollen, or yellow dust from the flowers, flew up his nose.

"What—ker-choo—are you—a-ker-snizzle—doing here?" he sneezed again.

"I'm gathering flowers for Nurse Jane," said Uncle Wiggily in a bold, brave voice. "And you can't nibble my ears unless you guess this puzzle, Mr. Bob Cat."

"What—ker-choo—puzzle?" asked the bad chap.

With a stick for a pencil, Uncle Wiggily quickly drew on the ground four little pictures. "Each picture is the name of a flower," said the rabbit. "You must guess them before you nibble me, Mr. Bob Cat!"

"Ker-zoo!" sneezed the hungry animal. Did he guess the flowers? Can you?

NAME THESE FOUR FLOWERS!

MOTORADE PLANS BIG CAMPAIGN FOR MORE MEMBERS

Growing Association Now Offers Many Services to Car Owners.

Motorade Canada, Ltd., are holding a membership drive for motor car owners. This association, which already has a large membership, offers many services to car owners which mean a very considerable saving. Among the many benefits enjoyed by the members of this association are a saving of two cents a gallon on gasoline, for towing and first-aid service, liberal discount on repair bills, free touring information, free legal service, a fully paid $1,000 personal insurance policy free to all members, etc. All motor car owners will find much interesting information in the display advt. which appears in this issue.

CITY BUSINESS IS TRANSACTED

Ald. Greene's comment as Ald. Cotton announced this.

Plans Approved.

T. C. Ephgrave appeared before the Council with the plans for the new Chevrolet garage to be erected by Lillico & Hughes, and explained the alterations and additions to be made to the Munro Hotel. The plans were approved, changes asked by the city engineer having been made.

Drainage for Bolivar Street.

After ten years of waiting and hoping, petitioning and canvassing, the residents of Bolivar and Sherbrooke Streets are to have storm drains. The $5,000 placed in the Board of Works appropriation for this work will be expended on those streets, Bolivar Street being substituted for Gilmour Street, which is to be paved within the next few years. A petition was presented last night for the work on Bolivar Street.

Ald. Huffman reported on the bad state of Monaghan Road near Gilmour Street, where he said one car was mired last night.

Mayor Denne and Ald. Stocker explained that nothing can properly be done to the surface until the drainage has improved. Ald. Stocker remarked that the road is still heaving. The road is to be paved shortly.

Ald. McIntyre reported bad conditions on Victoria Avenue.

At Ald. Greene's suggestion an attempt will be made to have the C.N.R. move its freight track closer to the freight shed to allow more room in the station yard.

The Orange Association will be allowed to erect three temporary booths in Confederation Square, July 12. No stakes will be driven into the sod. The usual eating house license fee of $5 will be charged.

Mr. Potts of the Dominion Road Machinery Company was on hand to try to sell a power grader. A machine of the type he wished to sell is owned by the Township of Monaghan, and was demonstrated on Princess street on Saturday. This machine will be useful on the roads in summer and on ice and ruts in the winter.

The Mayor, with the chairmen of the Board of Works and the Finance Committee, will deal with Mr. Potts in an endeavor to complete the transaction.

Won't Sell Lot.

No action will be taken in reference to the request of the Aladdin Company that the city sell a 40-foot lot off the land next their property. The aldermen oppose the sale, as it will spoil the whole lot as a factory site.

Mrs. J. Knox and F. H. Dobbin were reappointed to the local Mothers' Allowance Board for another year.

The organizing secretary for the tour being made by members of the Federation of British Industries, B. M. Bellasis, a former resident of Young's Point, wrote in answer to Mayor Denne's letter, that he will try to arrange for some of the members to visit Peterborough.

The city clerks of Belleville and Sault Ste. Marie wrote stating that their councils did not wish to support a proposal for the taxation of public-owned utilities.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(Canadian Press).—Captain and all others aboard the coastguard destroyer Paulding, which sank the submarine S 4 off Provincetown, Mass., have been exonerated of all blame in connection with the disaster.

CHICAGO, May 8.—(Canadian Press).—Tribune said yesterday that crime reports are being systematically suppressed in Chicago police stations "to prevent exposure of mounting crime totals."

She Could Not Work HEADACHES Were So Severe

Mrs. A. Riehl, Burstall, Sask., writes:—"I was troubled with very severe headaches, and sometimes I could not do my work.

"One day a friend told me about and advised me to give it a trial. I decided to do so, and after taking a few bottles I found it had done me a world of good, and I haven't had any headaches for a long time now."

DENIES RUMORS OF MINE FIRE

Chief Mine Inspector Says Underground Work at Hollinger Caused Fog.

INSPECTOR INVESTIGATES.

TORONTO, May 8 (Canadian Press). — Thomas Sutherland, Chief Inspector of Mines for Ontario, last night denied rumors of another fire at Hollinger Mine in Timmins. The rumors reached Provincial Government officials here yesterday. Mr. Sutherland said an inspector of the Department had looked into the matter and had found that the fog raised by the underground filling in the mine apparently had given rise to the belief that a fire had broken out.

SHOW IN AID OF LOCAL BALL CLUB

Tickets For "Now Fawncy That" Are Expected To Have Ready Sale.

The play "Now Fawncy That" which is to be presented at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday night of next week by the Dramatic Society of the Church of the Immaculate Conception in aid of the Peterborough Baseball Club, has been given with marked success on several occasions and the performance has been voted one of the most meritorious amateur offerings to be seen here. Peterborough people can look forward to an evening of thorough enjoyment, increased by the knowledge that they will be materially helping along the local ball club.

The Peterborough Baseball Club has made no appeal to the public for assistance in years, but this season new outfits are badly required and the club is presenting this fine show as a means of obtaining the necessary funds. The players and officers are confident that they can count upon the patronage of the people for "Now Fawncy That, and that the tickets which will be sold for 50c, 75c and $1.00, will be readily snapped up. They will be sold by members of the club and others who are helping out and a liberal response is expected.

OBITUARY

MRS. HUGH LUSH, SENIOR

The death occurred this morning at her home on Clinton street, Toronto, of Mrs. Maria Lush, beloved wife of Hugh Lush, Senior, of Toronto, and mother of Hugh Lush of this city. The deceased, who was over seventy years of age, had been ill for some time.

Survivors are two sons, Jack of Regina, and Hugh ("Dick") of this city, also one daughter, Mrs. C. Jarvis of London, Ontario.

INQUESTS CLOSE DOUBLE SHOOTING TRAGEDY

CONSTABLE MATTHEWS FIRED IN SELF DEFENCE, IS VERDICT AND JURY COMMENDS BRAVERY

Montgomery Was Killed By Officer in Discharge of His Duty.

POLICE DESCRIBE SCENE.

Coroner Praises Bravery of Police in Their Duty—Chief Expresses Approval.

"I called on him twice to surrender, and then aimed for his shoulder. He hunched sideways and the bullet hit him in the chest." In these words Constable Leonard Matthews of the city police force described the death of David Montgomery, and a few minutes later the jury impanelled to inquire into the affair returned a verdict that he had shot in self defence and in discharge of his duty, exonerated him from any blame, and commended him for his bravery.

Much of the evidence taken in the first of last night's inquests, that into the death of Constable Maker of the Provincial Police, applied to the second inquest, but the three police officers, Detective William Carey, Constable Gordon Puffer, and Constable Matthews, told of their actions at the Montgomery Hotel on the morning of May 3, when they were called after Constable Maker had been shot.

The action of Constable Matthews met with the approval of Chief Newhall, who said his instructions to the constables were "to get their man, but to protect themselves." It was also praised by Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young in his address to the jury. Dr. Young spoke of Constable Matthews' daring of death in the attempt to arrest Montgomery, adding that he had been very fortunate, and also spoke a word of commendation of Constable Maker and Officer Stewart.

J. F. Strickland did the questioning, acting for Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C. Alexander L. Elliott of Gordon and Elliott, watched the case for Constable Matthews. The same jury acted as in the Maker inquest.

Dr. Malcolm McCulloch, called to give medical assistance to Maker, was also called to give assistance to Montgomery. "I found Montgomery gasping but was unable to find any pulse", he said. On opening Montgomery's clothing he found a bullet wound in the chest. I called the ambulance but I knew there was no hope and he died while I was there. Montgomery never spoke to me and in my opinion death came as a result of the bullet wound.

Asked by A. Brown, he said in his opinion the bullet entered from the front as there was a glint of metal on his chest.

Officer Stewart.

"As I got out of the house on Simcoe street I went and called Constable Matthews. We went back and Constable Puffer and Detective Carey passed them in the police car. I told Matthews Dave Montgomery had fired two shots at Maker and he was dead," said Inspector Stewart, concluding his evidence of the Maker case.

Detective Carey.

Detective William Carey told the coroner and jury what he did at the Montgomery House on the morning of the shooting.

"Constables Puffer and Matthews and myself went up the stairs and found Maker shot. Matthews went to phone for a doctor and I went up the back stairs and was shown Montgomery's room by the maid. While I was up there I heard the maid call 'There he goes.' Matthews and I ran down stairs and I saw the coat tail of a man going into the back door of the shed. Matthews went to the front and I went to the back. I could not get in the back door. I heard a shot ring out as I tried to get in the back door which was locked. I then went around to the front and found Matthews with Montgomery's gun in his hand.

Miss Evelyn Nicholls.

Miss Evelyn Nicholls gave evidence as to showing Detective Carey Montgomery's room that morning.

"Later I saw Montgomery go down the fire escape from his room", she said, "and told the detectives."

Constable Gordon Puffer.

Constable Gordon Puffer of the City Police Force described the happening. "Shortly after nine Constable Matthews notified us of the death of Constable Maker. We took the police car and went to the hotel. We went in and George Lipsett called, 'Be careful, boys, he's got a gun that's loaded.' We went up the stairs and I knelt beside Maker, felt his pulse and his heart. Carey had gone in through and I called to Matthews to get a doctor. I heard a noise above and saw Montgomery with a gun in his hand. I called to him to drop that gun and he ran and said, 'Not by a damn sight.' I pursued him but could not find him. I heard somebody say, 'There he goes,' and Carey and Matthews went down the back stairs. I stayed by the body of Constable Maker and a moment later

Deny Rumor Power Dam Has Burst

MONTREAL, Que., May 9 (Canadian Press).—Denial of the rumor that a dam of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company had gone out was made here last night by L. R. Wilson, vice president and managing director of the company, in a statement issued to the Canadian Press.

"This rumor no doubt arose," Mr. Wilson said, "From the fact that there was an exceedingly heavy flood at our Island Falls plant, and owing to difficulty in opening the gates, on account of the heavy ice, the water ran over the crest of the dam, flooding the power house and shutting this down on Wednesday last. The trouble has now been corrected and the plant is again operating. The floods in the north have been the heaviest experienced in years."

BUFFALO, May 9 (Canadian Press). — Sentiment against the two coastguardsmen, held in the barracks at Fort Niagara, continued to run high to-day as the District Attorney of Niagara County prepared to bring habeas corpus proceedings for the custody of the prisoners. They are accused of shooting Jacob D. Hanson, secretary of the Niagara Falls Elks Lodge. The Federal authorities, on the advice of the United States District Attorney here, have refused to surrender the men, Chris Dew and Glenn Jennings.

That Hanson will live is not considered possible by physicians. One eye was shot out, and even if he should survive, he will not have the use of his mind.

JACOB M. BROOKS, 82 TO-DAY, RETAINS BUSINESS CONNECTION

Born In Pickering, He Has Lived Here For 27 Years.

IN HOTEL BUSINESS.

Mr. Brooks Still Active and Keenly Interested in Topics of Day.

Another "Old Timer"—and the term is used with all due respect—is soon to celebrate the turning of the eighty-second milestone in the course of life. On Wednesday, May 9, Jacob M. Brooks, known to a wide circle of acquaintances through his identification with the hotel business in this city, as well as in Oshawa, will observe another birthday, while to join with him in the marking of such an occasion are a sister, two sons and two daughters. All are in good health. Mr. Brooks Sr., may be found at his home, 199 Dalhousie street, in full possession of his faculties and taking a lively interest in the topics of the day.

Jacob M. Brooks was born in the township of Pickering, near Port Union, and with his parents moved to Markham, later removing to Oshawa. There he lived and when a young man, married. He entered the hotel business and became prominent in municipal affairs being an alderman in the Oshawa council during the years of 1894 and 1895. He also resided in Whitby and Port Perry, whence he came to the city of Peterborough in 1901. He operated the old Palace Hotel for many years and was agent for the O'Keefe company, holding the latter commission to the present day.

Proud of Parentage.

"My parents were born in Canada and so was I," was the proud assertion of Mr. Brooks, in conversation with The Examiner. He went on, modestly enough, to assert that his grandfather (on his father's side) had been one of the United Empire Loyalists, coming from Pennsylvania and had fought in the war of 1912-14. His father was one who, in 1837, opposed William Lyon Mackenzie.

He recalls quite vividly the visit of Edward VII. to Canada as Prince of Wales and remembers seeing him at Whitby. Oshawa was then a small town and even in 1901, according to Mr. Brooks, all out Charlotte street, Peterborough, was commons.

Believes in Moderation.

Asked about his habits, such as smoking, the aged man declared that moderation should be the keynote of every man's life. "I haven't smoked for the past eight years—a drink or so won't hurt me, but it's no good to go to extremes" said he. "Moderation in eating as well as drinking is my policy."

Was in Parade.

Mr. Brooks is probably the oldest member of Oshawa I.O.O.F. Corinthian Lodge, Number 61, having joined it in 1870. He has maintained his identity with it though occasionally visiting the local lodge with which he joined in its annual church parade to St. Paul's Presbyterian church a week or so ago.

Two sons, Louis and Fred Brooks, live in Peterborough, and two daughters are Mrs. Marcus Stiner, of Brooklyn, N.Y. and Mrs. Margaret B. Lyman of Kingston, Mass. The sister, Mrs. Pickel resides in Oshawa. One son, Jacob, died in active service, while the third daughter, Gertrude, died in this city about three years ago.

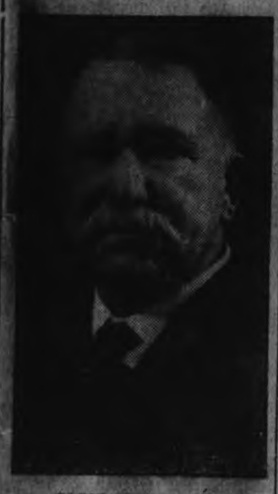
Says Delay Would Reduce Value of Beef

LONDON, May 9. — Canadian Press Cable. — Speaking for the government in the House of Commons last evening Lord Stradbroke Minister of Agriculture, promised most carefully to consider a suggestion that all refrigerated meat imported into Great Britain from countries in which foot and mouth disease is prevalent should be placed in cold storage at the port of landing for three weeks.

Lord Kylsant in opposing the suggestion pointed out that 2,748,000 tons of meat were consumed in Britain in 1927, of which 925,000 tons were imported chilled beef of a quality almost equal to the best home killed beef. In order to secure imported meat in a satisfactory condition, however, it should be available in Britain within 21 days after being shipped. If chilled meat had to go into cold storage for three weeks on arrival, he said, its value would be considerably reduced, as it would have to be frozen. The result would be that the importation of chilled meat would cease and nearly half the people of Great Britain would have to consume frozen meat of an inferior quality, and pay a higher price for it than they did at present.

82 YEARS OLD.



JACOB M. BROOKS,
Who is celebrating his birthday today. He is still enjoying the best of health.

FLIERS' BODIES ARE RECOVERED

Tug Brings Them To Port Dover—Drowned in Plane On Friday.

NOT IDENTIFIED.

BRANTFORD, Ont., May 9 (Canadian Press).—The tug Ruth of Erie, Capt. Joseph Devill, reached Port Dover this morning with the bodies of the two aviators who, strapped in the cockpit, plunged into Lake Erie on Friday when their plane sideslipped during a heavy fog. The bodies were found by dragging last evening, but not until 11 o'clock was it possible to remove them. While positive identification had not been made, there seems little doubt that the fliers were John Rosecrans and James M. Latey, of Buffalo.

The plane was located early last evening. The wreckage was slung alongside the tug and brought to Port Dover, but some difficulty was experienced this morning in extricating the bodies from it. It was apparent the motor was running when the plane struck the water by the even way in which the propeller was bent back. There will be no inquest, Latey's body will be taken to Buffalo, and Rosecrans' to Milwaukee.

U.S. GOVERNMENT TO OPEN NAVIGATION

Will Take Note of Ice and Weather Before Allowing Traffic On Lakes.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 9 (Canadian Press).—The official opening date for United States navigation on the Great Lakes hereafter will be set by the Government, S. B. Teegarden, special assistant to the United States Attorney-General, made known today. The Government, in determining the date, would take into consideration ice and weather conditions and declare navigation open on the first safe day instead of the first day on which a vessel could get through regardless of hazard, he said. The decision, however, would not be binding upon either shipper or carrier.

Hen Lays Red Eggs Speckled With White

BURNBRAE, May 9.—What breed of poultry lays red eggs? This is the question which Mr. L. Watson is asking himself and others since finding in his poultry house recently, a perfectly normal hen egg in every respect except color. It is a very dark red with a few white spots and is undoubtedly a fast color since it will not scrape off readily. Investigation might enable scientists to produce a breed of fowl that would lay such eggs if the market demanded that particular color.

CARE OF CHICKS WELL EXPLAINED

Poultry Association Hears Helpful Talk By Government Expert.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

H. S. Gutteridge of the Poultry Department, Ottawa, was the special speaker at the May meeting of the Peterborough Poultry Association. Mr. Gutteridge took as his subject "The Feeding and Caring of Baby Chicks."

No business was discussed and the whole evening was given to Mr. Gutteridge's lecture, after which many questions were asked by the fairly well attended meeting. He discussed the hatching of chickens by the incubator and spoke at some length about the feeding of baby chicks after they are 48 hours old and have been placed in the brooder.

Those who had not the good fortune to be there, missed a lecture that was very educating and most interesting, and those that were there showed their appreciation of the lecture by asking many questions, showing that they had come to seek data for information.

Mr. Gutteridge's time was taken up this morning by visiting the Quaker Oats Plant. He expressed himself as very much pleased with the plant and with the City of Peterborough, and hoped to return again.

EVANGELIST HAS DONE GOOD WORK

Mr. Matheson's Mission in London Cares For Single Men.

Evangelist Matheson, whose mission work in connection with his Home Mission for the single unemployed men at London, Ont., has become widely known, is in Peterborough to-day.

Reports of the activities of the Mission during the five months it was open the past winter show that Mr. Matheson has been very busy in looking after the needs of those who find themselves penniless and homeless.

In the five months 280 men were registered at the Mission, 10,736 free meals were distributed, 5,203 beds were provided, as well as 441 free baths, and 152 Gospel meetings were held.

The Mission is of course undenominational and the register shows men of many religions obtaining help. They were of many nationalities, too, and from various addresses in Canada. The supplies used by the home in five months reach a total of some size. The items include ten tons of coal, 2000 loaves of bread, 200 lbs. of tea, 100 pounds of coffee; 60 bags of potatoes, 2000 pounds of meat, etc.

It is evident that the mission is doing a splendid work and those who have contributed in the past have the satisfaction of knowing that their money has been wisely and economically expended and has been used to help those very much in need of assistance.

PORT HOPE WOMAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

PORT HOPE, Ont., May 9 (Canadian Press). — After three unsuccessful attempts to commit suicide, Mrs. James Piencikowski, Harris Street, Port Hope, was taken to the hospital suffering from severe scalp wounds and facial lacerations, self inflicted. She has been ill for some time. On a previous attempt to take her life she used an old revolver, but the timely arrival of her husband prevented the tragedy.

SHOOTING OF CONSTABLE MAKER WAS DELIBERATE, JURY DECIDES AFTER HEARING MANY WITNESSES

Mississagi River Overflows Banks

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 9 (Canadian Press). — The water is so high in the Mississagi River, according to reports reaching the Sault from Iron Bridge, 75 miles east of here, that the river is backing up into Lake Pakowkami, usually called Mud Lake, which ordinarily empties into the Mississagi, and the high water rules all along the Mississagi and Little White River systems.

At the Dean Lake bridge, which is 20 feet above the summer level of the Mississagi, the water is now within a foot of the bridge, and half a mile of the Sault-Sudbury trunk road, on the stretch between Iron Bridge and Dean Lake, is covered with water varying from two feet to five feet in depth.

RIVERS HIGH IN NORTH LAND

Water Almost 20 Feet Above Normal in Some Places.

BRIDGES UNDER WATER.

SAULT STE. MARIE, May 9. Canadian Press.—With high water reported all over the district, the flood trouble in Algoma appears to be centred around the Mississauga and the Little White Rivers, where the water is at places almost twenty feet above the normal level. Boats are being used as ferries at the iron bridge, while a section of the trunk road between that point and Dean Lake is impassable as a result of the water lying two to five feet deep on it. The ice is all out of the river, however, and it is expected that the flood will drop without causing any further damage unless some of the numerous dams go out.

There is also high water in the Spanish River near Massey and Espanola, and in the Ausable River, but so far no serious damage has been reported there.

NORTH BAY, May 9. — Canadian Press. — The flood waters of the Montreal River during the past few days have reached the highest levels on record, according to settlers in the district, but the water is gradually receding, according to word received from Indian chutes. Elsewhere in the district north of here the floods are causing considerable damage to property, particularly to power plants and dams, but no loss of life has been reported yet.

A belated report of the bursting of a dam of the Elk Lake Power Company on Friday last, was received here to-day. A tremendous body of water carried away the structure as well as a wooden bridge. Other bridges in the vicinity were saved by hard work on the part of volunteers.

Trouble With Montgomery Described By Residents of Montgomery Hotel.

STEWART TELLS TALE.

Fatal Shot Fired As Two Men Retreated After Montgomery Had Fired at Them.

Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker met his death last Thursday morning by a shot fired deliberately from a revolver in the hands of David Montgomery. This was the verdict reached by the Coroner's jury empanelled last night to inquire into the death of the late officer.

The inquest was conducted before Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young by J. F. Strickland, in the absence of Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C. Hatton, K.C.

Many witnesses, including both city and provincial police officers and residents of the hotel, were called. Provincial Officer Joseph Stewart was able to relate what led up to the shooting and the actual shooting itself. Miss Alleta Young, a maid at the hotel, told of actually seeing the shooting and having the body of Constable Maker drop at her feet.

Early on the morning of the 3rd Agustus Sawers who was in charge of the Montgomery Hotel went to the home of Officer Stewart and asked him to come down and take a revolver from Dave Montgomery as he was threatening to do some shooting with it. Officer Stewart immediately called up Constable Maker and in a few moments they set out on the fatal trip. They searched the premises but failed to find the revolver. Later they found Montgomery and when asked by Maker if he had a revolver said: "Yes, do you want it boys, I will get it," and with that Montgomery left the way to his room. Montgomery went into the room to get the revolver and the officers waited in the hall outside. In an instant Montgomery returned and opened fire. The officers turned to go down stairs. Montgomery fired again and as they reached the bottom of the stairs a third shot rang out and Maker fell, shot through the head.

Inspector Lougheed of Belleville when asked about the duties of provincial constables and officers stated that both men were within their rights when they searched the hotel as Stewart was a Class A Officer.

The jury were: William Welsh, Butler Hickey, James Skinner, John Kylie, John Primeau, Lorne Conway, Harry Gainey, Gordon Miller, W. S. Merrill, Wesley Flannery, Andrew Brown (foreman), and John McCann.

Dr. M. J. McCulloch.

Dr. Malcolm McMulloch was the first witness called. He told of being called to the Montgomery House on May 3rd where he found Constable Maker lying on the landing leading to the third floor with a hole in the side of his skull as if caused by some weapon. This he gave as the cause of death.

Warned Montgomery.

Mrs. John Clark, housekeeper of the Montgomery House, testified to seeing David Montgomery on the morning of May 3 and advising him not to make a row while the boss was away. Montgomery said he had something which would end all his trouble, and that he was the last of the Montgomery family and there had been enough trouble in the hotel. Answering the coroner, Mrs. Clark said she had advised him not to cause trouble because she had heard him talking loudly, as if vexed, in the front of the house.

Agustus Sawers.

Augustus Sawers, a resident of Peterborough for many years, for the past eight years he had lived at the Montgomery House.

On the night of May 2 he said he had a disagreement with Mr. Montgomery. "He used the worst language I ever heard. I told him to go to bed. Next morning he saw me sitting at the window and he swore at me again. With that I went to the phone to call the police but he stopped me. I then went up and told Inspector Stewart. Shortly after I returned Constable Maker and Mr. Stewart arrived", he explained.

"He was of a quarrelsome nature and often caused trouble with Mr. Maitland and myself", declared witness.

Questioned by the coroner as to the trouble on the second of May, witness said, "he had been provoked at me for some time as I called Stewart when he was previously arrested."

"Why did you call Stewart?"

Witness: "Mr. Stewart told me previously if Dave ever caused any further trouble he would come and take him away."

Saw Maker Fall.

Miss Alleta Youngs, chambermaid at the Montgomery House, first saw David Montgomery on the morning of the shooting about nine o'clock.

The church was filled to capacity with guests. Immediately after Mass, the whole assembly retired to the beautifully decorated Town Hall, where a sumptuous banquet was served. Following this were the toasts and speeches, after which the company dispersed for a short while to rest before the reception in the hall at night.

At 9 p.m. all the guests assembled in the hall. The bride and groom were asked to lead a procession, while Tucker's orchestra from Peterborough played "Here Comes the Bride." After the felicitations were over dancing began, with the older ones claiming the floor for most of the evening.

A special feature of the evening was a step dance by Mr. Roache and his brother Thomas, of Westwood. This was the signal of loud applause, and was repeated later in the evening.

During the intermission, Mr. and Mrs. Roache were called to the platform, where they were presented with an address and a purse of fifty dollars in gold. Harold Roache replied for his parents, which he said on behalf of his parents, on this wonderful and unusual occasion of the celebration of their golden wedding: "I cannot find words adequate to thank you for your presentation, which is greatly appreciated. As friends for the fifty years they have always found you a ready and willing hand to them in time of need. But on this occasion you have surpassed all my expectations. Once more I wish to thank you from the bottom of my heart, and I sincerely hope mother and father will live many more years midst their faithful neighbors of Keene."

WORK DELAYED AT SPRINGVILLE

Fields Are Yet Too Wet For Any King of Cultivation.

ARBOR DAY OBSERVED.

SPRINGVILLE, May 9.—Residents of North Monaghan, whose farms lie in the vicinity of the river are becoming restless to get at work on the land but will have to be content with other work for a few days yet as the fields are too wet for any kind of cultivation. A few potatoes have been planted on small dry spots and only on the highest fields has grain been sown. The wind and sun of the past few days has greatly improved conditions and it is hoped that the latter part of this week will see work on the land begun in earnest.

It has been suggested that an Arbor Day be held by the church and persons unable to take part to give a equivalent in money if they feel that way inclined and are in sympathy with the suggestion.

ORANGEMEN PARADE TO CHURCH SERVICE

Attend Divine Service at Grace Presbyterian Church at Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, May 9.—Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 308, observed the one hundred and ninth anniversary of the founding of the Order by holding its annual church parade, attending divine worship at Grace Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening.

Approximately one hundred Oddfellows paraded from the I.O.O.F. Hall to the church, and the congregation taxed the seating capacity to the utmost.

The pastor, the Rev. John Riddell, preached from the text found in 1. Samuel, 17: 37-39. And the discourse throughout emphasized the need of having a definite experience of God possessing the soul to successfuly meet every crisis in life.

Pointing out that, in ancient times, when nations were at war their gods were at war, the speaker referred to David's justifiable surprise that "an uncircumcised Philistine should defy the army of the living God."

"Moses brought together religion and economics, and welded them on the hearthstone of the family circle in Jewry, and hence Israel has always been united, and though without a country has remained a nation among nations. Destroy the whole race with the exception of one family, and there will still be a Jewish people. Modern nations, to preserve their existence, might well take a leaf out of this book.

With Saul, religion was a mental exercise, but with David it was a real experience: "The God that delivered me, He will deliver."

Possession of a man's soul by God is a real need to-day; it brings an actual experience of the Power Who will help in extremity.

Weighed down by Saul's armor, David said, "I cannot go with these because I have not proved them." This applies in our day for governments and even the church are overcome with the armour of red tape and organization, and these dampen the ardor of the spirit, suffocating the desire for accomplishment. The human soul is the cockpit of the race, where battles must first be fought, out of which may come an unfaltering trust in God when dangers threaten. Permitting oneself to be wholly possessed of God means learning the lesson of submission to His will, and the casting out of all fear."

The choir, under the leadership of Charles Thorndyke, sang two anthems: "O Sing Unto the Lord With Thanksgiving," with duet by Mrs. L. C. Russell and Miss Eileen Hunter; an attractive arrangement of "Onward Christian Soldiers.' The ushers were R. J. McKnight and Keith Larmer.

FARM RESIDENCE BURNED TO GROUND

YOUNG'S POINT, May 9.— Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed the log residence on the farm of Gordon Northey on the 14th Concession of Smith Township, with its entire contents. The fire, which is believed to have been started from the chimney, broke out about three o'clock. It was impossible to save the house, but the efforts of neighbors who responded were successful in preventing the fire from spreading to the barns.

MINISTER SAYS HE WILL KEEP ROAD IN MIND

Cannot Add Brighton-Havelock Road to Provincial System at Present.

URGES COUNTY WORK.

Some Counties Are Laying Permanent Roads, He Tells Northumberland Deputation.

TORONTO, May 9. — "I will keep this road in mind when there is an intimation that I may take over a little more mileage," was the assurance given by the Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Public Highways for the Province of Ontario. He spoke with reference to the Brighton-Havelock road, concerning which a deputation headed by Major James Belford, Codrington, and representing the territory from Campbellford to Brighton, appeared before him yesterday. There were no representatives from points further north along the road.

The discussion which ensued was, for the most part, quite informal. Major Belford, as spokesman, advised the Minister that the deputation had waited upon him for the purpose of requesting the Department to assume as a Provincial highway, the road leading from Havelock to Brighton via Campbellford. In doing so, Major Belford stressed the exceptionally bad condition of the road during the past spring season, and claimed that the road was practically ruined unless great expense were applied to it this season. Numerous culverts had been washed out by spring freshets, and parts of the road itself had suffered a similar fate. That there was urgent need for a permanent highway through this section was also pointed out by the Major.

Rev. Ernest Harston agreed with what Major Belford had said, and declared that the town was actually shut off from the rest of the world so far as road communication was concerned, for several weeks each year. The train service was not very satisfactory, and thus a good road was almost imperative. Others who addressed the Minister with similar views of the matter were Harry Phillips, Brighton, Reeve Grills, Seymour, Rev. N. Clarke Wallace, Campbellford, Mayor Kingston, Rev. C. D. Daniels, Campbellford, and Warden Davidson.

The Hon. Mr. Henry stated that he would be inclined to consider the Warden's word as the most important in the matter. To him Mr. Henry put a series of questions as to what the counties were doing regarding the road problem, and the costs of this work. Warden Davidson had the information forthcoming in most cases, and when he was not certain of some of the exact figures, Mr. Phillips, of Brighton, was able to supply the desider information.

After hearing the several speakers of the deputation, Mr. Henry replied that the common belief all through Eastern Ontario was that the other portions of the province were receiving a larger portion of permanent

ORATORY CONTEST HELD AT MARMORA

Under Auspices of Literary and Social Society—Interesting Program.

MARMORA, May 9. — The public speaking contest promoted by the Marmora Literary and Social Society and open to the pupils of the Public and Separate Schools and to the students of the Continuation School, formed the nucleus of a most entertaining program given at Marmora Town Hall on Monday evening before a large audience. Rev. C. J. Beckley, president of the society, acted as chairman, mentioning in his introductory remarks that the judgment of the speeches would be based on three counts: Subject matter, composition, and delivery.

The following program was given: "Canada's Part in the Great War," Myrtle Potts; "The Making of Steelite," illustrated with various specimens, Lawrence Paquet; selection from the Deloro String Quartette; "Sir Wilfred Laurier," Dorothy Marett; "Canada, the Out-of-doors Land," Anna Shannon; "Why Canada's Forests Should Be Preserved," Madeline Reynolds; "Venice," Mildred Finnegan; song, "That Dear Hame o' Mine," Nan Hart; "The St. Lawrence Waterways," with map illustrations, Sarah Hart; "Camping in Canada," Jessie Williams; piano duet, Mrs. W. H. Litt and Miss Kathleen Litt; "Napoleon," Rita Deacon; "Thomas A. Edison," Alice Henry; "The Story of the Cotton Plant," James Rice; selection from the Deloro String Quartette; "The Life of the Ancients," Evelyn Rice; "God's Gift to Little Men," Magee Sanderson; song, Just to Pass It Along to Father," encore, "In the Old Town Hall," J. F. Baker; selection by the Deloro String Quartette.

The fine delivery of the various orations displaying as they did wonderful memorizing, made the judging no easy task. Two prizes had been offered, one for the successful pupil from the Public and Separate Schools and the other for the best effort on the part of a Continuation School student. Each prize was divided by the judges between the contestants. Sarah Hart of the Public School and Anna Shannon of the Separate School shared honors, as did James Rice and Jessie Williams, of the Continuation School. The prizes were presented to the four young orators by S. B. Wright. A collection to defray expenses met with a liberal response.

ARBOR DAY AT APSLEY

Volunteers Make Clean-up of St. George's Church Yard and Cemetery.

SEEDING STARTED.

APSLEY, May 9.—Arbor Day was well observed in Apsley, the spirit of induction being active around St. George's Church, when about twenty men and women responded to a call from the entertainment and finance committee to volunteer to improve the churchyard and also the cemetery. A good day's work was accomplished—real work with the abnormal temperature of 85 degrees in the shade. The grass was burnt, a gravel walk made from the gate to the porch of the church, and flower borders dug, the graves and tombstones in both churchyard and cemetery put in shape, the fence around the cemetery repaired and the road into the cemetery graded.

The transformation, especially in the cemetery which was in a terribly neglected condition, is a credit to the workers, and it is hoped that those who could not take part on Friday, will help to maintain and improve the present state of both burial grounds by planting flowers and keeping the grass cut and the graves trimmed during the summer.

Seeding Started

Tuesday, May 1, was the date of the earliest seeding in this district, Herbert Lean sowing about ten bushels of oats on that day, while George Tanner followed on the next day with about the same quantity. With seed oats costing more than one dollar a bushel it is likely that a less quantity than last year will be sown.

Meal time has now become Health time to thousands!

There is food you eat to live and there is food for HEALTHFUL LIVING

Too many of us wake up each morning tired in body and depressed in mind. We go through the day without even the energy to relish our meals. We eat just to keep alive

And we are never more than just alive.

There is something wrong when food arouses no vitality, leaves us so languid . . . so tired . . . "so old."

"I am a singing master, and formerly played many leading roles in Grand Opera. Being confined to my studio in recent years, I began to suffer from constipation . . . . . thanks to Fleischmann's Yeast I am continuing in my profession, and am healthy in mind and body."

Tom Benson, Toronto, Ont.

Soft, fiberless modern food—with all the stimulating vigor refined out of it—produces constipation and its deadly consequence, intestinal poisoning.

To relieve this condition you do not have to change your diet. Just add another food if you want to eat for healthful living. It is yeast,—a tiny fresh vegetable—the freshest, daintiest kind imaginable, yet a concentrated health food.

Three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast a day—eaten before or between meals—have become in four short years the Great Health Habit of Canada.

Try this Health Custom to keep you happy. Order two or three days' supply from your grocer. Eat a cake before or between meals.

A very interesting booklet on "Regaining Health" will be sent to you, gladly. Write to The Fleischmann Co., Department 203B 1449 St. Alexander Street, Montreal, Que.

"I took it regularly, 3 cakes a day dissolved in milk. In one month I was eating all my old favorite dishes. Today I am a different person. My weight is normal. And I am congenial to live with. Had I heard of Fleischmann's Yeast sooner I would have been saved untold misery.

Advertising Rates on application.

R. M. GLOVER, Managing Director.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 9, 1928.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.

The increasing use of newspaper advertising by both Federal and Provincial Governments to bring important information quickly before the people is a striking testimony to the value of the daily newspapers as an advertising medium.

Only a day or two ago Hon. W. D. Euler paid tribute to the successful results of advertising information in regard to the collection of the income tax, while here in Ontario Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister of Highways, is preparing to launch an appeal for highway safety through the newspapers.

Governments rarely used this form of advertising until it was discovered that in the Victory Loan campaign, the food conservation drive and other war efforts the newspaper offered by far the best and most effective way of reaching the people.

Applying the experience of the war years to their peace-time activities, various Governments have continued to more and more rely upon the advertising columns, and their experience has been that, in every case, their judgment has been vindicated.

The newspapers did the work thoroughly and satisfactorily, and the best evidence of that is that each week finds some Government department calling upon their services.

SUPPORT THE BALL CLUB.

For the obvious reason that representation in senior sport is of value not only as a means of entertainment for many citizens but as an advertising medium of importance, The Examiner trusts that the theatrical performance to be given next week in aid of the Peterborough Baseball Club will be liberally patronized by the public.

It helps any city to be known as a good sporting centre, and the exploits of Peterborough's hockey team for several seasons and the record of the senior ball team last year in eliminating the Toronto champions and reaching the Ontario finals did much to give Peterborough such a reputation.

This year the Peterborough team is back in the Central Ontario League, the organization that has provided so much excitement and entertainment for the sport-loving people of this section of the Province, and the games are being eagerly awaited.

It is an expensive league in which to operate, however, and in order to start under favorable conditions the Peterborough Ball Club is appealing to its friends to attend next week's show in the Grand Opera House and provide the club with a much-needed set of new uniforms.

A fine show in aid of such a worth-while cause should have no difficulty in attracting the desired support.

KEEP IT OFF THE AIR.

Any hope that the International Bible Students' Association might have had of arousing public opinion in favor of a renewal of the I.B.S.A.'s broadcasting license must surely have been killed by the address given by the general manager of the organization at a protest meeting in Toronto on Sunday.

This speaker is reported to have devoted most of his time to attempting to show that the teachings of the Christian church are "corrupt," and to a tirade against the doctrine of the Trinity.

It was because of such attacks filling the air with a constant fusilade of abuse for Christian ministers and the Christian church that the organization's broadcasting license was revoked, and no loud talk about curtailing the freedom of speech should be allowed to interfere with the decision of the Government.

Petitions signed in many cases by citizens who are not listeners-in and know nothing about the real merits of the case should be given the consideration they deserve—and no more.

The majority of Canadians who look upon the radio as a source of entertainment and education are satisfied to get along without the offensive messages that the I.S.B.A. poured forth during its hours on the air.

A STRONG COMMITTEE.

The executive selected by Hon. Geo. S. Henry for the Highway Safety Committee will command general respect, including as it does such men as W. G. Robertson, secretary of the Ontario Motor League; J. F. H. Wyse, secretary of the Ontario Safety League; Brigadier-General Draper, Toronto's chief constable; Thomas Smith, secretary of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade; R. M. Smith, the Deputy Minister of Highways; J. P. Bickell, the registrar of motor vehicles, and a number of municipal representatives.

The linking up of so many organizations and interests in a common effort to formulate plans to reduce accidents should result in a successful campaign.

The members of the committee are tackling one of the biggest problems of the day, a problem that demands the attention of every citizen, whether he be motorist or pedestrian, and they should have support from every quarter in the campaign they are undertaking.

The drive should get under way as rapidly as possible in view of the fact that the peak of the motoring season is approaching.

The committee is thoroughly representative, and its personnel inspires confidence in its ability to do something to check the heavy toll occasioned by motor accidents.

WHO WON THE WAR?

"Liberty," a magazine published in the bailiwick of "Big Bill" Thompson, and which is one of the publications we abstain from reading, asks us to make some comment on an editorial it has published under the caption "Who Won the War?"

We think the British Empire did, chiefly. But we are not interested enough to argue about it. And the reason is that the question can't be definitely settled, and never will be definitely settled. When we were a boy we were somehow given the impression that it was Wellington who whipped Napoleon at Waterloo. We rather fancy, however, that Prussian boys were brought up with the belief that the man who turned the trick was Blucher. And so it will be as long as there is history.

It settles nothing, and does no good, to keep on debating who won the war. All we can know is that the men who fought and died, whether they were British or Americans or Frenchmen or Italians, helped—and that is enough. The task before us now is to remember the dead, and what they died for, by doing something to keep the peace.—Ottawa Journal.

WHAT IS TO COME?

"For thousands upon thousands of years man was content to be pulled behind or ride on the back of a horse at a pace which seldom exceeded twelve miles an hour, and was generally much less—and in three generations he has accelerated until in the air (in the person of Major de Bernardi) he has nearly touched 350 miles an hour. It is an extension of free-will beyond the dreams of our forefathers."—London Morning Post.

Wonderful—but how much else that is wonderful has come during "the past three generations"—less than a hundred years?

Steamships, railways, motors and electric and gasoline launches; the ocean cable; the telegraph, the telephone, wireless, radio; hydro-electric power, the force of rivers transferred hundreds of miles for industrial and domestic use; in surgery, X-rays, anesthetics and inoculations; photography and daily newspapers; explorations which have mapped all of the earth, investigated all previously unknown regions and touched the north and south poles.

What is to come? In only one hundred years of this earth's hundreds of thousand of past years, man's mastery of his conditions has become something which would have exposed to incarceration in an asylum for the insane any one who a hundred years ago prophesied a hundredth part of the wonders we know now.

What is to come? Is there to be found a means to extend average human life to greater duration?—Ottawa Journal.

THE AMEER SEES THE SIGHTS.

If last impressions are best impressions it is Soviet Russia that will have profited most by the King of Afghanistan's grand tour of Europe. He has arrived in Moscow on the last stage of his journey. Theoretical Communist prejudice against monarchs has not been allowed to stand in the way of a full-dress reception to the Ameer in the Soviet capital. Presumably the opportunity will not be omitted to display the might of the Red Army. Yet it is doubtful whether Great Britain regards the Ameer's sojourn in Moscow with the apprehension of thirty-five years ago, when Kipling warned his countrymen against the bear who walks like a man on the Roof of the World.

British anxieties concerning Russian designs in India have not disappeared. But the change that has taken place, in the nature of the problem, is summed up by a difference in prepositions. Czarist designs were on India; Soviet designs, if they exist, are in India. The "menace" of a generation ago was the march of a Russian army upon the Indian frontier in alliance with the Afghans. Russian aims and methods to-day do not require free passage through a friendly Afghanistan. The Soviet weapon for the release of Great Britain's "colonial slaves" in Asia is not armies, but agitators. These can be brought into India in any number of ways. Not all the Strickland Sahibs in the Indian Secret Service can entirely cut off the communications which the Third International, for the purpose of bringing on a world revolution, has been so expert in establishing. In fact, it would seem to be the best Soviet tactics not to create undue apprehension in Great Britain by reviving old fears concerning Chitral and Khyber Pass. A Great Britain on the qui vive would make it more difficult for the infiltration of Soviet propaganda.

This is based on the theory that the present rule at Moscow is anxious to stir up trouble for Great Britain in India, something which is far from certain. The Bolshevist regime cannot flirt with the idea of war, and a serious drive against the British position in India might bring war to the Soviet's doors in Europe. Last year the Soviet Government succeeded in working the Russian people up to a state of panic over Sir Austen Chamberlain's "war preparations." Poland and the rest of the border States were seen as marshaling under British leadership for an attack on Russia. This was patriotic propaganda designed at Moscow to close up the serious gap in the Communist ranks opened up by the struggle between Stalin and Trotsky. The imaginary Chamberlain threat of last year might become a reality if the British status in India were brought into question. The Soviet Government has too many pressing internal problems to be thinking of a challenge to Great Britain; quite aside from the general consideration that a war made Bolshevism and another war might destroy it.—New York Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There seems to be a certain liveliness on the Port Colborne front.

The Burgomaster of Mons has sent his congratulations to General Sir Arthur Currie. The victor of the battle of Cobourg seems to be getting all the spoils.

Gun-play along the border is likely to be much more deadly than the firewater the shooting is intended to keep out. Those coast guardsmen must think they are in Chicago.

The battling at Ottawa is growing in intensity. Probably the members are trying to show that they are earning an increase in their indemnities.

Some of those pictures the Trent Waterway Association is using to boost the Kawartha Lakes would tempt even some of us to go fishing there.

Apparently some local motorists are not superstitious. They do not believe in those "stop" signs.

Perhaps those Toronto bandits did not know that a new chief constable is on duty in the Queen City.

Pains Across Kidneys For Two Years

Unable to Work

"Gin Pills—Wonderful Remedy"

We receive thousands of letters yearly from grateful users of Gin Pills, who have been relieved of suffering from kidney and bladder trouble. When Nature fails to do her proper work of eliminating harmful waste through the kidneys, bladder and bowels, a remedy must be found. Many people have found Gin Pills to be this remedy. Among them, James Johnson of Bridgeburg, Ont. He writes:

"I was troubled with pains across the kidneys for two years. I was unable to do any work. I read about Gin Pills and got a box right away from my druggist. My sincere thanks are due you for your wonderful remedy, which has done so much for me."

Neglect of kidney trouble spells disaster. Lumbago, Rheumatism and Sciatica as well as bladder and urinary troubles follow. Upon the first warning get a box of Gin Pills, 50c at all druggists. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Canada. 127

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., May 9 (Canadian Press). — There was an improved demand from the United Kingdom for wheat in nearby positions here yesterday, and the sales were estimated between 400,000 and 500,000 bushels, but there was no inquiry for coarse grains. The domestic trade was slow, but the prices were steady.

The flour trade was without any special feature to note, prices for spring and winter wheat grades being well maintained under a moderate demand.

The inquiry from the United States for millfeed continued good, but as the prices bid were $1.00 per ton below what sellers were asking, the volume of business accomplished was smaller than it has been of late. The demand from local buyers was steady and the tone of the market was firm.

There was no further change in prices for eggs yesterday, but the undertone to the market was very firm at the late advance in prices noted owing to the comparatively small offerings from the west and Ontario for the season of the year which is attributed to the keen demand for supplies for storing purposes. The receipts were 4,953 cases.

On account of the warmer weather prevailing and the supplies of potatoes on track being somewhat large for the period of the year, an easier feeling developed and prices in some cases were shaded 5c per bag in order to make sales. The demand was somewhat limited.

The demand for imported beans showed no improvement and the market was quiet, but the undertone remains firm with car lots of choice white hand-picked beans quoted at $4.20 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities sold at $4.40 per bushel, ex-store.

The feature of the butter trade was the continued weakness that prevailed, and prices dropped another ¼c to ½c per pound. There was some demand from outside sources, and one car was shipped to Toronto and 369 packages to the British West Indies. The receipts were 664 packages.

On the local curb market there were 1,200 packages of creamery butter offered, and the settling price for No. 1 pasteurized was 32c per pound, while No. 2 grade sold at 31c per pound, and No. 3 at 30c per pound, delivered here.

There was no improvement in the demand for cheese owing to the fact that cables from London stated that they were not interested in the fodder make at anything over 90s per cwt. A little business was done between houses on spot. The receipts were 3,394 boxes. There were 300 boxes of Eastern cheese offered on the curb market, which were settled for on the basis of 1s per pound for No. 1 white and colored, delivered here.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 9 (Canadian Press), — Reports of excessively dry weather north-west brought about active buying of future deliveries of wheat yesterday, and led to a late advance in prices.

There were also reports that labor disturbances were spreading in Argentina, and that winter killing of wheat and rye in Germany is the worst met with since 1924.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ⅝c to 1¾c net higher, with corn ⅛c off to ¼c up, oats showing ⅜c to ½c to ⅝c advance, and provisions at a rise of 7 to 15 cents.

Broadening of demand for wheat yesterday manifested itself chiefly in the final hour, after numerous reports had been received telling of dust storms in the Dakotas and in Minnesota. Temperatures as high as 90 were noted, and Sioux Falls, S.D., despatches said soil had been blown down to the roots in wheat fields where soil is light. There were claims, too, that in a few days moisture would be also needed west and south-west as well.

To some extent, the Government crop report due to-day was likewise a bullish influence, predictions being current that the report would show a probable domestic yield of 460,000,000 bushels of winter wheat this season, compared with 552,000,000 bushels last year.

On the other hand, the general trend of the market earlier in the day was downward, prices here being affected by Liverpool weakness which was associated with reports of large arrivals of wheat in Great Britain and with the increasing of stocks there.

Corn and oats rallied with wheat, but were rather sluggish. Weather conditions were favorable for corn planting. Oats values derived some strength from news that exporters were bidding for American white oats.

Provisions started upward, sympathizing with actions both of cotton and of hogs.

CANADIAN FOLK SONG AND HANDICRAFT FESTIVAL QUEBEC—MAY 24-28, 1928

The Canadian Folk Song and Handicraft Festival to be held for the second time at the Chauteau Frontenac, Quebec, from May 24 to 28 under the direction of Marius Barbeau of the National Museum of Canada will be a musical fete of the highest degree. Quebec, with all its ancient charm, the cradle of Canadian history, is the perfect background for such a gathering as the Festival. There is a glamour of romance over it all—over the Chauteau Frontenac, turretted and spired, not just a hotel but a mediaeval castle perched high on a cliff above the blue shield of the St. Lawrence.

A conducted tour is the ideal way to visit Quebec and Mr. Henry Button will once again sponsor such a tour. Illustrated booklets and programs will be forwarded if request is sent to Mr. Henry Button, Aldine House, 224 Bloor St. West, Toronto.

Canadian Pacific agents will also be glad to furnish particulars. Mr. Jas. Skinner, C.P.A., Peterborough, Ont.

A new gas mixture, 700 times lighter than benzine, is to be used to drive the five engines of a new German airship with which it is hoped to start a transatlantic service this summer.

HEAT means life-or death

Your motor lives by heat. It perishes from over-heat. Faster than the imagination can race, one explosion follows another with lightning rapidity—twenty-five a second—fifteen hundred a minute—almost fusing into a flame of white heat.

Only a thin film of oil robs that intense heat of its power to destroy—to reduce your living motor to a dead mass of over-heated metal. Your Motor's life or death depends upon oil.

That is why lubrication authorities recommend Veedol, the heat-tested oil that gives the "film of protection"—thin as tissue, smooth as silk, tough as steel—the film that fights to save your engine and that masters deadly heat and friction.

To maintain the fighting qualities of this film of protection, Veedol is tested to withstand heat 100° hotter than the hottest friction spot in your motor. This definite extra margin of heat-resistance makes Veedol the safest of all lubrications for your motor.

The new Veedol oils reformulated to lubricate modern high-speed, high-compression motors safely and correctly are heavier-bodied, tougher and longer-lived than ever. Correct for the new motors, they are better for any motor. Have your crank-case filled with the new Veedol and give your motor the extra protection it requires.

Sold wherever the familiar orange and black Veedol sign is displayed.

GOD'S MINUTE

Incline my heart unto Thy testimonies.—Ps. 119:36.

Our Father, we thank Thee for the gift of life, for soundness of body and sanity of mind, for keenness of conscience and strength of will, for power of choice and privilege of service. We thank Thee that Thou settest the solitary in families, for membership in the great family circle where Thou art our Father. We lift our hearts to Thee in thanksgiving for all the gifts that make life so rich and worth living—for love of father, mother, brother, sister. We thank Thee for friends, for education, for our country.

We ask Thee for power to live as we ought, to serve as we should. We ask Thee to bless our family, our neighborhood, our city, our state, our nation. Grant Thy grace upon those that Thou hast placed to govern and lead us. Grant Thy wisdom to our teachers, Thy blessing upon our schools, hospitals, prisons, that out of sorrow and suffering we may gain strength and patience. Make and keep the nations of the earth righteous, that we may have peace. Lead us through the valley of the shadow of death to the city where there is no night, no sin, no sorrow, no death.

All these favors we ask through Jesus Christ our Saviour. Amen.

FIRE DAMAGES STIRLING BLOCK

Loss of $8,000 Caused By Blaze in Jewelry Store.

BUILDING THREATENED.

STIRLING, May 9.— The summer water service proved its value as an asset to the village on Tuesday morning when fire was discovered in the Rollins and Jeffery three story block on Front street. The alarm was sounded at 2 o'clock and in a very short time a line of hose was attached to a nearby hydrant, but none too soon, as already the inner part of S. S. Roblin's jewelry store was a mass of flames, and the store room at the rear, used by the proprietors for storing grain and flour, was in imminent danger as well as the whole block. The Oddfellows' hall in the upper story was in danger and some of the officers of the lodge entered the hall by a fire escape from Meiklejohn's block and secured the books and other valuables. The contents of the jewelry store were completely destroyed except what were in a small safe. The damage to Messrs. Rollins' and Jeffery's stock was mostly done by water and smoke, and is estimated at $8,000, being fully covered by insurance.

W.M.S. MEMBERS HEAR FINE PAPERS

Stewardship is Keynote of Regular Meeting at George Street Church.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held in the board room of Sunday School Hall yesterday afternoon with an attendance of about fifty members.

Mrs. E. E. Harvey, vice president, occupied the chair, owing to the absence of Mrs. E. Coon, who is attending the branch meeting of the Presbyterial in Lindsay. The meeting opened with a service of stewardship worship. "The Earth is the Lords," followed by prayer led by Mrs. J. Stubbs.

The secretary's report was read by Mrs. J. Spencer in the absence of Mrs. Morton, who is also in Lindsay and Mrs. Dubmage, the treasurer, gave her report.

The meeting was then taken charge of by Mrs. W. McMillan, leader of Group D. A series of papers on "The Stewardship of Life" was given by Mesdames Stephens, Batten and Wasson. Mrs. Stephens gave a splendid report on the Oriental work. Mrs. J. R. Todd reported for the Mission Band, announcing that the next meeting would be entirely in charge of the boys of the Band. Mrs. Knox reported for the Y.W.A. telling of their preparations for sending a bale. It was announced that the second Sunday in October was open for the Women's Missionary Society, and they decided to take charge of the services for that day. Mesdames Coon, Harvey and Armstrong were named as a committee to secure a suitable speaker for that Sunday.

The members of Group A of this society invited all to be present at an entertainment in Grace Sunday School on the evening of May 22, when P. L. Roy will show some moving pictures.

Plans were perfected for the Mother and Daughter banquet on Friday evening. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Wasson.

COLON CLEANSING

We occasionally read of someone dying from breathing sewer gas, but millions are meeting untimely deaths because of the generation and retention of poisonous gases within the body's own sewage system.

The intestines are divided into two parts, the small intestine and the large intestine which is also called the colon. In the small intestine food materials are absorbed after being changed by the digestive ferments. A natural fermentation takes place through which the various foods are converted into substances which can be assimilated by the villi of the intestines.

When the body is enervated through wrong habits of living, and the small intestine does not have enough energy with which to force along the unused food materials, the result is that various wastes and toxins are absorbed from the feces which has been too long retained. When the food wastes and impurities finally reach the colon or large intestine there is even a greater absorption of toxins if the membrane of the colon is not in a healthy condition.

Most people suffer from colitis in a greater or less degree. This simply means inflammation of the large intestine, and when this condition exists there is bound to be an absorption of poisons into the blood stream. THE INTESTINAL ABSORPTION OF TOXINS WHICH SHOULD HAVE BEEN ELIMINATED IS PERHAPS THE GREATEST SINGLE CAUSE OF DISEASE.

When the membrane of the colon is in a healthy condition, such poisoning of the blood stream cannot take place. In a large percentage of cases, however, there is not only a dangerous absorption of poisons from the colon but because of prolapsus and kinks in the colon these poisonous toxins are occasionally forced back into the small intestine, where they are even more readily absorbed than in the colon. Constipation and obstipation must therefore be overcome. Until one has learned to do this through using a sensible diet and developing a better tone of the intestinal and abdominal muscles, the safest plan is to take one or two enemas every day to assure a thorough cleansing of the colon.

This enema treatment should be used by anyone suffering from any kind of disease or disorder. Laxatives are temporarily helpful, but there are many objections to the continued use of such remedies which in the end produce more intestinal irritation. The washing out of the colon with plain water cannot produce any injury to the membranes or produce a partial paralysis as claimed by many who are uninformed. The inside of the colon is always unclean, and certainly cannot be injured by washing with clean water.

After several weeks of such a cleansing treatment it is necessary for anyone to wait two or three days after taking the last enema before the bowels will move by themselves. This is just because the bowels have been completely cleaned out at least two days in advance.

KEEP THE COLON CLEAN! If you do not have two or three bowel movements daily, take one or two enemas each day until you learn how to overcome constipation.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mary G. asks: "Are kidney stones really made of stone, and if so, how is it possible to dissolve them?"

Answer: Kidney stones are of various kinds. They are made of uric acid crystals, urates, oxalate of lime, phosphate crystals, calcium carbonate, cystine, carbonate of lime, xanthine, and indigo. These crystals and minerals are cemented together into differently shaped stones, but are rarely of the same composition as ordinary stones of the soil. Many of these stones can be dissolved under proper dietetic treatment. If the chemistry of the urine is properly changed, the cemented crystals lose their adherence to each other and pass out in the form of "gravel." Such remedies as muriatic acid are sometimes used to dissolve these stones, but the safest and sanest method is through changing the chemistry of the urine by scientific dietetics.

Question: Mrs. K. L. G. writes: "I intend taking a sea voyage, but as I am a very poor sailor, I dread being sea-sick. Do you think I could overcome this tendency to seasickness if I eat only certain kinds of food?"

Answer: It is probably true that a vast amount of seasickness is caused simply by biliousness. Yet, there are many people in good health who become nauseated whenever they sit in a swing or are subjected to any regular motion such as they get when on a ship. This may be due to defects of vision which can be corrected by properly fitted glasses, or it may be caused by an improper amount of the balancing fluid in the inner ear. In the latter case, one may be unable to overcome the trouble except by staying in bed and lying in a horizontal position. This will generally overcome seasickness, no matter what the cause. This would be a good time for you to try a fruit fast, using only one kind of fruit on any one day.

CONVENTION REPORT MOST INTERESTING

Mrs. K. S. Wightman Tells Otonabee Chapter About Hamilton Meetings.

Mrs. K. S. Wightman gave an interesting report of the sessions of the recent Provincial I.O.D.E. convention held in Hamilton, at the last regular meeting of the Otonabee Chapter. Her beautifully-worded address summarized concisely the main features of the meetings.

One of these centered about a discussion as to the form of the memorial to the late Provincial president, Mrs. H. F. Burkholder. Various suggestions were made, including a very popular one of the bursary to be established at a Canadian university. Other suggestions were to build a nurses' home at the sanitarium at Hamilton, to provide and furnish a reception room at the same place, to raise funds for the training of foreign girls as nurses, and also to place a portrait of the late president in the Hamilton sanitarium, although one has already been hung there. The proposed sum for the memorial is $5,000, or $250 annually. The bursary at a Canadian university, if this suggestion is adopted, will take the form of a subsidy to medical research work.

Miss McMurchy of Toronto was present at the convention, and spoke of the work done in India by the I.O.D.E. The regent of the Kaiser-i-Hind Chapter there, Miss Sorabji, is the daughter of a Parsee family who have been converted to Christianity. She is among the most distinguished and intellectual of India's educated women. Through her work, patriotic, philanthropic and educational, aided by the I.O.D.E. contributions to "Work in India", something is being done to raise the status of Indian womanhood, degraded for centuries through the custom of child-marriage, which is based on religious belief. While persuasive pressure is being exercised against this revolting condition, legislation is deprecated by the present Government as both irritating and useless, because the orthodox community would regard the legal abolition of child-marriage as a summons to a holy war.

The question of the War Memorial was also considered. During the past year some $26,000 has been paid upon this debt. On the 13th of April of this year, when the books were closed, the sum of $5,694.56 was still owing. Upon the reading of the report of the Provincial Treasurer, it was shown that the Provincial Chapter had a balance on hand of $3,648.75, and it was moved, seconded and carried with enthusiasm that the Provincial Chapter donate $2,000 toward the completion of the War Memorial.

KING SENTENCED FOR TAKING CAR

Goes to Reformatory For Eleven Months On Pleading Guilty To Stealing.

HAS LONG RECORD.

Arthur King was sentenced to 11 months in the Ontario Reformatory by His Honor Judge Huycke for stealing an automobile the property of C. M. Moncur. King, who appeared before Magistrate Langley some weeks ago, elected to be tried by His Honor and yesterday in a special session of the Criminal Court of the County of Peterborough he pleaded guilty to the charge.

E. Sheehy ably defended the prisoner and Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., prosecuted for the Crown. Mr. Sheehy in addressing His Honor submitted that there was no intention on the part of his client to keep the car but that he and a friend had gone for a motor ride, expecting that Mr. Moncur, who was in Toronto at the time, would not be back until the morning and that they would have the car back in the garage. Mr. Moncur arrived sooner than was expected and the absence of the car was discovered. A search was immediately started which resulted in King being arrested in Lakefield. His lawyer claimed that if he had meant to keep the car or dispose of it he would not have gone to a place the size of Lakefield and that he was not in the same category as the criminals who make a practice of taking cars and selling them.

Mr. Hatton claimed that there was intention on the part of the prisoner to steal the car. He had broken into the garage and taken it out, going to Warsaw, McCracken's Landing, and Lakefield. In the latter town they had some trouble which held them up and they were arrested. Mr. Hatton produced a long list of convictions for a man 25 years old dating back as far as 1922. The prisoner, speaking for himself, offered to leave the country if let off.

His Honor in passing judgment said the prisoner had appeared before him before and he had found that he could not be trusted, though he had always promised to do better. "I do not know what to say to you, you are a bright boy with good ability and come from a respectable family. I would like to let you go but it seems to me out of the question. The offense is a serious one and our newspapers and all in charge of public affairs are asking for more severe sentences. If I did not think there was some ray of hope for you I would give you a heavy sentence. I do not think that you intended to keep the car and you belong to a well known family. These two things are in your favor. It seems to me that in the last four or five years you have spent half your time in prison. What you are going to make of yourself when you get out I don't know, but I can warn you that if ever you appear before me again I will give you the maximum sentence." His Honor then said he would take into consideration the month already spent in jail and sentence the prisoner to 11 months in the Ontario Reformatory.

Constable Matthews told me he had shot Montgomery."

Only One Wound.

John Comstock, asked if there was any indication of any other wound than the one in the chest, "That is all we found, sir," said the witness.

Constable Matthews was then called. "About 9.10 I met Mr. Stewart. He took me by the arm and said, 'Come along to the station, poor Norm. has been shot.' I went to the station and told Carey and Puffer that Maker had been shot. I then rushed to the Montgomery Hotel, but Detective Carey and Puffer were there before me. Constable Puffer was standing over Maker's body when I arrived, and he asked me to phone a doctor. As I came down to phone I heard Puffer talking to Montgomery. As Carey came downstairs I heard a girl call from the back yard that he was coming down over the roof.

"I went to the front door of the paint shop and Carey to the back. I opened the hall door, and knowing what had happened before and that he had shot Maker, I was well on my guard. On opening the door I saw him with his gun pointed at my head. I yelled twice to him to put down his gun. He did not, and I aimed at his shoulder and fired. He tottered, and as he fell I tried to take his gun from him. He made another effort to shoot me, but I had hold of the revolver."

Constable Matthews identified the revolver and the five cartridges he took out of the gun.

To the Coroner witness stated he shot in self defence, his intention being to wound Montgomery in the arm. The movement Montgomery made caused him to receive the bullet in the chest.

Chief Newhall

Chief Newhall told of finding Constable Matthews on the staircase beside Maker's body when he arrived at the hotel. I asked Matthews for the gun that had shot Maker. I asked him later for his own, and took one discharged shell out. The rest of the chambers were fully loaded.

Q—"What are your instructions in the case of situations such as arose that morning?"

A—"The detective is always to take the initiative, and the constables are ordered to get their men but to protect themselves."

"What have you to say to Constable Matthews' record?"

"He has a clean sheet in every respect."

"Do you approve of the action of Constable Matthews?" asked a juryman.

"In the situation there was nothing else to be done."

"You approve of it?"

"Decidedly."

"You have heard the evidence which led up to this. You have heard of the murder of Constable Maker, and that this man was trying to escape," Coroner Dr. Young began in his charge. "Matthews took his orders from Carey. He was stationed at a certain door and saw the man inside. He went in to get his man, daring death. Twice he told him to drop his gun, and he took no more chances. He shot to wound but the movement of Montgomery caused him to be killed. That, gentlemen, was justifiable homicide or self defence. Matthews is a brave officer, who risked death in the discharge of his duty, the kind of officer we want on the police force of this and every other city. He can count himself fortunate.

"Constable Maker was also a brave man, who risked death in the discharge of his duty, and was killed. Constable Stewart also risked his life."

SHOOTING OF MAKER FOUND DELIBERATE

She was in the sitting room on the second floor at the time, and could see Montgomery coming down the stairs from the third floor. She saw him going up the stairs later and then he came down again. Fifteen minutes later he came back with Maker and Stewart, while she was going from the sitting room to Mrs. Clark's room. As she was standing there she heard Montgomery say: "Come on boys I'll show you where my revolver is", and a very short time after she heard two or three shots and Maker fell down at her feet. The only other sound she heard was when Mr. Stewart turned and ran down. Maker and Montgomery had reached the top when the shots were fired, but Stewart had not and he turned when Maker cried out "My God, I'm shot." Montgomery ran down to the landing after Mr. Stewart and stepped over Maker's body and called out that it was Mr. Stewart that he was trying to get. Montgomery came down a few steps and then turned and went back. Mr. Hubert appeared and Miss Youngs called her and they went down the back stairs. When Montgomery was going back he called on God to forgive him as he was driven to it and that he was going to get even with Mr. S, who was the cause of it all.

When Montgomery was going up the she was holding something in his hand which she could not distin

"When Mr. Stewart reached bottom of the stairs I showed the way out by the bar room, to avoid being shot at through windows on Simcoe street.

Provinc officer Joseph Stewart, Constable cer's companion on the day of shooting, has resided in Peterboro for 48 years, 43 of which he been a law officer, serving as own police officer, a license ins or, and an officer under the L. and L.C.A.

Mr. Stand: "You remember the morni May 3?"

Mr. Stewart: "I'll never forget it as long as I live."

Mr. Strickland: "Tell the jury what occurred."

Mr. Stewart: "Sawers came to my home and told me Montgomery was cutting up again and he wanted me to come down and get him. I called up Mr. Maker and he said he would come in about 15 minutes. We drove down in Maker's car and we discussed the situation but could come to no decision. We went into the house and Montgomery had gone out. We went into Andrews' place and then walked out and saw him coming. He walked up to us as rational as I had ever seen him and wished us good morning. Mr. Maker told him we had heard he was causing trouble with a gun and that we had come to get it. Montgomery said: "Come on, I'll give you the gun.'"

Stopped by Mr. Strickland Mr. Stewart said when they could not find Montgomery in the hotel the first time they had searched his room for the gun, and then they went out, meeting him as he had said before.

They started up the stairs, Montgomery leading, with Maker next. Montgomery went down into the back hall where his room was.

"He hadn't more than time to go into the room when he came out and fired a shot at us. Mr. Maker was a few steps ahead of me. When he fired the first shot Mr. Maker jumped back and we made for the stairs. We were half way down the stairs when he shot again. Maker fell down two st I thought he got it at the back of the head. I thought he got the one before.

There were three shots fired, one in the corridor, and two on the stairs. Maker fell right past Stewart and lay on the landing.

"I pursued my course on down the left hand side of the stairs. I felt a bullet go by me and it lit in the floor. Mr. Lipsett pulled me to one side and another shot hit the wall of the office. He must have come down further, though I didn't see him. I went through a little door into the bar and out into the street. I went up Simcoe street as fast as I could and saw Mr. Matthews. I called to him and told him what had happened."

"Did you see Montgomery on Simcoe street?"

"No."

"Did you hear anything?"

"I heard him clicking the gun behind me, either once or twice. Did you turn around when you got to Matthews and see Montgomery?"

"I thought I saw him going into the hotel door or yard."

Juryman Brown: "In your evidence you told of Mr. Maker following Montgomery and of Montgomery coming out and firing. Did you see him fire?"

"No sir. I wasn't expecting it. We turned and Maker didn't speak to me and I didn't speak to him. We were side by side on the stairs when the shots were fire.

Was Not Armed.

"Was Maker armed?"

"I don't know."

"Were you."

"No."

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall told of getting the revolver. "On the morning of May 3 I went to the hotel shortly after the shooting, and got the revolver from Matthews. Five shells had been taken out, and I found three empty ones on Montgomery's dressing table. One empty shell had been hit once and the others two or three times. In the revolver was one shell which had been hit by the hammer several times."

Two loaded cartridges were also produced that had been hit by the hammer several times. Witness said these were probably the ones Mr. Stewart heard being clicked as Montgomery followed him up Simcoe Street.

Constable Puffer.

Constable Gordon Puffer described the hotel and told of his conversation with Montgomery that morning. He had been kneeling beside Constable Maker when he saw Montgomery on the landing.

"I drew my gun and told him to throw down his and surrender. He said: "Not by a d——n sight. "I'll get every son of a b——," and ran away."

Evidence Clear.

"The evidence has been very clear—and I don't think you will have much difficulty in coming to a decision. There had been a scrap the night before between Montgomery and Sawers and the next morning Sawers notified Officer Stewart and that officer did the most likely thing, getting into communication with Provincial Constable Maker," said the coroner before allowing the jury to withdraw.

MINISTER WILL KEEP ROAD IN MIND

roads than was the east. This he declared, was not so, the Eastern counties were getting every cent that is coming to them. Many counties were constructing permanent roads themselves and not having the province do it. He was strongly in favor of the sale of short-term debentures to cover the cost. He gave as his meaning of short-term, "ten years or perhaps fifteen. It was his aim, he said, to do some work in each county each year. This year some counties were not having any work done by the Department. Brant and Waterloo were the two he mentioned, and Perth was having a little work done. In support his claim for the roads of the Eastern portion of the province, Mr. Hey mentioned that the Prime Minister of Ontario was a resident of Eastern Ontario, and was inclined to check up on the road situation occasionally.

Since the province has taken over 500 more miles of roads last year, the Minister could make no definite promise for the present year. He was of the opinion that the counties should do more work than they were doing. They should seriously consider issuing short-term debentures as a means of finance. He also reminded them that there was a representative in Port Hope whose duty was to give them what advice they needed, "at your beck and call," said Mr. Henry. "I will keep this road in mind when there is an intimation that I may take over a little more mileage," he said in closing.

Although it was originally expected that the deputation would number about fifty persons, there were only twenty-four who were present in the Minister's private office yesterday afternoon. Some who did come for the interview were unable to remain when it was found that the meeting would not take place at the specified time. Most of the representatives went to Toronto by motor, and thus were not obliged to adhere to train schedules.

Liverpool education authorities have decorated their school buildings with bright colors inside and out on the theory that the workingours of the pupils will be brighter and better school work will result.

1927—By NEA Service Inc.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

From the veranda of the Hotel Majusaca, at Ocean Town, N. J., Titus Riggs, a guest, sees a man taken from the ocean and laid on the beach while a crowd gathers to stare.

The reader has been introduced to these bathers:

Ned Barron, the copper king, and his wife, Madeline; Angelica Fair and her fiance, Robert Sears; Robin's father, Croydon Sears; Carmelita Valdon, and her companions, Roger Neville, Garrett Folsom and Mrs. Barnaby, whom everyone calls The Duchess.

From the shocked expression on the faces of the throng, Riggs surmises that the man is dead and, putting down his field glasses, he hastens down to the beach to learn that the dead man is Garrett Folsom.

The body is brought to the hotel and Folsom's valet, Ross, is summoned.

CHAPTER III.

Clearly, few desired to stay in that room of death unless obliged to do so.

"Is—is that my master, sir?" Ross said, looking timorously at the shrouded figure.

"We assume it is," Dixon returned gently, for he was of a kindly nature.

He turned back the blanket, and with a slight shudder Ross looked at the dead man.

"Yes," he said, "yes, sir, that is Mr. Folsom. I am his man. What happened to him?"

"We only know that he died while in bathing. Was he subject to cramp or acute indigestion, or any sudden illness?"

"No, sir. That is, not to say subject to such. But he has had cramp in the water, and he has also had indigestion attacks. But never what I would call serious. Are you—are you sure he's—gone, sir? He looks so lifelike, you see."

"There's no hope, my man. He is surely dead. Are you here long with him?"

"Yes, sir. We came yestday afternoon. Got in about four."

"From where?"

"From New York city la. But Mr. Folsom lives in Chicago."

"I know. Now, we mi want to question you further later But just now we have to do the mo necessary things first. Who are M Folsom's friends here?"

"Mr. Roger Neville, sir, his friend and they're associated in business, too. I suppose he'll—er—take charge of everything, sir."

"Yes, I suppose so. Has Mr. Folsom left a wife—a widow?"

"Oh, no, sir, he wasn't married. He has a sister in Chicago, that's all his relatives—except a nephew."

"How long have you bee with Mr. Folsom?"

"Nearly four years."

"Have you been down here with him before?"

"Yes, sir. Three years ago. Not since that."

"Where were you this morning when Mr. Folsom went in bathing?"

"I was in the ocean, too, part of the time. Mr. Folson told me to take a dip when he did but to be back in time to wait on him when he came in. So I've been up in his rooms waiting for him. Somebody just telephoned up there and when I answered, told me to come down here. So here I am. What must I do sir?"

Though Ross addressed himself mostly to Pelham, the manager of the hotel, it was really Dixon, the detective, who was conducting the whole affair. He was a more capable and quick-witted man than Pelham, and better fitted to cope with the unusual situation the management now found itself in.

So Dixon gave Ross his orders.

"There's not much for you to do at the moment, Ross," he said. "But I think the first thing for you to look after is the clothing that Mr. Folsom wore this morning. It is, I suppose, in his bath-house."

"It must be, sir. Shall I go for it? Where is the key?"

"Why I don't know, I'm sure. Probably with the bathing master, since it is not on the body. Though at that, he may have had it around his neck or wrist."

"I think not. I think Mr. Folsom usually left it at the bathing master's office. He disliked the bother of it round his neck."

"Well, hunt it out, if you can, and get the clothes and belongings from the bathhouse. Have you the key to Mr. Folsom's suite?"

"I have one and Mr. Folsom had one. I daresay his is in the pocket of his coat, unless he left it at the desk."

"It will turn up then. You go, now, and get his clothes; there may be jewelry or valuable papers that ought to be secured. If so, turn them in at the desk and have them put in the safe. You seem to have been in Mr. Folsom's confidence."

"Oh, yes, sir. He often said I was his confidential clerk as well as his man servant. He didn't mean that exactly, but—oh, well, sir, he trusted me."

The dignity and simplicity of this statement carried weight, and after a gaze of deep scrutiny Dixon concluded that though he showed little grief at the sudden taking off of his master, the man was beyond all doubt faithful and honest.

Pelham agreed silently with this conclusion and Ross went off on his errand.

It was just as he departed that Roger Neville came, looking nervous and excited.

"May I come in?" he asked, as he paused at the door.

"Do. You're the man we want," Pelham said. "You are a friend of Mr. Folsom's?"

"Yes, I've known him for years. What really happened to him? I mean, was it death by drowning, or some sort of heart attack?"

"We're not sure yet," Pelham said; "we're waiting for Doctor Manning."

"Meanwhile," put in Dixon, "will you please tell us of Mr. Folsom's people and advise us as to what to do with the body?"

"As to his people, he has a sister in Chicago who will, of course, be the one most interested. I suppose it would be best to telegraph her and await her reply. Then doubtless the body will have to be sent to his Chicago home."

"Probably," agreed Dixon. "He was a rich man?"

"Off and on," said Neville, with a dry smile. "He was a lawyer, but he had various other interests. And he was the sort of man who makes a fortune one day and loses in the next."

"Speculation?"

"Yes. Stock gambling. But he was an important man, and he must be looked after properly. I am ready to do anything I can, of course, but I confess I don't want to send the wire to Miss Folsom, telling her of her brother's death. Can't the hotel do that?"

"Yes, certainly. Who else here was a friend of Mr. Folsom's?"

"He only came yesterday, you know, and, though I daresay plenty of people here in the hotel knew him, or knew of him, I'm not sure I can name any."

"You were with him this morning. Who else was in the party?"

Reluctantly Neville gave the names of Mrs. Barnaby and Mrs. Valdon. He knew they would resent this, for it might lead to unpleasant publicity, but he could see no way out.

"Why do you hesitate, Mr. Neville?" asked the astute Dixon. "Surely these ladies can have no objection to announcing their friendship with Mr. Folsom."

"No, not that," Neville responded, "but they naturally shrink from the idea of being interviewed by reporters, and all that—"

"Oh, I don't believe Mr. Folsom is such a widely known character that his death will make a great stir so far away from his home."

Pelham, the hotel manager, said this with a sudden return of his dignity and pride in his house, which, he felt, had harbored too many celebrities to be greatly concerned with the death of a Chicago lawyer.

"Well," Dixon said, "I'll send the telegram to the sister—what is her address, Mr. Neville? And would it be better to send it to someone else, a brother lawyer or business friend, and let him tell the lady?"

"No," Neville told him, "don't try to break it gently. Miss Folsom is not that sort. Tell her the straight facts. She will take it standing, and unless I miss my guess, she will come here by the first possible train."

"I hope she will," Pelham said. "That will relieve us of all responsibility. Meantime I think we can send the body to the undertaker."

"After we get the doctor's certificate," Dixon amended. "Were you at Mr. Folsom's side when he went under, Mr. Neville?"

"Oh, no, I was some distance away, Mr. Folsom was holding on to the rope."

"Who was next to him? The ladies of your party?"

"I suppose so. I'm not sure."

"I must see them. It is necessary to learn more of the particulars of his death, if possible."

(To be continued.)

The inquiry into Folsom's death grows more interesting. Read the next chapter.

ASTRONMERS FIND CENTRE OF UNIVERSE

Professors Discuss Time Adam Lived—Age Times of Clans.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 9.—Astronomers have got our universe—the galaxy in which man is so minute a speck—fairly well centred, and now place its central points in the milky way at a distance of about 52,000 light years from the sun, Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard University observatory, reported to the American Philosophical Society recently. For several years the observatory has been studying a region that embraces about 95 per cent of the galaxy, or about one-fifteenth of the sky, feeling out the star clouds with as many tools as possible in search of the centre. Not only has that point been approximated, but the pole of our galaxy has been fairly well determined, Dr. Shapley said, while its shape may be concave instead of flat. He estimated that the diameter of the galaxy is 200,000 light years.

Dr. Robert P. Field, of Philadelphia, in a paper on the ages of the Antediluvean Patriarchs mentioned in Genesis, suggested these writings contained not only the histories of individuals but of tribes bearing their names. "The names from Adam to 'Terah,'" he said, "with their unnaturally long 'ages,' are perfectly understandable as clans, tribes, etc. Thus the clan of Adam lived 930 years, that of Seth 912 years, while they personally, instead of being the fathers of sons at 96 and 105 years, died at those ages." Dr. Field found that Adam flourished at about 15,000 to 20,000 B.C. "instead of the traditional 4004 B.C."

The conclusion that the ductless glands of the body constitute the mechanism through which the life process itself is sustained, and by means of which it is protected against disease and death, was advanced by Dr. Charles E. De M. Sajour, professor, at the University of Pennsylvania graduate medical school. Forty years of medical research have convinced him that these glands are really the foundation of the most vital system of the body, that of tissue respiration, or the distribution of oxygen to all the cells. The heat energy which they liberate has for its purpose, he said, the acceleration of chemical ferments which are the direct factors in sustaining cellular metabolism and tissue life. "Knowledge of the ductless glands," he predicted, "is going to lay a new foundation for medicine."

THE GIFT OF SALVATION

(Contributed.)

Jesus says—"Come unto me and I will give you rest." If I am asked to come to a person, on the strength of a promise, from that person, that he will give me some particular gift, it is my part to obey, to take heed to the request. And, further, it is mine to gratefully receive the free gift. The gift Jesus offers is rest. Unrest is the result of an individual not being in a normal condition. The normal condition of man is being righteous. Then in order to have rest I must have righteousness or be made righteous. So Jesus offers us righteousness, and further tells us how we can be continually in a state of righteousness or rest, by telling us to "learn of him," and by doing so we shall have rest in our life. And further, Jesus gives us to understand that this state He brings us into is easy, not irksome. Jesus gives and we accept. In accepting rest and its continuance, with all of its accompanying blessings, we in reality are accepting Jesus, the Author and Giver of rest. And those who receive Jesus, have the right and privilege of being sons of God. And to be children of God we must be righteous. The love of God is seen, in that while we were unrighteous, He called us who were laboring and heavy-laden to free us from unrighteousness. What a great gift to fallen man. Jesus, God's only begotten Son, the Redeemer of the whole world, Who gave Himself a ransom for all. "He whom it pleased the Father, that in him all fullness should dwell," Col. 1:19. He is the fairest among ten thousand, the One altogether lovely to the man who trusts in Him. Jesus said no man hath ascended into heaven, save He who came down from heaven, and He is there making intercession for us, and He is coming again to restore the paradise lost through Adam's sin, and to judge the world. He is going to reign, whose right it is to reign. He is going to be of the travail of his soul and be satisfied. Continued rest or continued righteousness is having Jesus as Savior, Teacher and King. It is quite clear that if I accept a teacher to instruct me, to teach me what I do not know, in fact to give me the knowledge I need, I must take heed to my teacher's words, do what I am told to do. How simple and clear the continued rest and victory, simply learning of Jesus. But some might say, Jesus is not here, I cannot hear Him audibly speaking to me. That is very true. God has arranged that perfectly. The Holy Spirit shows us exactly what Jesus wants us to know and do. So when we accept Jesus and yield ourselves up to the guidance of the Holy Spirit, we are really being taught, led, and guided by Jesus. We find the Apostle Paul saying: "There is therefore now no condemnation to those who are in Christ Jesus, for the law of the Spirit, of life in Christ Jesus, makes us free from the law of sin and death." He also says "As many as are led by the Spirit, they are the children of God. The holy Spirit and the Word that was made Flesh always agree," John 16:13-14-15. God the Father and Jesus the Son are One in purpose. Jesus prayed that His followers should be one as His Father and He were one, John 17:20-21-22. If we keep the commandments of Jesus as revealed to us by the holy Spirit, we shall abide in His love, even as Jesus kept His Father's commandments and abode in His love, John 15:10. He that hateth Jesus, hateth God the Father, John 15:23. Jesus is the way, the truth and the life, Job 14:6. The religion of Jesus is a religion of certainty and definiteness. The real followers of Jesus can, with confidence say, we speak of that which we do know and testify of that which we have experienced. If we walk in the light as He is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the Word of the Lord Jesus cleanseth us from all sin, 1 John 1:7.

BUY LAND FOR REFORESTATION

Village Commissioners To Plant Seven Thousand Trees at Warkworth.

WARKWORTH, May 9.—After due consideration at a recent meeting, the police village commissioners have purchased five acres of a side hill owned by J. M. Greenly and William Shaw, for the purpose of planting young trees. This hill lies directly north of the community hall, telephone office and C. E. Meiklejohn's property and already the seven thousand trees which have been secured from the Reforestration Association have arrived and men are at work cleaning the land of shrubs and getting it in shape for the planting of the young trees.

Congregational Meeting.

At the annual congregational meeting of Dartford United church held in the church on Friday evening, a pulpit supply committee, stewards and society representatives were elected as well as Sunday school officers, and teachers for the coming year.

Besides the business part of the meeting a program was provided, consisting of a Biblical contest of certain forty-five questions being asked in ten chapters of St. Luke's Gospel. This was very interesting and only a few were unable to answer the question asked them. An interesting debate followed, "Resolved that home had more influence in building character for the child than the school. The affirmative side was upheld by Warren Atkinson and Mrs. Arthur Ward, the negative being taken by Mrs. H. E. Allen and Miss Mabel Honey. Points from both sides were cleverly and clearly brought out which testified to the careful preparation on which was taken by the debaters.

The song service at the opening of the meeting, choir selection, duet by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Atkinson, and solo by little Grace Wilson, added greatly to the evening's program. At the conclusion a dainty lunch was served by the young people.

THEY GAVE WONDERFUL RELIEF AT ONCE

Says Ontario Man of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. H. E. Lewis Highly Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills for All Kidney Troubles.

Rondeau, Ont., May 8.—(Special) —"I have used your Dodd's Kidney Pills to some extent and find them to be all you claim", writes Mr. Herb E. Lewis, 77 Cathcart Ave., Rondeau, Ont. "They take away all irritations and at once give a wonderful relief. I would also recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills for any kind of kidney trouble."

The road to good health lies through the kidneys. If they are kept strong and well, all the impurities are strained out of the blood. If they are weak and out of order, the impurities stay in the blood and disease is the sure result.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. They strengthen the kidneys and enable them to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. Healthy kidneys make a healthy body.

There is no reason why anyone should continue to suffer when Dodd's Kidney Pills can be obtained from druggists everywhere, or The Dodds Medicine Co., Ltd., Toronto 2.

MADOC CADETS WELL TRAINED

Make Fine Showing at Annual Inspection—Prizes Presented.

PRAISED BY INSPECTOR.

MADOC, May 9.—With characteristic military precision and showing the same spirit which carried them into the interscholastic hockey finals last winter, Madoc High School Cadets went through and emerged from their annual inspection before Major Dupre, of Kingston, on the grounds immediately east of the Armories here on Tuesday afternoon. It was one of the most successful inspections that has ever terminated a season of training. The day was warm and bright, a large gathering of students and townsfolk was on hand to witness the inspection, and every cadet acquitted himself most creditably. The corps, originally boasting some forty-eight members, was considerably below that strength on Tuesday because of the age limit, one or two cases of measles and the fact that several of the students had moved away with their families. Nevertheless, it deserved every word of praise bestowed by Major Dupre, Chairman George White of the High School Board, and Principal Duncan Brown.

Following is the personnel of the corps:

The Inspection.

The inspection brought out every phase of training which the cadets had taken—platoon and section drill, rifle work, extended order and Strathcona exercises.

At its conclusion Major Dupre spoke briefly, complimenting the boys on their showing, which had been beyond his expectation, though he had been told by Captain Herron that he might expect to see good work. He took pleasure in presenting fountain pens to the two cadets who had shown the best military bearing and conduct, namely, Leonard Pettet and Donald McKenzie; also to the two displaying the best finish in the "P.T." work, Allen Ross and Edward Hart.

Principal Duncan Brown was proud of his boys—and said so in a short address, during which he passed on all credit to the officers and instructors, Sergeant Naylor and Mr. McKenzie.

The chairman of the High School Board, George White, was the third person to pay tribute to the work of the boys. He spoke of the place that cadet training has, and should have, in the High School curriculum, and concluded by once again commenting on the showing made by the cadets.

Three cheers for the King, led by Major Dupre, and three more for the inspecting officer, led by Captain Dafoe, preceded the final march, with the Major in the lead.

LYRICS OF LIFE

WANDERING CLOTHES

Father and Mother don't go out
So much, the way the youngsters do.
At night they'd rather sit about
The house, and read a book or two.
Now Father's suit is put away,
And Mother's fur is in the hall,
Their raiment idle, so you say?
Well, you're mistaken. Not at all!

No, Father's suit is at a dance,
A chum has borrowed Father's hat,
And Daughter's happy at the chance
At Mother's fur, and such as that.
Though parents aren't on the go,
It's different with their attire;
In fact, I often wonder, though,
Just what they'd do in case of fire.

Yes, Father's sort of settled down,
And Mother's in her easy chair;
It's different with Mother's gown,
And things that Dad's supposed to wear.
At night they're glad to sit and read
A stock report, a book or rime;
But, though they've settled down indeed,
Their clothes are having quite a time.

6TH PETERBOROUGH TROOP.

The meeting of the Sixth Troop opened on Monday evening with flag break and general inspection. Then a staff drill was held and the scoutmaster asked each Scout to name five different uses of the Scout stave. Approximately a hundred uses were found. Instruction period was held, during which semaphore was taken up.

Mr. Saunders, manager of Richard Hall's store, gave the boys a short talk on merchandise, outlining his own particular career in this line of business. He told the boys that the kind of a man any employer desires is the one that "can deliver the goods." Such a boy is to be found in the one who devotes some of his spare time in some educational work. Mr. John thanked Mr. Saunders for his few words and the boys gave him their troop yell.

A few games then followed in which the two visitors participated.

Another visitor during the latter part of the evening was one of the committee men, Mr. MacKenzie. During the council fire which followed, Mr. MacKenzie spoke to the Scouts, expressing his pleasure at the progress the 6th Troop was making, stating that within a year or two many of them no doubt would be patrol leaders and seconds. A matter of summer camp was taken up but was referred back to the Troop committee. During the council fire the Beavers put on a pantomime dealing with the third Scout law. Scout N. MacKenzie then showed some lantern slides, which were thoroughly enjoyed by the boys. After a few Scout songs were sung, the meeting closed with God Save the King and the Lord's Prayer.

You never can tell. Some people who marry in haste repent at leisure; others repent at once.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Quaint costumes designed for the young attendants at a wedding next month. The little girl's frock is of taffeta with a pearl cap and the little boy's suit is of satin to match with lace-edged white satin collars and cuffs.

Nowadays flower girls and pages are much more important at weddings than mere bridesmaids and ushers, and I have heard of a number of attractive little boys and girls who have their social slate quite full for the month of June—one six-year-old being booked to appear at no less than four weddings.

This idea of having very young bridal attendants seems to have come from England rather than from France—strangely, perhaps, since English mothers usually have such a strong prejudice against letting children of nursery years mix much in adult social activities. Often as many as eight children appear in the bridal processions of English society girls. At one recent wedding at St. Margaret's, Westminster there were four little boys and six little girls with only two grown-up bridesmaids.

The little girls were dressed in satin frocks with long gathered skirts, straight plain bodices and long sleeves with wide bandeaus round their heads. The little boys wore buckled shoes, long trunk hose and straight doublets of satin—simplified costumes of the early seventeenth century, I suppose.

A slightly later historical period is represented by the costumes chosen by a young American bride for her wedding which is to take place next month—a sort of modified cavalier costume that might have been worn by little men and women in early colonial days. Pink taffeta was the material chosen for the little girl's bouffant frock with a pearl cap, and the boy's suit is made of satin of a soft tone of gray.

Quite the latest floral fashion for brides is the calla lily. At a recent wedding the bride carried two very long-stemmed white callas tied with heavy white silk cords with ends and tassel trailing on the floor. Her attendants, dressed in green, carried calla lilies of a lovely yellow color with trailing yellow cords.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ADMIRE A "GOOD SPORT"

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

A few years ago the English polo team came to the United States to play for the championship. They were defeated. And yet they gained the admiration of the American team and of all the sport reporters for the high type of sportsmanship displayed throughout the games.

Good sportsmanship, of course, is not confined to one nation or a particular sport. We find it everywhere. In championship tennis matches it is not uncommon for a player to dub a shot deliberately when he believes the referee made a mistake in his favor.

This is the sort of thing that we like to see and to talk about. Long after the final score is forgotten we remember the act of good sportsmanship.

We value good sportsmanship because it appeals to our sense of chivalry. We admire it for the same reason that we admire generosity and unselfishness. It is a form of courtesy which means thoughtfulness and consideration for others. Good sportsmanship is in the field of sport what etiquette is in polite society.

We like to see a man win against odds. This appeals to the romantic in us. When an athlete protests a decision or offers an alibi he destroys the heroic element in sport. It looks as though he is not man enough to take his medicine. He has dispelled our illusion and we resent this as a personal insult. We call him a poor sport.

We value good sportsmanship as we value chivalry, courtesy, courage, unselfishness, and self-control. And because these qualities are fundamental the term "good sport" has come to be applied to any who who displays these virtues in any activity of life.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate)

FOR THURSDAY, MAY 10, 1928.

Although adverse influences are discernible in the horoscope for today, according to astrology, benefic aspects dominate.

It is a day auspicious for associating with persons who are successful and should be favorable to promoters.

This is a lucky rule for those who seek political preferment. The sway favors organization.

There is a good sign governing big business or enterprises of broad scope. New fortunes will be made easily.

While the prospects for the year are most encouraging for commercial expansion today is not fortunate for new ventures.

Whatever is personal rather than general in ambition is not well directed while this configuration prevails.

Egotists will fare badly under this direction of the stars which encourages large conceptions of human relations.

The day should be profitable to all who are engaged in constructive work and building is subject to the best influences.

American engineers are to profit greatly, for they will be in world demand, the seers prophesy.

The whole month is influenced greatly by Neptune and for that reason intrigue and subterfuge may be more than ordinarily prevalent.

Growth of the spirit of Democracy is foretold and it will affect many old institutions in Europe this year.

Persons whose birthdate it is may expect success in their employment and domestic affairs.

Children born on this day probably will prosper with little energy. Many lumber dealers are born under this sign

Gain Freedom from Perspiration Odour from Bath to Bath

WHAT a simple, delightful way to avoid the unnecessary social error of perspiration odour . . . to refresh one's skin from top to toe regularly, in a bath with the cleansing, blandly antiseptic lather of Lifebuoy Soap.

Perspiration is natural . . . even healthful. Physicians say the average human body exudes from one to two pints of moisture daily in the form of perspiration.

But this moisture need not be offensive. Lifebuoy Soap in the bath opens the pores and cleanses and purifies them, keeps them sweet and breathing. Lifebuoy Soap gives you cleanliness that no other soap can give. . . . antiseptic cleanliness.

And this advantage costs you nothing extra because Lifebuoy Soap—a pure toilet soap for face, hands and bath—sells at a popular price.

You'll never know how truly delightful a bath can be until you try Lifebuoy.

LEAFS TAKE SECOND GAME

Dan Hankins Keeps Hits Well Scattered Up To Ninth Inning.

DEFEAT BEARS 5-2.

Maple Leaf Stadium, May 9. — Vincent Barton, former McCormick ball player, gave his fellow citizens a score in the game yesterday when he hit and scored in the ninth inning of the Baltimore tussle, but the long four run lead helped the Leafs to even the series by winning 5 to 2.

The Buffalo Bisons nosed out the Newark Bears for their second straight in here yesterday. The score was 7 to 6. Al. Moore's homer over the left field fence with a man on in the sixth actually decided the issue. Fournier hit a homer with two on for the Bears and Jenkins also lofted one over the left field fence but Stryker's gallant relief hurling held the Bears safe in the late innings.

Rochester took the third game of the series against reading 7 to 3 here yesterday. Jim McCracken allowed nine hits but went the full route for the home outfit. Parks was hit hard while he was in the box for the visitors.

Take Three Straight.

The Montreal Royals made it three straight over Jersey City yesterday afternoon winning their fifth consecutive victory at the expense of the Black Cats 4-1.

Excellent pitching by Hopkins, the right handed twirler acquired by Stallings from the Washington Senators accounted for the Montreal victory. Hopkins set the Cats down to four hits and held them hitless after the third, bearing down in fine form in the late innings.

Herb Thormahlen one time big leaguer, who beat the Royals when they first encountered each other in Jersey City two weeks ago, was the victim of Royal Bats which hammered out eight hits.

SETTLES IN CANADA.

Alfie Shrubb, veteran English five and ten mile foot runner, and even now holder of more amateur and professional world's records than any other living middle or long distance runner has returned to Canada to live. Shrubb came to Canada some years before the war and ran many races both here and in the states, against the famous Indian marathoner, Tom Longboat; St. Yves, the Frenchman; the Swede, Ljungstrom, Holmer, the Nova Scotian; Ted Wood, J. J. Hellernan, Tom Coley, and a host of other long distance runners who were in their prime in those days. When he quit running he settled on a farm at Bowmanville. He left there about 1919, and returned to England, where after coaching the Oxford College middle and long distance men he became a hotelkeeper in Oxford and an alderman of the town. He has returned to Canada permanently and will raise his family here.

"ACROSS CANADA" TOURS VIA CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

This summer there will be two "Across Canada" tours via the Canadian National Railways. Both of them will include the best-known scenic features of Western Canada, the Canadian Rockies and the Pacific Coast. The most outstanding of these will be the stop-over at Jasper Park Lodge in Jasper National Park, and the famous Triangle Tour of British Columbia, thirteen hundred miles by rail and five hundred and fifty miles by steamer, through the most wonderful mountain scenery in the world. The second tour will include in addition a side trip by steamer to Alaska, that mysterious land of glaciers and totem-poles.

These tours will leave Toronto July 4th, returning to this city July 26th and 30th, respectively. They will be personally conducted and the prices are "All-Expense" charges, covering transportation, sleeping car, steamer and hotel accommodation, meals, sight-seeing drives and gratuities.

For descriptive booklet containing full details of itinerary and cost, write to Mr. Martin Kerr, 4 Beulah Avenue, Hamilton, Ont., Mr. A. E. Bryson, 44 Silverthorne Avenue, Toronto, or to General Passenger Agent, Canadian National Rys., Toronto.

INDIANS HOLD YANKEES 3-0

New Yorkers Given Second Coat of Whitewash For Season.

BUNCH HITS.

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 9 (Canadian Press).—The Cleveland Indians chopped a game away from the lead of the Yankees here yesterday when George Uhle let the New Yorkers down with four scattered hits, two of which went to his pitching opponent, Herb Pennock. Cleveland won, 3 to 0, giving the Yankees their second coat of whitewash of the season.

Pennock suffered his first 1928 defeat. He pitched good ball, but the Indians bunched four hits and a sacrifice fly for two runs in the second. The third Cleveland run was added in the sixth on Lind's triple and Joe Sewell's single.

Chicago lost its seventh straight game at Boston yesterday when Ed. Morris, one of Boston's rookie pitchers, allowed the visitors but four hits. The Red Sox won by a 5 to 1 score.

Connally, who started for Chicago, was hit hard during the first five innings. The defeat dropped Chicago into the American League cellar and boosted the Red Sox into seventh place.

The Athletics won their fourth straight by taking the opening game of a Philadelphia series with the St. Louis Browns by a score of 4 to 3. Joe Hauser, who solved Johnny Ogden for three hits, won the game for the Mackmen in the seventh inning by scoring Cobb from second on a sharp hit to right. Rommel, who turned in his first victory of the season, was hit hard but was given brilliant support in the field.

Pitching of Marberry and Lisenbee at Washington was to Detroit's liking and the Tigers defeated Washington 12 to 2 in the series opener. Stoner of the visitors was touched for ten hits, but he kept them scattered. Fothergill was the Tigers' big gun, bagging two triples, a double and single in five tries at bat. Rice of the Senators got a homer for one of the locals' scores.

VIEWS ON SPORTS

Much progress has been made in the City Baseball League and a great deal of enthusiasm should be stirred up. The officers are optimistic and predict that the league will work splendidly this year.

Away to a good start, the Junior City Ball League officially announce the entry of twelve teams—four in the junior, four in the juvenile, and four in the bantams. In the junior, Royals, Kiwanis, Lockworks and Canadian Packing Company; for juveniles, Rotary, Kiwanis, East City and the Canucks. The south-end club placed a motion for withdrawal from the league on account of lack of players, but promised to reconsider their decision if the twelve man team rule was passed; in the bantam, Canucks, East City, Riley and Hickey, and Grafton's Limited. Alex Kay, Max Swanston, Stan Lowe, and Edgar LeBarr were elected to the executive, completing the officers' position for the league.

* * * * * *

J. M. Greene Music Company is announced as the donor of the cup for the juvenile series. This makes three cups in all—one for each group; the cup to be won three years in succession for final possession. Much discussion took place regarding the choosing of the umpires and it was decided to elect Alex Kay as umpire-in-chief with a board of eight assistants, the said board to be elected by the executive.

* * * * * *

The question of balls and playing grounds was also thoroughly discussed, and it was decided to have the executive act on this matter. A grounds committee was formed, composed of Alex Kay, Max Swanston, Bill Prindible, and Jack Deannard to settle the matter regarding playing grounds for the league.

* * * * * *

Coming to the fore as the vital question of the evening re the signing of twelve players to a team with the option of adding three more men a a later date, this question caused a flurry in smooth running of the meeting. As this league is fostered for the development of young players, it would be no aid whatsoever to have twenty or more players signed on one or two teams in any one series while the remaining teams are left practically without any material to form a team. In this case the league would not only be one-sided, but would leave several of the players on the over-stocked teams sitting on the benches. After much discussion pro and con, it was decided to leave the matter to a committee composed of the executive and the managers of the different teams, who will meet some time this week.

* * * * * *

An amendment to the O.B.A. rules was read regarding the birth certificates and reads as follows:

"All junior, juvenile and bantam players born in the province of Ontario must produce the regulation birth certificate issued by the Registrar-General of Ontario or by clerks of municipalities or a church baptismal record issued by a clergyman. All junior, juvenile and bantam players born outside the province must produce regulation birth certificate issued by registrar of the country, state or province in which he was born, or by clerks of municipalities or a church baptismal record issued by a clergyman."

JOSE JURADO LEADS IN OPEN

Jolly is Close Behind Youthful Argentine—Mehlhorn Drops Back.

ALL NOTABLES IN.

SANDWICH, Eng., May 9.—(Canadian Press.)—While most of the well-known British professionals and eight invaders from the United States completed qualifying scores for the British open yesterday, Joe Jurado, 126 pound professional from Buenos Aires, was the sensation of the second day's play.

The 28 year old Argentine banged some of his drives more than 300 yards over the wind-swept St. George's course. He played his irons with deadly accuracy and putted with precision, taking only 69 strokes for the round, which added to Monday's 75 over Prince's course gave him a brilliant 144.

Jurado's score eclipsed by three strokes the 147 turned in by H. C. Jolly of the Fox Grove Club, who led the early finishers. Jolly finished second for the qualifying round followed by Bert Hodson with 148 and George Duncan, who had 150 for the 36 holes.

Barnes and Sarazen.

Next in order were Jim Barnes and Gene Sarazen of the United States, who had 152.

Archie Compston, who recently vanquished Walter Hagen, finished in a tie with his victim yesterday at 153 as did Arnaud Massey and Len Holland. James Braid, Thomas Barber, Abe Mitchell and Wild Bill Mehlhorn had 154.

T. A. Torrance, the Scotsman, led the amateurs with 153 and Johnny McHugh of San Francisco was second in the list, taking 157.

Among those who failed to qualify yesterday was J. H. Taylor, who has won the open five times since 1894, tied once and finished second four times. Great Britain's most famous player, now 57 years of age, has said for years that he would quit playing in championships if he ever failed to qualify.

Dr. W. Tweddle, amateur champion of Great Britain, and Robert Harris, former amateur champion, also failed to make the grade. Roger Wethered, another former champion, slipped in with 159.

Alex Herd and Harry Vardon were safely in, Herd taking 157, and Vardon 159. Geo. Gadd checked in with 157 and Jean Gassiat with 159. Aubrey Boomer took 156. Arthur Havers needed 156 as did C. A. and E. R. Whitcombe. R. A. C. Whitcombe was three strokes under the others of the name. Ted Ray scored 165.

A famous master of the old world, Harry Vardon, paired with the smiling youngster from Argentine, saw golf played as he played it in his boyhood. Sandwich cheered Jurado as only this ancient golfing community can hail a new star and surged about to study the source of his tremendous skill. The gallery finally decided that the answer lies in his powerful wrists.

Jurado is making his second invasion of Great Britain.

CHICAGO WINS FROM ROBINS 4-3

Former Brooklyn Player Leads Cub Attack With Three Hits.

PIRATES WIN 6-5.

NEW YORK, May 9. — (Canadian Press.) — Chicago ran its winning streak to four straight games by beating Brooklyn 4 to 3 at Chicago yesterday in the series opener.

Percy Lee Jones had a little the better of Jess Petty in a southpaw duel, and received brilliant support in the field. Johnny Butler, former Robin, led the Cub attack with three hits. He scored one run and drove another home.

Errors by Freddy Lindstrom, giant third baseman, enabled the Pirates to win the first game of the series at Pittsburgh yesterday six to five. The victory placed the champions within half a game of first place.

Lindstrom's error on Grantham's sacrifice in the second paved the way for two of the three Pirate runs, and his fumble of Paul Waner's grounder in the next round was responsible for three more markers. Henry pitched well for the Giants. Grimes, former Giant, opposed him.

The Giants threw a scare into the Pirates in the ninth when they scored two runs and came up to win one of a tie. Grunes forced Ott to life a fly to Scott with the run on second and two out.

Brandt's wildness was responsible for the wide margin in the Reds' 7 to 2 victory over Boston at Cincinnati. The Reds gathered four runs off two hits in the sixth when Brandt walked five men.

Gritz hit a home run in the fifth. Boston scored twice on perfect hit and run strategy with three hits bunched in the sixth.

Rogers Hornsby's only hit of the game scored Richbourg.

Scoring nine runs in the eighth inning, the Cards pounded six Phillie moundsmen for 19 hits and a 15 to 14 victory at St. Louis. Frankhouse kept the Philadelphians' nine hits scattered.

Two more Cardinal players were added to the hospital list when Gus Mancuso reported yesterday with a swollen hand and Walter Roettger was being bothered with his legs. Neither of the managers were on the bench, with McKechnie under suspension and the Philly leader ill with the flu.

High crashed through with a home run in the fifth, driving in Douthit before him.

Paul Waner Leads Big Six Homer Race

Ty Cobb was the most active member of the Big Six yesterday with two hits with five times at bat against Ogden of St Louis.

Ty's two drives helped the Athletics defeat the Browns, 4 to 3 and boosted his average to .336. Paul Waner got only one hit against the Giants, but remained well in the lead with .393. Babe Ruth had a barren afternoon before the puzzling slants of George Uhle, but held the runner-up position.

Bushy Graham Will Have Another Chance

NEW YORK, May 9 (Canadian Press). — Bushy Graham, bobbed-haired bantam from Utica, N.Y., who got a beating, a year's suspension, and very few dollars out of one shot at the 118 pound championship, can have another chance to get this title.

Graham will meet Kid Francis of Italy, claimant of the European crown, in a 15-round engagement at Ebbet's Field, May 30. The winner will be "publicly recognized," the committee announced, as the bantamweight champion, replacing Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, who forfeited his title on the scales before a match with Graham here in February, 1927.

Dry Weather Complaints Cause Rise In Wheat

CHICAGO, May 9 (Canadian Press).—Dry weather complaints from the United States and the Canadian North-West, with dust storms in the Dakotas and Minnesota, led to early higher prices to-day for wheat. There were also reports that very low temperatures in Middle Europe are delaying crops. Opening unchanged to 1 cent higher, wheat later scored upturns all around. Corn was easy, starting 1-8 to 3-8 cent up, but afterward showing set-backs. Oats were firm. Provisions tended to sag.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 161½, July 161¼; corn, May 108 3-8, July 111¾; oats, May 64½, July 58 5-8.

Mine Market Dull; Losses in Majority

TORONTO, May 9 (Canadian Press).—Dullness prevailed on the Standard Stock Exchange this morning, with prices generally downward. Treadwell suffered the heaviest loss, selling down ninety to 20.10. Noranda, after opening at 20.30, sold down to 19.80 at the close for a net loss of 45 cents. Hudson Bay and Pend Oreille suffered declines of 45 and 25 points at 19.00 and 18.75 respectively. Abana, Lake Shore, Sheritt Gordon, Hollinger Consolidated, and Sudbury Basin suffered losses ranging from five to eighteen points. McIntyre at 24.20 made a twenty-point gain. Teck Hughes was a strong point and sold up five to 9.35. Barry Hollinger, Ajax Oil, Aconda, Kootenay Florence, Wright Hargreaves, Tough Oakes Burnside, Central Manitoba, and Pioneer Mines made gains of from one to five points.

Trading Slackens On Toronto Market

TORONTO, May 9 (Canadian Press).—Trading was not quite so active on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day and prices tended mostly downward. International Nickel continued its downward trend, selling down ¾ to 91¼. Alberta Pacific Grain at 64½ recorded a loss of 2½ points. Page Hersey and Canadian Industrial Alcohol were down one at 100½ and 48¼ respectively. Twin City, after making a new high yesterday, dropped to 53 to-day for a loss of 1¾. British American Oil, Canada Cement Preferred, Carlings, Hiram Walker, and Imperial Oil were fractionally easier. Canada Dry Ginger Ale was the weak feature of the whole market, slumping more than six points to sell at 78½. International Petroleum at 41 was one point easier. Standard Paving, Service Stations, and Waterloo re-acted fractionally. City Dairy and Western Canada Flour made slight fractional gains.

High Money Rates Hold Trading Down

NEW YORK, May 9 (Canadian Press).—High money rates continued to cast a shadow over to-day's stock market, which drifted lower under heavy selling for both accounts.

Early declines ranged from one to nine points, but a partial recovery took place in the afternoon when a large supply of out-of-town funds, attracted by the six per cent call money renewal rate, began to make its appearance. Trading showed a further contraction in volume, although the ticket was again unable to keep pace with the market.

Veteran traders recalled that today was the anniversary of the "Northern Pacific panic" which culminated the big "bull" movement in 1901. The fact that recent price gyrations closely resembled those which preceded the crash twenty-seven years ago is believed to have inspired some liquidation by superstitious traders. Fears of an increase in the New York Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate to-morrow also were a factor in the selling movement.

CATALINA ISLAND AGAIN SCENE OF DARING DEEDS.

Catalina Island, off the coast of Southern California, and the starting point of the famous Catalina channel swim, is the location for the start of another channel swim in Bebe Daniels' latest starring vehicle for Paramount, "Swim, Girl, Swim." The picture is being shown at the Regent Theatre. Many contestants who participated on the famous original, which was won by George Young, also took part in the production. Gertrude Ederle of English Channel fame, is a member of the supporting cast.

"SQUARE CROOKS" SCREEN VERSION OF POPULAR PLAY PRESENTS HUMAN PROBLEM

Should a young man in love with a beautiful girl, who's companionship has inspired him to go straight" confess his past indiscretions to the girl he hopes to make his wife, or should he let his past remain a closed book?

This problem is one which has confronted many young people is answered logically in "Square Crooks," which will have a showing at the Regent Theatre, commencing Thursday.

The story deals with the reformation of two young crooks, who, after many close calls, decide that the shady path is abandoned for the straight and narrow one.

Notwithstanding their efforts to go straight, the boys lost job after job on account of a headquarters' man, who takes a fiendish delight in seeing them lose. The boys are enmeshed in the diamond necklace robbery and by some clever detective work on their own part apprehend the real crooks and receive a substantial reward for their cleverness.

Robert Armstrong and Johnny Mack Brown enact the two crooks, while the detective from headquarters is portrayed by Clarence Burton. Dorothy Gulliver and Dorothy Appleby are opposite the boys. The others are Eddie Sturgis, Lydia Dickson, Jackie Combs, Lew Seiler and the production.

THE GRAND.

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE."

"Abie's Irish Rose," Anne Nicholls' theatrical gold mine that has caused as many laughs and probably earned more money than any comedy that can be called to mind, proved as amusing as ever when presented at the Grand last night. This cyclone of comedy, with its three wedded Jews, continues to be popular for one reason, because you can laugh, and see it again, and not laugh where you did before but find many new places for a real outburst. The story of "Abie's Irish Rose" is as familiar as that of "Little Riding Hood" by this time, but it does not keep it from being a very amusing entertainment and was played to the accompaniment of a mile of laughter last week.

The adequate cast gave a smooth and even interpretation of the comedy, with the chief honors carried off by Herbert Glass for a masterly portrayal of Solomon Levy. Mr. Glass has been seen here before in the role and his characterization constantly improves. Mark Adams was a huge success as the hen-pecked Isaac Cohen, and Mildred Beverley scored equally as his better half, the lady of the operation. The other roles were all in good hands and it was a well-cast and pleasing performance of a real fire hit.

THE DUMBELLS IN "BUBBLING OVER"

After nine and a half years' catering to the theatrical tastes of Canadian patrons of The Dumbells' semi-annual revues, Captain Plunkett has used his knowledge of just what Canadians like to the fullest advantage in the ninth springtime revue, "Bubbling Over," which will be seen here at the Grand theatre for the first time on Friday and Saturday, May 18 and 19.

The new revue was built in Toronto, rehearsed for three months on tour and finally given its premiere at Vancouver a short time ago. Right from the very first scene to the last curtain call, the new vehicle was heartily voted a real hit.

Among the most appreciated features of the new show, outside of the individual song hits, are some half dozen sketches and a miniature musical comedy.

The settings and costumes are described as being fully up to the standard maintained by the Dumbells in their previous offerings.

NO WORD RECEIVED OF DAM INSPECTORS

Men Who Went On Hazardous Trip Along French River Still Missing.

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 9.—(Canadian Press.)—No word had been received here to-day from John McColeman, senior, of this city, and Fred Sauve, of Callendar, who recently undertook a hazardous trip to inspect dams on the French River. The theory that the man are lost is scouted here.

Some people are kept so busy giving advice that they haven't time to attend to their own business.

Wouldn't it be fine if the buttons on the things we buy were fastened on as firmly as the price tags?

IN MEMORIAM

WAGSTAFF.—In fond and loving memory of our dear son and brother, Private Walter Wagstaff, who was killed in action, May 9th, 1917.

He fell at his post like a soldier brave;
He answered His Majesty's call.
He sleeps far away in a hero's grave,
For his country's cause he did fall.
In the bloom of life, death claimed him.
In the pride of his manhood days
None knew him but to love him;
None mentioned his name but in praise.
Time may heal a broken heart,
Time may make a wound less sore;
But time will never stop the longing
For the dear ones gone before.
Earth, with all its joys and sorrows,
Soon to us will be no more;
Then we'll cross the River Jordan
And meet him on the other shore.

Uncle Wiggily

Today's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SAMMIE'S TOOTH.

Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Uncle Wiggily was hopping down the path one bright, sunny day, wondering what was going to happen in the shape of an adventure, and he was thinking perhaps he would visit the Hollow Stump School and see the Lady Mouse Teacher when, all of a sudden, a voice cried:

"Oh, there you are!"

"Yes! Why shouldn't I be here?" asked Uncle Wiggily, looking toward a mulberry bush from behind which the voice seemed to come. And then the rabbit wished he had run instead of answering. "For maybe it's one of the Bad Chaps," he whispered.

5-8 The two friends went adventuring.

However, he need not have been in the least afraid for, from behind the bush, waddled jolly fat Mr. Twistytail, the pig gentleman.

"So here you are!" grunted the pig.

"Yes. Why shouldn't I be here?" asked Mr. Longears again.

"Well, I heard last night that the Bob Cat caught you when you were gathering flowers for Nurse Jane," said Mr. Twistytail.

"Oh, yes! Ha! Ha! Ho! Ho! The Bob Cat thought he had caught me," chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "But I gave him a puzzle to do before he could have any nibbles off my ears and—Oh, it's too funny! Ha! Ha!"

"What's funny?" asked the pig. "Tell me so I can laugh, too."

"It was funny the way the Bob Cat sneezed when the flower dust got up his nose!" laughed Mr. Longears. "Oh, it was so funny! He sneezed so hard his silly little tail would have fallen off if it wasn't fastened on."

"But did the Bob Cat guess the flower puzzle?" asked the pig when he had stopped laughing with the rabbit.

"No, he didn't, and yet it was very easy," said Mr. Longears. I drew a picture of the sun, for sunflower and the other blossoms were buttercup, pansy and dogwood."

"I think I could have guessed those," grunted the pig gentleman.

"The Bob Cat wasn't very smart," said Mr. Longears. "Well, I must hop along," he said.

"Where are you going?" asked Mr. Twistytail.

"Oh, adventuring—adventuring," answered Uncle Wiggily, easylike and unconventional. "Want to waddle along?"

"Yes, indeed!" grunted the pig, so the two friends went adventuring together. They had not gone far before, in front of a toy shop kept by a dear, little old cat lady, they saw Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy, crying.

"What's the matter, Sammie?" asked Uncle Wiggily, getting out his green, grape leaf pocket handkerchief to wipe away the rabbit boy's tears.

"Oh! Oh! Boo hoo! Boo hoo!" sobbed Sammie, crying backward and frontward at the same time. "I have a terrible too-too-too-toothache!"

"That's too-too-too bad," said Uncle Wiggily, almost crying himself. "What made your tooth ache, Sammie?"

"It's a hol-hol-hollow tooth!" sobbed Sammie, "and I got candy in it!"

Then Uncle Wiggily saw that he and Mr. Twistytail were standing near the big glass window of the toy and candy shop. The Cat lady had a cake of soap with which to wash her window. Quickly taking the soap, Uncle Wiggily used it to draw three pictures on the glass.

"There, Sammie Boy!" cried the bunny gentleman. "Stop crying for a minute and see if you can name me these three kinds of candy. It will make your tooth stop aching, perhaps, to try to do this puzzle. And when you do it I will take you to kind Dr. Bear, the dentist, and he will either take out the aching tooth or fill the hole."

So Sammie looked at the three pictures drawn with soap on the candy shop window.

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" he suddenly cried.

"Is your toothache worse?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"No, it is much better," answered the rabbit boy. "I hollered for joy because I have guessed the names of the three candies. But I'm not going to eat until the hole in my tooth is filled," he added.

RUM SQUADRON IS MOBILIZING

Port Colborne Headquarters For Great Fleet Assembled By Bootleggers.

SPEED AND ARMOR.

Port Colborne, May 8.—Bootleggers of three states and Ontario are busy here assembling the largest and fastest rum fleet ever to engage in the liquor traffic at this end of Lake Erie.

Undaunted by repeated threats of United States coast guard officials to break up Erie's Rum Row, the liquor dealers are going ahead with their schemes whereby they hope to outwit the vast coast guard fleet, the vanguard of which has already begun to arrive in Buffalo.

Plans, as voiced by one of the runners here yesterday, embrace the withdrawal of the fleet from the Niagara River where operations are of necessity conducted in the open and concentration of the rum boats' activities at this and other ports along the lake from Port Colborne to Port Dover, forty miles away.

Port Colborne Headquarters.

Port Colborne will be the headquarters of the booze ring whose business is growing so rapidly that it now totals several millions of dollars a year. Due to the ice blockade of the local harbor during the past few weeks, a large number of the boats have been operating out of Port Maitland, a small port several miles west of here, but now that this port is open the boats will be brought back and operations commenced from here with the larger craft as well as a myriad of small but exceptionally fast speed boats.

Speed and more speed, will be the dominant feature of the liquor craft that will carry solace for the thirsty of the United States, while half a dozen of the boats are being lined with steel of sufficient thickness to withstand the machine gun bullets of the chasers.

The newest addition to the rum squadron in this vicinity in a trial test outside the local break wall Saturday, registered a speed far in excess of any of the present fleet and it is said that none of the coast guard boats have sufficient speed to catch it. In fact, the larger number of the rum-running boats now operating out of this port can outdistance the fastest of the United States chasers.

Expert Seamanship.

Knowledge of the lake on both sides and expert seamanship are the chief requisites for the job of handling the rum-running craft. Fearlessness is also a characteristic of the rum-runners who have to handle small boats in the most dangerous of seas.

Time and time again, the men have made trips over to the other side when the large lake freighters have been ordered to stay in port. Each man that is a member of the crew of any rum-runner is also thoroughly versed in handling a motor so that repairs can be made with the least possible loss of time and also in event of motors going dead on the trips.

Operations in the Niagara River will be practically abandoned as soon as ice conditions permit of free movement across the lake. Although there will probably be a few clearances from Bridgeburg and Fort Erie, the big bets of the rum-runners will be loaded at this and other ports.

The theory is that the runners with their superior speed will have a much better chance to evade the rum chasers in the open lake rather than in the Niagara River where a few coast guards can form a complete blockade.

Ontario, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania are involved in the liquor shipping business here, and the territory served includes not only Buffalo but Cleveland, Pittsburg and New York City, as well as a number of smaller cities.

Out of 204 Lord Mayors of London, only two have been Londoners by birth.

In cold weather warm wine is served free to the police of Paris at their station.

London's police force numbers just over 20,000, and in addition there are about 2,500 detectives.

ALEXANDER BEATTIE.

BROCKVILLE, May 9. Canadian Press. — After only a few hours' illness Alexander Beattie, Superintendent of the Children's Aid Relief, died early this morning in his 76th year. He had been superintendent here since 1918 previous to which he had taught school in Oxford County and other points in Western Ontario.

PATRICK ENGLISH

The death occurred last night at his home in Norwood of Patrick English. He is survived by his wife, three sons and two daughters. The funeral mass will be sung in the Roman Catholic Church at Norwood to-morrow, Thursday, morning at nine o'clock.

MISS CORRINNE LeGENDRE

The death occurred last night at the hospital in Ann Arbor, Michigan, of Corrinne LeGendre, eldest daughter of Mrs. R. L. LeGendre of Battle Creek, Michigan, and the late D. O. LeGendre of Peterborough. The deceased, who was in her thirty-third year, had been ill with a heart affection for some time and was confined to the hospital during the past three weeks. She had a host of friends in this city, where she was born and spent the early part of her life.

A tragic element and one that enlists widespread public sympathy for the bereaved mother is the fact that this is the third death in her family during the past twelve months. About the 21st of May last year, a son, Palma, died very suddenly in Detroit, where the family was then living; and another son, Carmel, was also striken unexpectedly in Detroit in November. The father, D. O. LeGendre, passed away about ten years ago, after a long residence in this city. Some years ago, Mrs. LeGendre and her family moved to Detroit, and later, after the death of (Anita LeGendre) resides. her second son last year, went to Battle Creek, Michigan, where the surviving daughter, Mrs. Robert Tew (Anita LeGrande) resides

The remains will be brought to this city this evening on the midnight train and will be taken to the residence of Mrs. LeGendre's father, Mr. N. T. LaPlante, 87 Lock street. The funeral will be held from there to the Sacred Heart Church, and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery, on Friday morning.

PATRICK J. KENNY.

TORONTO, May 9. — Patrick J. Kenny, well-known in marine engineering circles in Toronto for many years was buried yesterday from his home, 374 Crawford street, and from St. Francis Roman Catholic church. Mr. Kenney died at his home in his 77th year.

His parents came to Canada from Ireland, and Mr. Kenny was born in Elgin, Ont. He removed to Toronto 42 years ago, and had since made his home here.

Five daughters and two sons survive, Mrs. W. J. Erly, Mrs. J. R. McGruther, and Mrs. H. F. Givens, all of Montreal; Mrs. Arthur M. Hunt and Mrs. J. L. Guerin of Toronto, and Edward and James Kenny, the latter a former member of Toronto Separate School Board. Two sisters and three brothers also survive, Mrs. James Kenny and Mrs. Andrew Macintosh, both of Peterborough, Daniel Kenny, of Gananoque, James Kenny, of Elgin, Ont., and Michael Kenny, of Jones' Falls, Ont.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Last evening at St. Peter's Cathedral Father Doran addressed the married women on the duties of their state in life. The whole body of the large Cathedral was again taxed to its capacity. At Alphonsus Lyceum the large auditorium was also crowded with girls and women where Father Kehoe spoke on the duties and obligations of the single state. These later returned at eighty-thirty to the Cathedral where Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given by Father O'Hara. It was the largest attendance yet during the week of the women's mission being conducted this week by the Redemptorist Fathers of St. Patrick's Church, Toronto.

Father Doran referred to matrimony as a holy union instituted and blessed by God at the very dawn of creation and afterwards raised by Christ to the dignity of a Sacrament. The missionary outlined the obligations and duties which the Christian woman assumes on the day she stands before the altar of God to promise a life-long loyalty and troth to her Christian husband. He also described the important duties in relation to her family, duties of both the worldly and spiritual order. "The Christian woman who marries the Christian man assumes the solemn duty and obligation of bringing into this world and rearing them for the Kingdom of Heaven. You have a right to Heaven and its eternal bliss and every child of yours has a right to Heaven also.

"A very prominent Canadian at a public function recently stated that every Canadian child was entitled to the best education which this dominion of ours could supply for it in order to fit the child for the struggle of life. In the same manner every child that God has placed in your care is entitled to a spiritual training and a religious bringing up in order that your child will lead a life of morality and one day enter the Kingdom of Heaven.

A Sacrament.

"Matrimony was instituted by the Creator in the Garden of Eden but on account of the wickedness of men and the hardness of their hearts this holy contract fell into abuse and dishonor. It was Christ who elevated it from the mire of sin and passion, sanctified it and raised it to the lofty heights of a sacrament and thus he wants it to remain. Christ, the Son of God, said to the Pharisees of old, 'From the beginning of creation God made them male and female. For this cause a man shall leave his father and mother and shall cleave to his wife. And they two shall be in one flesh. Therefore they are not two but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder.'

An Unbreakable Bond."

"Husband and wife must live together for life. The matrimonial bond that has made them one cannot be dissolved except by the death of one of the parties. There is no power on earth either secular or ecclesiastical that can give an absolute divorce to a husband from his wife or the wife from the husband. If you have ever heard of the church acting against this assertion examine the instance a little more fully and you will find she simply pronounced there was no marriage from the beginning. God alone dissolves the matrimonial tie and even He does it only by death. 'What God hath joined together let no man put asunder!

"What the church does allow for very grave reasons is that husband and wife may live apart for a time or for life as the case may be.

Co-operation of Partners.

"In order that this union for life may not be an insupportable burden, husband and wife must keep up and sustain that love for each other which Nature has planted in their hearts, that love which the sacrament of marriage has raised to a supernatural sphere, purified and sanctified. Husband and wife must co-operate with that love, they must preserve it beyond the time when natural attractions have ceased. Married people preserve this love by promoting each other's temporal happiness.

"They must be on their guard against anything that will render life unpleasant either in thought, word or deed. They must guard against suspicion and jealousy, against casting up faults at each other, calling each other names or ill-treatment. On the contrary they will do all that is possible to make life pleasant for the others and will even sacrifice many things to make life pleasant for both. Many amusements or even recreations that were indulged in while they were single will be sacrificed by married folks to render pleasant the state of matrimony. Husband and wife should enjoy life together, sympathize with each other in sickness, carry their cross together through life and bear with each other.

Domestic Harmony.

"Married folk should not make each others' faults known to people outside, not even to their parents at home. Perfect harmony should exist in all things. Hence tonight, Christian married women, I ask you to crush down and stifle the slightest tendency towards any evil that would wreck your domestic happiness. Shut out from your doors the least occasion for jealousy, discontent or the loss of mutual affection. The matrimonial contract which binds people together for life consists precisely in this, that husband and wife mutually share the privileges of matrimony and mutually accept the burdens resulting therefrom. Hence you both acquire certain rights and certain duties which bind under great sin as long as God gives you life. But neither of you acquire any right to do what is forbidden by the laws of Nature.

Prayer in the Home.

"Violation of the laws of Nature accounts for the misery and unhappy plights of many marriages. Your own conscience should direct and guide you. You should be a help to each other in promoting each other's salvation. For this purpose you are bound to give each other good example, and in this the husband as head of the family should take the lead. You should have family prayers at home at least once a day—at night and never omit grace before and after meals. This brings God's blessing continually upon house and home.

Father Kehoe at Lyceum.

"The great Napoleon was once asked what France needed to restore her to her former glory. Did that great genius reply wealth, powerful alliances or arms? No! He replied, 'Women, good women.' He meant there was a power behind women, a strong, purifying influence upon the nation behind a good and pure womanhood. Women, forget not the high position God has given you in this life. The world to-day needs women who are women and who know what women should be. The world needs women who have common sense, women who have virtue and pride in the dignity of womanhood. The Christian girl or single woman of to-day cannot afford to follow the crowd, she cannot afford to follow the whims and standards of a modern world because the world and its snares is the sworn enemy of Christ. Modern society and modern attractions and ideas may beckon to you but remember there is one society which comes first, the society of Christ and His Church.

"The Christian girl of to-day must have for her ideal, not the modern girl but must have the ideal given to us by Christ Himself. His own pure mother, Mary, the woman of prayer, Mary, the lover of purity. Guard yourself against bad company, dangerous reading and other snares which the world throws across your path. Be Christian women in every sense of the world. Be an influence for good in your own circle of friends and an influence for good in your community and in society at large."

Healthful Advice

MR. E. is a prominent business man in a central western city, engaged in the brokerage business and owning a string of producing oil wells in an adjoining state. Mr. S. is his attorney, one of the most prominent members of the bar in his state.

E. had been ill for some time, and didn't care who knew it. It was not the acute sort of illness that permits one to take to bed and "suffer in comfort," but the kind that most of us are familiar with; the kind we have to take to work with us—or to the theatre; the kind of illness that spoils work and play.

Among others to whom he complained of his condition, E. told S. of his symptoms. S., a big husky, healthy sort of fellow, gave E. the name and address of his Chiropractor and told him that adjustments would undoubtedly help him.

E. had more than once risked a hundred thousand dollars on the judgment of his attorney. But, strange to say, he didn't think his advice in health matters worth a plugged nickel. He may not have thought of it in that way, but his actions so indicated, for he failed to take the advice.

Weeks went by and E. felt worse than ever. Again he was telling S. of his sufferings.

"Didn't my Chiropractor help you any?" S. asked him.

"I didn't go to see him, John. I'm too sick a man to monkey with any faith-cures."

"So—you think Chiropractic is faith-cure, do you?" the attorney retorted. "Well, Bob, that just shows that as a health-seeker you are a good oil man. Now, just in the line of business, I'm going to take you to my Chiropractor right now! If you don't understand what business I have in taking you there, I'll explain that you are too profitable a client for me, to let you pass out. Now get your hat on and come with me, for I'm not going to answer the questions you came here to ask until you have taken that adjustment and arranged for enough more to get you back on your feet again. Let's go!"

Beyond question, E. was thinking sulphurous phrases that he did not care to put into language, but he went to the Chiropractor, for there was little else he could do.

And it was only a couple of months later, when the cause of his troubles had been corrected by adjustments, that he had to admit that S. knew something about health as well as the law. To-day he is more grateful to S. for having set him on the road to health than for any of the good legal advice he has ever had from him.
